

A Desperate Housewife Makes A Terrible Theologian

*Thus says the Lord of hosts, “Do not listen to the words of the prophets who are prophesying to you.
They are leading you into futility;
They speak a vision of their own imagination,
Not from the mouth of the Lord.*

*¹⁷ “They keep saying to those who despise Me,
‘The Lord has said, “You will have peace”’;
And as for everyone who walks in the stubbornness of his own heart,
They say, ‘Calamity will not come upon you.’ Jeremiah 23:16-17*

Alyssa Milano is still desperate after all these years. Milano is desperate to be the face of the “my body, my choice” movement. She is desperate to maintain the gruesome, barbarous act of child sacrifice under the oxymoronic “choice” and “reproductive health” banners. Milano is desperate to elevate the #MeToo Movement beyond the irrational, myopic, androphobia that afflicts her and most of the progressive Marxist feminists that comprise the never-ending cadre of perpetually offended elitists. Milano recently began a campaign among her sycophantic Hollywood friends, to strong-arm the Governor of Georgia into submitting to her enlightened view of the deathstyle of infanticide or face economic consequences.

The actress has begun a campaign designed to “do everything in our power to move our industry to a safer state for women.”[\[1\]](#) By “our power” Milano means her Hollywood friends and by “our industry” she means the movie making industry that last year was responsible for over $2.7 billion dollars of direct spending in the state of Georgia according to the Atlanta Journal Constitution.[\[2\]](#)

What travesty did the legislature of Georgia commit? What heinous crime is the Governor considering signing into law that would so infuriate Hollywood celebrities that a call is being issued to boycott the state? The Georgia legislature recently passed a bill commonly referred to as The Heartbeat Bill which makes it against the law to murder an unborn child after a heart beat is detected. The bill is waiting for Governor Brian Kemp to sign.

In Milano's view, the Heartbeat Bill, if passed, "would strip women of their bodily autonomy." That's a strange way of arguing for infanticide. The picture below is the result of exactly what Milano believes constitutes a woman's autonomy.

Milano believes that the savage dismemberment of unborn children must continue because to stop infanticide is the equivalent of allowing others to invade her privacy. She characterized the Georgia legislature as: "These are the men that are voting on what goes on inside my uterus."

Beyond the fact that this kind of hyperbole is baseless and demonstrates a propensity for wild exaggeration, Milano added to her bizarre advocacy by attempting to enlist God as a supporter of infanticide. She said: "I love God. I believe in God. But, I don't believe my personal beliefs of which we can't confirm should override scientific facts and what we can confirm. 'If I have told you earthly things and you do not believe, how can you believe if I tell you heavenly things?' John 3:12." [\[3\]](#)

In desperation, Milano went where only the brave among the leftist Progressive Hollywood elite dare to tread: she mentioned God. Stop the presses! Milano believes in God. Well, she sort of believes in something that is out there somewhere she thinks, but she's not sure. She believes in a God she cannot confirm and who is simply a result of her personal beliefs. That sounds unconvincing in the least, and indicative of the fact that she very likely has no understanding of what it means to have faith in the God of the Bible. Then she throws her personal beliefs under the bus so to speak by insisting that her personal beliefs must be subservient to scientific fact.

I'm not going to take the time to argue once again that "every day in the United States of America, approximately 2,900 distinct, living, whole human beings are killed for reasons we'd never tolerate the killing of older (born) humans. We use the generic label "abortion," but what is taking place is no benign medical procedure. It is the dismembering, decapitation, and disemboweling of someone no less human than you. The only difference is that she is younger." [\[4\]](#)

Biologically speaking, life begins at conception and this new life has unique and specific DNA. That, Ms. Milano is the scientific fact that you conveniently overlook. Critics of Milano's statement were quick to let her know she was misinformed scientifically as well as theologically. Here are a few reactions to Milano:

- .. When does a baby in utero become 'scientifically' human enough for you to protect their life?
- Who wants to tell her that the fact that human life begins at fertilization has been scientific consensus for almost a century?
- If these babies aren't humans, someone should tell them to stop kicking the sh*t out of my bladder.
- Do you think God creates a child in a woman's womb just so it can be killed, or do you think He might have better plans in mind for it?
- You don't have to love God to acknowledge the irrefutable science that a unique, individual human life begins at the moment of conception. But if you love God, then you also will love His children. He's a father, and every single one of us are created in His image. [\[5\]](#)

I do want to briefly address Milano's ill-advised excursion into the theological realm. She apparently performed her role as a desperate housewife adequately enough that Hollywood rewarded her to a degree that she can now spend her time advocating for the blood sacrifice of unborn human beings. Success in the world's eyes does not translate into success in God's eyes.

Here is a word of advice for Ms. Milano: you are not a theologian. You are not even well versed in biblical interpretation based on your use of the verse in the Gospel of John to prop up your advocacy for infanticide. Try to understand what the Scripture you quote mean before you use it as a prop for your evil.

To suggest that God approves of the horrible treatment of the unborn described above demonstrates a total disconnect from historic, orthodox, biblical Christianity and the God it reveals. I have stated this plainly elsewhere: you are not a Christian if you advocate for the slaughter of unborn human beings. You are deceived and a pawn in Satan's hand. It matters not whether you have a fancy home in Beverly Hills, a private jet to transport you to "ministry" events, or any other external trapping. Treating unborn human beings as nothing more than a tissue growth that can be removed because it might interfere with your happiness and lifestyle is demonic callousness and testifies to a heart that is not in tune with God on any level.

Alyssa Milano is attempting to rub a psychological salve born of her own imagination upon the minds and hearts of those who are deceived. She is a false prophetess, who speaks not the words of the LORD but the words of her own wicked heart. What she is selling is a lie. This placebo of peace, comfort, and well-being is a lie straight out of the pits of hell and is authored by Satan himself. It forebodes a coming calamity upon her and those like her.

Hold the line Governor Kemp. I applaud you and every other man and woman in elected office who stands against the demonic onslaught being marshalled by people like Alyssa Milano.
