

Amerophobes in America: a growing predicament

Whoopi Goldberg intimated that if Donald Trump became president, she would leave the country. Barack Obama's 20 year pastor, Jeremiah Wright, scorched the air eight years ago with his, "God da*n America!"

Race-baiter Al Sharpton decreed his intentions of leaving America if Hillary isn't elected. Funny man Jon Stewart proclaimed his departure should Trump become president.

Right now, Muslim leaders in Detroit, Michigan as well as other Islamic strongholds in the United States expect to register their male and female followers to defeat Trump. It's ironic because Muslims treat their women worse than their dogs. The reason: they want an endless line of Muslims injected into America in order to ultimately invoke Sharia Law.

If you look at Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and southern California, an estimated 8 to 10 million illegal aliens feel great anxiety over Trump's march to the White House. They remain in America in violation of our laws, which have not been enforced by the last five presidents.

Not to be outdone, U.S. employers of 10 million illegal aliens see their cheap labor constituents facing engagement of immigration laws by Trump.

Even China, Mexico and India feel the pinch of reality with Donald Trump rewriting the trade laws in favor of Americans rather than trade partners—in the greatest scam against America in the 21st century: free trade. Trump promises to bring back "fair trade" in order to balance the books.

At the top of the financial food chain, long corrupt and long in control, America's corporate elites gnash their teeth at the prospect that Trump guarantees to level the playing field. They've been in absolute power for so long, they think their corruption: normal. It's standard operating procedure.

One look at the majority of corrupt, career politicians in our U.S. Congress finds more than a few nervous senators about their futures. If a new president audited the Federal Reserve, more than a few of the higher-ups face jail time. Hillary Clinton, among them.

President George Washington said that government always works against the people. It harnesses its power to take absolute control. The founding fathers wrestled with their own compulsion to become rulers in the colonies.

President Thomas Jefferson said, "The two enemies of the people are criminals and the government. So let us tie the second down with the chains of the Constitution so the second will not become the legalized version of the first."

But in the past 30 years, the American people watched the elite grab power, usurp laws and gain horrendous money profits from their illegally declared wars and the Federal Reserve's fraudulent activities.

No question, Donald Trump proves better than Alka-Seltzer, Castor Oil and Ex-Lax.

Along his path, Amerophobes scream their hate for America such as Black Lives Matter, Megyn Kelly and Louis Farrakhan the preeminent Islamic leader in America who has called for killings of the white race in America.

If you look at 42 million foreign born immigrants in this country, millions upon millions of them relay on welfare handouts. They enjoy the 'milk and honey' of the life of leisure in America on the backs of working Americans.

Finally, the biggest Amerophobe finds his days numbered: Barack Obama. For the past seven years, he bowed to Saudi Muslim Kings, apologized to everyone within earshot for America's transgressions and he oversaw the greatest racial divide explode in America since the 1960s. Additionally, he does everything in his power to 'seed' our country with Muslims of every stripe and terrorist tendency.

Meanwhile, most Americans that love this country--sit back, watch, wait and feel helpless. For the most part, they do nothing. Half of them don't vote in national elections. They watch their schools turn into Islamic test grounds. They watch English being subverted in their schools and communities. They watch Old Glory being stomped on by immigrants, angry Blacks and illegal Mexicans. They watch TV shows and movies based on sexual violence, totally lacking in moral standards and based on everything abhorrent to sensible human beings.

With the addition 100,000,000 (million) legal immigrants in the next 30 years from over 190 countries--featuring 190 different cultures, ethos and languages--we most certainly expect Brussels, Belgium, Paris, France and San Bernardino to become a normal part of the American news reports.

We have met the enemy: it's our apathy, despair and tolerance tied to inaction. George Washington created this nation with his courage. Thomas Jefferson wrote it into being. Donald Trump may be its last hope of this nation's survival.
