

Are UAW and Auto Companies Ignorant or Corrupt for Refusing Tariff Protection?

By Andrew Wallace

There is no excuse for low wages for auto workers or anyone in manufacturing unless the Parasitic Super-Rich Ruling Class (PSRRC) refuses to allow protection with tariffs. I say the PSRRC because they control the 'woke' corporations who bribe the government not to use tariffs. The really sick part of this is that the PSRRC doesn't own the 'woke' corporations. They only control them, and most of the bribe money comes from the public stockholders equity. The Mafia has nothing on the PSRRC crime syndicate.

The government only needs to put sufficient tariffs on imports to allow a living wage to American workers. But the PSRRC will not allow tariffs because it would reduce the profitability of their foreign factories. The PSRRC and their controlled 'woke' corporations destroyed the economies of hundreds of cities and unemployed thousands of Americans by shipping their manufacturing overseas. For this to happen, management of unions and companies had to be corrupt for not insisting on tariffs to protect workers and their corporations. Pray to God that we get honest politicians to reverse this horrific trend and rebuild our manufacturing base. There is no honorable or lawful reason for unions and company officials not to insist on tariff protection. People in control are obviously bribed.

Government has No Power to Mandate Production of Electric Vehicles (EVs).

The federal government has no lawful power to order anyone in the states to produce anything. Powers of the federal government are severely limited by the Enumerated Powers in the Constitution. Presidential Executive Orders have no authority or power whatsoever in the states, save for federal employees and federally-chartered corporate entities. Also, administrative "laws" written by bureaucrats are null and void. Only the legislative Congress can pass laws. Most of the laws passed by Congress are unconstitutional, and therefore null and void. In other words, the auto industry is 'woke' and part of the PSRRC, who must destroy the United States to rule the world.

Impossible for Electric Vehicles (EVs) to Replace all Fossil Fuel Vehicles (FFVs)

It is simply impossible to replace all fossil-fuel vehicles with EVs, as we have no capacity to produce and deliver electricity in the necessary amount. It would be impossible to routinely use EVs in emergencies or in rural areas, or for long-distance travel.

Electric Vehicles Use More Fossil Fuel to produce Electricity than Fossil-Fuel Vehicles Use!

Numerous writers have stated that there is no saving in using EVs. There is no reduction in fossil fuels required. The cost of producing and delivering electricity for this market is prohibitive. The purchase cost of EVs is prohibitive.

We Don't Have Critical Raw Materials to Produce Electric Vehicles, but China Does.

Is someone in government a traitor for promoting China? My answer: there has to be traitors in government and industry. China has the rare-earth materials required to produce EVs; we don't.

We Don't Have Capacity to Produce Required Electricity if All Vehicles were EVs, and If We Did, We Don't Have Ability to Distribute It.

We don't have capacity to produce electricity to power an all-electric fleet of vehicles, nor do we have the ability to deliver it economically. EVs make good golf carts and autos for limited distances, but are another disaster in emergencies or rural areas. Owners of EVs have been warned against parking in garages, due to fires and explosions. If all vehicles were EVs, new parking garages would be required due to the extra weight of the batteries. The lifespan of an EV is around half that for a fossil-fueled vehicle. When the battery system goes, you can junk the EV.

Batteries degrade over time, and also during hot and cold weather. Cooling or heating the EV further reduces your range. EVs do not have spare tires because of the weight.

The average citizen can't afford an EV, even with government subsidies. The only purpose for EVs is to impoverish the people and ultimately to force them to use public transportation and public housing, like the poor slobs in the Communist Democrat Cities.

God Bless You and The Republic.
