

I'm Proud To Be White

I am proud to be white.

There. I said it. If you are reading this commentary then you are probably witnessing a miracle. I would assume that Facebook, Google, Youtube, Twitter, and Instagram have not banned me.

That is usually what happens when someone expresses an opinion that the pencil necks don't like.

Pencil neck? Gee...that will probably get me banned as well. Name calling is definitively a violation of "community standards" on social media.

Their standards, that is. Not mine and it certainly does not violate the standards of most people I hang out with. But most of my friends are normal. At least if there is such a thing as normal any more.

Middle America normal. Not university normal...or progressive normal...or George Looney fan normal. But simply...normal. An everyday, run of the mill, clear thinking, I don't-get-offended-easy normal...the kind of normal that you used to find in your middle class neighborhood, local public school, and TV sitcom.

You know what I mean...Leave It To Beaver, Father Knows Best, Ozzie and Harriet, Andy Griffith and Barney Fife normal.

Oh how I wish my grandkids could grow up in a bigoted society as those shows represented.

But I am proud to be white and no matter how much you try to shame me you will not be able to make me recant. Beat me with a stick, ridicule me in public, email me all kinds of hateful comments, but you will not stop me from being proud of who I am.

It is like the story I heard about the young kindergartner who pinched his fellow classmate in a dispute.

"Tommy," the teacher scolded. "You apologize and return to your seat."

"OK Mrs. Jones, I'll sit down. But I am still standing up on the inside!!"

Well, I am still proud on the inside. No matter how "racist" you say that I am.

Proud does not mean superior. Being proud of my heritage does not make me a racist...or a bigot...or a hater.

I am a proud nationalist. I think that our government should put the needs and the interests of Americans first. I didn't realize that being a nationalist required identification with skin color. I hope all blacks are nationalists. I hope all Chinese are nationalists. I pray all Christians are nationalists. The fact that I happen to be Caucasian should not exclude me from being proud.

I hope my black friends are proud that they are black.

I hope my women friends are proud that they are female. Homos are proud. Strippers are proud. Dope smokers are proud.

Heck, even some Cleveland Browns fans are proud...

I am also proud to be a Christian. I am proud to be an American.

I am proud of my German heritage. I'm proud to carry my family name DAUBENMIRE!

I am proud to be a Buckeye. I'm proud to be a man. I am proud to be a grandpa. I am proud to have rapidly graying hair. I am proud to be a loyal and faithful husband. I am proud that I couldn't care less about the color of anyone's skin.

Being proud of who I am does not mean I think I am better than everyone else.

What has happened to us? What kind of world would this be if folks didn't have something to be proud of? Isn't that the goal of the self-esteem curriculums in our schools?

That's part of the problem we have in America. Pride comes from striving...overcoming obstacles...achieving in the face of adversity. Being proud of my accomplishments certainly does not diminish yours. At least it shouldn't.

Our schools have taught our children to be proud of what they should be ashamed of and ashamed of what they should be proud of.

I have a hard time understanding my friends on the Left. As a follower of my Lord Jesus Christ I have always believed in the equality of all men. Our nation was built upon the premise that we were all "created" equal.

But my cognitive dissident friends on the Left believe in evolution which has at the center of that ideology the idea of survival of the fittest. Evolutionary belief REQUIRES an understanding that not all people are equal. The cream rises to the top...only the strong will survive...kill or be killed...while at the same time pummeling the individual with the idea that everyone is equal.

They are playing with our minds. Racism is a made-up ideology

If the Truth were to be told, it is shame that does more damage than anything. I find that most of the trouble occurs with those who do not have a deep appreciation for their lot in life. Losers blame the referees. Winners overcome them.

I am proud of what I have done. I am proud of what I have overcome. I am proud of my heritage. Can someone please explain to me why that makes me a racist? Would everyone feel better if I were ashamed of being white? Sorry Chief. I ain't gonna do it.

I'm proud of my heritage. I am proud to be white.

The Make-Believe Muzzle

Fake news is all of the rage in America today. If the Truth be told there are a lot of “fake” things that we believe. In fact, many of the problems we face today come from believing things that simply are not true.

That's right, my friends. Dishonesty is ruling the day.

Most of us comply with the lies because it simply makes our life easier. Calling out the dishonest is not a very comfortable activity, especially if you are prone to going along to get along.

Well, I like getting along with people but not so much that I will compromise what I believe simply for sake of keeping the peace. Lies need to be challenged. Unfortunately, most Christians are either too cowardly or too deceived to make waves.

Consider the current state of “corporate churches” in America. A corporate church is one who has entered into a partnership with the government in order to claim donations as tax exempt. In a great example of miss-education most pastors and church planters have fallen into the trap of incorporating their church. This business incorporation invites the government into the board room of the American church.

The 501 (c)(3) incorporation has done more to silence the mouth of God than anything the Devil could have ever done. Because of the nefarious actions of then-Senator Lyndon Johnson America's pulpits have gone silent on the political issues of the day for fear that violation of the "Johnson Amendment" would cause a local church to lose its tax-free designation granted by the God-hating IRS.

Rather than risk losing their tax-exempt status America's pulpits have gone silent and thereby yielded the control of the political world to the doctrines of demons. Today, the ministers have relinquished their first amendment rights in order to protect the church's treasury. That's right. They have silence the voice of God in exchange for thirty pieces of silver.

During the primaries President Trump recognized the problem and vowed to repeal the Johnson Amendment in a move that would free the pastors to once again speak for God on the issues of the day. Well, here we are, over 200 days into the Trump administration and we have yet to hear a cry from the pastors to repeal the amendment. You would think that these "men of God" would be chomping at the bit to speak the Truth from the pulpits.

But you would be wrong. Have you heard of any movement from any pastoral group calling for President Trump to keep his promise and repeal the Johnson Amendment? Of course you haven't because it is cowardice that is keeping the pulpits silent...not the IRS. Pastors are afraid of losing compliant pew sitters who pay the bills if they ruffle a few feathers.

It is in the church where politics and religion cross swords. As hard as it is to fathom Republicans and Democrats sit side by side in America's churches and the pastor doesn't want to do anything that might separate the sheep from the goats.

You heard me right. Pastors don't want to take on political issues because some of their donors may support their sodomite sons, or their post abortive daughter. Or, get offended and leave the church. Feminism is rampant in the church and many women rule their homes and they don't want the pastor waking up their husbands. So the pastor avoids "politics" because he is simply too chicken to confront the sin in his own camp.

They LOVE the Johnson Amendment. It is the skirt that they hide behind. They claim that they don't want to politicize their pulpit when, in fact, their silence is complicit in the confusion in this nation over what is right and wrong.

But here is the Truth. Churches don't need governmental approval to speak about politics. The church, before it climbs in the bed through incorporation, is already IMMUNE from taxes. Are you picking up what I am laying down? Have you ever heard of the lie of the separation between the church and the state? Well Dude...the government has no business poking its nose into the business activities of the church...at least not until the church reaches out and marries the government simply for the TAX EXEMPT benefits. That's right. Church incorporation is a noose that the church slings over its own neck.

Did you know that some of the most God hating organizations in America hold the same symbiotic relationship with the government that most American churches have? Did you know that Planned Parenthood is a 501(c)(3) organization just like your local church? Did you know they are actively involved in politics? See the video below of a former Dallas Planned Parenthood Director speaking out about the "Monthly Abortion Quotas" that has been hidden from the public. It's truly shocking, and must see.

How about the Southern Poverty Law Center? Did you know that this Christ-hating organization has a similar tax exempt status as your church? How about Right Wing Watch? The Sierra Club? Did you know that the ACLU is not Tax exempt...BUT...the ACLU Foundation is? Can't you see that these are simply different denominations of the religion of Atheism and Humanism doing all that they can to destroy Christian-America?

Yes, you read that right. God-hating organizations have free speech rights...but Christian churches do not. At least that is what the God-hating government wants you to believe.

Just this week some emails were captured that prove that there is an organized war against President Trump and conservative Christianity. The Left is doing everything they can do to overturn a duly elected Presidency.

Check it out here. It clearly spells out the strategy to undermine America. Oh...did I mention that the lead organization Media Matters is a 501(c)(3) organization...just like your local Christian church? I thought tax exempt organizations were not permitted to get involved in the political process? Only Christian organizations, I guess.

The war is on and the war is real. The Left's tax exempt organizations exist to IMPACT politics while the Christian organizations exist to AVOID politics. America hangs in the balance.

America is playing by two sets of rules. When, in the Name of God, will the Pastors take off their skirts, stand up and fight? It is time to take off the make believe muzzle.

It's Time Get Rid Of The Fake Republicans

We may never pass this way again.

I know that is a song that was made popular by Dan Seales and Dash Croft a generation ago, but that really is the seriousness of our position.

It truly could be now or never.

I have been writing weekly commentaries since 2004 and I sometimes wonder if anyone ever heeds my advice. After all, what credentials do I have that would qualify me to give advice to folks a lot smarter than me?

At least that is what they try and convince most of us...that the smart people are on TV...or elected to office...or teaching in universities. But the simple truth is that most "educated" people have lost all common sense. But I digress.

You can check the archives and I promise you that you will discover that my positions have been consistent ever since I first started poking a keyboard. One of the more consistent themes I have trumpeted is that there is very little difference between the two political parties. Neither the Republicans nor the Democrats serve the needs of the American people. Our elections are a charade and at the end of the day you will find that the political class is only interested in promoting the political class.

Today they call it the "swamp". Voting, at least in my lifetime, has done very little to stop the advancement of the "government class"...swamp dwellers...those folks in both political parties who make their living off of bigger, more intrusive government.

The latest example of this truism is the "betrayal" of the American people by John McCain. But for anyone who has had the eyes to see it has been obvious since the election that Donald Trump really is a man without a party. The constant assault on him by the left would not be as successful had it not been for the silent cooperation of the Republicans. McCain's vote was nothing more than a walking dead man falling on his sword for the advancement of the government ruling class.

The current crop of Republicans is far more loyal to their ruling-class compatriots than they are to those who elected them. If they had fought for President Trump he would not be nearly as burdened as he is today. Don't believe the polls. The PEOPLE support President Trump...it is the swamp creatures, Republicans included, who are fighting his America-First agenda.

But the differences between the Elephants and the Donkeys are mostly in style. BOTH parties are for larger government...and the feathering of their own nests. Government of, by, and for the people is a thing of the past.

Which brings me back to my do-or-die moment.

President Trump was elected by a massive turnout of working class Americans who have slowly come to realize that they have been played. The two-party system is designed to keep the government class in power and until the election of Donald Trump it appeared that everything was going according to the Globalists plans. Like a bouncer at a bar, Trump stuck his foot in the door of the White House and changed the course of American politics.

At least for a while.

But as McCain, McConnell, Ryan, and their cohorts have shown they are not going to relinquish the seat of power to a man who was not a member of their club. Trump's agenda does not need the support of the Democrats. His entire agenda could be advanced simply with the support of his fellow Republicans.

But it is the Republicans who are thwarting him. Every part of President Trump's agenda that has failed has been undercut by members of his own party. We like to call them RINOS...but it is deeper than that. Being a Republican is nothing more than a label. It simply identifies which government swamp team that an elected official identifies with.

John McCain, Susan Collins, Lisa Murkowski, Paul Ryan, Rob Portman, and Mitch McConnell aren't simply fake Republicans...they are bought and paid for political whores. They stopped representing the people a long time ago.

Fake Republicans are nothing more than Democrats that have infiltrated the Republican Party

So here is my plan.

We all know Donald Trump is not a Republican...heck, I am not a Republican...but that is the party that he decided he would join in order to run for President. In the last election he received MILLIONS of votes from people who also were not Republicans. It was his message of America First populism that drew working Americans to his cause. They knew that America had lost its greatness and they, like The Donald, wanted to see our government focus on making WORKING Americans' lives better again.

The swamp is working feverishly everyday to undermine Trump. They want to see him impeached...destroyed...discredited...put in his place...and will do everything they can do to put the kibosh on this American uprising. Donald Trump must NOT succeed in saving America. Trump's success means the end of RINO's and the Democratic party. Donald Trump needs to go all in.

He tried working within the party. He played kissie-face with Ryan and McConnell. He hired Reince Priebus in hopes of building bridges. The Republicans rebuffed him at every turn. It is time for him to separate the sheep from the goats.

President Trump's, and America's, only hope for survival is to totally take over the Republican Party. Others have tried to reclaim our government by starting alternative parties but the political swamp was too hard to penetrate. Our only chance is for a hijacking...a reclaiming of the Republican Party.

As soon as it is possible President Trump needs to announce a war on the Fake Republicans in his own party. He must do it now or he will not have a chance in the next election.

Go public. Go nuclear. Call out EVERY Republican who has worked to undermine his agenda. Give them fair warning that he will raise up a battery of new candidates to run against them in the primaries. Threaten to raise money for the challengers. Threaten to TWEET the truth to the American people. Threaten to by-pass the media. Muster all of his energy to unseat those who refuse to put America first.

What does he have to lose? The Republicans aren't on his side, but millions of Americans are.

Go on the offensive President Trump. Take the party back from the RINO leadership and give the Republican Party back to the American people. More disgruntled Democrats will be on your side will switch parties. Take your fight to the American people.

You are the only one who can do it. No other politician could make it happen. Go for the jugular. If its war they want...let's give them war.

The establishment Republican Party members are not your friends. Drain them or they will sink you. It's now or never.

Let's get rid of the Fake Republican Party. Do it! Do it for your children, grandchildren and the love for America. This is a chance of a lifetime.

The Greatest Commandment

"Master, which is the great commandment in the law? Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." –Jesus Christ as quoted in Mathew 22:36

The purpose of this commentary is not to anger you, although I am sure some of you will get angry. I have contended for quite some time that one of the greatest dangers of Christianity comes not from what the Bible teaches, but rather from what we believe and the Bible doesn't actually teach.

So many Christians simply talk in platitudes...repeating a meaningless statement that they heard their pastor, or some other well meaning friend repeat to them. You know how they go...Christians shouldn't judge...we are all God's children...God helps those who help themselves...love the sinner and hate the sinner...those non-Biblical statements that makes us feel so loving and caring to repeat.

I am sorry to break the news to you, but so much of what Christians believe simply is not true. Is it any wonder we are so ineffectual in sharing the Truth of the Gospel of the Kingdom with others?

The Bible repeatedly warns us about “another Gospel” and those who would come in His name proclaiming it. The lack of Biblical knowledge of professing Christians borders on the scandalous. We have permitted pop culture to dictate how “Christians” are to behave.

I am sick and tired of having non-believers lecture me on how a Christian is supposed to act. You see, that is part of the problem. We are not to “act” like a Christian...we are to BE Christian. My Christianity is not an act.

So I would like to take this opportunity to point out another fallacy that the culture has taught us. LOVE THY NEIGHBOR is not the first and greatest commandment. In fact, it is merely a mirror reflection of the first. In this age of “new math” we have juxtaposed the numbers and now live a Christianity where the numbers have been inverted.

Open up any package and turn to the instructions and you will find a list of steps required in order to properly assemble what is inside. The “instructions” will tell you to do step 1...then step 2...then step 3. You will never properly assemble the package if you get the steps out of order.

Keeping that in mind it might be necessary for us to spell out what Jesus taught in Mathew 22:36.

- Step 1. Love God with all of your heart, all of your soul, and all of your mind.
- Step 2 Love your neighbor as yourself.

Doing step number 1 FIRST is required before you can successfully complete step number 2. But unfortunately, American Christianity has reversed the instructions and today we are being taught that step number 2 comes before step number 1. You cannot love your neighbor until you first love the Lord.

“What is the point you are trying to make, Coach?” I hear you asking. Well, it is actually quite simple. Are you to love your neighbor MORE than you love the Lord? Doesn't the command mention “ALL of your heart, ALL of your soul, and ALL of your mind?” How much is left for others if ALL of your love is given to the Lord?

Here is the rub. We Christians love to tell people about the love of God while at the same time refusing to do the very things that He commanded us to do. In John 14:15 Jesus was quoted as having said “If you love me you will keep my commands.” Later in John 14:23 he repeats “Anyone who loves me will obey my teachings.”

Is it possible to love Jesus by ignoring his teachings? Can you love him by loving what he hates? Didn't He warn us that we could not follow Him if we loved others MORE than Him?

“If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple. And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.” Luke 14:26.

Was Jesus bi-polar? Was He confused? In one statement He tells us to love our neighbor while in another instance He tells us to HATE our parents? Was He teaching situational ethics?

No my friends, He was simply reinforcing the Truth that it is wrong to love ANYTHING above Him. Loving HIM is the first and greatest commandment.

Let me cut to the quick. Acceptance of a person engaging in sin is NOT LOVING THE LORD. If our expression of the Lord is demonstrated in honoring and keeping HIS commands is it possible for us to show love to HIM when we show love and acceptance to those who DENY His commands?

The two commands are inextricably linked. You cannot love your neighbor until you have complete devotion to God. We are teaching a Gospel today that elevates relationships with others above our fealty to Christ and His commands.

That does not mean that we are not to love "neighbors" who are engaging in sin, but that we are required to hold an allegiance to God and His standards above ANY relationship with another human being.

To openly express love to a "neighbor" engaged in sinful behavior without giving the Truth of what God says about the behavior is "loving your neighbor" more than loving God. It may make you feel more Christian, but it is denying the One who demands total and complete allegiance to Him.

American Christians have lost their salt because we have refused to say the hard things to those who are violating the laws of God. God calls homosexuality an abomination. The Bible teaches that abortion is murder and that God HATES hands that shed innocent blood.

As much as I wish it wasn't so, those hands are connected to a person's body. Is it possible to hate the hands without hating the body the hands are connected to? Is it possible to be "friends" with a sodomite while refusing to tell them what God says about their behavior? Does "friendship evangelism" demand we accept what God abhors?

I know...I know...who am I to judge? Perhaps I am off base but I am simply the one asking the question. It is not a question of who you will LOVE...but what you will TOLERATE.

Love your neighbor as yourself? Maybe that is the problem. Perhaps we love ourselves too much. We have elevated the approval of our fellow man above our obedience to Christ.

Today we are taught to love sinners more than we hate sin. We will never get the second command correct until we come under obedience to the first.

God is love. Jesus is the Truth. Speaking the Truth IS Love.

The Denigration Of Motherhood

I have never been a woman so some would say that I have no business identifying with one. That is WITH one...not AS one. There are a lot of things in the world that I have never BEEN that I can relate to.

To empathize means “to understand or share the feelings of another.” I have never been a dog, but I sure can tell when our aging beagle Daisy is uncomfortable. My wife, who has also never been a dog, and I do all we can to make her life comfortable...at least comfort as we would think a dog would want to be.

By the same token, Daisy has never been a person, but that doesn't keep her from sensing when something is stressing out her human. For most of us, empathy comes natural. I guess it is part of the natural human condition.

So, even though I have never been, nor do I desire to be, a woman, I would like to offer some advice towards those who are. Sometimes it is easier for others to see the issue that someone is dealing with more clearly than the one that is struggling.

Relatively speaking, if being a feminist is still defined as “the belief that men and women should have equal rights and opportunities” I identify as a card carrying feminist.

But somehow I don't think that definition applies to what I see passing as “feminism” anywhere in today's society. Let me explain.

I feel sorry for many women today. Is that sexist for me to say? Is it culturally correct for me to feel sorry for a woman? I'm not sorry for saying so...even if it offends anyone.

My wife (as previously stated a woman) and I spend time regularly at our local abortion mill pleading for the lives of the unborn babies who are being dismembered there. In a bit of irony, I often find myself, having experienced parenthood, explaining to a young woman, who has never been a parent, the joys of parenthood.

Why is it that they don't respect my opinion even though they have never experienced that joy? Women have been sold such a lie about motherhood. It grieves me to see how little respect most women have for blessings of being a woman.

My wife and I are lucky enough to have been blessed with a son and two wonderful daughters. Michele has always been the perfect example of the Proverbs 31 woman and she has passed those characteristics along to our daughters. Both our daughters are WONDERFUL wives and mothers.

Call me old fashioned but I look around at the young women today who despise the gift of motherhood. They have been sold a fake-feminism...the idea that the best thing a woman can aspire to be is on equal footing with a man.

Those are the empty women I see slinking into abortion clinics around America...women who have sold the gift of motherhood for the vain and nebulous appeal of equality. They are too blind to see that they are gifted in a way that a man can never be gifted. Can there possibly be a greater act of love on the earth than the sacrificing of a woman's personal ambitions for the fruit of the womb?

Motherhood is forever. A career in a "man's" world is temporary.

The greatest lie that feminism sold women is the belief that she and her "significant other" are on equal footing. Equal opportunity, yes. Complete equality? Impossible.

Our daughters were both accomplished athletes in college and both attained respected jobs in their chosen professions after graduation. Both of them today are stay at home moms and find great personal fulfillment by building into the lives of the next generation. They CHOSE to stay home and have found that the raising of children is much more fulfilling than anything else they could possibly do.

As I once overheard our oldest Abby say to one of her soon-to-be-a-mother college friends, "I would never have believed it if someone had told me before but being a mother is the most amazing thing I have ever done in my life." Amen Abby. You learned well from your mother.

The poison fruit of the feminist movement is the fact that "equal footing" has granted millennial men the right to be irresponsible. "It is her choice" I often hear "fathers" say at the abortion clinic when we challenge them to protect their pre-born baby.

"Real men protect their babies...they don't permit them to be killed," we say to the immature fathers. "You aren't a man when you can make a baby; you are a man when you can raise a baby."

I guess with men and women being equal there is no need for a man to be a man.

Look around you friends. How many young girls between the ages of 20 and 30 do you see that are childless? Whatever happened to the idea that the most fulfilling thing that you could ever do was to pass on your heritage to the next generation.

As strange as science has become in today's world we still know that it is impossible to create a child without both a sperm and an egg. As unfair as it may seem no man can EVER give birth to a new life. It is the greatest honor God ever gave to a human being...the carrying of an unborn child to the moment of birth.

God gave that gift to a woman. No matter how often they try to brainwash you otherwise the joy of giving birth is the pinnacle of the human experience. How much better America would be today if we had taught that simple truth to our children.

As the old saying goes, the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world. That is the true power of womanhood. That is so much more important than simply being equal with a man.

The Power Of Apathy

"What do you think is the biggest problem facing America today?" I asked a recent college graduate.

"I don't know and I don't care." Was the cocky millennial's response.

I suppose he had never heard of the Lutheran Minister Dietrich Bonhoeffer who was martyred at a Nazi gulag in 1945 just two weeks before the Allied forces liberated the camp. He is credited with having said, "Silence in the face of evil is evil itself. Not to act is to act. Not to speak is to speak."

Is there as anything in the world as powerful as apathy?

The writer of the book of James put it this way: "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

I awakened today to a thick, sulfur stained cloud...the second hand smoke of our neighborhood Independence Day celebration. I love my country as much as anyone you can possibly run into, but the who-gives-a-damn attitude about the moral condition of this nation exhibited by those lighting the firecracker fuses is almost more than I can take.

The average person under 40 that you run into in this nation can tell you more about the Kardashians than they can about the Founding Fathers. Most of those who cavalierly shoot off bottle rockets, while they swallow bottles of Budweiser, have no idea what "Independence" cost those who came before them.

To the average Joe, liberty means nothing more than one's "right" to not give a crap.

Yep, apathy is a powerful thing.

Why is it that we Americans care so little about what matters the most?

Our nation is adrift in sin. I know that is not a very popular word to use today...sin...but the after affects of "liberty" is an unrestrained evil masquerading as freedom. My life...my body...my choice...goes the refrain from America's self-lovers.

"Who are you to judge?" echo the catcalls of those who have interpreted free will as the right to do whatever...to whomever...whenever.

If I hear one more round of "God Bless the USA" I think I will barf.

"Why"? I asked those around me as the bombs were bursting in air. "Why SHOULD God bless America?"

As the sparkler in my hand grows shorter and shorter I become urgently more aware of how little time I have to make an impact. The land I leave behind is the land my grandchildren will have to I live in.

Edmund Burke said "The only thing necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing?"

Where are the good men? Don't they care about their children's future? Where are the pastors who are more concerned with pleasing God than pleasing man? Where are the politicians who will stand up and fight against the forces of darkness? Where are the men who will father their children and defend their Lord? Where are the men who will fight for what they believe in? Where are the men willing to die for a cause greater than them? Where are the men who will stand in the gap and repair the broken paths?

The enemies of the cross are not complacent. Those who spit in the face of God are committed to their demonic evangelism. "The righteous are as bold as lions" the Scriptures declare. But it is the wicked who are bold. It is the wicked who live out their world view. It is the wicked that aggressively promote Satan's agenda.

What would America look like if Christians worked as hard to serve Jesus? It is not that THE CHURCH cannot make a difference in the world around us...it is that we don't care enough to try.

The world is on fire and the Christian culture is disintegrating. Apathy hardens the heart. Apathy destroys one's passion. Apathy passes the buck. Apathy looks the other way.

Where are we going? What does the future hold? Could you make a difference if you simply opened your mouth? What if God was counting on you?

Apathy is a powerful force that requires nothing of you.

Perhaps the rock stars were correct. Maybe that is why there is a stairway to heaven...but a highway to hell. Most Americans are barreling down that highway with the throttle wide open.

Apathy is a powerful force.

Cultural Alzheimer's In American Churches

Alzheimer's is the scourge of The Greatest Generation. My wife and I both lost our mother's to this insidious disease. As many of you have experienced it is devastating to watch a parent fade away into oblivion even as their heart continues to beat.

As part of the Baby Boom generation I have fond memories of all of my grandparents. To the best of my recollection they all died with their minds still intact. I do remember that there was an "old folks home" in the town where my grandparents lived, but I never knew of anyone who ever had to go there and live.

Our grandparents got old but it was unusual for their mind to die before their body did.

Today “nursing homes” are popping up all across town as more and more of my friends find their parents slowly losing their way. During the last 10 years of my mother-in-law’s life she was nothing more than a shell. It was a tremendous burden on my wife.

For what it is worth, I think it has to do with what we are eating...or what our food has been saturated with. Genetically Modified Foods (GMO) certainly has something to do with it. Any time you tamper with nature the results will not be good.

In my research for this article I came across the 10 Early Signs of Alzheimers.

- Short term memory loss.
- Problems solving simple problems
- Difficulty completing daily tasks.
- Confusion with time and location.
- Difficulty with sight and spatial which effects motor skills.
- Loss of communication skills, especially conversational.
- Miss placing items around the house.
- Loss of judgment and safety issues.
- Withdrawal from normal social activities.
- Changes in mood and personality

“Wow,” I said to my wife the other day. “That sounds like what has happened to America. This nation is a shell of what it used to be. Especially the church. It is as if we have forgotten who we are. Could it be that America is suffering from Cultural Alzheimer’s?”

As many of you know, my wife and I have a ministry that focuses on the culture. Although we have a great concern for the lost we are constantly amazed by how little the average Baby Boomer cares about what is going on around him/her.

It reminds us of our mother's in the latter years of their lives. They were oblivious to their surroundings and the only thing we could do was to make sure that they were, comfortable, well fed, and taken care of.

Alzheimer's steals the soul.

Before you get your underwear in a bun, ask yourself if it could be possible that the lack of concern by the average church goer could be caused by the GMO's that they are being fed from America's pulpits.

Christians are certainly suffering from short term memory loss. It wasn't all that long ago that we considered it our job to point out what was right and what was wrong. Today, we seem to have no memory of "normal." We let our nurse (the government) determine what the proper course of action for our lives will be.

We certainly have lost the ability to solve problems. In fact, the church no longer seems to be able to offer solutions for drug abuse, sexual miscreants, or unplanned pregnancies. The Cultural Alzheimer's causes folks to allow their pockets to be picked, without complaint, to pay for problems that a simple lesson in Biblical morality could eliminate.

I could run down the entire list of symptoms and show exactly how the same disease that stole the mind of our mothers is now stealing our nation from us. The Church has become nothing but a shell of her old self...filled with confusion and the inability to properly react to outside stimuli.

America seems to have lost her way because older Americans seem to have lost theirs as well. The older I get the more feisty I become and the less I care about what others think of me. That is the natural tendency of getting old.

My own mother got grouchy in her later years...a complete change in personality. My wife's mother got happier. She was very stoic and guarded in her middle age but as she got older she became more light hearted and pleasant. The less both of them remembered about the past, and the less they cared about the present, the easier they were to manipulate.

America's churches are rapidly turning into nursing homes for senior saints. Just as Michele and I experienced with our own mothers, when Alzheimer's settles in the less you care about what is going on around you.

The phrase "you are what you eat" has never been truer than it is today. While our nursing homes are filling up with those who's minds have been stolen by what they have consumed, our churches are filling up with those who couldn't care less about what other's consume.

Cultural Alzheimer's has crept into the American Church and we have forgotten who we are. It is just a shell of what it once was. America is suffering because the salt has lost the savor.

Why should we be surprised? Most Christians have forgotten that we were called to be salt. The average Christian feels comfortable and well fed.

Our churches filled with padded pews are becoming nothing more than nursing homes for those with Cultural Alzheimer's.

The Sleepy Deplorables Are Waking Up

Is The Worm Turning?

We live in unbelievable times. As the opening to my daily internet broadcast states...“The world is on fire and the culture is disintegrating...”

As the old saying goes, there are three types of people in the world. Those who make things happen; those who see what is happening; and those who wonder what happened. For the first time in my adult life I think more and more people are awakening to what is happening.

William Shakespeare is famous for many things he has written, but one of his lesser known quotes comes from Henry VI “The smallest worm will turn, being trodden upon...” After four decades of lies and manipulation the American people are finally beginning to roll over and awaken from their collective coma.

That’s right my friends the worm is beginning to turn. The trodden upon are beginning to fight back.

Despite the massive programming and brainwashing purposefully inflicted upon the “deplorables”...you know, the folks who actually work and pay the taxes...the election of Donald Trump has ushered in a new day in America. Ronald Reagan called it “morning in America”, and although the days aren’t as bright as they were in The Gipper’s day, there is hope on the horizon.

Permit me to offer some evidence that you may not have noticed.

The mainstream media is on life support. Try as the might, the alphabet news outlets have proven to be impotent in their attempt to criminalize President Trump and his entire administration. The daily drumbeat of Russia, collusion, impeachment, and election rigging is having very little effect on the once media manipulate populace.

Oh, don't get me wrong. Those on the left who lost their brains on the way to a college degree are rallying to the mindless assertions of Rachel Maddow, Pelosi, Michael Moore and their ilk, but regular people with half of their brain tied behind their back have finally awakened to the government Ponzi scheme centered in the District of Criminals. The Alternative media is alive and well and is kicking the tails of the paid political hacks on your TV who are masquerading as "news journalists."

Yep, my friends, the worm is beginning to turn. We can only pray to a merciful God that the awakening is not too late.

One need look no farther than the debacle known as Megan Kelly.

Once the darling of "conservative" Faux News, she was exposed as a self-centered media hack during the initial tussle with President Trump during the Republican first debate. The exposing of her obvious left-leaning agenda was ripped bare for all of her adoring fans to see. The result of the undressing was a quickly orchestrated "promotion" to a starring role at NBC News. But her maiden voyage has proven to be a rocky one because she, and her suitors at NBC, failed to realize that Americans no longer get their news from the boob tube.

You see, Megan, and most TV personalities, have made a fatal miscalculation in that they did not realize that Americans were no longer kowtowing to media stars. The days of Oprah, Barbara Walters, and Katie Couric have come and gone. The Fake News producers have failed to realize that most Americans are no longer in the mood to follow media stars who think that THEY are more important than the "news" they report. The Kelly File was never really about the news...it was about Megan Kelly and what SHE thought.

"How can someone be as beautiful as me and still be so intelligent," was the underlying message that Megan was sublimely sending. It is a new day in America, folks, as millions of Americans have awakened and are no longer mesmerized by the blond leg-crossers reading the news. Give Joe Deploraable a bombastic, buffoonish, Alex Jones...someone who looks like the rest of us...to explain what is really going on behind the scenes.

That's why the Left is so apoplectic. The death grip on the American mind is slowly being broken. The Alt-media is a God send...and it is alive and well.

American's today are getting their news from the internet. The Hagmanns, Dave Hodges, Rick Wiles, Mike Cernovich, Info Wars, Steve Quayle, and many others, are reaching more Americans every day. Soon the internet will be in your car and life beyond the controlled media, including Limbaugh and his ilk, will go the way of the transistor radio.

Real news is not going back into the bottle. All the left can do is lie, disparage, and collude against the Truth and no matter how many pretty faces are hired to carry Jezebel's message Americans are choosing to look for their soft-porn temptresses in the porn section of the internet, rather than on cable TV news programs.

Finally...a separation of the soft porn stars and the state.

I don't know if it is too late for America to crawl out of the ditch or not, but I feel a lot more comfortable fighting the fight for Western Civilization with Truth tellers who speak and look like me on my screen without the sensual temptations and distractions of the Barbie dolls in short skirts.

Can we recover from the media manipulation? As long as we have the internet we have a window of opportunity. Be bold. Share Truth no matter how controversial it may be. It is time to stop going along to get along. Shock your friends out of their haze.

The deep state is gasping for air. They are the ones who told us that Trump couldn't win. They told us Global Warming was settled science. They told us Megan Kelly would be a star at NBC.

Keep pushing. The worm has begun to turn.

The Spiritually Blind Elect Spiritually Blind Leaders

I don't know what you think but I continue to be amazed at the people who make it into leadership roles in America. Is it any wonder that we are in such a mess?

All you have to do is turn on your TV and you will see what I mean. The tempo of our nation is no longer being set by leaders, but rather, by biased entertainers. Our children are taught to seek out celebrity. A recognizable face carries more influence than unknown person of character.

Let's face it. We have become a nation of followers and as Jesus warned us...that will not end well.

"Let them alone: they be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch."

Jesus declared.

We are in a ditch alright, and we have gone off-road because of who we have chosen to follow. "Blind guides," Jesus called them in another description of leadership

It is not that we want to end up shipwrecked, but that is the result of following "leaders" who can't see beyond the bow of the boat.

Sight and vision are not the same thing and neither are knowledge and wisdom.

Sight is the outworking of the functioning of the eye. It is what happens when the eye perceives light and processes it into an image.

Vision is more important than sight. Vision is the process by which the brain is able to assimilate what they natural eye sees and convert it into an anticipation or prediction of what might occur as a result of what one sees.

Knowledge and wisdom are the twin sisters of sight and vision.

Knowledge is nothing more than accumulation of information gathered through one's senses or through independent study. Wisdom is the application of the knowledge resulting from that study.

Even the most unlearned of men can look at a thing and know if it is functioning properly. Fixing a machine that is not working properly requires the APPLICATION of knowledge. Vision is figuring out how to prevent the instrument from malfunctioning again, rather than just fixing until it breaks again.

Because the teachings of our public schools and our mainstream churches have become so shallow the average American has the ability to see...but possesses very little ability to process the information with even a hint of wisdom.

The "ME" generation wants results and they want them NOW. Because they have no long-term vision they are unaware that temporary comfort is the enemy of long-term success. Our "leadership" has played upon this national weakness and we suddenly find ourselves careening into a ditch.

Look, I love watching LeBron James play basketball but I have no desire to find out who he is supporting in the presidential race. If he has some advice on how to shoot foul shots, then I am all ears. But his basketball talent does not transfer into wisdom in other areas. Why would anyone be influenced by his political views?

Can anyone tell me what makes Anderson Cooper or Rachel Maddow an expert on the news? Have you ever stopped to ask yourself how they even got to occupy those seats inside your TV screen? As an example, why would you take advice from anyone who doesn't understand that the purpose of sex is procreation? If they can't figure out basic science why would you care what they say about the more complicated issues of life?

The political world is no different. How in the world did we ever end up with the likes of Nancy Pelosi, Al Franken, John McCain, and Lindsay Graham passing as our "national leaders?" Other than knowledge of how politics work what wisdom is it that they bring to the American people?

We have a leadership crisis in America. Most of us cannot distinguish between leadership and celebrity. Celebrity alone does not qualify one for leadership. Whoopie Goldberg is famous but would any sane person want her offering advice to his/her child?

Have you noticed recently what is passing as education in America? Rather than teaching our children how to apply the knowledge that they have gained, we have programmed them how to "emote"...act only upon how they feel. You see the results of that nightly on your TV screen.

We live in a crazy world...and it is getting crazier by the moment. Our challenge is to restore wisdom to the educational process. We must teach our children the difference between celebrity and wisdom.

Tonight when you sit down for dinner, if you even do, ask your children whom they admire. Then ask them why they admire that person.

Their answer will demonstrate how we ended up in the ditch.

It is time for parents to re-engage with your children. It is imperative that we teach them WHAT to rather than WHO to admire.

“A wise man leaves an inheritance to his children’s children.” We have done it to ourselves. It is time to stop teaching our children to follow the spiritually blind.

Religion Of Peace Leaves Everlasting Mark On Manchester’s Children

The Buzzards are Circling

The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God. Psalms 9:17

So now the “religion of peace” has left its hellish mark on young children in Manchester, England. Manchester prides itself on being a progressive city, one filled with diversity and tolerance.

Although I am sure that you would never learn it in an American public school, Manchester was founded in 79 AD as one of the first footholds in what would become known as the land of the WASP's.

You remember the WASP's , don't you? White Anglo Saxon Protestants were those evil ethnic peoples that had the audacity to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the world. They are the ones that are so hated by the godless left today for their sin of planting the bigoted ideology of individual freedom inside the hearts of men.

At one time it was referred to as Western Civilization...this religious indoctrination that set at liberty them that were bruised. It was the hate-filled WASP's, and now their greedy ancestors, that introduced freedom through Christ to the American continent. And it was those dastardly white-faced devils that in turn spread individual liberty across the globe.

"Those pale-faces and their Christian God ravaged indigenous people groups all across the globe, using racism and raw power as the vehicles of advancing their own selfish desires." (That is a paraphrase of a rant from some leftist college professor that I read one-time.) This is the type of bilge they are teaching our children in university today in an attempt to shame the white man into submission.

Let there be no doubt about it, my friends. It is Western Civilization and the unmatched achievements of Christian men that are in the cross hairs today. Most white men don't have the courage to say it...but I just did. The Anglo-American ethic is on life support.

England, as we have come to know it, is almost gone. The virus known as multi-culturalism is eating away in an attempt to exterminate the WASP. London has a Muslim mayor. Once-Christian Europe is soon to be toast. Christians today are the most persecuted people group in the world. Check out this video. Start at the 3:30 mark.

America is next. Have you ever stopped to ask yourself why it is that all of this forced Muslim migration is occurring in formerly WASP nations? Why are there no Muslim refugees being shipped to China...or Japan...or even in to black-dominated Africa? Why is it that only the WASP-rooted nations are being over-run with faithful worshipers of Allah?

Western Civilization is the answer. Christianity must be destroyed before old Slew Foot and his minions can gain world dominance. Jesus Christ is all that stands between liberty and slavery. Try as they may the Muslim hoards will never conquer the Kingdom of Christ.

But a quick study of world history will reveal that Almighty God has permitted His people to be overrun by strangers. It is not that Christianity is weak, but that the judgments of the Lord are righteous and sure. Christianity is still on the move all across the world. Revival is breaking out in nations that have never been introduced to the Light.

But Europe, like America, has set a bushel over their light. Like mother, like daughter. We have traded Truth for tolerance, and have rejected God. The Spirit of God is marching on...His Truth always does...but the buzzards are coming home to roost in the cradle of Christianity.

God's Word is almost haunting in its premonitions. We often forget that the principles in the Bible are both immutable and unwavering. The Scriptures remind us that "these things were our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted." It is folly to think that we are exempt from the wrath of God after sliding down the same slimy sexual slope.

I was reading from Isaiah I this morning when I was poked in the eye by an obvious warning from His Word. A chilling eeriness enveloped me as I compared His Words to the modern day judgment sweeping across the land.

"Ah sinful nation, a people laden with iniquity, a seed of evildoers, children that are corrupters: they have forsaken the Lord, they have provoked the Holy One of Israel unto anger, they are gone away backward.

Why should ye be stricken any more? ye will revolt more and more: the whole head is sick, and the whole heart faint. From the sole of the foot even unto the head there is no soundness in it; but wounds, and bruises, and putrifying sores: they have not been closed, neither bound up, neither mollified with ointment.

*Your country is desolate, your cities are burned with fire: your land, strangers devour it in your presence, and it is desolate, as overthrown by strangers.

And the daughter of Zion is left as a cottage in a vineyard, as a lodge in a garden of cucumbers, as a besieged city.

Except the Lord of hosts had left unto us a very small remnant, we should have been as Sodom, and we should have been like unto Gomorrah."

What has happened to our nation? I hear that lament nearly ever where I go. But it is not that hard to figure out. We have rejected God. He has removed our lamp stand. We are reaping the whirl wind of our rejection of God.

"Who needs God..." the godless declare!! "We can do it on our own. Let's get rid of that "white man's religion."

Judgment isn't coming...judgment is here.

"The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring for ever: the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."

Psalms 19:9.

Can't you see the buzzards circling?

For wheresoever the carcass is, there will the eagles be gathered together. Matt. 28:18.

Come Out Of Hiding Pastors, Trump Has Set You Free

I don't know if you ever used the phrase Olly olly oxen free or not. We used to do it when we were kids. It was what we called out when we were playing hide and go seek and realized that one of our friends had hidden himself so well that we couldn't find him..

"Olly olly oxen free" meant "I surrender. You win. Come out from hiding."

That is essentially what President Trump did when he issued an Executive Order in regards to the Johnson Amendment and the 501-c3 designation that had muzzled the pulpits since the 1954. Someone in "authority" has let America's pastors know that it is finally OK for them to come out of hiding.

"Come out come out wherever you are!! Olly olly oxen free. You have hidden yourselves so well that we admit that we do not know where to find you."

Come out of hiding Pastors!! Donald Trump has set you free.

I say that tongue-in-cheek because I am convinced that there is nothing the President or anyone else can do to conquer cowardice. Most of the men standing in America's pulpits are fearful men. It is not the IRS that has shut their mouths...that is just the excuse they have used.

Jesus told us that no man can serve two masters. It is impossible to serve both God and money. Fear and faith cannot abide in the same heart. No one can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and wealth.

You also cannot serve both God and the government. In fact, we are warned about that one as well when the Apostle Paul declared that we should serve God and not man.

For too long America's pastors have served in the fear of man. They have obeyed the edicts of the government in fear of losing their money. They have turned a deaf ear to the cry of the pre-born because of fear...fear that people would leave their church...fear that abortion would be exposed in the pews...fear that the government would close them down because they "interfered in politics."

Any way you slice it, the pulpits have been muzzled by choice, not by force. I find it somewhat ironic that they now turn to President Trump to free them from the strong arm of the government.

Help me here...but isn't the Law of God above the law of man? Isn't remaining silent on the great issues of the day denying the faith? Don't the Scriptures teach that "to him who knows to do good and does not do it, to him it is sin?" Isn't rescuing the pre-born a good thing? Don't the pastors know it is a good thing? If they don't know ending abortion is a good thing what are they doing standing in the pulpit?

Olly olly oxen free. It is time to find out which pastors have guts and which pastors hide behind their skirts. God specifically states that He hates hands that shed innocent blood? Why don't our pastors hate it as well? Why don't you hate it?

I have been reading a lot of criticism of Donald Trump because folks are saying that he has not lived up to his campaign promises. Some of my friends are upset because he has failed to defund Planned Parenthood. Others are upset that he hasn't done more about the homosexual agenda that is steamrolling across America.

To be honest, their protestations ring hollow in my ears. Can someone explain to me why Christians would be complaining about President Trump's concern for social issues when the pulpits from which they hear "preaching" every Sunday have failed to show much concern about the same social issues they are hoping Trump will take on?

Why would anyone expect Donald Trump to care more about the pre-born than the average pastor does? I know hundreds of pastors who haven't lifted a finger to stop the funding of Planned Parenthood yet they continue to criticize the President for his failures to "protect" THEIR religious liberty.

Well now he has. Olly olly oxen free boys and girls. It is time for the pastors to stop camouflaging what they really believe. Donald Trump will not end abortion until he realizes that it matters to the church...and right now our silence is deafening. Actions speak so much more loudly than words.

A couple of months ago Kentucky Governor Matt Bevin ordered the last remaining abortion clinic in the state to be closed for violating health standards. Of course, as we have come to expect, a Federal Judge overstepped his authority and issued an order that permits the abortion mill to continue killing little people made in the image of God.

Governor Bevin is probably waiting to see what the reaction of “the church” is before he makes his next move. Just like President Trump, he is waiting to see what the reaction of “people of faith” is going to be. Why would we expect elected officials to do what God’s anointed ministers will not?

We know the God haters take their faith to the streets and that it always gets the attention of the politicians. I wonder what the reaction of Governor Bevin would be if thousands of Christians filled the streets in front of the killing center in Louisville and demanded the law be enforced.

What is the excuse of the pastors? The Left is defying the government everywhere that you look. If there can be sanctuary cities for illegal immigrants why can’t Louisville’s Christians declare that Kentucky is a sanctuary city for the pre-born?

What if pastors cared enough about abortion to end it? What if they cared enough about it to take their people to the streets? What if God is simply waiting for His people to come out of hiding? What if “with God all things were still possible?”

Olly olly oxen free! Babies are being murdered. It is time to stop hiding behind the pulpit. Only THE CHURCH can Make America Great Again!

A Nation Without A Soul

*Imagine there’s no heaven. It’s easy if you try.

*Imagine all the people, Living life in peace.
You may say that I am a dreamer, But I'm not the only one.
I hope someday you will join us.
And the world can live as one. –John Lennon 1971*

I was in college during the fall of 1971 when John Lennon released "Imagine." I vividly remember sitting around the frat house my freshmen year sucking down the brewskys with my buddy's as we pondered the profundity of Lennon's remarkable anthem, part of the final flock of baby-boomers who left home to follow the utopian visions floating on the last vestiges of the rebellion of the Sixties.

All of the "make love, not war" rhetoric had come crashing down the year before with the killing of four college students at Kent State University. Like so many movements before, so much of the laughter died in sorry as we watched the standoff between the Ohio National Guard and the grand-parents of today's godless millenials end in what Crosby, Stills, and Nash forever etched into the American psyche...Four Dead In O Hi O...today...May 4th, 1970.

With the arrival of the Beatles in 1964 young Americans were conflicted about which America they were going to pursue. The anti Viet Nam left or the utopian "Tune in, Turn on, and drop out" drug culture of Timothy Leary. We watched a man land on the moon; Witnessed the assassination of three young political leaders; and the first-ever defeat of the American Military machine.

The turbulent Sixties bowed their knee to the decade of disco and once again all seemed right in America. But the seeds of discontent planted in the hearts of the children of WWII grew silently in the hearts of the hippy generation until the planting done by Jimi Hendrix, Janis Joplin, and Bob Dylan et al finally bore its fruit.

A wise man once told me that you could judge what kind of parent you had been by looking at your grandchildren. For some strange reason the fruit took a generation to ferment, and it was not until we were able to look two generations into the future that we could truly see what kind of crop the Sixties had born. Sowing to the wind had reaped a whirlwind.

The seeds of rebellion grow deep and unfortunately today we are able to look across the fruited plain and find much of the crop dotting the landscape to be unrecognizable. The children of the Great Depression, nurtured on the Bible and corrected by the belt, spawned a rebellious crop who rejected everything that their parents had stood for.

Jesus had warned us "what does it profit a man to gain the world and lose his soul." Somewhere along the way we lost it...our soul. Walking dead men is what a famous man once called it...a generation that is void of values and far too in love with themselves. The Greatest Generation has spawned the Zombie Generation.

It was an evolution that we may never recover from.

I turned 64 this year and with a sense of regret on my birthday I serenaded my precious wife with another Lennon/McCartney favorite:

*When I get older, losing my hair many years from now.
Will you still be sending me a valentine, Birthday greeting bottle of wine?
If I stay out till quarter to 3 will you lock the door?
Will you still need me; will you still feed me, when I'm 64?*

It grieves me to see how shallow of a life we have passed on to our grandchildren.

The hippies of the Sixties turned the tables on us and we were unaware of the lasting impact of their youthful fling. Today, as we peek over our slowly drooping shoulders we can truly understand the Biblical admonition:

*Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.
Galatians 6:7-8*

Christianity is now counter-culture. Those of us who believe in traditional family/Biblical values are now the outcasts...the Deplorables. The Bible teaches us that there is nothing new under the sun...and we have once again we have repeated the mistakes of our fore-fathers. We have strayed from the Word of God and we have not "diligently taught it to our children." In most families today the grandchildren do not share the same values as their grandparents.

In the name of progress we have regressed. We have taught our children to seek first the things of this world and are shocked to find that they have no desire for the Kingdom of God.

If you are a Bible believing Christian in today's world you are a freak. In this nation today the term Christian has become meaningless. I regularly find myself crossing paths with Bible-less Christians. They have walked and aisle, said a prayer, "invited Jesus into their heart", but there has been very little change in the manner of fruit that they bear.

I don't know if you have noticed it or not but the moral condition of this nation continues to darken. The church, which was once the salt of the earth and the light of the world, has been reduced to a flickering candle in a dark and dusty nation.

The opportunities to shine the light are easy to find. All you have to do is stick your head outside your window. There used to be a church on every corner and the 10 Commandments were posted in every schoolhouse. The soul...the glue of the nation... was once a set of common Christian values that were taught in our schools.

Look around you. The glue is gone. America is a soul-less nation. John Lennon rules the day.

Imagine there's no heaven...

Killing O'Reilly

They say it is not very kind to kick a man when he is down so I hope that this little ditty doesn't come across as gloating. That certainly is not my intention.

But after all of the "Killing" books authored by Fox News star Bill O'Reilly it seems rather apparent to me that there is a great opportunity for some industrious investigative reporter to author a tell-all book about the downfall of cable news' biggest star. "Killing O'Reilly" is sure to be a best seller.

O'Reilly's show has been a smash hit and certainly shaped the expansion of the alternative media. He trail blazed a new media frontier with his quasi news/quasi opinion format to the point it is now accepted behavior for media types to offer more opinion than news. There are many talking heads today who should bow his/her head in thanks that The Leprechaun blazed a new trail down which he enabled the likes of Rachel Maddow, Megan Kelly, Anderson Cooper, and Al Sharpton to kick up some dust.

But in the end it will have to be admitted that Bill O'Reilly wasn't murdered as much as he committed harikari because of his inability to control his overblown ego. A wise man once said that "pride commeth before destruction" and there can be no doubt that O'Reilly had a double portion of pomposity.

On the air Mr. O'Reilly loved to spout the line that he "was looking out for you" when in fact he spent most of his time looking out for him. The whispers of his extracurricular affairs with women have lurked in the shadows for years and finally it seems to have reached the point that the Murdoch boys could no longer control the rumors or the sucking sound of greenbacks being evacuated from their coffers.

Yep, it seems as if the one who dutifully warned us five nights a week that "the spin stops here" was unable to extricate himself from the whirling that was whizzing around him. Those of us with any semblance of discernment realized years ago that old "fair and balanced Bill" was actually neither. I haven't watched his show in years.

Although his longevity was due in large part to his bombastic approach to his reporting of the news he was, in many ways, a wolf in sheep's clothing to the "conservative" Fox News line-up. In fairness to him he never did call himself a "conservative", but it seemed rather disingenuous on the part of both him and the management at Fox News to cast a "moderate" as the flag bearer of the network designed as an alternative to the liberal lamestream media.

Even worse, at least from my chair, was the mixing of his self-proclaimed Catholicism with a liberal position on most social issues. He was moderately pro-life, blatantly pro-homosexual, and a horrible role model for confused Catholics who were struggling to find common ground between their faith and their values. On issues where many conservatives need clarity O'Reilly was murky at best. In his attempt to be "fair and balanced" his own moral confusion often bubbled to the surface. There is no such thing as fair and balanced Truth. The Truth is stand alone evidence...Jefferson called it self-evident...and O'Reilly never seemed to find his footing on solid ground when it came to issues of morality.

In the end, his own version of morality is what did him in.

The final straw for me was a few years ago, in the heat of debate over the birth certificate, when I was sitting in my easy chair chomping on some freshly popped corn when I heard him utter that his "staff" had "seen the birth announcements" and that it was legit. Here. I spilled my bowl of popcorn and my drink into my lap with the audacity of that statement.

It wasn't that "birtherism" was such a big deal to me; it was simply that my research had shown that no certificate had ever been produced but that a copy was available on the White House website. I knew O'Reilly was pretty connected in political circles but I also knew darn well that neither he nor any member of his staff had seen it.

He doubled-down on the issue a few years later in spite of the evidence Sheriff Joe Arapio uncovered. Read it here. I never turned him on again.

Fox News is now reeling a bit. In the past year they have lost Greta Van Susteran, Megan Kelly, and now the kingpin himself. That was the meat of their batting order from 7-10 pm. From what I understand Tucker Carlson has filled Megan Kelly's seat admirably but filling O'Reilly's shoes will be a tight fit.

But ultimately it was O'Reilly's moderation that did him in. His loyal audience of 21 years had grown comfortable with him. His schmoozing up to Obama and eventually Hillary left him vulnerable with his base. When the call for his head finally arrived there were very few folks willing to go to the mat in an attempt to save the Bloviator's job. In the end his audience didn't love O'Reilly as much as he loved O'Reilly.

The Left was looking for a scalp and they found one in the fair and balanced, compromising, Fox News icon. There seems to be a bit of poetic justice in the whole affair, don't you agree?

It will be interesting to see how this all plays out but Killing O'Reilly could be a death blow to the ratings at Fox as well. If they really wanted to pump some energy into their conservative lineup perhaps they should go out and recruit O'Reilly nemesis Michael Savage.

It was Dr. Savage who nearly two decades ago launched the mantra "borders, language, and culture" which is nearly identical to the platform that propelled Trump into the White House.

The spin stops here. We're looking out for you. Fair and balanced news. The No Spin Zone.

Has anyone seen Roger Ailes? I guess O'Reilly's word of the day is sayonara.

Fake Women's Health Care

I don't know if you have noticed it lately or not, but the airwaves and ether zone are bristling with meaningless terms that have become part of the American lexicon. Because we have lost the ability to think logically the media is able to create a narrative by simply repeating phrases than in no time flat become accepted by millions of Americans as Truth.

In fact, if you are not careful, you will find yourself using the same made-up terms that the mind-benders created to control the way that you view the world. I often find myself, and others, repeating these code words in casual conversations. It is a result of the mind manipulation that has been so effective by those whose job it is to hide the Truth. Here are just a few of the stupid statements that I find myself repeating.

Can anyone say gay marriage? Or anything gay? Check the dictionary and you will find that gay means “happy, exuberant, bright in color” yet most people think of homosexuality when they hear the term.

“Choice” is another one of those terms. There was a day when choice meant to make a selection between two or more alternatives. But in modern America “choice” is a chocolate-coated term that has replaced the word abortion. Trust me on this one...most pro-choice people are really anti-choice. Pro-choice activists fight for abortion, not for birth, and certainly not for the natural choice, adoption. If Americans were sane the “choice” would be between keeping the child and giving the baby up for adoption.

Abortion is not a very good stand-alone word. Choice makes the medicine go down so much better and gives cover to the ghouls who love baby murder. “No one is for baby murder” I hear you say. That statement simply exposes the fact that most people have never actually dealt with militant pro-aborts. Trust me. Some people do not want ANY child to live.

Words have meaning. If we would simply take the time to THINK about what we just heard we would find ourselves ahead of the crowd and not as easily herded along like a gaggle of programmed snowflakes.

Which brings me to the diabolic, murderous, falsely labeled Planned Parenthood; everything about them is fake. Their lying CEO Cecile Richards doesn't even go by her real name. According to PP's own website “she and her husband, Kirk Adams, have three children and reside in New York City.” I suppose in today's feminist world being married to a Mr. Adams and having children is a negative...especially while pushing family destruction.

Planned Parenthood is Baby Murder Inc. Despite what they try to convince you so that they can gobble up your tax dollars, Planned Parenthood does not engage in "Women's health care." That is fake news. Planned Parenthood receives nearly $500 billion tax dollars annually from the Federal Government. Their claim that they provide services to low-income and disadvantaged women is Fake News.

One would think that if PP received so much money to provide "health services" to low-income women that the services would be free. But abortions are not free to poor mothers. Here is a detailed price list of a local murder mill...with prices ranging from $425-$825...dependant on how difficult the murder might be. I would assume that the fees at our local PP would be similar to this. Why isn't "women's healthcare" free if the government is funding it?

It seems that FREE "women's health care" is available just around most corners. "For every Planned Parenthood clinic, there are 20 community health centers ready to provide all the non-abortive services currently being given by Planned Parenthood. It is a blatant lie to claim these communities would be left unserved if Planned Parenthood loses its federal funding."

Did you get that? Health care for women is available EVERYWHERE. What does Planned Parenthood do with all of that money? Check your local democrat politician's donations and you will find out where much of that money ends up.

"Abortion mill Planned Parenthood has raked in a reported $700 million IN PROFIT since the tenure of CEO Cecile Richards, taking in a reported $127 million in profit annually. Yes that would be the same "non-profit" corporation that your tax dollars subsidize—over $500 million annually." There is much more info here about the Fake Health Care they provide.

Hey folks. Abortion is not healthcare. Planned Parenthood does not plan parenthood...it ends it. Every woman that visits one of those "clinics" enters as a mother and leaves as a mother. The sad truth is that she is the mother of a dead baby.

What will it take for our churches to rise up and demand the defunding of Planned Parenthood? How long will we believe the lie that poor women are counting on PP for "healthcare" while they are profiting off of the backs of bloody babies? If President Trump was moved by the pictures of "gassed" Syrian children why is he not moved by the pictures of "gassed" American pre-mature babies?

Better yet. Why are YOU not moved by bloody babies? Why is your pastor not moved? What has your church done to demand an end to the slaughter of the little image bearers of God?

Is stopping the bloody butchers at Planned Parenthood really all that much to ask? What is the difference between Syria's Assad and Planned Parenthood's Richards? They both use government money to kill innocent children.

Fake Christians go to fake churches and vote for fake conservatives who support fake healthcare.

What in tarnation is wrong with us? Abortion is not healthcare. Abortion is murder. No fake.

Within

Matthew 7:24 Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock. And every one that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it.

America is in moral freefall. The open and blatant lying from the halls of our once great experiment in self-government has exposed a crumbling foundation of a city that once illuminated the world. The light is flickering and darkness hovers over the land. The flood of secularism and its shaky foundation has left our nation groping in the darkness. We have traded wise men for the foolish men and great will be our fall.

America has fallen from within. We have done it to ourselves.

The Founders of this nation, flawed though they were, understood the importance of shared values. All nations are built upon a common set of moral values and for just over 200 years this nation's foundation was the rock of Christianity. Despite what the anti-moralists may try to convince you, America was formed upon the principle that liberty was the birthright of every citizen but that liberty was anchored to a set of immutable principles. It was those unchanging precepts that secured "the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity."

But somewhere along the way a soft coup was executed and the rug was pulled out from under our feet and we have been dealing with shifting sand ever since. America was great, a wise man told us, because America was good. But with the removal of the Bible as the cornerstone of our Republic the time-tested values of God's Holy Commandments were sandblasted off of the walls of our institutions and replaced with the sinking sand of secularism. God's laws are immutable. The laws of secularism are constantly shifting.

Today, our nation is governed, not by immutable laws written in stone, but by emotion driven values driven by "feelings". As emotions change, the laws change. Soon the rains descended, the floods came, and the winds blew and Humpty Dumpty had a great fall. The secular kings and their secular horses could not put the nation back together again.

Secularism is a fraud. It leaves the foundations upon which the nation was built open to the ebbs and flows of the whims of men. Emotionalism is a terrible base upon which to build. A moral earthquake has left the foundations in ruins. We have left nothing upon which the next generation can build.

The secularists have mimicked God. They have tricked us into accepting counterfeit commandments that were designed to create a secularist utopia. They have successfully replaced the six thou-shall-nots of God with their more modern version of morality based not on the immutable laws of God but upon the ever-changing flood of human emotions.

Thou shall not kill, steal, lie, sleep around, covet, nor dishonor your parents have been jettisoned from the American psyche replaced by the emotion driven sand box of tolerance, diversity, sexual anarchy, if it feels good do it, all beliefs are equal, and who am I to judge silly putty.

An ever changing society requires a never changing standard in order to survive. Secularism secures nothing except the temporary. No long term culture was ever built upon a constantly-changing foundation. America is no longer great because they have changed the meaning of good. We have been here before.

"In those days there was no king in Israel but everyone did that which was right in his own eyes."

Secularism is doomed to failure. A moral system built upon the ever changing whims and emotions of the individual citizen cannot stand against the onslaught of evil designed to destroy the foundations of a nation.

Godless emotions are sure to succumb to the evil hearts of men unrestrained by the laws of God. Secularism is to a nation what a windmill is to nature. Rather than giving direction to the storm it swings whichever way the wind blows.

What would this nation look like today if we had remained anchored to the ROCK of AGES? . If we had held our ground when the winds blew we would not be dealing with most of the social issues we have today. Every problem America faces today is a direct result of our moral capitulation in the face of a storm of immorality.

Secularism cannot save us. Everyone doing what is right in his own eyes will not work when the people are blind to a shared belief of right and wrong.

In America today, the blind are truly leading the blind. Is it any wonder that we have ended up in a ditch?

Christ-Less Conservatism

America is a mess and it is getting messier every day. If you think I am wrong I invite you to spend a couple of hours with a group of high school seniors.

I don't care where you find them. I don't care if it is in a school, at a mall, or, dare I say it, a Christian youth group at your local church. You will be hard pressed to find any of those students who hold and are able to defend a truly Biblical worldview.

The fake left has been successful in classifying hard-core Biblical beliefs as "hate" speech. Because the worst thing anyone can do today is hate something even the adoption of Christian values has to be given a different name. It is very unusual to find any young person who will self-identify as a Christian when questioned regarding his/her political ideology.

Christians have modified their Christian beliefs and have instead adopted the much more politically correct identity of "conservative." Christianity is "hateful" and "judgmental" while conservatism is "tolerant" and "accepting". Whole churches have become "conservative" or "liberal" based on their political leanings in regards to their acceptance of hard-core Biblical beliefs.

Because the church has refused to get involved in the political debate the fake left has engaged in a cultural rebranding that divides Christians along cultural issues into a conglomerate of a cornucopia of political beliefs. It is so bad today that the term Christian is no longer a standalone ideology but one that requires hyphenization...conservative-Christian, moderate-Christian, liberal Christian.

The divide and conquer strategy has come home to roost. Christianity is no longer a self-describing political position. They have so successfully divided us that Christians no longer identify as Bible believers but as pro-this and anti-that political categories.

You see, Christianity has become a meaningless term...even to those who claim Christ as their Savior. A few years ago I wrote a commentary called Conservatism is Pretend Salt which attempted to explain the sellout of Biblical beliefs to the murky meaningless term...conservatism.

We now have homosexual conservatives, pro-marriage conservatives, compassionate conservatives, fiscal conservatives, social conservatives, and my favorite, Christian conservatives.

This all came to head this weekend when youthful conservative Tomi Lahren was exposed as a new breed of conservative...pro-choice. The Twitter world exploded with social conservatives who had been fooled into believing that Tomi was one of them. Even though they reacted with disgusted, they failed to realize that they had long ago forfeited their right to indignation when they subjugate their Christianity to the more politically correct conservative.

Tomi is probably a sweet girl. She certainly knows how to make the conservative argument in a way that makes the Fox News crowd that so loved fake conservative Megan Kelly paddy cake their meat hocks until they realized that she wasn't the type of conservative they were.

That is where the substitution of Christian for conservative has led us astray. A conservatism not based on the foundations of the Bible is a Christ-less conservatism. Jesus is the standard by which all moral law is based. Remove Him and His Name from your political ideology and you find yourself in bed with the Log-Cabin conservatives.

Which brings me to Milo. A few months ago flamboyant homosexual Milo Yiannopoulos was all of the conservative rage until he was exposed as a pro-paedophilia conservative...certainly a new-genre in the ever changing catch phrase of conservatism.

Christians are always looking for the newest hero to carry their banner. But the best banner bearer of all is the namesake of the religion they claim to adhere to. Jesus is the Christian hero. He may not be as flashy as Tomi, or as feminine as Milo, but His political brand has stood the test of time for over 2000 years.

Substituting conservative for Christianity reminds me of the failed rebranding the Coco Cola went through a few years ago. As is often the case, the original is usually the best. Christianity doesn't need to be improved; it simply needs to be applied.

I find it ironic that in the political waters that we swim things have gotten increasingly murky. Trump shocked the world by rising to the top of the political heap and he did it by not fitting into the mold that the political experts told us would be essential for his success. The Republicans told us that he wasn't Republican enough and the conservatives told us he wasn't conservative enough.

The most ironic thing of all is that we were told by the Christians that he wasn't Christian enough. This is the same group of conservatives who rejected His Name in favor of more politically correct monikers.

As is becoming more and more obvious to those who have eyes to see the Republican Party is top heavy with Christ-less conservatives. All of their years of conservative jabbering...smaller government, anti-abortion, traditional family, school choice...was nothing more than political posturing.

I am reminded of what Romeo uttered to Juliet. "A rose by any other name will still smell as sweet."

Biblical Christianity is a standard of morality. Conservatism is a political doxy. According to the dictionary a doxy is nothing more than a harlot. Christians stand on principles. Conservatives lay down with harlots. Any questions as to which group is running our government?

Conservative-Christian? Some names simply do not smell as sweet.

Rachel Maddow, Fake News And The Christian Eggheads

There is nothing that sets me off more than listening to the smarter-than-you experts that masquerade as talking heads on the Boob Tube. Too be honest, a lot of them actually make my skin crawl. For the life of me I can't figure out what they have done to qualify as an "expert" and I certainly don't ever see anyone on the "news" shows who actually talks or acts like anyone I cross paths with in my daily walk through life.

Eggheads. That is what we called them when I was in high school. Most of these creepy dudes and dudettes have won life's lottery and get paid huge amounts of money for explaining away the obvious. They all seem to have the same educational bonafides...Ivy League degree...skinny ...asexual in both their approach to the world and in their inability to fire up the testosterone meter in regards to their sex appeal.

Although it would not be unusual to find out that the leg-crossing girls on Fox News slept their way to the top it causes me indigestion to think that both Shep Smith and Anderson Cooper got their jobs the same way as the girls. Except on Fox News, most of the power journalists on the other networks all seem to be way less Alpha Dogs than the bossy women who sit in the anchor seats.

Maybe it is just because I live out here in flyover country where I am surrounded by “deplorables”, but except for our local TV stations I run into very few men and women who resemble anything that walks or talks like the pretty boy news readers the media loves to force feed us.

Without tooting my horn too loudly I think it is important for me to point out that I have been blessed with strong communication skills. Although I spent a lifetime in the world of high school sports I bristle at the eggheads’ accusation that I am a “helmet head” which is a nice way of saying that I am ignorant. I have a Masters Degree, write a weekly column read by thousands, and a YouTube page with video’s that long ago passed over 1 million views.

There are others out there, just like me, who are writing powerful analysis of degradation of the American Culture and actually make logical arguments for how things can be repaired. But because we don’t have the paper mache looks and the politically correct views that are required in today’s Fake World we have a hard time getting traction.

That is why the world was so shocked when Trump won. Most of the weenies on TV have never seen a straighten-talking, God fearing man like me who possesses the ability to destroy the libs and their foolish arguments. Fox News won’t give us a shot either. They don’t like flame throwers...those of us who can actually make and express a common sense argument in a clear and simple way.

But take my word for it, the Left and their confederates on the God-haters’ team, know exactly who we are. Just in the last week I was made fun of on some of the most left leaning websites in America. The Daily Kos, Right Wing Watch, The Young Turks, and others have chosen to do articles regarding arguments that I have made on my daily internet show.

Just last week I was torched on this website for having the gall to say that I would never believe a thing that Rachel Maddow says when she doesn't even have the common sense to realize that normal sex requires a man and a woman as participants. I would say that there was some degree of vindication for my position after her latest attempt at creating news on her Fake News show. I find that more often than not, my views and assessment of our current cultural situation are much more accurate than hers.

Sadly, neither side of the political spectrum like a straight-talker like me. They prefer to interview guests who abide in the politically correct gray areas. This brings confusion to both sides of the debate which goes a long way towards advancing the idea that there is no absolute Truth. It is sad to think that we have Wolf Blitzer and Bill O'Reilly looking out for us.

I know several internet conservatives who can deliver the mail when it comes to destroying the arguments of the asexuals on the various cable news channels. That is exactly why the Fake News media is dying. The internet has given the average deplorable a choice in where he will eat his nightly news snack. The war for America is being fought in the front-line trenches. What you are watching on the TV is a sanitized version of the battle.

But the Christian Eggheads are just as bad. You know who they are...the "Doctors" with the large congregations whose watered-down, self-focused, who-am-I-to-judge sermons have anesthetized their listeners to the point that they are no longer able to tell the difference between the Truth and a lie.

A lie is subtle. Rarely is a falsehood so blatant that the hearer of the lie can't spot it. It comes under the cover of Truth, masquerading as opinion spurred on by emotions. Most of the shows you watch on television are designed to control you by tapping in to your emotions. Emotions will cloud your rational thought process. Ultimately, your emotions will betray you.

Normal men do not have sex with other men. Marriage is ONLY the union between one man and one woman. Man made global warming and macro-evolution should be classified as religions rather than science. Do you have to "believe" in gravity or is gravity clearly proven? Why am I the fool for "believing" in Christ while the "experts" believe that non-living matter produced life? According to Maddow and her ilk nothing exploded and became everything. Despite the "science" Bruce Jenner will always be a man no matter how much lipstick he smears on his face.

An unborn baby is alive even if the mother doesn't want it. A fetus is not part of the mother's body. If abortion is healthcare why does one of the patients die? Blobs of tissue do not have body parts that can be harvested. Sex is determined by DNA not by attraction.

I sit here in my office thinking about all of the ways that the talking heads and I disagree. Other than my religious beliefs most of the arguments I make are supported by science. Maddow and her gender-bender friends make their decisions based on emotions. They deny science, and they call me names when I point that out.

Rachel Maddow was a Rhodes Scholar. It is amazing how many of the like-minded "educational elite" deny God and His moral code. If she wasn't a lesbian she wouldn't even have a show. I wonder if she would be willing to interview some of my ex-gay friends. But she probably doesn't "believe" in them.

Your emotions will betray you. I am sick of the foolishness from the educated eggheads. They have lost the ability to think critically. They can't even figure out basic human plumbing.

Let's Return to the Old World Order

It may not be morning in America again but if you listen really hard you can hear the neighborhood rooster taking in a deep breath. Don't get me wrong, not everything is coming up roses, but change is blowing in the wind.

The New World Order is the one that is gasping for breath. I am not naïve' enough to think that all of our problems are simply going to disappear, but I am here to tell you that for the first time in a score of years I have hope for the future I am leaving to my grandchildren.

Father Knows Best may only be available in reruns but I believe that we stand at the intersection of Main and High with a renewed spirit now that Hillary has gone the way of the Wicked Witch of the West. America has chosen a sledgehammer rather than a broomstick.

When we find ourselves heading off of a cliff it would be a good idea if the driver of the car chose to hit reverse rather than FORWARD. We Americans have lost our way and sometimes the best way to get back on to the right course is to return to the place where we made the wrong turn.

I am reminded today of the cautionary phrase popularized by Rod Serling's Twilight Zone opening. "Look! A signpost up ahead. Next stop, the Twilight Zone." Thank God that Mom and Pop America can still read and that they heeded the signposts.

What was that chilling line from The Eagle's Hotel California..."You can check out anytime you like, but you can never leave." We were certainly careening toward the village of no return.

I have no illusions about Donald Trump. I have argued with my fellow Christians until I was blue in the face about the urgency I felt in making sure that the Clinton machine be defeated in the election of 2016. Since the days of Poppy Bush and his pro-abortion grand-family GW's clan, the New World Order has been rolling full bore like an out of control sixteen-wheeler down the interstate highway.

I warned that we were one election away from full-blown government tyranny crushing the rights of God-fearing Americans. As one who spends his time challenging the status quo I understood that government had become a malevolent dictator. Government had overthrown God and had already showed signs of being a wicked taskmaster to anyone who challenged its lordship.

Perhaps I have let my guard down but I no longer sleep with one eye open in fear of black SUV's pulling up my driveway in the middle of the night. The NWO is still alive and well but, at least for now, they are currently in defense mode pushing back against the new kid on the block at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

I am so relieved Obama is gone. I am still rejoicing that the wicked witch is dead. Oh how I long for the Old World Order.

The American family is on life support. The intact Ozzie and Harriet family is a thing of the past. While our leaders argue about "global issues" Main Street America is gasping for breath. Government has their hands in everything from the size of the deck you can build onto your own home, to which restroom your son or daughter can tingle in, to what you can and cannot say about which particular special interest minority.

As Michael Savage would say, I want to return to the day when the chrome was thick and the women were straight. The New World Order is real and they are on the run. If Christians do not act and act NOW, the reprieve will be short lived. Our only hope is to return to the Old World Order.

Donald Trump stepped on the throat of political correctness. He hit the brakes on the out-of-control media manipulation of middle class minds. He has made straight-talking in vogue again.

For the first time in two generations We The People seem to actually have an opportunity to reclaim a semblance of control over our own lives. But Donald Trump is not king and we cannot count on him, and certainly not the Republican Party, to return America to our children. But there is a breach in the NWO wall and it is suddenly possible for us to run into the gap. Although a wall on the border would be nice, it is the wall of liberty that must be restored.

Let's face it friends, America needs to be rebuilt and I am not referring to our public infrastructure. America's moral infrastructure has crumbled and we cannot move forward until the foundations are restored. Donald Trump is decriminalizing the name of Jesus. That is the only foundation upon which we can rebuild...the only foundation which can endure.

James Madison warned us that "the Constitution" was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other."

The state motto in Ohio is a verse from the Scriptures. "With God, all things are possible." Do we believe it? Do we think that God can help us make America Great Again? We have tried it the secularist's way and it is obvious that their methods do not work. Is it time to simply throw in the towel and wait for the promised pre-tribulation evacuation?

The task that lies ahead of us is daunting but it does appear as if the Lord has given us one last shot. The Bible questions us, "If the foundations be destroyed what can the righteous do?" So what are we gonna do?

I say it is time to grab a hammer and a trowel and start laying some bricks.

Fake Gospel produces fake Christians

Fake News is all of the rage in the American culture today. In fact, it is an issue that we have been dealing with at least since the 1960's. To paraphrase Ronald Reagan, the problem is not so much what Americans believe, but that so much of what they believe simply is not true.

Lies rule the day. We are truly in the days where the Scriptures warn us "everyone is doing what is right in his own eyes." It is not that we are uninformed...but that we are misinformed. So much of what we believe simply is not true.

There was a day in America when it was considered dishonorable to tell a lie. The almost universal sense of right and wrong used to demand honesty in all of our dealings. Those were old-fashioned days with old-fashioned values...you know...when people were actually identified by their sins. Liar, thief, adulterer, crook, were commonplace terms bantered across America's dinner tables as our parents instructed us on what types of behaviors would not be accepted in our family.

"You remember Bill Jones who opened the grocery store, don't you? He didn't stay in business long because word got round town that he was not an honest business man. He was putting his thumb on the scales when weighing the ground beef. Folks in this town do not take kindly to crooks.”

That simple statement from my Dad carried a very valuable life lesson. Crooks would not be tolerated and they certainly would not have the support of the townspeople.

Today, using those adjectives to describe people are no longer acceptable. We have exchanged those diabolical descriptions for nice sounding words like “miss spoke”, “ladies man”, and “public servant.”

Heck, today even baby murder is called choice, those who kill the babies are called doctor, and the murder itself is called healthcare.

Fake words. Fake words lead to fake behaviors. Fake behaviors lead to fake laws. Fake laws lead to fake justice. Fake justice leads to fake liberty. Fake liberty leads to a fake God. A fake god leads to a fake Christians. Jesus said that people have eyes and ears yet they can't discern reality (Truth).

We are in the mess we are in today because most of what you hear from your local churches is fake. The Fake Gospel has led to the destruction of this once-Christian nation.

I am not so worried about the Fake News being reported in the news media today. Fake news is nothing more than the bastard child of the Fake Gospel. I am far less worried about the lies of CNN than I am the lies of the pulpit that make the act of lying more palatable to the masses.

Permit me to expose five lies (there are more) that have given cover to the miscreants in our midst and has given us churches full of Fake Christians.

1. We are all God's children. I have no idea where this dastardly lie came from but nothing could be further from the truth. Although we were CREATED in the image of God only those who carry the name of Christ are His children. In fact, in more than one place in the Scriptures we are told that the Devil has children and many of us are in the Devil's ancestral tree. Nowhere in Scripture will you ever find the lost being called God's children. Google it.

2. Jesus loves everyone. This one always makes me want to gag. Although the most famous Scripture in the world John 3:16 tells us that God so loved THE WORLD, you will have a hard time finding a verse that says that the love of Jesus is universally applied. It is universally AVAILABLE...but the love of Christ is conditional. WHOSOEVER is not a term that INCLUDES everyone, but rather is EXCLUSIVE in nature. Jesus loves HIS CHILDREN...not the Devil's children...although HIS love is available to them. "God hates all workers of iniquity." WATCH. I think that refers to those who actively and purposefully engage in disobedience to God...which is called sin.

3. Christians are not supposed to judge. One of the first things Michele and I tried to teach our children was the ability to judge between good and evil. All people, if they have a lick of sense, make thousands of judgments a day. That is why we are often told that we used "good judgment" or "bad judgment". Judgment is nothing more than the ability to differentiate between good and evil, right and wrong. When we point out BAD BEHAVIOR we are judging the ACTION not the person. Homosexual behavior is bad. Getting an abortion is bad. "Woe to those who call good evil and evil good." That comes from the Bible. How can you determine good from evil if you don't judge?

4. Jesus accepts you just the way you are. Sorry. Not true. You can come to Jesus "the way you are" but you cannot remain in relationship with Him if you continue to live in the condition in which you came to Him. Jesus requires confession, repentance, and a turning away from your evil ways. Accepting Jesus gives you “the power to become children of God”...it doesn't automatically MAKE YOU a child of God. “Not everyone who saith unto me Lord Lord shall enter the Kingdom of Heaven.” Only those who “do His Will” become His children. Jesus transforms you into a new creature...he crucifies the old one. You die and He lives. You are no longer you...but CHRIST takes up residence in you. He loves you so much he commands YOU to die.

5. Jesus died for your sins. Well...sorta. I John 3:8 tells us that “FOR THIS PURPOSE was the Son of God manifest that he might destroy the works of the Devil.” Jesus died to destroy sin...the Devil's work...and sin's power in the world. Your, and my, salvation is a result of Him destroying the power of sin over the world. Because Jesus died, and because I have received Him as Lord, sin, death, hell, and the grave no longer have power over me. Sin, death, hell, and the grave are the works of the Devil. Jesus destroyed their power over me.

I have accepted His finished work at Calvary and have applied His blood to my sin-sick life. He redeemed me...paid my price...and rescued me from the “law of Sin and death”...the soul that sins it shall die. Jesus died to destroy the power of sin in the world. My salvation is the fruit of that death, but He didn't, as the song says, “Have me on His mind” when He went to the cross. “It IS FINISHED” He declared as he hung on the tree. What was finished? His purpose for coming...the destruction of the Devil's works.

Watch out for the Fake Gospel. It leads to Fake Christians. It is far more dangerous than Fake News.

Molestation of the mind: feminizing males and mainstreaming perversion

All of the sudden the word pedophile has wriggled its way into mainstream America. Just like the diabolical double of transgenderism and homosexuality, a generation ago the mere mention of those illnesses was something whispered out of earshot of anyone under the age of eighteen.

As the book of Ephesians clearly states there were some topics that warned we “let it not be named once among you.” Even though this spiritual wickedness has been around since the fall of man, the idea that such deviancy would ever be taught to our children was unthinkable.

Lest we forget, and before I duck for cover from the verbal grenades of the tolerance crowd, let me remind you that there was a time not so long ago when deviant sexual behavior was considered a mental illness by the American Psychiatric Association.

As history records it wasn't until 1973, thanks to the “research” of deviant homosexual pedophile Alfred Kinsey and his pornographic book Sexual Behavior in the American Male that “scientific” research in regards to sexual behavior was reclassified. It would be safe to say that Kinsey and his gaggle of homosexualists were the first true science deniers. (Bone up...sorry for the poor choice of words... on homo-history here).

Deviant sex proponents have put on a full court press ever since. With the help of the ungodly courts and the lie of the separation between the church and the state they were successful in overturning nearly 6000 years of recorded history with the "legalization" of what God, and nearly all civil societies had deemed an abomination.

Today, talk of sexual options are as common and varied as more and more abominable sexual behaviors are thrust in front of innocent, unsuspecting children in kindergarten. It has given new meaning to asking children if they have learned their ABC's.

What is going on in our public schools is nothing less than moral molestation.

I hate to go old fashioned on you but there was a time in America when we took seriously the crime of corruption of a minor.

The Law Dictionary defines it as "actions of an adult that convince or influence a minor to do something wrongful, criminal or immoral such as performing a sexual action.

In accordance with that there was also a crime of "improper influence" which was defined as "to attempt to convince someone to perform an act that is not proper or immoral or an offense which they would not otherwise commit had they not been influenced or convinced to do so"

Today, we just call those two crimes "public education." They simply changed the definition of "immoral," classified it as normal, and shoved it down the throats (sorry again) of America's elementary school students.

When will God-fearing "normal" Americans rise up and declare that enough is enough? Engaging in personal deviant behavior is one thing. Teaching it to unsuspecting innocent children is another. The molestation of the innocent mind is spiritual rape.

Pornography is defined as printed or visual material containing the explicit description or display of sexual organs or activity, intended to stimulate erotic rather than aesthetic or emotional feelings.” Look at this picture. Is this not intended to “stimulate erotic” feelings in the viewer? Is it not designed to “influence” confused children? Is this not emotional pornography?

What is the common thread in a vast majority of the sexual deviancy we see in America? Could it be the indoctrination of young innocent minds into the acceptance of abnormal sexual behaviors in our social experiment laboratories known as American Public Schools?

The sexual anarchists are running America. The promotion of sexual deviancy has led to an epidemic of brokenheartedness in parents who lost their precious children to the mental molestation masquerading as education in our deviant driven gender bender, amoral curriculum.

You may want to stop reading right here because what I am about to say is graphic...but it goes to the heart of the argument. CONTINUE AT YOUR OWN RISK.

America’s public schools are designed to shape society. We stopped “educating” our children a long time ago. The schools spend hours trying to convince children not to smoke cigarettes because it could be hazardous to their health. Yet they encourage them to engage in homosexual sodomy which is far more dangerous than smoking.

Let’s be honest here. Would you rather your teenage son was caught smoking in the restroom or sucking on his classmate’s camel? What is wrong with us?

I rejoice that Betsy DeVoss is the new Secretary of Education. I pray she oversees the shuttering of this diabolical cabinet. In the meantime...get your kids out of the public schools.

Rape is not always sexual. If we love our children the molestation of the mind must stop.

It's time to go for the jugular

American Christianity has lost the killer instinct. For most of you reading this the thought of killer instinct and Christianity do not seem to go together. In our desire to “show the love of Jesus” we have permitted the Name of the Lord to be dragged through the mud.

I always find it interesting that Christians think it glorifies the Lord to come up on the losing side of the debate. It is the FEAR of the Lord that is the beginning of wisdom. The political world no longer fears Christianity and as a result they have no fear of the Lord.

“In wrath remember mercy.” When was the last time you heard a pastor preach on the wrath of God?

The election of 2016 will go down in history as a watershed moment in the battle for Western Civilization. Against all odds the most anti-Christian Party in the history of American was jettisoned from their perch of power. The miraculous election of Donald Trump did not happen without the intervention of Almighty God.

We can argue all day as to whether his election was a blessing or a curse but no matter which side of the goal line you stand you cannot deny the Supernatural intervention. Donald Trump was God's foot-in-the-door to the anti-Christ Clinton's and their criminal enterprise with their machinations designed to heave the final shovel of dirt on this once Christian American Republic.

It is my belief that very few Christians understand how close we were to the criminalization of Christianity and the overthrow of Western Civilization. The fact that you think what I just said was hyperbole shows just how blind you were to the sword of Damocles swaying over our necks.

I believe in the very depths of my being that Almighty God has given us a temporary and final reprieve from the outpouring of His terrible wrath. Could it be that in His wrath he has remembered mercy?

Look my Christian friends. We are in a war. As hard as it may be for you to believe the Bible teaches us that the Devil has a team. In the past couple of months his team has come out of shadows and is in full-force rebellion against all things righteous.

The biggest mistake that an athlete can ever make is to underestimate your opponent. Our enemy plays to win. They do not take no for an answer. They are relentless in their attack and they are unrelenting in their desire to overthrow the King of Kings. We have only begun to experience the depth of wickedness to which they will descend in order to regain the lofty perch from which they have ruled.

History will record that we are embarking on the Gettysburg of this cataclysmic battle. We must win NOW or we will never have the chance to win again. Yes, my friends, it is that serious.

Why don't Christians play to win? Why do we think it glorifies the Lord to see the enemies of the cross seize control of this nation? Why do Christians fall all over themselves in attempt to show how loving and tolerant we are? Why won't we fight for righteousness in support of the Conquering King we claim to serve? Why are we so hell-bent on loving the Devil's team more than we love the Lord's?

Please don't give me that "we win in the end" crap. It is nothing more than a cowardly excuse to keep us from engaging the enemy. Jesus came to "destroy the works of the Devil." Why doesn't it bother us that our enemies are ruling over us right now? When will we rise up and see His Kingdom come "in earth" as it is in Heaven?

Despite what you have been miss-taught this world does not belong to Satan. Jesus won it back at Calvary. ALL POWER IS GIVEN UNTO ME BOTH IN HEAVEN AND IN EARTH! If Jesus has ALL power...how much power is left to the Devil? What in the name of hell is Satan doing controlling this nation?

The haters of God are on the rampage. For the first time in two generations they are on the defensive. They are no longer calling the shots as God's bulldozer is clearing the field of political correctness. It is time for those of us on God's team to go for the kill.

Growing up I loved the story of David and Goliath and the upset victory that he pulled over the uncircumcised Philistine. David didn't show the love of Jesus to Goliath. He didn't reach across the aisle and reason with him. He didn't negotiate the terms of surrender with the Giant. He didn't share the Gospel or the Four Spiritual laws with him.

David ran towards his enemy, slung a stone at him, knocked him to the ground, cut off his head, and paraded his stinkin noggin down Main Street in Jerusalem.

I had a friend tell me one time when I was taking on a pretty imposing foe, "If you shoot the King you better make sure that you kill him."

Somebody slung a stone and dropped the communist/progressive/anti-Christian giant masquerading as a political ideology. Christians are going to have to make a decision as to whether it is more Godly to love our enemies or crush our enemies. The giant is wounded and I think it would be wise to follow David's example and cut off the head of the snake.

Our enemies want to destroy us...why don't we want to destroy them?

All good coaches understand the importance of momentum. When you get the opponent on their haunches you do all that you can to crush them. Our team has finally awakened and our opponent is wounded. Now is not the time love them...now is the time to bury them.

We cannot go soft and allow them to pull victory out of the jaws of defeat. God has given us victory over our enemies. This opportunity will not come again.

"The Lord is a man of war: The Lord is His name!" Let's follow David's lead.

It is time to go for the jugular.

Politically correct sin

A group of twenty of my buddies and I just returned from Washington DC where we spent the weekend engaging folks with the Gospel of the Kingdom of God. Despite what you might have heard the Inauguration and parade was a very peaceful and inspiring event. Although there were episodes of violence initiated by the anarchists, they had very little impact on what was actually happening on the National Mall or along the parade route.

Now the Million Feminazi March on Saturday was another story. Femininity was in short supply but it does seem as if the women who attended have been successful in attaining their main goals. They claim to want to be treated equally with men and from what I witnessed I would have to say that they have been very successful.

Their goals can be whittled down two issues. They want to be free to act as vulgar and nasty as men, and they want to have sex without any consequences. Their foul mouth and vulgar signs accomplished the first goal, while abortion secures the second. Women love sex. And just like men they want to be free to sleep around.

We are watching the suicide of womanhood.

Our goal in travelling to Washington was to awaken the conscience of a nation to how comfortable we have become with sin. The failure of the church to call out sin has led to an epidemic of it in our nation. Calling certain behaviors sin is not a very popular activity these days and is sure to draw the ire of both sinners and saints in today's who-are-you-to-judge culture.

So we created a T-Shirt that all of our guys wore when we journeyed to the parades. They were the single greatest Gospel-conversation starter I have ever used.

On the Front the shirts said TRUTH SOUNDS LIKE HATE. The back of the shirt declared JESUS IS THE JUDGE and then listed some of the most prominent sins in America. Take a look and I'll explain how they work.

One of the most common retorts we hear when we are ministering on the streets is YOU GUYS ARE HATERS!! We simply point to the front of the shirt and smile. TRUTH SOUNDS LIKE HATE.

The next volley they fire is WHO ARE YOU TO JUDGE? We simply turn around and show them the back of the shirt which declares that Jesus has already passed judgment...therefore...

- ABORTION IS MURDER
- HOMOSEXUALITY IS SIN
- ISLAM IS A LIE
- EVOLUTION IS A DELUSION
- FEMINISM IS REBELLION
- LIBERALISM IS FALSE RELIGION
- CONSERVATISM IS PRETEND SALT

The shirts led to hundreds of Gospel conversations and hundreds of cell phone pictures. The average person is not used to such straight-forward communications.

Donald Trump has driven a stake through the heart of Political Correctness. It is time for Christians to unashamedly declare the Truth of the Bible. The acceptance of sin IN THE CHURCH has caused the average Christian to become "good for nothing except to trodden under the foot of man." Only a return to calling sin by its real name will allow the Spirit of Truth to penetrate the heart of the sinner. They don't call the Bible the "SWORD OF THE SPIRIT" for nothing."

It is time for an end to politically correct sin. The Bible uses the term Sodomy...not Gay. It calls sleeping around fornication. Telling an untruth is not misspeaking, it is lying. The killing of an unborn baby is murder, not choice.

As is often the case the ones who take the most offense to our shirts are church goers who tell us that we should "love the sinner but hate the sin." That sounds nice, but that was a quote that came from Gandhi...not Jesus.

The Bible tells us that we "shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make us free." Why are we so afraid to speak the Truth? Why do we want to soften the message and use politically correct words to describe what the Bible calls sin? Why do we want to turn the salt of the earth into sugar?

What is written on the front of the shirt is only part of the message. As we found out again this weekend in DC...The Truth Is Hate To Those Who Hate The Truth.

Jesus is the Truth. It is time we started calling things the way HE sees them.

If you are courageous enough to wear one you can get a shirt of your own by going to <https://coachdavelive.com/donate>.

Jesus is the Judge. Truth only sounds like hate. Only the truth will set others free.

Masculine men and feminine women

I love my wife.

That may sound corny, but I really do love her. Although my bias is obvious I would not hesitate to place her in the top 10% of all over-sixty women in America.

I'm talking about her beauty...her physical attractiveness...not simply the fact that I have grown to love her more with each passing year. Michele is a real head-turner. Without the benefit of plastic surgery, Botox, or heavy make-up, she is just a petite, sweet, attractive little package of love.

I tell her that regularly. It matters to her that her husband of 37 years appreciates all she does to keep herself looking attractive. I never pressured her into staying thin...or keeping her hair attractive...or looking sharp when we go out together. She just does it. I often tell her I would love her no matter how she looked...but her beauty sure makes it a lot easier.

She knows I am kidding. But she also knows that there is truth in humor.

Michele and I have two daughters. They are both thirty-ish and they take after their mom. It is a work of nature, really, because I raised both of them to be Tom-boys. Heck, what else is a football coach supposed to do with two young daughters? We raised them to be strong women and much of their strength was developed through the ups and downs of athletics.

Both of them were accomplished athletes. The elder, Abby, played four years of softball at Hillsdale College, while her baby sister Maggie was a four year starter in centerfield for Marietta College. But in the rough and tumble life of athletics we always encouraged them to be ladies.

“Being a jock doesn’t mean you have to act like a man,” I often cautioned them. “Discipline, hard work, and success have no gender. Down and dirty on the field doesn’t mean rude and manly off of it.”

Today, they are both happy, successful stay-at-home moms, with strong, manly husbands. I love the women in my life. I especially love them because they are...well...women.

I was counting my blessings the other night and thanking Jesus for the wonderful women He has given me. (Michele and I also have three granddaughters.) As odd as this may sound I am most proud of how feminine the women who surround me are. Their femininity makes their strength less noticeable. I credit their Mom with teaching them to be ladies.

I was struck yesterday by the word “feminism” as I was reading a story about how much Trump “hates women.” What does that word even mean, I wondered out loud? What does being a feminist have to do with being feminine? Why is it that the one thing that so many feminists lack is femininity?

Calling most feminists feminine is an oxymoron...sort of like putting a boat in "dry dock." Why is it so hard for my mind to equate femininity with feminism?

So I went to the dictionary to see if I could make sense of the nonsensical. A quick online search revealed this.

Feminism—the belief that men and women should have equal rights and opportunities.

I'm for that. Michele is for that. So are Abby, Maggie, and most people I know. So I looked up femiNIST and found it that refers to someone "who supports equal rights and opportunities for women." That sounds like me.

Where is the disconnect I asked myself? Why do I, and all of the women in my life, support equal rights and opportunities for women, yet not feel comfortable with the label "feminist?"

So, stubborn as I am, I went deeper into the English language and researched the word feminine—"having qualities or appearances TRADITIONALLY associated with women especially delicacy, prettiness, soft, delicate, gentle, graceful."

Bingo. The war on women that is currently being waged in America is not so much a war against females as it is a war against tradition. Feminists don't want to be women; they want to be women with the qualities of men.

But men are supposed to be masculine. What does the dictionary have to say about someone who is masculine?

Masculine—having qualities or appearances TRADITIONALLY associated with men; especially strength and aggressiveness. Virile, macho, rugged, brawny, robust, manly, vigorous.

Where does one sign up to be a masculinist? When is the march for masculine rights?

Once again we have been snookered by the wordsmiths.

There has been a real role-reversal in the American society. Men are acting like women and women are acting like men. No wonder Americans are so confused.

Men and women are CREATED equal but it would be foolish to believe that their talents and skills are equal. Equality is true at birth and is supposed to be true in the eyes of the law. But it is mere foolishness and folly to think that there is no difference between men and women.

Why do we teach such malarkey to our children?

Five years ago I overheard a conversation our Abby had with one of her college friends shortly after giving birth to their first child.

“I can’t even explain the feeling,” I heard her say. “Giving birth to my daughter was the greatest thing I have ever done in my entire life.”

We waste so much of our time trying to be something we are not. Life would be so much easier if we simply played the roles that nature spelled out for us.

Men to be Masculine and women to be feminine was God’s idea. “Male and female created He them...”

Why do you think they call them role models?

We are losing our children –

where are the fathers?

I don't know how we cannot see it. Even those who were raised in "Christian" homes seemed to be wandering aimlessly in the moral cesspool known as America. The Scriptures warn us that "When there was no God in Israel everyone did what was right in his own eyes."

Young American Christians are afloat in a sea without a compass. We have failed to train them to navigate the rough waters of the debaucherous American culture. If today's parents don't lose their children in high school they are sure to lose them in college.

It is my experience that for most of the Millennials I come in contact with "religion" is not the guiding factor in the moral decisions that they make. We have taught them to FEEL, not to think. Emotions are a poor foundation upon which to build moral values.

It is time to wake up and look around. We are losing our children to the world. Do you understand that? Whatever we are doing in our churches is not working. Why is it that our children are rejecting the values of their parents? Why is it that the Millennials are cancelling out the votes of their grandparents? Why are time-honored values no longer valued? How did we reach the point where following Biblical values became old-fashioned?

In California, Democrats passed a law SB 1322 decriminalizing under age prostitution and Governor Jerry Brown sign it. Not one pastor stood publicly against it, not one. The apathetic public 'that keep voting these low life scoundrels in office' stood by and did nothing as well. We truly get the government we deserve.

We treat symptoms in America. Make a visit to your family doctor and you will see what I mean. Our medical professions have been trained to treat symptoms and that no matter what your malady; the pharmaceutical industry has a drug to treat it. Just watch the commercials on your favorite cable channel and you will understand what I am saying. Does "an erection lasting longer than 4 hours" ring a bell?

The foundational institution upon which the American Republic was built is crumbling. America is sick because the family is sick. Fatherhood has become a trial-by-error- proposition. You aren't a man when you can make a baby...you are a man when you can raise one. Fatherhood is on life support.

Our churches have failed us. Although their intentions may have been noble, our pastors have trained the family to depend upon the church and church programs to pass Christian values to the children. Youth ministries and youth programs have taken the responsibility of "training up a child in the way he should go" off of the shoulders of the fathers.

Very few fathers today have any idea how to pass their values to their children. It isn't learned through osmosis, or passed to the children in the DNA. The transference of values has to be intentional.

What can possibly be responsible for the startling statistic which shows that nearly 75% of Christian kids leave the church when they go to college? What has happened to us that even in families where a father is in the home that so many young adults reject the values they were raised with?

Could it be they were never taught those values in their home? Is it possible that the fathers trusted the church and its flashy programs to instill those values in their kids? Maybe the Dads were ill equipped for the successful transference of fundamental moral values to their kids.

What in the name of all that is righteous are we being taught in our churches? What does it prosper a man to gain the whole world and lose his children? The "church" is hemorrhaging young people. The consequences will have an eternal impact.

Only fathers can make their family great. Only great families can make the church great. Only great churches can make America great. It is time for fathers to get back in the game.

Let me ask you Dad, when was the last time you sat down with your son and explained to him that a real man honors women? Have you told him that an honorable man will not take advantage of a young woman hungry for male affection? Have fathers instructed their sons that the job of a man is to protect the weaker sex?

And how about your daughters? Have you relinquished the moral training of your daughter to your wife? Have you looked your daughter in the eyes and explained to her chastity and WHY it matters? Have you told how important her character is to you and to the Lord?

Have you explained to your children the value of fidelity, purity, and integrity? Have you equipped them with the tools to stand firm against the deluge of sewage that they will face when they go to college? Have you given them a firm foundation upon which to stand or have you trusted the "youth pastor" at your church to train your children?

Every experience in life has the opportunity to teach life-lessons to your children. Only the enduring values passed from the father to the family have that chance to endure.

Our 6 year old granddaughter loves to sit and watch old Andy Griffith shows. She loves the interaction between Andy, Barney, Opie, Aunt Bee...and even Otis the drunk. Watching them with her makes me slip back into the good old days of Father Knows Best, Leave it To Beaver, Donna Reed, and all of the family shows that I grew up on.

It dawned on me the other night as we sat watching a rerun together that all of the moral values being taught in those TV shows were values that were emanating from Dad. Although church was mentioned, I can't remember one show where the strongest influence in the family was a pastor.

Man up Dad. Your kids will learn their values from someone. Shouldn't that be you?

There was a reason why it was Father Knows Best...not Pastor knows best. Put down the remote. Your family, and this nation, is counting on you.

My greatest Christmas present came Nov. 8, 2016

Popeye Meets the Bullies

I don't know about you but Christmas came early for me. As is usual, all of the members of my family are asking what I would like to have for Christmas.

"Nothing." I tell everyone who asks. "There is nothing you can get me that will top what I received on November 8, 2016. It was Christmas and my birthday all rolled into one. Nothing you could get me will ever top the gift left under my tree on that night."

"What are you talking about?" they ask me.

"I'm talking about the election of 2016. The American people freed my life from the Clintons, Obamas, Pelosis and the God-hating Democratic Party!! They are the biggest bullies in the history of the United States and they are out of my life. How could a man ever want a better present than that?"

Some always want to argue with me about the "harshness" of calling my Democrat friends "God-haters", so I have softened my rhetoric a bit. The leadership of the party hates God. Those who vote for them have simply recreated their own god in their own image. That is why whenever I hear someone chortle out God bless America I always take the time to ask, "Which God?"

It would be wrong to assume that all "Christians" serve the same God. I know some self-identified Christians who have NO IDEA what the Bible teaches. Those are the ones who usually vote for the lefties. Perhaps they don't really hate "their" god...it is the one in the Bible that they have a problem with.

Obamas, Clintons, Pelosis, Reid...they are as much of a Christian as they are a poached egg. I am so glad they are gone.

They are the real bullies of America. Even though they and their same-sex loving friends like to call me and my ilk bullies...hateful...intolerant...it is they and their demon-loving acolytes that love to boss people around. The tyranny of the minority took a big hit in November and it has brought me a quasi-sadistic kind of joy to watch them squirm in their disappointment.

Don't let the door hit you in the rear end on the way out.

According to the dictionary, to bully means "to affect by means of force or coercion; implies an intimidating or an overcoming of resistance usually by urgings, demands, or threats."

Well, the real bullies finally got their butts kicked and that is the sweetest gift under my tree. It is as if Popeye finally awoke, squeezed open his can of spinach, and declared for the entire world to hear "I've had all I can stand and I can't stands no more.”

Permit me to refresh your memory of some of the left’s more egregious disregard of democracy.

They bullied little babies in the womb.

They bullied those who oppose abortion into paying for it with tax dollars.

They bullied bakers into making cakes for sodomite marriages.

They bullied county clerks into violating their consciences.

They bullied school districts to silence prayers before football games.

They bullied school districts to remove the 10 Commandments.

They bullied politicians into changing laws to accommodate deviant sex.

They bullied parents into permitting their children to be taught homosex was normal.

They bullied churches into accepting their sin.

They bullied into silence anyone who opposed their sin.

They bullied Americans into accepting Obama Care.

They bullied us into accepting the criminalization of free speech by calling it hate.

They bullied us into forfeiting our God-given right to hate.

They bullied us into forfeiting our right to freely speak of Jesus.

They bullied us into putting Mohammed on equal footing with Jesus.

They bullied us and restricted our religious beliefs to inside the church building.

They bullied us into closing our coal mines.

They bullied us into reducing fossil fuel use.

They bullied us into the acceptance of mass Islamic invasion.

They bullied us into paying for those “migrants.”

They bullied us into accepting race was an excuse for immoral behavior.

They bullied us into changing the meanings of our holidays.

They bullied Jesus out of His own birthday.

They bullied us into accepting the killing of police officers.
They bullied us into accepting terrorism as natural hazard of life.

They bullied us into permitting the courts to make law.

They bullied us to accept that the Supreme Court was above the Supreme Being.

They bullied us into believing our rights came from government.

They bullied us into accepting that all cultures and all values are equal.

They bullied us into believing that America was a democracy.

They bullied us into believing that white people are privileged.

They bullied us into believing that our leaders were above the law.

They bullied us into believing that the mainstream news was honest.

They bullied us into accepting a fraudulent presidential birth certificate.

I am so glad the bullies are gone. Ding dong the witch is dead. Popeye finally voted them out. Pass the spinach.

Merry Christmas America.

John Kasich, Trump, little

children and the cowardly church

Another Republican Sellout

Well the covers just keep being pulled back and more and more RINOS are being exposed. Our eccentric governor John Kasich is the latest one to have his private parts exposed and it is now obvious for everyone to see that he does not possess what is generally required to make a man a man.

John Kasich is a cross-dresser when it comes to “family” values. This week Governor Ka-Sick vetoed the “Heartbeat Bill” which would have protected by law and by love every unborn baby that has a detectable heartbeat. Since scientific evidence shows that a heartbeat develops in a young child somewhere between five and six weeks of gestation this bill would have protected nearly 93% of all unborn children who are currently headed towards the abortionist’s weaponry.

This battle for life was a long five year struggle as pro-life activists, led by pro-life warrior Janet Porter, relentlessly pushed for the legislature to send the bill to the Governor. This week, both the House and the Senate passed and forwarded this landmark legislation to “pro-life” John Ka-Sick for his expected signature.

Ka-Sick, who loves to brag that his father was a mail man, failed to deliver the mail and with the stroke of a pen refused to rescue the nearly 20,000 children per year this bill would have protected. It wouldn’t pass court review, this gelded RINO explained as his reason for the veto.

In the spirit of full disclosure I was ambivalent about the Heartbeat Bill because of the fact that it didn’t protect ALL unborn children. In my opinion, the Personhood Amendment, which declares the unborn child a “person” at conception thereby securing the unalienable right to life, was a much more fully inclusive legislative idea which would protect ALL unborn children.

However, once the Heartbeat Bill cleared the Legislature I rejoiced that the life of fewer unborn children would be in jeopardy. Despite my desire to protect all children, 93% seemed like a pretty good number and I rejoiced with Mrs. Porter and her valiant efforts to see the vote to a successful conclusion. What a country this would be if we all had her tenacity for life!

But the full story of this mockery of the legislative process gets a bit stickier. It seems that Ohio Right To Life (ORTL) was busy behind the scenes lobbying our "pro-life" Governor Ka-Sick to veto the legislation. Yes, you read that right. Ohio Right To Life came out publicly and urged Ka-Sick to x-out the legislation for fear that "the courts" would strike down all "pro-life" legislation that ORTL had worked to put into place.

The truth is now out. Both Governor Ka-Suck and ORTL are actually pro-CHOICE with exceptions. They don't want to stop abortion; they simply want to regulate it. As calloused as this may sound, what would all of those lawyers, lobbyists, and abortion foes do for employment if abortion was ever re-criminalized? Fighting abortion is their business and business is good.

I don't know what the story is in your state but here in Ohio many of the local Right To Life groups are no longer affiliated with either the National Right To Life organization or the Ohio Right To Life group. I would suggest that all folks who really want to see abortion outlawed will stop giving to the compromised State and National Right To Life organizations.

John Ka-Sick made a fool of himself in his recent run in the primaries for the Republican nomination for President. His recent drift to the left was a purposeful ploy in his desire to reshape the Republican Party after Donald Trump's expected resounding defeat in the general election. Today, shocked and dismayed, Kasich seems to be a politician without a party. His term is limited here in Ohio so look for him to pop up at Goldman Sachs or some other cheesy spot where he will feather his nest as a reward for his leading the #nevertrump crowd.

Did I mention that he was rumored to have taken money from George Soros in order to bring down Trump? Today a story popped up that he actually took money from the Hillary Clinton campaign in his treasonous attempt to block Donald Trump.

The election of Donald Trump has changed all the political winds in America. It is believed that the reason that, after languishing for five years, the Heartbeat Bill finally cleared the heavily Republican Legislature was because of the likelihood that Trump will change the make-up of the SCOTUS to a more pro-life position. For this reason alone, the Republicans moved the bill to Governor Kasich's desk.

Could it be that the signing of the Heartbeat Bill would have been an admission on the part of Kasich that Trump was going to deliver on his pro-life judge's promise and that was a bit more than the #nevertrump governor could carry in his mailbag?

The saddest part of the whole saga is that Kasich will pay no price for his betrayal. His term is limited and the weak, anemic, cowardly church will not stand up and demand that the Governor defend the precious babies. This legislation would certainly have made its way through the court system and at some point would have been argued before a Trump appointed Supreme Court that will lean decidedly pro-life.

Who could have ever dreamed that the two greatest obstacles to protecting unborn children would be the largest "pro-life" organization in Ohio and a "pro-life" sitting governor at the top of a solidly pro-life State Legislature?

Jesus warned us that “your enemies shall be those of your own household.” I think He knew a thing or two about betrayal.

Shame on John Ka-Sick and Ohio Right To Life. There is nothing hidden that will not be revealed.

Intuitiveness and the unseen world

The biggest lie that the Devil has every foisted on the American people is that he really doesn't exist...at least not in the literal sense.

He has convinced us that he is nothing more than a mythical creation in the manner of Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny. Satan, we have come to believe, is simply a creation of the cartoonists, a character represented by an imp dressed in red and adorned with goat-like horns, and a pitch-fork.

The attempted murder of Almighty God by the American legal system has produced more casualties than we have come to realize. Not only do the Humanists want us to believe that God is dead but that His assassination has also cleared the field of old Beelzebub as well.

God is dead. Satan is dead. And pay no attention to the man behind the curtain.

I received Christ as my Savior in November of 1987. Although I had been a “church goer” most of my life the message of the finished work of the cross had somehow escaped my understanding. I thought I was a Christian because my parents took me to church and had a priest sprinkle me in water baptism.

"I was born a Catholic", I once said to a friend.

"Well, I see the problem", he responded. "You need to be born again." The rest, as they say, is history.

But as I have grown older I made the decision to take my faith a little more seriously and began to do some research on the faith that I claimed was the plumb line of my life. To my amazement, the more I studied the more I realized that so much of what I had been taught wasn't even true. And worse than that, so much of what was true no one had taken the time to teach me.

Sadly, I run into many "Christians" today who know so very little about what they claim to believe. The old idea that "God said it, I believe it, and that settles it" is a very dangerous position to hold. The Scriptures tell us that "you shall know the truth and the Truth shall make you free." That is all well and good. But simply BELIEVING something is true does not make it so. It is only when you KNOW THE TRUTH INTUITIVELY that you become free.

A lie, no matter how noble, no matter how often it is repeated, and no matter how sincere you are will never make you free. Only the Truth is freeing. So much of what we believe simply is not the Truth.

Let me ask you a question. When was the last time you attended church and the Pastor taught you about the Spiritual world? How much do you know about Angels and Demons? How informed are you about the "wiles of the Devil?" If we are warned in the Bible that we are "not to be ignorant of Satan's devices" why is it we know so little about him and how he operates? What did Paul mean when he warned us about "principalities and powers, the rulers of darkness of this world?"

Let me piggy back this question on top of the last one. If the Devil is real why aren't the Pastors teaching us how to fight him?

As a somewhat successful high school football coach I learned earlier in my career the importance of a good scouting report on our opponents. Because of dedicated film study we hoped to never be ignorant of our opponent's devices. Losing was one thing. Losing because I didn't scout our opponent was another thing.

How much do you know about "your adversary the Devil, who goes about like a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour?"

If you are like I was 10 years ago, you are very ill equipped to fight the Spiritual battle that surrounds us. The average Christian has no idea of the Spiritual world, how it operates, and the power we have over the darkness. We were all birthed onto a battlefield. The eternal battle for control of the world waged between "the seed of the serpent and the seed of the woman" is playing out before us.

Are you sitting down? Let me feed you a Truth nugget. The Devil is real. Demons are real. There is an invisible world around us that we are not able to see with our natural eyes. The battle being played out in this "heavenly realm" is manifesting itself in this natural world. Most church goers have no clue.

America is a captured nation. I don't care if you believe it or not. The United States of America is under the control of the dark side. Satan, and his minions, are actively fighting to wrest control of once-Christian America.

The fact that you don't see it or don't believe it does not make it any less true. While you are laughing off the existence of Satan he is stealing the heart of this nation.

Christians have been duped. Christians have been blinded...they have been deceived...they are incapable of seeing the blood-drenched hand of Lucifer doing his dirty dealing. The bolder Satan becomes the less likely Christians are to see his handiwork. Our denial of his existence does not make him any less effective. In fact, it strengthens his hand.

Wikileaks has exposed for anyone who cares to see that the Luciferians are at work in the highest offices in the land. Hillary and her minions are deeply involved in Satanic rituals, pedophilia, child sacrifice, and cannibalism. It is all being revealed for anyone who is willing to see...despite the efforts of the MSM.

If anyone should believe in the existence of the Devil and the darkness of his works it should be Christians. But pastors don't teach about it, the people don't believe it is real, as the Devil and his minions conquer our nation.

Take a few minutes and look at what the mainstream media is hiding. LOOK HERE. Take an hour and do some research on your own. There is witchcraft, Satanic rituals, and child-sacrifice at the highest levels of our government. John Podesta was Hillary's campaign manager for Pete's sake!! The below pictures are from the captured emails exposing what is going on under the cover of darkness.

Find one short video and share it with your friends. Share it with your pastor. Share it with your Sunday school class. When will Christians awaken to the reality of the Demonic world?

On Tuesday I produced a program with one of the world's experts on Satanic Rituals Pastor Russ Dizdar. Please take a few minutes to educate yourself about the Spiritual world. Click here to learn more about demons.

Thankfully America is waking up to the trafficking of children. Today there are thousands of children missing. What has become of them? Why would someone kidnap them? Is this something that the church should be on the front lines fighting?

If God is real then you have to believe that Satan is real. The Scriptures speak directly about the Spiritual war raging around us. Why aren't we hearing about it in our churches? Why are Christians so ignorant about the invisible world?

Evil exists. Pure evil exists. At the highest levels the elite are initiated through occult rites into a system that is called by many names. It is Luciferian and Satanic in nature. Almost half a million children 'disappeared' last year in America. None of them vanished. Child trafficking, ritual abuse, and sexual abuse are realities that we can no longer ignore because they are too terrible for us to comprehend.

How can we fight Satan if we don't believe he is real?

We are spending our inheritance

I don't know what you think but I believe that God intervened in the election last week. I am not sure if that is good or bad, but like so many other things in life, it depends on what your perspective is. Either way, God did something big in America.

Some say the election of Donald Trump was a blessing from God. But you will find many Christians who say that his election was the judgment of God. Some think Trump will save America while other genuinely concerned believers think that The Donald will destroy America. Was his election a blessing from God or was it a curse from The Almighty?

Time will tell...but there is no doubt that His hand was stirring something on the evening of November 8, 2016. As I wrote a couple of weeks ago...only the Church CAN MAKE AMERICA GREAT AGAIN.

But the church is going to have to deal with some very serious issues in the days ahead. The statistics show that we are running out of time. If we do not immediately wake up and change the way we are doing things the America that turned out all across the heartland will soon be a thing of the past.

The Baby-Boomers are rapidly aging and one can only imagine how many voters cast their last ballot in a Presidential election last week. Four years from today hundreds of thousands of the "deplorables" who pulled the lever for Donald Trump will either be dead or in a nursing home. Nearly 10,000 Baby Boomers die each day. That is 3,650,000 dead per year which means 14,000,000 will not make the election of 2020.

Recent statistics show that there are approximately 74,000,000 Baby Boomers still alive. If my math is correct, over the next four years the number will fall to 60 million. The Millennials, those born in between 1980-2000, number 84,000,000. Today, in America, there are more of them than there are of us. Baby Boomers and their values are slowly fading away.

Why does that matter you may be asking? Well, demographics can be a scary thing. The Baby Boomers are the last generation of Americans to grow up in what was generally considered a Christian nation. Although in America today 71% of the citizens claim Christianity as their religion of choice the reality is that the percentage of the population that identifies as "Christian" is in a free fall. Just seven years ago the same statistics showed that 78% self identified as Christians. Barring a spiritual revival, as the Baby Boomers die off those percentages are sure to plummet. This is no longer your grandparent's America.

We Baby Boomers were the last generation to grow-up in a nation where the public schools included Christianity and Christian values as fundamental teachings taught to every child. Since the removal of prayer in 1962, the elimination of Bible readings in 1963, and the removal of the 10 Commandments from the walls of the public schools in 1980, Secular Humanism has been substituted as the religion of the nation. As a result, the influence of Christianity, and Christian churches has waned dramatically. Today, in the public school where your grandchildren attend, Christianity is nearly banned. The god of government and the god of self has now become the true religion of the average American citizen.

Perhaps nothing more illustrates this issue than two maps from the recent election. This map shows that, county by county, is flooded with "Red" which reflects the influence of the Baby Boomers who turned out massively in the election of 2016.

Although not scientific, the second map below shows support for Hillary from the Millennials. It would appear to me that the grandchildren do not share the values of their grandparents. How has this happened and what can we do about it? What is the common factor that over 90% of Millennials share? Public schools are where the values of the grandparents are torn from the hearts of their grandchildren.

Abraham Lincoln famously stated "The philosophy of the schoolroom in one generation is the philosophy of government in the next."

Vladimir Lenin told us "Give me four years to teach the children and the seed I have sown will never be uprooted."

It is time for religious leaders, pastors included, to call for a mass exodus of Christian children from public schools.

We can no longer stick our collective heads in the sand and deny the negative influence that Humanistic indoctrination has had on this nation. Our failure to educate America's children in Christian values and Christian morality will be the death knell of liberty in this land.

We are running out of time. Our children are our future. We must fight back and fight back now.

Thousands of church buildings lay empty throughout the week. It is time to populate them with young children. Our churches are full of retirees who could volunteer to help with the education of the community. The internet is full of Christian home-school materials at the click of a mouse. The church should be the center of ALL learning for the young children in the community and education does not have to be expensive. Failure to pass Christian values to the next generation will be deadly to our nation.

Christian education should be our number one focus. It is a task every church can do. Churches in the community can partner together to create home school co-ops where mothers and grandmothers labor daily to raise the next generation of Christian citizens.

Take a good look at the two maps posted above. Public education is dividing the generations. We are told in Proverbs that "A good man leaves an inheritance to his children's children." It is not money that we are talking about here. The inheritance is values, culture, and a way of life.

Public schools are stealing our inheritance. We must act and act now. Why are we surprised that when we send our children to be educated by Caesar that they end up becoming little Romans? Why do we pay for public schools that don't teach the values of the public? Stop waiting on Washington to change. Start changing things in your church.

Stand up and take the initiative. Don't wait for the pastor.

Get an educational program started in your church!! You can do it!! The kids in your community are counting on you!!

Let's make the church great again

Donald Trump showed his marketing genius when he came up with the campaign slogan "Make America Great Again." It was catchy and it captured the spirit of the average American voter. Many of us remember the "good old days" in the good old U S of A, and we are smart enough to recognize, as my father used to sing as he strummed his guitar, "the old gray mare she ain't what she used to be."

Trump is right about one thing. America is not great any more. We simply think that we are.

Oh we still have a lot of power and influence in the world, but we are far from great. We are perhaps the most immoral nation in the world. In fact, we are so immoral that we are doing our best to export our immorality around the globe.

Hillary is running on a program that not only promotes the slaughter of unborn children but has shown a strong desire to use the United Nations to spread infanticide worldwide. Isn't this the woman who, along with her deviant husband, once declared that she wanted to make abortion, "safe, legal, and rare?"

The promotion of immoral behavior has become America's greatest export. Licentiousness has replaced liberty. With liberty comes responsibility, while licentiousness is liberty without consequences. The greatness of America was that we once taught our children that real liberty was not doing whatever one wanted but rather choosing to do what was right.

Today in America right and wrong has become nothing more than an opinion. Without an unchanging standard everyone will do "whatever is right in their own eyes." Until we return to the solid rock of Truth our foundations will continue to crumble and no political leader or government program will ever Make America Great Again.

Donald Trump cannot Make America Great Again. Only a return to Christ and His unchanging standards can do that job.

It is time to Make The Church Great Again.

Every problem that America faces is a moral problem. We have rejected the non-negotiable standards of right and wrong that American parents and American schools taught to our children for over 5 generations. As the Biblical foundations were whittled away our nation gradually became less and less great.

I miss my parents, but I am glad that they are not around to see that not only is the old gray mare not what she used to be, but that the nation that their generation fought and died for is crumbling. Scripture reminds us "A good man leaves an inheritance to his children's children." Sadly, the baby boomers, of which I am one, have spent the inheritance. Like the prodigal son we have spent it on "riotous living" and our only hope is to "come to ourselves." When will we stand up and say that we have had enough of pig-pen living?

Let's make no bones about it; the election of 2016 will be watershed moment in American history. Will we reject 50 years of godless government or will we cavalierly wink and nod and elect the most corrupt candidate in the history of American politics?

“I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life that both thou and thy seed may live:”

Did you know God is pro-choice? Did you know he gave us the ability to make the right choice?

According to the latest research 71% of Americans are Christian...a decline of 8% in the past 7 years. Let that sink in a minute. Only 4% of Americans identify as atheist or agnostic yet it is this very small minority of Americans who have THEIR religious beliefs represented in the government. How have Christians permitted the values of the overwhelming majority of society to be banished from public discourse? How has our once great nation permitted our government to become agnostic in regards to moral behavior?

No matter who is elected on November 8th the responsibility for the direction of this nation will fall directly into the lap of the American church. If Trump wins it will appear as if the Lord has given us a reprieve. A Hillary victory will guarantee that the anti-Christian antics of those in positions of power will raise the ante for those who dare to resist the debauchery flooding down Main Street America.

As goes the church, so goes the nation. It is time for true believers in Jesus to call out the charlatans in the pulpits masquerading as pastors and demand a return to Biblical values as the foundation of this nation. We must actively oppose the self-centered Gospel currently belching out of the mouths of the hirelings who are peddling snake-oil Christianity in order to advance their own kingdoms.

With an eye on the future I will be working Wednesday morning November 9th to return America to her Biblical roots. As goes the people, so goes the church. As goes the church, so goes the nation.

It is time to stand up and fight. It is time to awaken to the spiritual battle that is raging around us. It is time to fight for the inheritance that we are leaving to our grandchildren. They will live in the nation we leave them. What kind of nation will we have in 2020?

I pray you join me in the battle. Christianity will never die, but Western Civilization might. There are generations still unborn that are counting on us.

Let's MAKE THE CHURCH GREAT AGAIN!!

My Christian friends would rather see Hillary as president then vote for Trump

This election cycle is enough to drive a person crazy. I don't know if I have ever in my lifetime seen so much confusion about what is happening in America. It is the judgment of God on America.

We are told in 2 Thessalonians that God "would send a strong delusion that they would believe a lie." Lies rule the day in this nation and sadly, it is God's people who seem most deceived and confused by what is going on.

I have lost some friends over the past few months because I have come out in support of Donald Trump. These are good people who are angry with me. Warriors, really. Front line activists whom I have, and would, stand shoulder to shoulder with in the defense of the unborn. These are not some Joel Osteen followers. These are committed men and women of God that I have the utmost respect for. Check out the 45 minute video below. Mr. Trump addresses people in Charlotte NC. Today.

But they are #nevertrumpers. I am not mad at them because they won't vote for him. I respect their decisions and I respect their conscience. Far be it from me to judge someone's Christianity based on a vote in a Presidential election. I trust that they are following their conscience. What grieves me is they don't trust that I am following mine.

"How can you vote for a strip club owner? How can you cast a vote for a serial adulterer? Trump doesn't want to protect ALL babies. You are a sellout! You have betrayed all of us in the Pro-life movement."

And those are some of the nicer things they have said...my Christian brothers. It grieves my heart.

I was on the phone with one of them the other day and we had a very cordial discussion. He said he still loves me as a brother...and I believe he does...but he just cannot trust me anymore after being a cheerleader for such a wicked man. He was a strong Ted Cruz supporter in the primaries.

"Let me ask you a few questions," I said to him over the phone. "When you were supporting Cruz did you agree with all of his positions?"

"Most of them," he answered. "I believe he was an honest man."

"Ok. I just pulled out Ted's position paper from the primaries and he listed the following things as important positions."

1. Repeal and replace Obama Care.
2. The 2nd amendment is absolute and no to gun control legislation.
3. If elected he will nominate pro-life justices to the Supreme Court.

4. If elected he will overturn all of Obama's illegal executive orders.
5. If elected he would defund Planned Parenthood.
6. He would cut personal income and corporate taxes.
7. He would return educational control to the local school districts.
8. He would block Common Core.
9. He would fight for energy Independence.
10. He would bar refugees from Terrorist nations.

"Do you still support all of those position's Mike?" I asked.

"Of course I do. Cruz was our best chance to restore Christian values to this nation. I supported him 100%."

"Are there any of his positions listed above that you could not support, Mike?"

"No. Those would be a good first step in turning this nation around."

"Well Mike, I hate to burst your bubble but those 10 things listed above are positions that I found on Donald Trump's website. It seems to me that he and Ted Cruz agree on much of what is needed to rescue this nation. Why can't you support him?"

"Because I don't trust him. I don't think that he actually believes most of those things because he used to be a liberal Democrat. He gave millions to the Democrats."

"How do you know that if Cruz was elected he would do what he said he would do?"

"Because I trust him. He is a man of integrity. Trump has been all over the place and I don't trust him."

"Why not support Trump and hold his feet to the fire. Let's make sure he does what he and Cruz says needs to be done. Maybe he can appoint pro-life judges and end the abortion holocaust.”

“I can’t vote for him. He is a serial adulterer. He mistreats women. He said he has never felt the need to ask God for forgiveness.”

“But what if he keeps his word? What if he keeps his word and fights for everything he and Ted Cruz support?”

“Nope. I’m never trump. He just has too much baggage for me. God will hold me accountable for my vote.”

“You know Hillary will abort everything that moves. Can’t you vote against her?”

“Nope. I am done voting for the lesser of evils.

“Millions of babies will die if Hillary is elected. Don’t you want to stop that?”

“God is judging America.”

“What if Trump does what he says? Won’t babies live?”

“Trump is pro-abortion. He has been his whole life.”

“So what is your solution? What’s your plan to end abortion, Mike?”

“Pray and trust God.”

“Can’t you vote for Trump, pray, and trust God to change his heart?”

“He’ll never change. I am not voting for a strip-club owner.”

I guess I am missing something. What is it I am supposed to trust God to do...?

I lied to the Pollsters

I know that lying is a sin...at least that is what I am told the Bible teaches. However, the Bible actually says that it is a sin to "bear false witness against thy neighbor."

Not all lying is sinful. The purpose of the commandment "Thou Shall Not Lie"...which isn't actually what the 9th commandment says...is to protect one another. It is wrong to "bear false witness." Not all lies bear false witness. I would proudly lie to protect my wife if someone was threatening to hurt her.

"Where's your wife, buddy?" the terrorist with a knife in his mouth asked as he bashed in the door.

"She isn't here!! She is spending the weekend going door to door for Hillary." I respond.

"Okay. But if she was here I'd kill her." He responds in Arabic.

I wouldn't feel guilty if she survives because I lied. It wouldn't be a sin.

But that is commentary for another day.

This has been an especially busy election season around our house. I have only been polled over the phone once in my life before this election, but I have been surveyed three times just in the last month.

And I lied every time.

I think cell phones have screwed up the pollsters. Very few folks have a land-line anymore, but we have not given ours up yet. So I suppose that is why we are such a hot number.

Although the questions do vary a little bit all three calls asked these three questions.

1. Did you vote in the last election?
2. Are you likely to vote in the 2016 election?
3. What is your political affiliation?

I answered falsely to each question. In fact, I answered differently in all three occasions.

It was hard to lie while I was snickering so hard.

That is why I know the polls are rigged.

I often see online polls. But you can't trust them they tell us. It seems they are not scientific. As if the polls I recently took part in were scientific. EVERY response I gave was false. Every one.

Polls are not designed to report public opinion. Polls are designed to shape public opinion. Polls have become news. They ARE the story. Although Americans are pretty fickle I doubt if public opinion changes every three days.

It would make sense if they polled the same respondents every time to see if their opinions had changed. But to simply try and convince me that my neighbor's opinion represent the views of everyone in our neighbor is quite a stretch. Heck, here in my neighborhood not everyone roots for the Buckeyes...in a state where EVERYONE roots for the Buckeyes. Why should I believe that some cracker 16 miles down the road shares my political opinion?

They are taking us for a ride. They are doing everything they can do to suppress voter turnout. Trump is toast they tell us...and they hope that you won't take the time to go and vote for a guy who has already lost.

Christian women have been an especially ripe target. If they can somehow convince Christian women that Trump is immoral then they will not turn out and vote for him. Remember...polls are used to influence public opinion.

I already voted. My wife did too. We both voted differently from what we told the pollsters. I wonder if that will screw up the three "scientific" polls they did over the phone.

The media treats polls like a scoreboard in a football game. They have convinced us that the score is ever-changing...daily actually...and dummies like us turn in to see who is ahead today...and why. The pundits on TV are like analysts in a football game. They explain why one team is behind and what they will have to do in the 2nd half in order to win. The polls are the hook to get you to tune in...and watch them give you a daily play by play of the game. If they really wanted to make election night exciting they would give us running totals of the votes as they are recorded. Can you imagine a football game where they don't let you know the score until after the game is over? That's how they manipulate us. That is why it is so easy to cheat. Let us know who is winning so we can get our friends and drive them to the polls and help win the game for our guy.

Can you imagine a football game where they give you the score after the game is over but no one ever witnessed anyone actually scoring a touchdown? That is election night reporting.

Consider this and then I will shut up. How do we know that the person conducting the poll records the answers that the respondent actually gives? How do we know that when they give us their polling "sample" that the political affiliations were accurate and not changed by the person taking the poll or by someone analyzing the poll? How do we know that anyone in the entire polling chain is actually telling the truth? What if the caller lied when recording results? What if the respondent lied while answering the questions? What if the analyst compiling the results fudged the numbers to meet the polling companies intended result? What if they cherry-picked Democrat responses? What if they threw out the one's they didn't like? What if they merely sampled people in their campaign? What if all of the responses are made up?

And don't forget that the way the question is asked makes all of the difference. For instance, what if instead of asking "Do you believe in a woman's right to choose?" they asked "Do you believe in an unborn child's right to live?"

Always remember. He who frames the question wins the debate. The agenda of the polling company means everything. How can they call this science if the numbers are faked? Can anyone say Global Warming?

Lie to them. If a pollster calls you please take the call and then answer every question falsely. I wonder what the atmosphere in America would be today if they didn't inform us every day who is winning and who is losing. My gut would tell me Trump is ahead.

Give the media some of their own medicine. Lie to the hucksters.

Thank God for Trump – the mask of crooks is finally off

We have known it all along but we just have not been willing to admit it. As the old saying goes, "are you going to trust me or your eyes?"

Thanks be to God that our eyes are finally beginning to open.

Or, as the Bible tells us, "there is nothing hidden that will not be revealed." You can get away with lying and swindling for a while but eventually the light of truth is going to be shown.

Thank God for Donald Trump. Even if he is not elected he has done a service to his country that can never be repaid. He has exposed the government/media/entertainment/news/education complex. From this day forward America will never be the same. Even if he fails, The Donald has given THE CHURCH the chance to be great again.

He has pulled off the mask. He has exposed the traitors and the pretenders. The question before us is what will we do now that the curtain has been pulled back?

Only the Lord Jesus Christ can make America great again. As my friend Jim likes to opine, "As goes the church, so goes the nation. As goes the pastor, so goes the church." The dynamic to watch in the days ahead is will we MAKE THE CHURCH GREAT AGAIN?

Revival is coming. It will not be like anything that the world has ever seen. But it will not be pretty to watch. In fact, it will look a lot like judgment, because that is exactly what is heading down the pike. No matter who wins the election all hell is about to break loose in America. I believe Hillary will bring persecution like the Christians in America have never experienced before. If Trump wins, there may be a bit of a reprieve.

But either way, hell-fire judgment is barreling down the tracks towards America with her idolatrous behavior tied to the rails. Judgment must come. It is God's way of disciplining His people. Only then can America ever be great again.

We now know that the Republican Party is a fraud. In our system of self-government the people are supposed to pick their leaders. But if nothing else has been gleaned from the past few months we now know that it is the party bosses and the political elite who select our candidates. All of this time we have thought that it was two political parties fighting for what they believed in. We now see how we have been deceived. Both parties do not serve the will of the people. They both serve their masters. And "we the people" aren't in charge.

The "church" has sold its birthright. We have yielded God's moral authority to government. "All power is given unto me both in heaven and in earth" Jesus told us, but the church has handed off that authority to mercenaries that we deceptively call "conservatives." Can you even imagine Jesus, or any of His contemporaries, defining Christianity as "conservatism?" Can you imagine Paul partnering with the Log Cabin Republicans? Because cowardly men fill the pulpits and pews of America Donald J. Trump is our best hope for 2016.

Win or lose, we must Make The Church Great Again.

Since the days of Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson the Christian Church has been joined at the hip of the Republican Party. The "religious right" has cast their lot and has ridden on the back of an elephant to the point of irrelevancy. Because the "moral majority" is no longer moral it is no longer the majority. American Christianity today is powerless because it has yielded authority to the GOP.

We have traded John the Baptist for Joel Osteen.

Say what you will about Donald Trump but he is the toughest man we have seen in American politics in my lifetime. He is fearless and he is relentless. America is in shock because we don't see masculinity on display anymore. He is a secular John The Baptist calling the men of America to stand up and fight!

But Christians are so feminized that they don't appreciate manhood anymore. He is everything that our pastors are not. Men and women feel it in their heart. They trust Trump to fight and they trust their pastor to pray. In their hearts they know that their pastor doesn't have the guts to do what it takes to win.

Where is the Christian Donald Trump? Where is the voice of the righteous Donald Trump crying aloud in the wilderness? Could it be that God is using Trump to get his point across?

Back in my coaching days I often quoted the great Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes who said "I never saw a football player make a tackle with a smile on his face." Christians will never win because we are not taught to fight. We smile our way through defeat.

Trump's own team is against him because he is not "conservative" enough for them. This is the same party that gave the church, Romney, McCain, and Dole. They were all "company" men who didn't rock the establishment boat. Trump is causing the establishment to suffer through an earthquake. Both political parties are against him. If Trump is so liberal why do the Democats hate him?

The mask is off of the establishment. Jesus warned us that our enemies "would be those of our own household." What would America be like if the "Republicans" fought evil as much as they fought Trump? What if they focused their venom at Planned Parenthood?

The battle is clear to me. The Republican Party is full of globalists because that is what the donor class wants. America and our independence are in the crosshairs. This is not a battle between political parties. This is a battle between the people and the politicians.

The Republicans, Democrats, Media, and the establishment church are all against Trump. You judge a man by his enemies. The church has a decision to make. Are you with America or are you with the globalists?

We are in the midst of a revolution and can't even recognize it. We have an opportunity to shake of the shackles and Make The Church Great Again.

I wonder if the original John The Baptist would get the vote of the Religious Right? He would pass the "morality" test, but he would offend many by his tone and his tactics? Man up Christians!!

Wipe the smile off of your face. We are at war. Who can best lead the revolution...Joel Osteen or Donald Trump? Many church goers are so heavenly focused that they are no earthly good.

Two crime families running America for 30 years

Some of you may not be old enough to remember when Jesse Jackson chanted the warning to "Stay out the Bushes." (I think he left out "of.") But America would be better off today if we had heeded his warning.

Yes my friends. All Americans would be better off today if the Bush family had never entered into politics. Two presidents and a wanna-be-third later it is obvious that Jesse Jackson gave us fair warning in the 2000 election when he told us to STAY OUT THE BUSHES.

Americans love royalty. Perhaps it is in our DNA from the days when our ancestors lived across the pond, but for some weird reason Americans today still love their leaders to be name brands. Ever since 1980 whenever election season rolls around you can count on one thing for sure...there will be either a Bush or a Clinton fighting for the big chair at the head of the table.

Bush, Clinton twice, Bush Jr. twice, almost Hillary, then almost Jeb and Hillary in the ultimate episode of Family Feud...in a nation of over 300 million people how is it that two families have dominated the election cycles for over 30 year? I am sure that we have all heard of nepotism but the same two clans fighting over the White house for a period of nearly three decades is a little suspect to me.

It is not at all unusual for religion to produce "heirs" to the throne. In almost a rite of passage we see "ministers" hand their "ministries" over to their chosen child...rattle them off...Billy and Franklin Graham, John and Joel Osteen, Charles and Andy Stanley, Jerry and Jonathan Falwell, Robert and Robert Jr. and Carol Schuler...to name a few.

But religion, for the most part, has become Big Business so it is understandable that Christian ministers would like to keep the ministry business in the family. Leadership has its perks.

But the political world should be different. There is something seriously amiss when two crime families are able to build a political machine that controls the entire nation. Heck, there has been more turnover in the Mafia leadership than there has been in American politics in the past 30 years.

That's what they call them you know...machines...the Clinton machine against the Bush machine. Both families are mob families who sit atop of our nation's Hegelian dialectic that masquerades as a political system.

And most Americans are too darned brainwashed to see what is going on. Eighteen months ago it was almost a given that the 2016 election would be between Jeb Bush and Hillary Clinton. If it had not been for the ascension of Donald trump that is exactly what we would be seeing today.

There is no real difference in the political parties. I think Americans are finally starting to awaken to that fact. Although the parties may appear to hold different positions on the issues there can be no doubt that there really is very little difference between the way that they actually govern.

Some talking heads call them the political class. Others call them the pundit class or the ruling class, but the fact remains that they are all a part of the same family business and that business is government. Except government isn't supposed to be a business, but as both the Clintons and the Bushes have shown us it is a very good way to get rich. "Public service" has become very lucrative.

I came across this picture and checked the veracity of it to see if it was faked. It wasn't. This is Bill Clinton, George Bush, and George Wallace at an event in 1983. Thirty three years ago they were one big happy family.

The Republican Party was destroyed by the Bush family. Pappy Bush betrayed the Reagan revolution when he famously uttered "read my lips...no new taxes"...and then raised them. "W" gave us "compassionate conservatism", expanded the growth of government, and opened the door to the loss of freedoms through The Patriot Act. The leftward tilt the Bush Machine brought to the Republican Party gave us full blown socialism in the person of Hussein Obama.

The Clinton's destroyed the morality of this nation. They made lying under oath and adultery normal and acceptable practices. Because of Bubba, I, and millions of parents like me, had to explain to our teenage daughter what oral sex was. That single act ushered in the total desecration of the office of the President.

The Bush family and the Clinton families are tight friends. Barbara Bush once said that Bubba was like "another son" to her. Recently, several members of this Royal Republican family have made it known that they are with Hillary. So much for party loyalty. GW once famously said that “you are either with us or you are with the terrorists.” Their lack of loyalty is astonishing. I guess we see which team he and his family are playing on.

The Reagan Revolution gave us “Morning in America” and it has been getting rapidly darker ever since. Pappy Bush’s Presidency led to Bob Dole, GW Bush, John McCain, Willard Romney and nearly JEB! Maybe Donald Trump can blow the entire family business up.

We should have listened to Jesse Jackson. America would have been better off if we had “stayed out the Bushes.”

Has mighty Casey struck out?

I received an email yesterday from an acquaintance named Lou. He mentioned exactly what I had said to a friend of mine after the debate Monday night. I took the prodding of Lou’s email as a sign that I should write about it.

Most Americans are familiar with the story of Casey at the Bat but for those of you who are not here is a brief refresher.

After watching Donald Trump’s performance against Hillary I couldn’t help but chuckle. Most of the pundits the next day were lamenting how The Donald had blown it. How he was not on the top of his game. How he missed so many opportunities to knock the ball out of the park.

“He is just setting her up,” I said to one of my friends Tuesday morning. “Don’t worry. He has two more chances to hit

“What do you mean?” He said. “He could have put a hurtin’ on her if he had only swung back a couple of times. Some of those questions were lobbed balls that he could have crushed.”

“Did you ever play baseball?” I asked him. “I mean beyond little league, did you ever play serious ball?”

“Just through high school,” he admitted. “I wasn’t a very good hitter. I could field and throw OK, but I had a hard time with the bat.”

“Well, I played clear through college,” I half bragged. “I actually wanted to be centerfielder for the New York Yankees. But the higher up the ladder you go the better the competition. To make it to the Big Leagues you have to be pretty special.”

“And your point is?” he questioned.

“Donald trump has made it to the Big Leagues. Although this may be his first rodeo in regards to politics it is not the first high stakes, high pressure event that he has been in. Heck, can you imagine some of the mobsters he has had to deal with in his business dealings? Trump ain’t no little leaguer.”

“Go on.”

“I’ve watched my share of great hitters over the years and one thing I can tell you about the great ones is that they are not afraid to ‘take’ a pitch. In fact, I have often heard coaches tell the good hitters not to be anxious...to take a pitch so that you can get a read of the pitcher...his delivery...the spin of his ball...make sure you hit the pitch YOU want and not the pitch that the pitcher wants you to hit. ‘Sit on one’ was the expression we used. Don’t swing at the first thing he throws.”

“I think I see where you are going,” my buddy said.

"Hillary threw a lot of 'junk' at Donald the other night and I am sure it was tempting for him to come out of his shoes swinging for the fences. But he showed a great deal of discipline. He waited on his pitch. The object of the game is to win...not to swing at every pitch that looks good. Donald, like Casey, knows that he still has at least 2 more swings that he can take before the game is over."

"So, do you think he was fooled? Is that why he didn't swing?"

"Of course not. He is a good hitter. He is biding his time...waiting patiently for his pitch. You see, Hillary threw every pitch she had during his first at bat. Donald now has seen all of her pitches. He knows what her curve ball looks like, which ones are fast balls, which ones are change ups, and most importantly, which ones are sucker pitches. He studied her the other night. He has two more swings before this at bat is over. He is going to be waiting on the next hanging curve that she serves up."

"Yeah, but just like Mighty Casey he is running out of swings. Hillary may not serve up so many 'soft balls' in the next debate," Tim said.

"Are you kidding me? She showed everything she had the other night. Her handlers convinced her that she needed to strike Trump out on Monday and they taught her some new pitches hoping he would swing and miss at them. Plus, he knew that he had a home town umpire behind the plate and he wanted to see how the umpire was going to call the balls and strikes. I think The Donald has Hillary right where he wants her."

"Why do you say that?"

"Because she showed him her entire pitching repertoire last Monday night. Her goal was to strike him out. His goal was to feel her out. She even served up some spit balls to him but he refused to get flustered. Like a good hitter, Trump was waiting on his pitch."

“I sure hope you are right, Coach Dave,” he retorted. “Just like Casey, Trump has a lot of people counting on him. There will be no joy in Mudville if he strikes out.”

“The Donald is dumb like a fox. He has spent his entire life studying his opponents. He is a master of spotting the opponents weakness. Hillary and her accomplices may think they have him figured out, but Donald understands that the most devastating home run is the one hit in the last inning. He has taken his time, and she will have no time to recover from the blow he is about to deliver. His next at bat will create a momentum that Hillary will be unable to stop”

“What if he swings and misses?”

“Well, that is why they play the game. If he can't hit Hillary's soft balls out of the park then he has no business being President in the first place. They should bar women and children from watching the next debate. It won't be pretty. Mighty Casey won't strike out.”

Hillary is toast – people are waking up

Hillary Clinton is toast. You can believe the lying media and their lying polls if you want to but Hillary Clinton is toast. She will not make it to the November election.

But the issue is not her health...although her health is certainly an issue. But her health is not the reason she is finished. Don't be fooled. Keep your eye on the ball.

Over the past 20 years the Democrats have mastered the election process by cheating, double voting, and control of the electronic voting machines. Can you explain to me why the Republicans win big in off-year elections and get smoked in the Presidential race? Could it be that it is easier to coordinate the hacking of a NATIONAL election than it is 435 different congressional races across the land? After Obama won in 2012 pundits were convinced that we might never see a Republican president ever again.

But the Democrat Party got caught with a severe case of overconfidence. From the day Obama took the oath in 2013 Hillary Clinton became President in waiting. The Democrat machine had the rigging of elections so fine tuned that they didn't even open up the primary process to anyone but Hillary. Oh, Bernie did catch a little too much fire for the oligarchs, but they had rigged the process to guarantee Hillary would be the nominee no matter who the people wanted.

But it didn't really matter to either party who won the general election because the men behind the curtain knew that they would be able to pull the strings of whichever candidate eventually made it to the White House. The political class had a vested interest in making sure that no "outsider" made it to the final dance. They knew that NO REPUBLICAN would be able to beat Hillary...but even if one did they were safe in the knowledge that it would be one of "their" boys who eventually took the oath of office. Sorry, Ted Cruz included.

That is, until Donald Trump entered the fray. If you remember, his candidacy was a joke to most of the talking heads as he began his slow march through the Republican primaries. One by one he knocked out 16 opponents to find himself they only one standing at the end of the day. As his success became more and more inevitable the political class became more and more apoplectic. They had not counted on an outsider seizing the crown and they doubled down on their attempt to kick him off of the team.

But he had started a revolution. Everything he did defied conventional wisdom and no matter how much the media attacked him, and no matter how they tried to doctor the polls, the Trump Train turned into a locomotive. Barring some unforeseen event, (don't write that off), his election, despite what they try to tell you, is inevitable. And the political class knows it.

That's why Hillary is toast. But please keep your eye on the ball. The oligarchs are simply cutting their losses. This isn't about Hillary's health...that is her bailout excuse...it is about the Clinton Foundation and the dirty palms surrounding it.

An honest investigation of the Clinton's would reveal the most massive political corruption in the history of the world. Clinton money has been spread across Washington like Chemtrails on a clear June afternoon. Everyone has been compromised...congressmen, senators, judges, FBI, military, news media...the Clinton tentacles run into the deepest crevices in DC. Why do you think no one ever holds them accountable? Very few people in power do not have Clinton-Blood on their hands.

But the criminals and their prostitutes weren't worried about being exposed because Hillary was going to be in the White House and she would use the power and influence of the office to bury any investigations that might expose the corruption. That is why so few Republicans have come out in support of Trump. They know the consequences of crossing the Clintons and the dangers that a Trump Presidency might harbor for the both sides of the aisle. For most of them, NEVER TRUMP was a matter of self-protection.

But the worm finally turned when Hillary uttered her "intolerables" statement. Just like Romney's 47% statement in 2012 this was the self-inflicted wound that would lead to a serious bleed-out. That statement was the real collapse that led to Hillary's more public collapse on the streets of New York.

And her collapse in New York was a staged event. No security official in his right mind would leave Mrs. Clinton propped up by a metal pole while she waited on her ride. The gig was up. Somebody wanted the world to see that Hillary was sick. She will now bow out of the race, because of "health" reasons, which will save her image and engender sympathy for this "brave public servant."

You, however, must keep your eye on the ball.

Hillary will step aside and the media will fawn over her and lament how sad it is that such "an historically qualified" woman was so cruelly robbed of the Presidency by a twist of fate...the health issue. We will be served up TV specials on her, the media will fawn over her, and she will suck every ounce of sympathy possible out of the American sheeple.

Harry Reid, Nancy Pelosi, and the entire mainstream media will call for all investigations against her and her husband to stop. How could anyone be so cruel that they would bring an investigation against a sick, caring public servant? Let her die in peace you evil Republicans. Popular opinion will rise and President Obama, appeasing the public, will grant a Presidential pardon to the Clinton's for any misdeeds they may have committed.

Hillary is toast. Her medical condition provides a face-saving exit for her and all future investigations of the Clinton's are wiped clean faster than her non-secure server. In that sense she will be the greatest martyr in the history of Washington, DC. Her sickness will save thousands of necks. They will name a government building after her as she, Bill and Chelsea ride off in the sunset on a covered wagon filled with money. Hillary falls on her sword and all the criminals go free. The double reverse is being run to perfection.

I am afraid we have taken our eyes off of the ball.

Always shoot the dog you know

You may find this commentary a little bit unusual but I think there is a political message in it. One thing I have learned in the past several months is that the fastest way to make enemies in this demonically charged environment is to come out in support of a certain political candidate.

I have learned a lot about some people that I have always considered friends. In all of my time in the cultural wars I have never seen anything as polarizing as the current political climate.

I would have alienated less people if I had announced that I was gay rather than leak out the fact that I was casting a vote for Trump. That is why I know the polls cannot be trusted. Most Christians are afraid to voice an opinion on Presidential candidates for fear of the backlash that may come their way from those that they consider friends.

Let me share a story a friend shared with me the other day. It really hit home with me. It may not have the same impact on you, but I'll throw it on the computer screen for your consideration.

I ran into a second cousin of mine the other day that lives in the Appalachian Mountain region. I would not consider him a "hill jack", even though he lives among some of them. But the backwoods living has made him a little rougher than the average guy and the country living has exposed him to things that my softer brand of living does not entail.

Dave, I had the damndest thing happen to me last week. My wife had taken our car and headed into town to do some grocery shopping while I gathered up our two young sons and went off into the woods to do a little shootin. As the sun began to set, the darkness began to creep in a little earlier than usual because we found ourselves on the low side of the hill. Not wanting to get off of the path, we wandered our way onto the township road that runs in front of our house.

As fate would have it, my boys (both under 6) and I were lucky enough to have popped out of the woods about 5 minutes before my wife came driving down the road. Although our walk wouldn't have been a long one we were happy to jump into the car with her as she honked the horn and pulled in alongside of us. I threw the boys into the backseat, placed my ammo vest on the floor, slipped my shotgun between my legs, and jumped into the front seat alongside my wife.

Within a couple of moments we turned into the driveway and I hopped out of the car, gun in hand, to get the mail out of the mailbox as my wife pull ahead and put the car in the garage. As I walked up the stony driveway I noticed something unusual on the porch. Immediately the hair stood up on the back of my neck as I realized that there were two growling dogs staring at me from the steps.

I yelled a warning to my wife and told her to stay in the garage with the boys. The darkness was dripping in over the hill and it made recognition of the animals hard for me to discern. Luckily, I had the shotgun in my hands but quickly remembered that I had only one shell left in the gun.

That is one of the scary parts about living in the country. Folks tend to let their animals roam free and it is not unusual for a potentially-diseased animal to come wandering through the yard. But this time it was different. I couldn't make out any distinguishing characteristics of either animal but it was clear to me that they were not on the porch to protect my family and me.

"Honey," I called out to my wife. "I can't see very well. How many animals are there and do you recognize them."

"I only see two of them Billy. But I do recognize one of them. The one on the right is the pit bull that belongs to the neighbors down the road. I would recognize him anywhere. But I don't know about the other one. He looks pretty mean and determined...but I don't think I have ever seen him before."

"Harbaugh's dog, you mean? Isn't he the dog that folks have been complaining about because he has been destroying everything in the neighborhood? Didn't he get into the Dunphee's chicken coop and kill all of their chickens last spring? And isn't he the one that chased the Estes' sheep all over tar nation until he killed a couple of them? And don't the Harbaugh's have a sign in their yard warning folks about a vicious dog?"

"Yes, Honey. I am pretty sure that is their dog."

"But what about the other one? Do you recognize him Sheila? Do you know anything about him? He looks just as mean as the Harbaugh's pit bull. I only have one shell left in my gun and I want to make sure that I don't waste it."

So there I stood, Dave. I was scared as I have ever been. I wasn't worried about me but I was panicked for what those dogs could do to my children. I only had one shell in my gun and I had to make sure that I didn't waste it on the wrong dog.

I crouched down and slowly lowered my gun. I said a brief prayer and I shot and killed the son-of-a-gun. When that dog dropped to the ground the other one turned and ran like a rabbit. I walked up, drug the dog off of the porch and escorted my wife and sons into the house.

My wife and I sat down with the boys inside the house and shared a quick prayer of thanks to the Lord for His protection. My wife's deep blue eyes looked right through me and she asked me a piercing question.

"Billy, how did you know which one to shoot? Both of them seemed capable of tearing the boys apart..."

"It was spilt-second Sheila. I made a very simple decision. As soon as I knew which one was the Harbaugh's dog and you reminded me of all of the destruction he had done throughout the hollow, my decision became very simple. Either way I knew that I was going to have to deal with both of the dogs but the last thing I wanted to do was deal with the dog that had a long record of destruction.

We may have to deal with that other dog later on, but I knew the Harbaugh's dog was vicious. I knew what he was capable of. I simply shot the dog I knew."

Hmmm. Shoot the dog you know, huh?

Thanks Billy.

Standing up by sitting down

Let me say right up front that I couldn't care less what Colin Kaepernick thinks. I couldn't care less what he does, what he believes, or who he promotes. For too long we have equated fame with wisdom. The fact that he has been successful at the highest levels of his chosen profession means nothing to me when evaluating his opinion.

The same goes for Barbara Streisand, George Clooney, Michael

Moore, Susan Sarandon and a host of not-mentioned celebrities. The fact that they have reached the top of their profession does not qualify them as experts on the greater issues of the day.

I'm not even sure that I want to "be like Mike" when it comes to how I live my life and the values upon which my life is anchored. I learned that lesson when my mother permitted me at age 8 to eat straight from the spinach can in the hopes that it would do for me what it always seemed to do for Popeye. (BTW...can you imagine in today's culture giving a child's cartoon star a nickname based on a physical deformity?) But I digress.

Celebrities have instant credibility with the masses because of what they do. I'm sorry, but the fact that Bono can carry a tune has nothing to do with his ability to speak the truth. Celebrities, for the most part, are admired for who what they can do and not for who they are. I bet Leo De-Crap-rio is a major dolt. He has to be to take some of the positions he takes. Those who look up to him admire his ability to act...to "be someone else" and have no idea who he really IS.

I bet he doesn't even eat spinach from a can.

So the latest brouhaha about Kaepernick's refusal to stand for the National Anthem is all a big waste of time to me. Once I heard what he had to say I understood completely why he did what he did. The dude is brainwashed. He has followed all of the BLM crap and has very little understanding of the real world. Does anybody out there remember how uninformed you were as a 26 year old? Heck, I voted for Teddy Kennedy in the 1976 primary. You are what you know and Kaepernick doesn't know very much about what is really going on.

Unlike so many folks I see in press reports, Kaepernick's refusal to stand for the National Anthem did not cause my blood pressure to go up one tick. The internet is full of people burning his jersey...calling him names...telling him to leave the country...full of media driven outrage. The media loved it as it played into their "discrimination" story line and their desire to show how "unfair" America is.

This may surprise you, but there is a part of me that agrees with the guy. I think it is good to see people stand up by sitting down. I wish more people would get teed off enough to protest something worthy. My bone with Kaepernick is not that he refused to stand for the Anthem, but that he was doing it for the wrong reason. I think there are a lot of reasons to stand up by sitting down. I wish more people would do it. I just believe the false narrative of Black Lives Matters is a bogus reason to throw away a career.

But here is where Pencilhead Paperneck made his mistake. What do you do when you are asked to "pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republican for which it stands" when the Republic no longer stands for what it was founded to represent? How do you honor the good and rebuke the bad in a country that has lost her way?

Kaepernick was right to stand up by sitting down. He simply was doing it for the wrong reasons.

Imagine this picture. What if Tim Tebow, when he was starting QB for the Denver Broncos, was seen sitting on the bench as the Stars and Stripes were hoisted over Mile High Stadium? Can you imagine the furor with which the media would descend upon this very public Christian man panting out questions as to why he refused to honor America?

What would have been the reaction of the national media and social media networks if Tebow had simply said:

"I love my country but I am ashamed of what she has become. I honor our veterans and all of those who daily do all that they can to make America a better place for everyone. We are a nation where millions fight to make life better for others and

I salute and honor their selfless sacrifice.

I love the American soldiers and appreciate their willingness to lay down their lives for their friends. I honor their service and their willingness to keep us safe. But I hate the military complex and the idea that America is the policeman of the world. I don't know how to separate the two...I stand up for the soldiers but sit down for the pentagon war machine.

But our nation is no longer faithful to her creed as the land of the free. Today our government sanctions the slaughter of tiny pre-born Americans. We imprison our children in Godless public schools, and steal the hard-earned wages of individual Americans through an unjust and unrighteous system of taxation.

We have become a nation where justice is no longer blind and the powerful and politically connected play by a separate set of rules. We burden the next generation with mountains of debt that they will never be able to repay, and we fail to honor Almighty God by rejecting His standards and precepts calling legal what He has already determined to be unlawful."

I love my country but I disagree with my government. When I stand up for the Anthem I do it to honor the great Americans all across the nation. But I sit down for the likes of Obama, Clinton, Pelosi, Reid, IRS, Federal Reserve, Department of Education, and US Supreme Court. When the Anthem plays I am not sure how I can show my disapproval while honoring the sacrifice of those who are deserving of honor.

I believe in standing up by sitting down. Colin Kaepernick's mistake was sitting down for the wrong reasons. Perhaps we should ask ourselves why we so blindly stand and honor a Godless, out of control, American government.

Donate here. Thanks for caring.

They are swamped in Louisiana

It seems like disaster is striking one after the other in rapid fashion. No sooner do the floods in West Virginia slip into our memory holes than Mother Nature throws another tantrum in different section of the country.

Actually, I don't think it is Mother Nature who is angry...I believe it is Father God. We are rapidly coming to the realization that God has more disaster than the government has relief.

Just six weeks ago we asked you to help with our efforts in Clendenin, West Virginia and you responded graciously. Last week we made our second delivery of bread products to the Clendenin area. Your donations enabled us to deliver nearly $60,000 in FREE BREAD. No middle men...no government red tape...church to church...person to person...no big "CEO" salaries and benefits.

We are asking for your help again as we head to the Baton Rouge area. But this outreach will be different. The area affected is massive in scale.

Many say the devastation is greater than Hurricane Katrina...which the area still has not recovered from. But the IMMEDIATE need is simple...everyday living supplies. Diapers, milk, cleaning products, ice, hot food, hammers, nails, bleach...lot's of bleach...imagine if EVERYTHING you owned was gone.

This is our chance to BE THE CHURCH to our neighbors in need.

It is easy to look at the devastation and simply admit that our little efforts would be futile. But there are individual lives involved and it is better to do something than to do nothing. We will not be driving 20 hours with a truck load of bread, but rather, putting much needed supplies into the hands of PASTORS...ON THE GROUND...supplying the needs of families in their communities.

We believe it is the job of the CHURCH to meet the needs of the people...and it is time that we encourage people to look to JESUS for their provision...not the Federal government. PLEASE HELP US MAKE A DIFFERENCE!!

Take one minute and watch the video. We have networked with our friend Pastor Dale Sochia in New Orleans who is working as a go-between with a group of Pastors in the flooded area. We want to put supplies in THEIR hands so that they can meet the needs of the people in THEIR communities. Not FEMA...not the Red Cross...not Obama...but man to man...church to church...are we our brother's keeper?

I will be leading a team with boots on the ground this weekend. If you would like to go with us simply drop me an email. We will provide a place to stay (bring a sleeping bag) and put food in your stomach. But you will be there to SERVE...

Can you swing a hammer? Can you make a sandwich? Can you say a prayer? Can you offer hope? Whatever you can do we will put you to work. Please come and join us. Perhaps your church would provide the gas for your trip? Maybe your Sunday school class would donate to help purchase supplies.

Our team will be heading south on Thursday Aug 25 and will serve on the ground Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. We will head home on Monday and we would love for you to join us. The experience will change your life.

One of our Salt and Light Brigade members is driving a food truck from which we hope to feed the volunteers who have rushed to Louisiana to help. We plan on serving over 4000 meals this weekend.

In addition, our crew will spend most of our time pulling up carpet, wiping down walls, ripping out dry-wall and encouraging those who have lost everything. Authorities say that 80% of the 40,000 homes affected have no flood insurance.

We hate asking for money. That is one of the things that give Christian ministries such a bad name. We wish there was some other way. But our friends need our help and we have no one to turn to but you. We have a ministry but we are not a “church.” YOU are our congregation. We know most of you can’t go, but we can. You can make a difference by helping us put “boots on the ground.” Everyone can donate something and no gift is too small.

With the devastation so great “what difference, at this point, will it make” Hillary may be asking. Financially...probably not much. But showing Christian love to others in their time of need will go a long way in helping the victims climb the huge mountain that lies before them.

Many of you have helped us in the past. You know we deliver on our promises. Our friends in Louisiana need our help.

Thanks for caring.

Who cares what they say

I am so sick of the propaganda. I am so sick of the spin. I am so sick of what passes for news in America today.

Just because someone happens to make it onto the television does not make them an expert. Have you ever asked yourself “how did this talking head get this gig on television?”

“What makes him an expert? Why am I supposed to believe anything I hear on the any ‘news’ program?”

I saw a clip of David Gergen on CNN the other night. Can someone tell me why I should give a rip about anything he says? Who made him an expert? Am I supposed to believe that he is unbiased and doesn't have friends in the upper echelons of the establishment of both parties?

Who signs his paycheck? Who selected him to be an “expert” on CNN? I think these are some pretty important questions.

It is all a game. They are playing us for fools. Anyone with a modicum of common sense knows that Hillary is not more popular than Trump. She is yesterday's news. She is a hag. Most men I know cannot stand the Nurse Ratchet similarities that she exudes.

They are setting us up. They want to convince us that she is leading when she is probably 20 points behind. But if they can convince us that the race is close then they might be able to steal the election through voter fraud.

Bush didn't beat Gore and Obama didn't beat Romney.

They just tell us that they did because the “polls” showed that the race was close.

But the polls are rigged. The polls are designed to convince you that the race is close. They are not used to show what is really going on but what they want you to believe is going on. Fair and balanced...

Really? Fair and balanced? Really? Just tell me the friggin truth. There are no two sides to the truth. The Truth is not fair and balanced. The Truth is the Truth. Public opinion will never change the truth.

So the media networks flood us with their “experts.” The “experts” are hand selected to drive an agenda. It is all an illusion. It is all propaganda. They are playing us for fools. Homos anchor the news.

I didn't watch one second of either the RNC or the DNC conventions. Not one stinkin second. I couldn't care less what the speakers had to say and I certainly couldn't care less how the experts spun the whole thing.

I have not turned on the TV since the Cleveland Cavaliers won the NBA championship. That was June 19th. The TV in our home has not been on since that game ended.

It may not EVER be on again.

More and more of us are coming out of the matrix. More and more of us are beginning to understand just how the game is played. More and more of us have decided that we will not allow our minds to be poisoned by the propaganda that is spewing forth from all of the bought-and-paid-for-experts spewing their bought-and-paid-for-opinions on the bought-and-paid-for-media.

I am sick of it. I wish the election were tomorrow. I wish Americans would shake their freakin heads and wake up from the mind-controlled news that is trapping inside the left/right box that the media masters have tried to imprison them.

I am sick of it. I don't give a damn what they say. I'm not watching their stupid shows and I am not drinking their deadly Kool Aide. I m sick of the divide and conquer techniques currently being used to imprison the minds of the American people.

I couldn't care less what Don Lemon thinks. George Step-all-over-us is full of crap. Danna Brazille, Paul Begalla, The Five, Bill O'Reilly, Wolf Blitzer...has anyone seen Candy Crowley...get out of my freakin life and out of my freakin head.

Turn 'em off. Turn 'em all off. They are not giving you the news...they are manufacturing the news. They are tilting the new. They are altering the news. They are editing the news. They are creating the news.

They are all in on it. A two-card Monty. Limbaugh, Hannity, and Levin, verses Anderson Cooper, Rachel Madcow, and NBC, ABC, CBS...turn them all off. Disney owns ABC. Disney owns ESPN. Disney's leftist-influence would make Walt Disney blush.

Who cares what MSNBC Says? Why are you watching them? Who cares what Lester Holt or Katie Couric says? Do you really believe they are independent? Do you really believe they are telling you the truth? Do you really think Megan Kelly is not controlled by those who pay here massive salary?

Turn them all of. Let your mind clear.

Think Man, think. So much of what they are telling you isn't true. So much of what you believe is not true.

The courts are lying. The churches are lying. The media is lying. The Government is lying.

Stop repeating the talking points that some talking head injected into your brain.

It is all a scam. It is all a sham. God gave you a brain. Use it.

Turn them off. Turn them all off. Think for yourself.

Our nation is at risk. Lies and liars are ruling the day.

I couldn't care less what some expert on the TV says. Stop swallowing their slop.

Seek the truth...it is all that can set you free...wake up while you still can.

Hillary will finish off what's left of America

I knew that when I wrote last week's column declaring that I was going to vote for Donald Trump that the reaction was probably going to be strong. But the push back was far more than I could ever have expected. Because of that I thought I would write a second column that might clarify some issues.

My Facebook page blew up and I became the whipping boy of the Never Trump crowd. It is hard to believe that I could raise such ire over a vote for President. I want you to know that I have not changed my mind, I am still going to vote for Donald Trump, but I would have felt better if I had worded it differently.

I am not so much voting FOR Donald Trump as I am voting against Hillary Clinton. To me it is not voting for the "lesser of two evils" as it is voting AGAINST the greater of two evils (Hillary and Bill). Permit me to explain.

But before I do, please feel free to vote your conscience. The purpose of last week's column was to point out how ALL of us compromise in the decisions that we make. It was not an attack about the conscience of the Never Trump folks. It was an attempt to point out that there are many things that we do, that if we were to look hard at, we would see requires a violation of conscience to do. Putting one's children in public schools is one of the examples I used. It would be hard to think of anything more dangerous to the spiritual condition of a young child that to place he/she in Caesar's indoctrination centers.

In my mind that is far more destructive than casting a vote for an unrepentant sinner as President. I didn't mean to imply the Never Trumpers were people who lacked integrity. I am sorry if that is how some of you took it. My point was, we are all forced with decisions of conscience everyday and that who one voted for was simply another of the choices that we all have to make.

Vote for whomever you want. As long as it satisfies YOUR conscience I am happy with that. You vote YOUR conscience and I'll vote MINE. I think we can still be friends after the November election.

But I look forward to voting AGAINST Hillary Clinton.

Let's stop right here for a minute. I am operating from the premise that either Hillary or Trump will be elected. Neither one would be my first choice...but one of them is going to win. Therefore I have decided I want my vote to COUNT...not just soothe my conscience. I am PROUDLY, and with a clear conscience VOTING AGAINST HILLARY. I believe that is a noble thing to do. Trump said he will eliminate the Johnson Amendment that was made law to muzzle the churches in 1954 (that's 501C3) folks. No presidential candidate from the past has ever done that before.

Bill and Hillary Clinton have done more to destroy the moral fiber of America than any couple to ever occupy the White House. Because of Bill Clinton I, and millions of parents just like me, had to explain to our children what oral sex was. Bill Clinton lied under oath. He lost his law license and his tom-cat behavior did more to lower the standards of President than any candidate in history. And he got away with it. Have you forgot Waco and Janet Reno? With Hillary it'll be much worse.

The public oath is not something to take lightly. When our elected officials break their oath it is called a HIGH CRIME which is determined not by the crime committed but by the position of the person who commits the crime. Any crime an elected official commits is a HIGH Crime because of the authority of his office. The HIGHER the office the HIGHER the crime. President is the highest office and we should have the least tolerance of a crime committed by the person holding that sacred trust. Our elect officials MUST be held to a higher standard. They aren't.

It would appear that Donald Trump has had instances of great moral failures in his life. I understand why that is offensive to people. It is offensive to me. But Donald Trump has not committed any of those moral failings as an ELECTED official who has taken an oath to uphold the Constitution. His past is not what I would desire in a President, but at least his sins were against himself and individuals rather than against the people he was sworn to protect and defend.

Hillary is another story. Not only has she had some shady dealings in her personal life but she has committed violations of the law WHILE HOLDING PUBLIC OFFICE. I won't replay her dastardly deeds here...we all know what they are...but no one has held her accountable. The current President hasn't. The Congress hasn't. The Justice Department hasn't. NO ONE has held her accountable.

Well, WE THE PEOPLE can. Instead of griping and moaning about how she has gotten away with all of her crimes we have the opportunity to hold her accountable by making sure that she and her husband never hold public office again. We the people, by merely casting a vote AGAINST these public miscreants, can banish them to the ash heap of American history. It is what they deserve. I will be honored to cast my vote for such a noble cause.

"Trump is no better," I hear many of you saying. You may be right. He might be a disaster. But I know this; either Hillary or The Donald will be living at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue next January. I wish it were not the case. But barring something unforeseen, no one else has a chance to win. I am not voting out of fear. I am voting with a purpose.

I don't know what kind of President Donald Trump will be but there sure is a long track record of violations of the public trust by Bill and Hillary Clinton. What will I say to my children and grandchildren if I had the opportunity to rid America of this evil couple and chose not to do so?

Vote your conscience. That's what I'll be doing. And I think it would be a God-honoring thing to bring JUSTICE to Bill and Hillary and rid America of this blight on our nation. A vote against the Clintons is a vote to bust the boil from Arkansas that has been oozing for long enough. They deserve the boot.

The American people ARE the Lower Magistrate. How can we expect our elected officials to remove the rotten fruit when we won't do it when we have the chance?

Hey! Hey! Ho! Ho! Bill and Hillary have got to go!!

I'll be proudly voting to remove them from our American government. I can't wait to do it. It is the right thing to do.

I am voting for Donald Trump

There I said it. After much soul searching I have decided what I am going to do. I imagine I am about to hear from a bunch of you about what a "sell-out" I am. You know how it goes...how can a REAL Christian EVER vote for a strip club owner? How could I possibly be so unprincipled as to cast my vote for such a quasi-pagan?

Please, if that describes you, save us both some time and don't bother to email me. I won't read it and I certainly won't respond to it. My email has a handy delete button on it and I will send your advice straight to the trash bin.

If I were to follow the advice of Ted Cruz and "vote my conscience" I would pull the lever for Tom Hoefling. Tom is a good Christian man who shares my values and would do his best to conduct the office in a way that would honor God and respect the American people. But merely "voting my conscience" is complicated

Tom will not be President. I may feel better about my vote...clear conscience...but either Donald Trump or Hillary Clinton will be the next President. As much as I wish that wasn't so, that is the reality of the election of 2016.

Both parties are evil. BOTH parties. Christians are as much slaves to the Republicans as blacks are to the Democrats. Both parties play their "constituencies" for fools. If the truth were to be told we would find out that the Republican Party has advanced Christian values in much the same way that the Democrat Party has advanced the cause of inner city blacks.

Both parties talk a good game but neither actually fights for what they tell us they care about. They care about themselves, their own personal advancement, and the advancement of those who are in their club. Both Republicans and Democrats vote for their party. OK?

Why is it that Republicans can see how the Democrats play blacks for fools but can't see how the Republicans play Christians for fools? How many years has the Republican Party been "pro-life" while abortions continue unabated? How long has the Republican Party been for "traditional values" while traditional values continue to lose ground politically?

Just how stupid are "conservative" voters? Do they really believe that the Republican Party is really going to deliver on the social issues that they feel are so crucial? Perhaps I am wrong, but didn't a bunch of Christians recently endorse, vote for, and contribute financially for the election of Mormon Mitt Romney who was not only not a "traditional" Christian but a man who was actually the father of Obama Care and same-sex marriage in Massachusetts?

Planned Parenthood not only murders babies but they sell their body parts. What has the Pro-life Republican Party done about it? You know the answer. Not a dadgum thing. But if they could get just one more "conservative" judge maybe they can move on it.

Forty-three years of baby killing. Pro-life Republicans haven't done anything but speak at Pro-life marches. The baby murder goes on unabated. But yet, Christian purists can't vote for Trump...give me a freakin break. The Republican Party is evil. Haven't you figured that out yet?

Speaking of violating one's conscience...every time you make a choice in life you are voting...consider these "votes."

I wonder how many of these Never Trumpers send their children to the public schools where everything they want their children to believe is destroyed by the anti-Christ agenda in the government indoctrination centers. Their vote is "sacred" but their children's education is not? Why don't they vote their conscience and home school their kids? Why doesn't their conscience bother them on educational choice?

I wonder how many of these Pro-lifers continue to pay their taxes to a Federal beast that funds the slaughter of the unborn. Why don't they "vote their conscience" and refuse to pay Federal taxes? Why don't they withhold their church tithes from churches where the pastor won't boldly fight for life? Why don't they withdraw their support of denominations that support homosexuality and homo-marriage? What happened to voting their conscience?

How many of these same folks will refuse to watch NBA basketball games next year now that the NBA has decided to openly support the LGBTQ agenda? How many will stop using All State Insurance, Coca Cola and other sodomy-supporting businesses? How many will stop paying union dues to the OEA, AFL-CIO and all of the public servant employment unions? Will they vote their conscience then?

I wonder how many who are so holy and righteous in regards to their vote will forgo drinking Starbucks Coffee, watching Hollywood movies, or plugging in to Microsoft, Apple, or God-forsaken Disney? How many have dishonored their marriage vows, watched porn, or looked the other way while their church ushers in "New Age" seeker-sensitive Christianity? How is their "voting" record on these issues?

Trump is not a Christian. OK...that's your opinion. But what in a Devil's hell do you think about Hillary? Do you actually want me to believe that if you were forced to roll the dice that a Trump Presidency would be worse than Hellery? Never in the history of the American political system has there been a greater miscreant in office than Jezebel Clinton. If you had the chance to keep her out of office don't you think that would be a noble thing to do?

History will bear out the fact that no couple in American History did more to poison the morality of Americans than Bill and Hillary Clinton. Both are proven liars...while holding office...and I will do ANYTHING to drive them from the public arena...including voting for Donald Trump.

But your conscience won't let you vote for him, huh? You are too pure in how you make decisions, huh? Voting for Trump would be a sin, right?

You must have gone to public schools...and still send your children there.

I will vote my conscience...as I hope you do as well. It is time to stop selectively applying when our conscience is worthy of listening to.

If my vote helps throw Hillary on the ash heap I think that would be an honorable thing. I'm voting against the Clintons. Kicking them down the highway is something I would take great pride in.

There are not enough handcuffs

America is on fire.

I don't know how else to explain it. Except for the sex-industry I don't know if there is anything that we can say that Americans are good at.

Every single aspect of our culture is burning. We can stick our collective heads in the sand and pretend that everything is going great...but we all know that is a lie. From the White House to the Church House, and the school house to your house our nation lies convulsing in confusion.

The utter chaos that is playing out before us should not come as a surprise. The old saw that one "reaps what one sows" has never been more accurate than it is today. Violence breeds violence. Hatred breeds hatred. Bloodshed chases after bloodshed and racism breeds racism.

The Scriptures warn us that "because lawlessness will abound the love of many will wax cold." Lawlessness leads to hatred; hatred leads to violence; violence leads to bloodshed; and bloodshed leads to death. Yes, my friends, love is waxing cold all across the amber waves of grain.

Take this as a warning...it is only going to get worse. A rebellious nation has released a spirit of rebellion across this land that has targeted those who are charged with upholding the law. As we are about to discover there are not enough handcuffs to restrain a man who's heart has disconnected from the Law Giver. We have rejected the Creator and His immutable standards and now bloodshed is knocking on our doors.

President Eisenhower warned us, "Law and force cannot change a man's heart."

John Adams in a speech to the military in 1798 warned his fellow countrymen stating, "We have no government armed with power capable of contending with human passions unbridled by morality and religion . . . Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other."

Robert Winthrop, Founding Father, "Men, in a word, must necessarily be controlled either by a power within them or by a power without them; either by the Word of God or by the strong arm of man; either by the Bible or by the bayonet."

American needs a heart transplant. There are not enough handcuffs to restrain the rebellion that has been loosed on this nation.

I was a child of the 60's and even though those times were also tumultuous it was a time when nearly every home on the block shared a common set of core values. Not everyone went to church, that is true. But every home and every school taught the same standard of right and wrong. I vividly remember coming home and lamenting to my mother stories of one of my constantly-in-trouble classmates.

“Well Davy,” my mother told me. “You have to remember that his parents are divorced and that his mother rarely takes him to church.”

Maybe every home didn't have a white picket fence, but every home did have a set of the 10 Commandments posted on the refrigerator...and so did the school house.

Multi-culturalism, which is the nasty step-child of atheistic Humanism, has destroyed this country. As Michael Savage so powerfully states, a nation that doesn't have a common border, language, and culture is no nation at all. America has become fractured and no amount of legislation is going to repair the broken skeleton.

There are not enough handcuffs in the world to restrain a man without internal controls.

I suppose it is pollyanic to believe that we could return to the “good old days” but it is folly to feel that another set of rules, and another round of government programs could make America great again. Everyone feels the sense of evil that is engulfing this nation but no one has the courage to propose the cure. We must return to Biblical morality in this nation.

Most American women are no longer virtuous nor are most men honorable. These traits are rarer than polio in the youth of America. As America chugs uphill well into the 2nd decade of the 21st Century it is obvious to all who will honestly look that our nation has lost her way.

We are all aware that de Tocqueville wrote that “America was great because America was good.” But it is time to admit that because America is no longer good no single man and certainly no political power can ever make America great again.

In 1863 President Lincoln declared a national day of prayer and fasting. In his proclamation he stated:

And whereas, it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history: that those nations only are blessed whose God is Lord:

de Tocqueville warned us that if we ceased to be good we would cease to be great. Well, those days have come. God is no longer Lord in this nation. We have forgotten Him...we have rejected Him...we have rebelled against Him. Only a return to Him can ever make America great again.

In his writings de Tocqueville credited the flames of righteousness crackling from America's pulpits as the plumb line of the American greatness. Today the flame has gone out...the salt has lost his sting...and we are adrift in evil

The American church has failed us. It has failed this nation and it has failed God. Only the fires of a spiritual revival can hold back the wrath of God. This could be the churches finest hour. We must fight for a return to Christian values in this nation...a spiritual coup that will sweep this land...we must fan into flames the righteous embers lying on the floor of our altars. It is our only hope.

When will we realize that there are not enough handcuffs in America to bridle the unrestrained hearts of men?

The lying left

“You are of your father the Devil and the works of your father you will do.” Jesus Christ as recorded in the Book of John.

“I am the way THE TRUTH and the life...” Jesus Christ later on in John.

The political left is replete with liars. Watching the latest escapades of Hillary Clinton should cement that fact in the mind of anyone who is honest enough to admit the Truth.

But she is not alone in this assessment. Nearly every leader on the political Left has the same forked-tongue approach to governing. The truth is always an obstacle to them. Facts are not difficult things for them to deal with because they simply deny them or lie about them.

The particularly good liars make it into leadership. Go ahead...rattle off the names...Clinton, Clinton, Obama, Pelosi, Reid, Wasserman-Schultz...honesty is a negative in the anti-Christ party.

If Jesus is the Truth (His words) then anything than goes against Him is anti-Truth...or anti-Christ. Being anti-Christ is not the same as THE anti-Christ but we are told that the anti-Christ spirit is at work in the world. Read about it here.

Hold your britches a second. This is not an endorsement of the Satan-lite party, the Republicans, who certainly have their share of liars in their midst as well. But the “Right” does tend to lean more towards doing what is right and try and base their beliefs and actions on Truth. Republicans just aren’t as prolific or as accomplished as their lying comrades on the Left.

However, the Left’s entire foundation is built upon the denial of Truth. Heck, even the “pastors” that support them do so based on lies. Black pastors, and most social justice “ministers” are grounded in identity politics...race, gender, economics...placing the fealty to “their people” above their fealty to Christ.

The Apostle Paul, writing on behalf of the Holy Spirit stated that there are no divisions amongst believes in Jesus.

“There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus.” Even the idea of a “black” church or a “white” church is anti-Christ. Unfortunately, nearly 95% of black Americans deny this Biblical Truth and voted for a man based solely on the color of his skin.

But that is how the Left operates. They lie. They lie to people to get votes. They “have a form of godliness” but are miles away from the Truth. The Left serves the father of lies. They repeat his lies and deny the Truth.

A true Christian, black or white, cannot be racist. Racism is a lie straight from the father of lies. Jesus told us that His followers will not be deceived by the voice of the liar.

Jesus taught us that ALL children are a gift from God. He taught us that BEFORE He formed us in the womb He knew us. He told us that to choose life was always the right choice.

The Left teaches children are a burden. They teach our children that a fetus is not living. They teach us that death is a better choice than life.

The Bible, which is Word of God, teaches us that a marriage is a union between a man and a woman. It teaches us that we are to remain married until parted by death. We learn that the purpose of the marriage bed is procreation.

The left tells our children that marriage is based totally on love. They teach that marriage is repressive and a set of shackles to self-expression. They teach that the purpose of the bed is hedonistic pleasure.

The Bible teaches that we were all created in God's image. We learn from the Scriptures that we were fearfully and wonderfully made. God teaches that we are image bearers of the King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

The Left teaches that we are here merely as a result of chance. They declare that we are no different in value than a gorilla in the zoo. We are convinced that we are all different simply because of the color of our skin.

The Bible teaches that we are born into sin and that sin will ultimately lead to Spiritual death. The left teaches we are born with natural compulsions that cannot be controlled.

The Bible teaches there is a God and that we were designed to serve Him. The Left teaches that WE are gods and that we self-determine what is best so that we can serve ourselves.

Christians believe in freedom OF religion while the Left believes in freedom FROM religion. The Bible teaches us to use Truth as our determination of fact while the Left changes facts to destroy the Truth.

The Bible teaches that Truth is eternal and immutable. The Left teaches that Truth is an opinion and constantly changing.

Hillary clearly lied but it doesn't matter. Lying is a virtue on the Left. They simply change the Truth into a lie. They have called good evil and evil good. Who are you to judge, they ask us.

If you like your doctor you can keep your doctor. Cops are racist. The economy is booming. Abortion is healthcare. Opposition to sodomy is hate. Government is gracious and God is a bigot. Court decisions are laws. Two mommies are as good as a mommy and a daddy. We need more money for education.

Bruce Jenner is a woman. God is dead and the Supreme Court is alive!

“Christians” believe the liars...support the liars...vote for the liars. What hope is there for us?

The left is full of liars. You would think true children of God could recognize that.

The great awakening has started

This one takes a little bit of courage to write and a little bit of courage to read. Touching anything to do with the subject of “race” and especially the “white race” is the third rail of Christian ministry.

Yet, I am compelled to speak the Truth. The fact that others might be brainwashed, or scared, or holier-than-thou is what makes this endeavor so risky. But I have always tried to stay faithful to my reputations as a truth teller...not necessarily always right...but always ready and willing to speak the truth as I see it.

There was a time when speaking the truth wasn't considered risky, but rather, expected. Open and honest discussion was a foundational exercise that helped shape the fabric of this nation. But that was before political correctness, Cultural Marxism, and Alinsky tactics put the kibosh on independent thought and speech.

A man is never really free if his speech is not free. Thoughts are not now, nor should they ever be, a crime. We are rapidly moving towards the time when men and women will be punished for merely expressing what they think. There can be no greater form of tyranny than that.

Almost 3 years ago to the day I produced a video I am Proud to be White. When you are done reading this commentary please take the time to come back to this link and watch it...it is 5 minutes long.

There is a quiet revolution taking place all around the world and, as usual, the average American citizen is slow to awaken to what is actually going on. We saw the impact of it in Britain where Brexit shocked the world and we are seeing here in America that the Trump phenomenon is taking America by storm.

The pundits tell us it is a "populist" uprising, and it is. But it is so much more than that. In fact, it is so obvious that the average American has been programmed to the point that he/she is not able to see it. The populous uprising that is sweeping the world is nothing more complicated than this: It is the Awakening of the WASPS. And it is a good thing.

America has always been multi-cultural. It is nothing new. In fact, the motto of our nation is E Pluribus Unum which is translated "out of many, one." One nation, under God, indivisible our nation's pledge specifies. One our most famous monuments sitting in the New York Harbor is emblazoned with a plaque stating:

"Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, The wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tossed to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door!"

America has ALWAYS been multi-ethnic but it has NEVER been multi-cultural. By and large it was the WASP...White Anglo Saxon Protestant...the built the greatest nation the world had ever seen. America was built by different ethnicities, for sure, but different cultures, never. It was White Anglo Saxons with their common Christian heritage that melded the Unum out of the Pluribus.

A nation that has no common culture is not a nation. It is an amalgamation of various people-groups that tolerate one another. Balkanization is the term that they give to it...to divide into mutually hostile states or groups...it is the direction in which America is rapidly moving.

And the people are sick of it. Permit me to say, at the risk of ridicule and racial ramifications, that the only hope for America is the bold return of the White Anglo Saxon Protestant Male. Unless we arise and arise now we will see the utter destruction of Western Civilization. Is there any people-group more under attack in America than the White Heterosexual Christian Male?

The single greatest migration in history was the White Anglo Saxon Protestants who took the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the world. If you are a black Christian today, thank a WASP. If you are an Asian Christian today, thank a WASP. If you are Japanese, Korean, or Filipino and you claim Christ as Savior...thank a WASP. Hear me now White Boy, you have nothing to be ashamed of. Your Caucasian Christian ancestors evangelized the world.

Watch this fascinating 2 minute video on the spread of Christianity.

Laugh if you like, but there is a New World Order and their goal is world domination. The last thing standing between One World Government is a sovereign America and the only thing holding America together is the remnant of Christians dotting the landscape. To conquer America they must destroy Christianity. Multi-Culturalism is the wrecking ball that they are using.

Let me ask you a question. Muslim hoards are flooding the world through “refugee resettlement.” Can you explain to me why the “Anglo” nations are the ones being flooded with millions of “refugees” who don’t share their language, culture, or religion? Is China receiving refugees? How about Japan, or the African nations? Why are the “men behind the curtain” intent on flooding former WASP nations with the Islamic refugees?

London is teetering. The newly elected mayor of the London is a Muslim. The citizens in Britain understand what is happening to their nation and they have decided that it is time to reclaim it. Brexit is the first step.

This is not a battle over race, it is a battle over culture. The question facing the world today is can anything stop the forced religious integration of the world? Christianity is under attack like no time in modern history and the only thing holding back the death of Western Civilization is the White Heterosexual Christian Male.

Call me names. Label me a racist. Try to shame me into silence. But something big is happening around us. God is NEVER doing what we think He is doing.

All over the world the WASPs are beginning to awaken and are beginning to push back. Multi-ethnic is a good thing. Multi-culture is societal aids.

Western Civilization hangs in the balance. Let’s pray it is not too late.

West Virginia needs our help

Almost Heaven, West Virginia has become hell for some of her residents. Last week a 500 year flood slammed the hill country taking the lives of 23 people and devastating several small towns in the Charleston area.

These small towns, built around now-shuttered coal mines, are already poverty stricken, even in the best of times. Now, however, what little the residents had has been washed away by a tsunami of water rumbling down the valleys. They need our help more than ever.

Once again we are on our way to help. As you read this we are already on the road. Can you help us help them?

We have a track record of effectiveness. Over the past decade we have transported food and supplies to help the victims of Katrina, Rita, Joplin, Moore and various disasters all across this nation. We are effective in what we do. Many of you have helped us in the past and you know the integrity with which we operate. The same group of volunteers load the food in Ohio and unload the food in West Virginia.

We partner with local churches in the flooded area to get the supplies to those most in need

We pay no salaries. We have no big-shot CEO's who oversee our operations. This is done man to man and church to church. It is the way Christians should operate.

Our friend Pastor Art Wilhite, aka "THE BREADMAN" has been co-ordinating disaster relief for over 25 years. He has a working relationship with two major suppliers here in Columbus, Ohio. They trust him and his integrity.

This week, The Breadman has been in meetings securing the food and making arrangements to find and secure the trucks. Our trucks are loaded with food and rolling!!

We simply need the funds to transport the food to the Mountaineer State.

Columbus, Ohio is about 150 miles from the Charleston area and we will leave Thursday morning with over $50,000 in fresh bread products, water, and other supplies to the devastated area. Would you be willing to help finance this relief effort?

Please, if you haven't already, don't send your money to the Red Cross...or FEMA...please work through us. We make the greatest use of your hard-earned money with the lowest overhead.

Your dollars will pay for fuel, food for the workers, and other expenses associated with the relief. NOT ONE CENT WILL GO TO PAY ANYONE A SALARY!

In addition, we take prayer teams with us and we openly share the Gospel with the residents. This is a unique opportunity to turn the eyes of the needy away from the long arm of government and towards the nurturing arms of the church.

We believe it is the way God would want it...THE CHURCH helping the needy...not more dependance on the government.

You can contribute by mailing a donation to:

Pass The Salt.

Box 744

Hebron, Ohio 43025

Your donation is 100% tax-deductible.

Please pray for our safe travel and that our efforts may draw many devastated lives closer to Our Savior

Thanks for helping us make a difference in the lives of people you will never meet.

Did the people in Orlando deserve to die?

[NOTE: The opinion in this article is the opinion of the author and is not necessarily the opinion of NewsWithViews.com, it's employees, representatives, or other contributing writers.]

Once again we find ourselves falling into an age-old trap. If you ask the wrong question you will find yourself giving the wrong answer. That happens so much to Christians who try to explain the ways of God.

He warned us about that, you know. "My ways are not your ways" the scriptures tell us. Yet we often find ourselves trying to explain the unexplainable to those who can never understand.

"Did those homosexuals that were killed in that night club deserve to die? What kind of God would permit that to happen?" These questions and others similar in their mystery are reverberating around the crumbling walls of the American culture.

Few have the correct...or may I say acceptable...answers...at least not the answers that the unbelieving world is looking for. No one can ever explain why something does, or does not happen. As the Beach Boys famously sang back in the mid-sixties...God Only Knows.

And sometimes that is the only answer we are left with. Some things, truly, only God knows.

But perhaps we are asking the wrong question. Rather than asking if they deserved to die perhaps we would find more solace in the answer to the question "Did they deserve to live?" Does anyone deserve to live? If so, why? If we deserve to live, who says so? Could it be that the question should not be who deserves to die but who deserves to live.

If we get serious about answering that question perhaps some of our confusion will go away.

We are taught by the secular world that life is random. We pooh pooh the idea of a Creator who serves as the Grantor of all life and live our lives as if we are the captain of our own ship. If life is random and nothing more than chance, then based on what principle does anyone or anything deserve to live?

If there is no order to life and if there is no Creator of all life then who is to say that some deranged Muslim with a gun doesn't have the right to end a life? Based on what moral standard does anything deserve to live? Survival of the fittest is the law of the jungle.

Is it wrong for a fox to kill and eat a rabbit? Is it wrong for a zoo keeper to kill a Gorilla? Is it wrong for the President to order the death of a peasant in the hills of Afghanistan? What makes the killing of a homosexual wrong? Who determines who lives and who dies? Who makes the call about which life is worthy of being lived and which life isn't? What makes ANY death a tragedy?

The question is not does someone deserve to die...the question is does anyone deserve to live?

Survival of the fittest is the measuring stick in the animal world. If we have merely "evolved" from our animal friends, then who makes the determination that any form of life is more valuable than another? Perhaps all people are truly nothing more and nothing less than a food source. Some people eat animals and some animals eat people. Some creatures live and some creatures die. Life is random.

What in nature would leave you to believe that anyone deserves to live...

My Christian faith teaches me that

- All have sinned and fallen short of the Glory of God
- It is appointed unto man once to die.
- There are none righteous, no not one.

We all die. Every one of us. None of us can pick the time, the place, or the method. But you can rest assured that we all have an appointment with death. That is the price of sin...the wages...death.

Again, why does anyone "deserve" to live?

In a world where mothers are permitted to choose death for their unborn babies what makes it wrong when a homosexual Muslim determines that some folks in a night club in Orlando deserve post birth abortions?

The denial of God has consequences.

What makes murder wrong? If life is random and simply a matter of chance why all of the outrage when someone's number comes up? Life is a lottery...a game of chance. What is so wrong with that?

Sometimes you get the bear and sometimes the bear gets you.

On the same day 49 born people's lives were ended by a gunman in Orlando 500 unborn lives were ended by "doctors" in "medical clinics." In both cases the person who died had no "choice" in the time or means of their slaughter.

Abortion is bullying. Abortion is terrorism. Terror in the womb leads to terrorism in the world.

Did the people in Orlando deserve to die? Do unborn babies deserve to die?

It seems to me that we are asking the wrong question.

Are you looking for some truth?

Please forgive me if this seems a little self-promotional. I certainly don't intend for it to be viewed that way but I know that is how some readers might take it.

The exact opposite is true. I am writing about this because I believe it will be a help to YOU!!

There are a lot of things available on the web. I hardly ever turn my television on any more...except for an occasional sports event. I loooong ago gave up cable news and I certainly don't waste time watching brain-dead entertainment.

If you are like me, you are hungry for Truth...and something to watch that will be worth the investment of time that you put into it.

Over the years I have also come to the realization that there is a great spiritual hunger as well. Our churches have failed to present the Truth and so much of what we hear from the pulpits is pabulum that often has no relevance to what is going on in the real world.

As one of my friends told me, we have become so heavenly minded that we are no earthly good. By the hundreds of thousands Americans have stopped attending church. Although they love the Lord they have voted with their feet and have chosen to "do church" at home in hopes of finding a deeper, more relevant faith to where they live their lives.

This is not good. Too many former church-goers are “dying on the vine” as their spiritual nourishment is not sufficient for the times in which we live. But they are sick of being laughed at, shunned by church leadership, and written off as “kooks” by others who are oblivious to what is happening in the real world.

As I have written in the past, I am not now, nor do I ever plan to start a “church.” I have never been to seminary, but I can read and I can think. I know that in my own life I have been hindered less by what I didn’t know, than by what I had been taught that simply was not true.

I am a seeker of Truth and I not afraid to look at the possibility that I don’t know it all. Even in my coaching days I was smart enough to employ the strategy that “in the multitude of many counselors there is great wisdom.” Chances are we will learn more truth from each other than we will ever learn from some politically correct pastor standing in America’s pulpits.

“My people are destroyed for a lack of knowledge.” Could it be that the American church is suffering so badly because Christians refuse to look outside the box of traditional Christian orthodoxy? The availability of information on the World Wide Web has helped me discover Truths that had been hidden from me before. I seek out knowledge and then let the Holy Spirit guide me to all Truth.

It has truly been an invigorating journey.

Many of you have been reading my writings for over a decade. I hear from you regularly and enjoy the feedback that I receive from y’all. I am inviting you to go a little deeper.

This past January I launched an internet TV/Radio show on Google hangouts. It is an interactive show that allows the participants to join with us on the air where we are able to have live dialogue. We spend an hour discussing the issues of the day and the SPIRITUAL significance to what is going on around us.

In addition, the show is simulcast LIVE on our YouTube channel and archived for viewing at a later time. Our group has been meeting live EVERY WEEKDAY from 7-8 EDT and our numbers are growing.

But even better than that...WE ARE GROWING...spiritually...as individuals. Many no longer feel alone and isolated but are being fed daily!! We would LOVE for you to be part of this exciting adventure. It is mainly men, although women are welcome. My wife listens regularly on her phone but she enjoys the "masculinity" that oozes from the show.

The show is FREE. We don't ask for money...membership...and we stay free from doctrinal differences. We simply open the Bible, start reading, and discuss what the WORD speaks to us.

But here is the exciting stuff. We bring up topics that you will never hear in church because our pastors are too PC to bring up controversial stuff. Yes, you may have to bring your tin foil hats because some of the things that we discuss are a bit out of the mainstream...meaning you won't hear it discussed on FOX News. But do you really want to know what is going on in the world and what role we as Christians are supposed to play?

So, I invite you to join us. I don't want to start a church and I don't want to be your pastor. We are interested in learning the Truth and have found that these hour-long sessions are providing the spiritual nourishment that so many are longing for.

Here is all you have to do. Simply log on to www.coachdavelive.com. The show starts at 7 am EDT and there is only room for 10 "Live" participants. If you don't get in the queue live you are immediately transferred to live viewing on YouTube.

I challenge you to go to any one of the archived shows available for FREE viewing or downloading at www.coachdavelive.com. The shows are edgy, Gospel centered, action oriented, and invigorating. Our shows connect the Spiritual war to the natural world.

Stop wasting away at home all alone. You have many fellow travelers out in ether land. Come in and join us. The water is fine!!

Looking for someone else

As most of you are probably aware I am pretty active on the cultural front. Although there are many folks who realize that our nation is at risk mainly because of the moral condition of the citizenry, there are very few people who are actually interested in doing anything to stop the moral rot.

As my buddy Jim likes to repeat...as goes the church so goes the nation...and as goes the pastor so goes the church. Most of the problems in this nation can be laid at the doorstep of the self-interested American church.

Actually, I would say that the American Christian Church has an identity crisis. Not only do they have difficulty providing an accurate description of the King they claim to serve, but they have an even greater inability to articulate to others the job description of their congregation.

About three years ago I was awakened to the prospect that the Supreme Court of the United States was preparing to “legalize” an atrocity called “homosexual “marriage. I had gotten wind that there were some radical anti-Christ “Judges” who had wiggled their way onto the nine judge panel in Washington DC and that they were intent on redefining the central institution responsible for the advancement of Western Civilization.

So, being a bit naïve’ and a reputation as a nuisance to the forces of darkness I thought perhaps that I, as a servant of the Most High God, should do all that I could to “expose the unfruitful works of darkness.” Some friends of mine joined me as we visited a local mega-church in Columbus, Ohio and attempted to awaken them to the railroad train running down the tracks in hopes that they would help us stand and fight against the forces of darkness.

Well, much to my chagrin, my buddies and I were confronted by the local church officials, summoned into court for “trespassing”, and slapped with a restraining order prohibiting us from setting foot on the Vineyard Columbus campus ever again.

“We were just looking for the Church leadership to help us fight against the destruction of marriage,” I mentioned to one of their church “elders.”

“Sorry buddy” he hissed at me as he ordered us off of the property. “You are going to have to look for Someone Else to help.”

Discouraged but not defeated, I visited another church leader in the Ohio area and invited him and several of his “congregation” to accompany to the Washington DC for a prayer vigil outside of the SCOTUS building. I mentioned 2 Chronicles 7:14 and explained that maybe if we appealed to Heaven that God might give us a reprieve against the sodomite agenda.

“I would love to be part of it Coach Dave,” my pastor friend lamented. "But unfortunately that is the weekend of our annual Ice Cream Social. Perhaps you can make some calls and see if you could find Someone Else to go in my place."

In late June of 2015, just as I had suspected, the SCOTUS poked the church in the eye and "legalized" homosexual marriage in all fifty states. Being a student of history and a lover of the Constitution I knew that courts cannot make law so I began to go on another manhunt...this time looking for a few good men who would stand up and defy the un-Godly, unrighteous, Illegal act of the SCOTUS by encouraging the legislature of Tennessee to nullify the decision.

I contacted some of the more famous "professional" Christians in our area and invited them to drive to Nashville with me to represent the Body of Christ before the Tennessee Legislature and demand that they defend traditional marriage. Most of the "Leaders" refused to take my call, although one of the nice secretaries did pass along a message from her pastor. It seems that they don't get "involved in the culture" and that although he appreciated my spunk, I would have to find Someone Else to go with me.

Eight weeks ago I learned that our local TARGET Store had just announced a policy that permitted men to walk into a women's restroom in any of their stores. I was greatly concerned about the danger this proposition presented to innocent women and children who might be find a hairy-chested man sharing a stall next to them while they tinkled. I organized a protest and called several "pastors" to come and help with a public awareness project outside of our local TARGET.

Unfortunately, most of the "senior pastors" were unavailable to go and they referred me to Someone Else...who by the way was not a member of their congregation. It seems that most of them were tied up with "Bible School" arrangements.

Two weeks ago President Obummer doubled-down on the whole group restroom thingee and issued another illegal, unenforceable order to require "gender neutral" restrooms and locker rooms in the public schools in every town in America. I know I am considered a little bit radical but I was hoping that maybe the protection of the small children in their public school might be enough to get God's men to speak out against this outrage.

I did my usual procedure and picked up my phone and dialed some local churches. But I was a lot wiser this time. Instead of trying to speak with the Pastor I simply saved myself a lot of heart ache and appealed for help from the church secretary. I surmised that she probably knew most of those who attended the church regularly and I knew that she would probably be able to help.

"Hello, this is The First Church of the Chosen Frozen. How can I help you?"

"Good afternoon Ma'am this is Coach Dave Daubenmire calling again regarding the bathroom issue?"

"Oh yes, Mr. Daubenmire. I remember you from a couple of weeks ago. Unfortunately Pastor Watt Me Worry is not in right now."

"Oh that is ok; I wasn't calling to speak with him. I was hoping you could help me with another issue. Since you know most everyone in the church I was wondering if you could connect me with one of you members."

"I'll try." She replied. "Who are you looking for?"

"I am looking for Someone Else. It seems most of the church leadership knows him but I have been unable to locate him. Do you know where I can find him?"

"I'm sorry Coach Dave but I am afraid he doesn't attend here. The last I heard he was in leadership at the new church in town...the I Don't Know and I Don't Care Assembly."

Christians are playing small ball

You may not be familiar with the term “small ball.” That is the terminology given to a strategy in baseball where a team without a lot of firepower is relegated to employing a strategy where they resort to merely trying to score one run per inning.

As all baseball fans understand each batter gets three strikes, each team gets three outs per inning, and each game lasts nine innings. A small ball strategy requires that a team must be willing to “give up an out” in order to “sacrifice” bunt a runner to advance him to the next base.

The hope is that by sacrificing an “out” in order to get the runner into scoring position simply requires a well timed base-hit by one of the two remaining batters to score the runner from second base. The sacrifice bunt is ineffectual if the remaining batters are not able to deliver the run-scoring hit.

A quick study of baseball statistics will find that, on average, the winning team in a baseball game will score more runs IN ONE INNING than the losing team scores during the entire game. In other words, “big innings” where multiple players make it to the plate in the same inning increases the likelihood that a team will win a game.

Small ball works only if the other team is unsuccessful when they get a chance to swing the bats. Most successful teams usually come to the conclusion that “playing for the big inning” brings a better chance of victory than the strategy of “small ball” where one third of the outs are freely “sacrificed” away each inning.

For the most part, that is why Christianity has failed to win the cultural war. This “small ball” approach has resulted in the loss of nearly every “game” that the “religious right” has engaged in. Our entire approach to the “war for the heart of this nation” has been one in which our team has been willing to sacrifice bunt in hopes of moving a runner into scoring position. As is often the case, our runner usually ends up stranded at third base because too many of our hitters have failed to deliver in the clutch.

In the wars that really matter our team has failed to go for the big inning. We have hoped to bunt our way to victory while opponents have been “swinging for the fences.” As is often the case in a real baseball game we continue to get our hearts broken when our dastardly opponents deliver a booming home run late in the game...clearing the bases and dashing our hopes.

“Wait til next year” is the lament of perpetually losing baseball teams. It is also the battle-cry of the weak, sacrifice bunting Christian Church.

Is anyone besides me sick of losing? Does anyone but me think that it is time for a new strategy? Would anyone else out there join me in the cry that it is time that our side started swinging for the fences? We have sacrifice too often in our attempt to merely score a run when our team needed a home run.

God has a team and His team has plenty of power, but our leadership, for the most part doesn't like the long-ball hitters. They are embarrassed when they send their “heavy hitters” to the plate only to watch them strike out. Oh, they cheer when Casey At The Bat connects, but they feel much more comfortable with the players who can beat out infield singles and successfully advance the runner to second with a beautifully executed bunt.

There is no joy in Mudville, not because Mighty Casey has struck out, but because Mighty Casey has been asked to bunt. It is time we started swinging for the fences. Our fear of failure has supplanted our desire to win. We haven't learned that the shame is not in striking out but in our desire to try to win without risking anything.

In life, just like in athletics, the real shame comes from our failure to "get in our hacks." It is time we go down swinging for the fences rather than to advance to first base by getting hit by a pitch.

(I'm not sure you know where I am heading. I'll try and load the bases now.)

We have very little trust in our "Coach's" game plan. Although our churches love to talk about faith and the power of God to "move mountains" the truth is that we have very little faith in the power of God. Oh, we pray for, and believe that He will "move" in our finances, or a health issue that we are dealing with, or in a job search...but we have very little confidence in His ability to impact the culture. He calls us to be salt but we have decided to be sugar instead.

Let me ask you a question. When you pray for your financial situation do you merely pray or do you look for a job? When you pray that the Lord will bless you with a new baby do you simply pray...or do you snuggle under the covers with your honey? When you ask the Lord to deliver you from your obesity problem do you simply pray or do you change the way you eat?

God moves through people. He often does miraculous things through the works of human hands.

Evil is running rampant in America. While the church is content playing small ball (praying simply for individual needs) and sacrificing to get a runner in scoring position (elections), our opponents are swinging for the fences. We “pray” to end abortion (bunt) while our opponents swing for the fences (partial birth abortion). We fight for traditional marriage (bunt) while our opponents go for sexless bathrooms. (home run swing).

Jesus told us “All power is given unto me both in Heaven and on earth.” We have the Greatest Coach in the Universe with the greatest team ever assembled. But we want to play small ball. We want to compromise (bunt) our way to victory. We won’t bring out the heavy hitters. We don’t swing for the fences. In fact, we don’t even want to bat...we want Jesus to miraculously hit the ball out of the park without us ever picking up a bat.

What if our team followed our Coach’s orders? What if we re-criminalized abortion and sodomy? What if we kicked the Devil out of our public schools? What if flexed our muscles and started swinging for the fences? What if God’s people demanded HIS return to HIS rightful position as the head of this government? What if God’s team played with as much commitment as the Devil’s team?

God’s kids are settling for the crumbs off of the Devil’s table. What if we played like the game was tied, the bases were loaded, and our clean-up hitter was walking to the plate?

Small ball isn’t working. We need Mickey Mantle. Instead we get Mickey Mouse.

The Supreme Court's bait and switch

As many of you are aware Judge Roy Moore is directly in the sights of the Federal Judiciary again.

That's right. But this time he is not alone. The Governor of North Carolina is fighting back. So is the state of Texas.

Judicial tyranny is breaking out all across America as Obama's Justice Department is being used to "fundamentally transform" this nation. This transformation is being accomplished by the out-of-control oligarchy currently masquerading as a court system.

I have a stunner to share with you...but let me lay some ground work for you.

"Transgender" restrooms are all of the rage in America today. In fact, they have become so important to the sexual deviants that it has now garnered the support of the Obama administration as they try to ram-rod sexual anarchy down the throats of mainstream America.

This fight is not about restrooms, although that is the avenue that they have chosen to drive their legal bulldozers down in their attempt to change the landscape of America. This sodomy-focused army is hell-bent on removing all sexual standards in this nation. Their blitzkrieg through the courts would rival the cultural destruction of Sherman's march to the sea.

And it is built upon a lie...a Two-Card Monty...that would make even the world's greatest magicians envious...and they have been able to pull it off in full view of the brain-dead American people.

Here is the skinny. Sodomy-based marriage is not now, nor has it ever been, legal. It is a lie. As I will show you in just a few sentences it is the all-time greatest legal sleight of hand ever pulled in any society...ever.

In 1996 the US Congress passed the Defense of Marriage Act (DOMA) and it was signed by President Clinton on September 21, codifying into law that marriage was a union of one man and one woman...ONLY. DOMA was the "law of the land" until it was "overturned" by the 5-4 SCOTUS United States v Windsor decision on June 26 2013.

One of the central arguments of Windsor was that regulation of marriage was in the sole jurisdiction of the STATES and thusly was not within the power of the Federal government. Because, SCOTUS ruled, marriage was an issue for the individual states to regulate there was no Federal "standing" permitting FEDERAL law to be written.

Did you get that? The SCOTUS in Windsor ruled 5-4 that marriage fell under the jurisdiction of the STATES and therefore out of the regulation of the US. Congress. Judges Kagan, Breyer, Kennedy, Sotomayor, and Ginsburg ruled in the majority. From 1996 through 2013 there was a FEDERAL law defining marriage as one man one woman only. Windsor struck it down.

Fast forward to June 2015 when the landmark Obergefell case was decided by the same 5-4 majority than had ruled against marriage in 2013 citing the fact that marriage was under the jurisdiction of the STATES.

Here comes the bait-and-switch. In Obergefell SCOTUS used the power of the FEDERAL COURTS to "legalize same-sex marriage" by using the 14th Amendment's "equal protection clause" to grant FEDERAL protection to homo-sexual marriage. The majority opinion was supported by the same five judges... Kagan, Breyer, Kennedy, Sotomayor, and Ginsburg...who two years early had overturned the FEDERAL LAW (DOMA) claiming marriage was a decision left up to the states to regulate.

Did you follow that? In 2013 the SCOTUS said marriage was a STATE issue. In 2015 SCOTUS determined marriage was a FEDERAL issue. The same five judges were the majority in both decisions.

Sodomy-based marriage became “legal” only through the bait and switch tactics of five corrupt judges on the SCOTUS. Courts CANNOT make law. The opinion of SCOTUS in both cases was bald-faced social engineering at its finest. In order to “fundamentally transform marriage” SCOTUS had to remove DOMA from the law-books. Once this was accomplished via their ruling in Windsor, the court cleared the deck for their companion ruling in Obergefell.

This is the greatest example of legal-gymnastics in the history of the world.

Please take 7 minutes to watch this fantastic video produced by attorney Jeff Cobble clearly exposing the fraud of the social engineering done by SCOTUS. It proves that the emperor has no clothes.

Judge Roy Moore is standing on solid ground. We must awaken Americans to the sham that five unelected judges have pulled on this nation. This is tyranny at its most egregious.

For greater study please visit DEFYTYRANTS.COM where the answer to judicial tyranny is further explained.

In addition, this website is just choc full of goodies!!

Daylight is burning. We must awaken this nation!!

The Courts CANNOT MAKE LAW. It is time for the STATES to reclaim their sovereignty.

It is time to man up

I saw this week that President Obama's approval rating is nearing 50% again. What in the world is wrong with people? Have we fallen so far that the American people approve of this obvious Son of Satan?

Mr. Obama showed his true nature this past weekend by running interference for TARGET when he doubled-down on "transgender" bathrooms. Until the social scientists got involved we called them cross-dressers. I hope you are smart enough to realize that this whole debate is not about restrooms. It is about the promotion of deviancy. It is about what the Bible calls Doctrines of Demons. It is about normalizing that which is not normal.

Homosexualities in particular and deviant sexual behaviors in general, are the fruits of perversion from the decadent American culture. Obama is the Godfather of the anti-Christian mafia that is hell-bent on the destruction of Western Civilization.

Bathhouse Barry Obama just poked every God-fearing American in their slowly opening focused-on self eye. "Take that" he said as he boldly declared that boys and girls can now use the same potties in America's public schools.

The dude is evil, OK? What kind of a man not only applauds deviancy but forces the perversion onto innocent children? A wicked person does. Barry Obama is wicked. I am sorry but I don't know the politically correct term for wicked. That was the word Jehovah used...so I guess it will suffice for me.

But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea. -Matt. 18:6.

The mask has completely come off. The dude is deviant. The emperor not only has no clothes but he doesn't care which clothes our children wear. Expecting a boy to act like a man has become "discriminatory." It is tyranny of the minority. Barry has bullied his way into our public restrooms.

In their heart of hearts black pastors have to be ashamed of themselves. Their promotion of this demon simply based on skin color has contributed to the destruction of this nation. Black pastors own it. They promoted a man based on the color of his skin and ignored the content of his character. The roosters are coming home to roost in the ladies restroom. They made it about race. Don't start cock-a-doodling at me when I merely point it out.

But what about the rest of us? How long are we going to sit around with our hiny glued to our church pews and allow this demoniac dictator-in-chief destroy Western Civilization? That's what he is doing, you know? This isn't about homos and their cross-dressing friends. This is about the destruction of Christianity and all that it stands for.

The only thing keeping the world from falling into the grimy grip of the New World Order and their declared goal of One World Government is the liberty that is found only in Christianity. If Barry and his boyz can destroy Christianity then the world will melt like wax into the hands of the globalists.

But you are too damned brain dead to see it. You and your cowardly pastor hide inside your over-sized buildings and play "church" while the foundations of this nation are being systematically trodden under foot. "Good for nothing"...that is what Jesus called it in Matt: 5.

WAKE UP MEN !! Our fathers started a revolution because their 1775 version of Starbucks was charging a little too much tax for their lattes. But things were different then. Men were men...but more to the point...PASTORS WERE MEN.

But not today. The Devil's minion in the White House is laughing at America's pulpits. Barry sees what is going on across this nation as American pastors turn to the government for "Pastor Protection" legislation designed to keep the Devil from eating their lunch. Meanwhile, Obama and his spiritual advisors are chuckling all the way to Mecca as the "men of God" cower under their beds.

Many of us have spent decades trying to warn people. Our appeals to pastors have gone unheeded. The more desperate the times have become the more irrelevant the sermons have waxed.

Planned Parenthood is selling aborted body parts. Men are marrying men. The doors to the girl's restrooms and locker rooms are being flung open. Muslims and their sympathizers are swarming throughout the catacombs of government. Christ has been outlawed. Satan has been exalted...and our watchmen are blind...or worse.

The opponents of Christianity are running their bulldozer full-throttle as the foundations of American collapses like a folding chair. Your churches won't save you. Your pastors won't even try. The bullies in Washington have come out from behind the curtain and they have Christians in the crosshairs. You are on your own now boys. Soon you will realize that not even the rapture will save you.

"If you will not fight for right when you can easily win without blood shed; if you will not fight when your victory is sure and not too costly; you may come to the moment when you will have to fight with all the odds against you and only a precarious chance of survival. There may even be a worse case. You may have to fight when there is no hope of victory, because it is better to perish than to live as slaves." -

Churchill.

It is time to get involved. Call your local school Superintendent and find out the policy at your local school. Demand your pastor lead the charge (but don't count on it). Demand your state reps defend the innocent children. Get out the lanterns and the pitchforks. That's what our grandfathers would do.

Diabolical times are upon us. Let me invite you to some preparation and some hope. I have been hosting a live show each weekday morning from 7-8 EDT. The show is live but it is also archived for later viewing at CoachDaveLive.com

The show will give you hope. It will help you return to Godly manhood. It will help prepare you for the days that lie ahead. Your pastor has let you down. Your children and grand children are depending on you. It is time to man up. Check this out!!

God needs a few good men. This is a hill worth dying on.

Let's put a target on target

I can't believe what is going on in this nation. In fact, some of the things that are happening are so void of common sense that it is almost impossible to understand. Where is the church leadership?

The issue with Target Stores and "transgender" restrooms is one of those head-shakers. Try as I might I cannot get my cranium rapped around such a diabolical, deceptive, destructive position as this one. Why would Target make a policy that applies to .03 % of the population and drive off family customers in the process?

A couple of weeks ago Target stores announced to the world that henceforth all of the restrooms in their stores would be "gender neutral." Now to the average guy raised in the cornfields of Ohio that may slip by his mind-numbed thought process. But it didn't get past me. Something about "gender neutral" did not slide down my gullet very well. What the heck does that mean, I asked myself.

So I got in my car and drove the eight miles to our local Target store to find out for myself exactly what the restroom policy was. I filmed my meeting with the local manager, posted it on Facebook and much to my surprise that simple act of community vigilance went viral and spurred action all across America...enhanced by a boycott of Target by over 1 Million on AFA's website. Take two minutes and watch the video that was literally viewed by upwards of 1 million people on the internet.

For those of you who didn't take the time to click through to the video, I found out that ANY man can walk into a women's restroom in Target. That's right. Any man can say he "feels like a woman" that day and follow a young lady into the ladies restroom. This is insanity!!

The next day I went back with a sign and attempted to guard the women's restroom. Here is a video of that. That was followed by an encounter with the police Watch. It seems that no one seems to know whether or not it is "legal" for a man to use a women's restroom that is open to the general public.

Can you believe that? Can you believe we are so confused in this nation that a man can walk into a public women's restroom and no one gets upset about it? Well I did...and it seems that millions across this nation agree with me. But we are so stinkin' brainwashed that we can't even think clearly any more. So let me help you. Perhaps we can get America's brains out of the “tolerance” closet. Consider:

This policy is not about “transgender” rights. No man has the right to walk into a restroom where my wife or daughters are in the process of performing a most private bodily function whether he is deeply troubled or not. Deviant rights do not trump my wife’s right to potty in private.

Bathrooms should be designated by SEX and not GENDER. Sex is the way you were born. Gender is what you IDENTIFY as. Sex is determined by genetics at the moment of birth. XX makes you a woman and XY makes you a male. Wearing high heels and a dress does not change the sex of a man. XX use the ladies room and XY use the men’s room. No confusion and no discrimination. Bruce Jenner is, and forever will be, a man. It is simple science...more credible than any “climate change” study that the left loves so much. They are the real science deniers.

The homosexual mafia has pushed the envelope too far. They told us that they simply wanted EQUAL rights. We now know that is a lie. They want SPECIAL rights. They want their “feelings” to trump the “feelings” of my wife and daughters who only want to “feel” comfortable while going to the bathroom without a man walking in on them.

There is no law governing restroom usage in America. Until recently it was unnecessary to make a law keeping men out of the ladies room. That used to be called common sense. That used to be called common decency. That used to be considered disturbing the peace. We need local cities and counties to pass local ordinances that will clear up the deviancy. Male plumbing at birth goes in one restroom...while female plumbing at birth goes into the other.

If we let the Feds and their “judges” get their hands on this one they will make peeing in the public restroom of your choice a “civil” right. There is nothing “civil” about same-sex restrooms, dressing rooms, or locker rooms. We need to move NOW before the deviants bully their perversion upon us.

We must stop this IDIOCY NOW!!! No men in the ladies room!! It is time to say NO to the out-of-control gender-challenged mafia.

Please join us in pushing back. This Saturday we are going to begin to shove. We are asking you to organize an event at the local Target in your town. Visit www.protectrestrooms.com and we will lay out the game plan and how we can help you send a message to those who want to bully us into tolerating the intolerable.

We have been indoctrinated into believing that the deviants deserve more protection than the average citizen. Our wives deserve protection. Our daughters and grand daughters deserve our protection. Our society deserves protection. Expecting men to use the men's room does not qualify as discrimination or bigotry.

This is the first step in our attempt to bring some sanity back to America. All it takes is a little courage and a love for truth. Please join with us in our NATIONAL pushback against this foolishness.

You can help support our project by donating here. We will send a hat to everyone who helps with the effort!!

We can't wait on the "gubmint" to do what is right. WE THE PEOPLE must make our voices heard!! #protectrestrooms

Why does no one care?

"I'd rather die than let you Christian bigots win," the butch-haired, plumpy woman screeched at me. "Women have fought too long and hard to gain our rights and we will not remain silent as you Neanderthals try and drag women back into the dark ages."

She held a sign that read Keep Your Laws Out Of My Vagina as if that particular body part was of interest to anyone. One of the many things that you quickly come to understand is that lesbians are the biggest proponents of "reproductive" rights even though the "right" really had no bearing at all upon their own lives.

It is simply a living parable of their rebellion against "the natural use of the woman" being forsaken by those who are living in defiance of the Word of God. Misery loves company and I always assumed that women who couldn't naturally reproduce wanted to get as many women as possible to join them in their barren lifestyle. Sad but true.

But I appreciated her tenacity. As we left that day I mentioned to my wife that it was too bad that Christian women weren't as committed to life as these lost women were to death. More women are active in their support of death than those who claim to be in support of life.

Life or death? Make a choice. Can anyone explain to me when or why death would ever be the right answer to that question? Proverbs tell us, that "all who hate me love death." That explains the pro-abort position. Can someone help me explain the pro-life position? Why won't "pro-life" women fight for life?

Why do those who support death fight so hard to get their way while those who love life fight so little to preserve it?

“Let’s face it Honey,” my wife opined as we climbed into our PT Cruiser for the ride home from Planned Parenthood. “No body cares. Most of the churches claim to be pro-life but they really don’t care. That lesbian is committed to her cause. Most Christians couldn’t care less. It is hard to win when no one will fight.”

Why won’t we fight? Why won’t Christians stand up and push back against the wanton evil that is cascading down the gutters of Main Street America? How can there be so many churches and so little push back? Why is the anti-Christ agenda of the God-haters winning the day?

Let me use another conversation I had last week to contrast the debate I had with the cropped-hair lesbian. My wife and I were talking to a friend about the latest revelations of body-part merchant Planned Parenthood. Try as we might we could not get our dear friend to get worked up about the slaughter of innocents taking place at the death camps.

“I’m with you guys,” she told us. “But I don’t really get all worked up over abortion. There really isn’t much I can do about it and I’d rather think on happier things than abortion. The way I see it, Jesus is in control and it will all work out in the end.”

I didn’t know whether to laugh or cry.

But that is the typical response we hear. Try as I might I can’t find one verse where the Bible tells us that apathy is the best philosophy. In fact, I think the Bible teaches just the opposite. How has the church missed it so badly?

Why are the Devil’s kids never apathetic? Why is it that they spend their time, effort, and finances to advance their death-loving agenda? What can we do to get “our side” to get more actively engaged in the culture?

Perverted men are winning court decisions all across the nation for their right to be able to use the ladies room.

God-fearing ranchers are being shot dead in cold blood for simply standing up against the thievery of their land by a tyrannical government.

Small business owners are being financially crushed for simply living out what the Bible teaches them.

Children are being taught in our schools that all sex is equal and that all types of fornication are perfectly normal.

Last month I had a friend of mine accompany me to the abortion clinic for the first time. The steady line of cars pulling into the parking lot was more than he could handle. The reality of young college-aged women willfully leading their child to slaughter touched him deeply. Out of the corner of my eyes I saw him drop to his knees and quietly begin to weep.

“Coach, if we could get 100 men here this would stop! Somebody has to do something about this. I had no idea what went on here. We can’t let this slaughter continue.”

That was a month ago. He hasn’t been back since.

My mind often returns to the abortion clinic and the commitment and conviction of the pro-murder lesbian. She was willing to die for her right to kill. As much as I hate to admit it, her side is winning.

Why are we so calloused? Why does no body care?

But as our Christian friends love to assure us, we really shouldn’t get so worked up about the child killing. Jesus is in control and it will all work out in the end...

Watch this short video!! Here is where they learned such a wretched philosophy.

I am a hater

I have finally decided to come clean. I suspect that many of you have realized it for years. In fact, my inbox usually fills up very quickly after I write one of my stinging commentaries.

“You are a hater!” goes the usual template. The writer then goes off on a litany of accusations which supposedly prove that I am a hater.

In the earlier stages of my somewhat “public” life as a “conservative” commentator I used to spend valuable time trying to convince the email trolls of my virtue and the fact that they are mischaracterizing my character.

Eventually I grew tired of the rather boring ad nauseam, semi conjunctive apology for a trait that I didn’t possess. I finally figured out that trying to convince haters that I was not a hater was a waste of valuable time. After a bit of introspection I decided it was time to come clean and admit what all those who don’t know me had concluded they know about me.

I am a hater. I finally admit it. I am a hater. And a proud one, I might add.

I hate what homosexuality does to people. I hate the destructive nature of that debaucherous behavior and the impact it has on the individual. I hate the pain that it causes to innocent parents and siblings. I hate that it is taught to our children as normal behavior.

I hate abortion. I hate the fact that precious little babies created in the image of God never get the chance to have their pictures appear on a refrigerator. I hate that unsuspecting grandparents are having their grandchildren murdered without their knowledge. I hate that most women live a life of regret after they have killed their unborn child. I hate that Planned Parenthood which makes millions of dollars off of killing the innocent, is viewed as honorable. I hate that our government forces us to pay taxes to fund the slaughter. I hate that most Christians don't do a darn thing to stop it.

I hate that my government lies to me. I hate that they spend money that they have no right to spend. I hate that the control of our money lies in the hands of a privately owned bank and that the people have no control over how the value of the money is regulated. I hate that the government sends our young people to fight and die in meaningless wars. I hate that they live by a different set of rules. I hate that the elections are pretty much rigged. I hate that I am forced to "voluntarily" pay an income tax for which I will be punished if I fail to "voluntarily" comply. I hate that crime has become big business for a corrupt injustice system.

I hate our "public" education system. I hate that the schools do not teach the values of the public but, instead, teach the values they want the public to hold. I hate the National Education Association and their endorsement of candidates who support child-killing. I hate the fact that millions of inner city students are trapped in prison-like neighborhood schools where their chance of advancement in society is blocked by those same money-grubbing unions and the sold out political candidates that they support. I hate that our children are taught lies. I hate that Christian parents continue to send their children into those Humanistic indoctrination centers. I hate that every church in America doesn't have a means by which they can provide a Christian education to ever child in their flock. I hate that a Godless education is no education at all and that our pastors continue to be complicit in propping up such an anti-Christ system.

I hate that so many people believe so much that isn't true. I hate that the media lies so blatantly in their coverage of what is really happening in America. I hate that they cover up so much of what is real news and cover so little of what really is. I hate that news is now considered fair and balanced rather than just...well...news. I hate the fact that you have to have blond hair and wear short skirts to make it on some of our favorite news channels. I hate their hidden agendas.

I hate that mothers have to put their children in daycare. I hate that many women miss the precious early years of their children's life...time that can never be recaptured...because they have to work in order to pay the overbearing and odious tax bill that the fraudulent IRS holds over their heads. I hate that women value career over childbearing. I hate that our economic system forces many mothers to choose between full time work and full time Mommy.

I hate adultery. I hate what the shack-up culture is doing to American society. I hate that 70% of babies born in the black community are born into a home where there is no father. I hate the fact that men no longer take the responsibility of being fathers because the women have lost the value of their virtue. I hate that chivalry is no longer honored. I hate that at our current rate of reproduction the White European Christian Population that built our great nation will soon see their grandchildren become slaves on the continent that they formed. I hate that motherhood and fatherhood are so cheaply valued. I hate that young people can't see that parenthood is the most noble job they will ever have in their entire life. I hate the sissification of men.

I hate that more people don't hate. I hate that we have been trained to love things that are repulsive. I hate that we are forced to tolerate things that we shouldn't tolerate. I hate that most people so easily give-in to social pressure. I hate that pastors have invited worldliness into the church and that they have become so comfortable with it that they can't even recognize it. I hate it that no one judges anything anymore.

I hate that we have become such poor witnesses for the God we claim to serve. I hate that we have rejected the Christian values that our fathers' generation fought and died for. I hate that we don't value their sacrifice. I hate that we laugh at their values. I hate that we love the things that they hated.

I hate what America has become. I hate that we have rejected God. I hate that nobody seems to care about that anymore. I hate that our nation no longer serves or honors the precepts of the Christian God. I hate that not enough of us hate the right things. I hate that most Americans don't know that God also hates.

People I love...sin I hate. I hate that I am hated for boldly pointing that out.

Americans are locked in the media-controlled box

This commentary is NOT about politics, although many of you will think it is. If you are anything like me you are suffering from campaign overload. It is as if the only news in the world is Trump/Cruz, or Hillary/Bernie. Twenty-four / seven the cable news programs force-feed us propaganda regarding the fake horse-race known as the Presidential primaries.

If you think that the political system is honest and that the will of the people has any place in the decision making process this article is not for you. The system is rigged folks. The evidence is everywhere you look. The Presidential primaries are the biggest con going and it is Big Bu$$ine$$ for those who report on it.

The once-independent media is controlled. We no longer get the "news" but instead are fed a flavored version of events designed to control the masses. Yep, even your favorite talk-radio host is in on the gig. Talk-radio is major-moolah and you can bet your last dollar that every one of these guys is in the tank for somebody.

Some are out in the open...Beck, Levin...others give the appearance of neutrality...Rush, Hannity, but make no mistake all of the major talkers know exactly where their bread is buttered. How do you think that they got to where they are? Why is there so little agreement in the "conservative" press?

Controlled media. That is what someone once labeled them. But it is not so much that they are controlled but that their real job is to control you and me. If we, the great unwashed, were ever given the opportunity to know the truth this nation would be in all out revolt.

We live in a captured nation and the "conservative" media is playing the role of prison guard. Their job is to keep the prisoners fat and sassy. At the end of the day, they are responsible for making sure that you feel secure because Rush or Sean or Mark or Glenn is on the job.

I travel a lot. I don't say that to sound important but rather, to make a point. Sometimes I fly, but often I drive. Long lonely trips across the fruited plain give me the opportunity to ride in silence as I listen to my ever-present companions...Glenn, Rush, Sean, and Mark.

That is the order that they come on. I don't care what state you are in or what time-zone you are traversing, America's airwaves are blasting out the conservative opinions of these "conservative" voices. Beck in the morning, Rush at noon, Hannity in the afternoon, and Levin to sing you to sleep at night. Every city, every state, every day. Republican good-Democrat bad, conservative good-liberal/progressive-bad, Cruz good-Hillary bad.

Remember, they are looking out for us!! Yeah right. They're looking out for us, alright. They are doing an awesome job of keeping the sheep herded and in the Republican pen.

Big media controls the news by controlling the voices. Who arranged this cozy set-up? Why is it that, for the most part, local talk radio, except for morning and evening drive-time, is almost non-existent on America's airwaves? Why do all of the "Big talk" stations in every community have nearly the exact same lineup? They decide, you report. We are sheep heading for a great shearing.

Rush started the re-birth of AM radio with his talk show in the mid 1980's and to some degree he changed the way American's viewed the news. But after nearly three decades of conservative talk-radio can you tell me ANYTHING the talkers have actually accomplished? Has the size of government shrunk? Have individual liberties increased? Has "conservative radio" changed the moral landscape in any way? Have the BIG $ Talkers slowed down the spread of the godless agenda in any way, shape or form?

Is America more or less evil than it was 30 years ago? What good has the controlled (and controlling) conservative talk media done for the advancement of Christian values?

Nothing. The programs weren't designed to advance Christian values. They were designed to advance "conservatism." As I tried to warn folks back in 2006, Conservatism is Counterfeit Salt. It looks like salt, it sounds like salt, but it is a poor substitute for Christianity.

America's problems are spiritual and there is no political solution to a spiritual problem. Conservative talk radio does not offer a Biblical, Christian solution.

So today I would like to offer you an option. Turn off your favorite talk-radio station and connect online. The internet is FULL of "talk-radio" programs that boldly reveal the truth behind the news and are guaranteed to open your eyes to a world that the "men behind the curtain" do not want you to see. Find programs that present the Truth and offer Biblical solutions to the problems facing us. Not preachy-pastor sermons...but hard-hitting issue based shows with Biblical solutions.

Christian radio has, for the most part, dropped the ball. Their daily program schedule is filled with preaching, financial shows, and health-related programs. Just like the local churches, most Christian media is full of happy talk while the world around us descends into chaos.

May I suggest a few? I know I will leave out some good ones, but at least this is a start. Visit The Hagmann and Hagmann Report, The Common Sense Show, Caravan to Midnight, Info-Wars, The Manning Report, The Weekend Vigilante, Sons of Liberty.

Without seeming to be self-promotional, I too, have a daily live internet program that is archived for downloading later. We air weekdays at 7 am EDT www.newswithviews.tv. Get out of the box the media has locked you in. My people are destroyed for a lack of knowledge!!

When all hell breaks loose people will be looking for a heavenly solution. Now is the time to build an ark.

Warning the wicked is love

As regular readers know we spend much of our time ministering out on the streets. This enables us to see an entirely different world than the average church-goer. For most Christians their faith is lived inside the four walls of the church or trapped within the four chambers of their heart. Christianity has devolved into a “personal” experience rather than a world-changing power.

Our churches have been such a cataclysmic failure in their job of pushing back the darkness. Instead of being the “salt of the earth” the exact opposite has happened...the world has become the “salt of the church.”

Rather than changing the world, the church has, for the most part, incorporated the ways of the world as the true Gospel has fallen prey to marketing techniques and entertainment designed to draw a crowd. Jesus never told us to draw a crowd. He told us to go...go to the highways and the byways...and compel men to come to the saving knowledge of Christ.

“Come ye” is a poor substitute for “go ye.” The idea of gathering a crowd merely to tickle the ears of the attendees is anathema to everything the Gospel teaches. The Truth is divisive. The Truth is offensive. The Truth is controversial. But it is only the Truth that can set people free. Believing a lie only keeps one in bondage.

The Gospel has become so sweet and syrupy that it is losing the ability to change lives. The idea of good and evil, sin and judgment, turn or burn has become verboten in the modern American church. The only thing worse than sin is talking about sin...rebuking sin...speaking about sin...pointing a finger at sin.

That is called being judgmental...or intolerant...or unloving in today's sugar-sweet culture. Judging sin is hateful, unloving and a turnoff to the lost.

At least that is what many of my "Christian" friends like to tell me. I guess we are supposed to love them all the way to hell.

I caused quite a stir the other day as I was contending for the faith outside of our local body-parts store known as Planned Parenthood. I was taking-to-task one of the deathscorts who regularly volunteers her spare time aiding and abetting the baby slaughter taking place inside the "clinic." (What a name for a place where they kill and dismember little babies.) We call them "deathscorts" because they escort the women from their cars to the safety of the clinic. (Safety of the clinic...go figure.)

"You are a wicked woman," I cried out to the deathscorts as they stood guarding the door breathlessly awaiting their next ex-mother to pull into the parking lot. "You are going to stand before a righteous God one day and give account for your wicked behavior. God is not mocked. You are an accessory to murder and the Lord sent me here to warn you to turn from your wickedness and ask Jesus to forgive you of your wicked behavior."

"Apart from Christ, John 3:36 warns us, the wrath of God abides upon you. Unless you cry out to Him for forgiveness and repent of your evil ways, you are facing a very dark and desperate future. Fall on your face and ask Christ to forgive you of your wickedness. God sent me here to warn you. When you stand before Him you will no longer be able to claim ignorance. I have warned you today. Your deeds are evil and God will not hold you guiltless."

I could tell when I was done with my warning that not all of those standing on the sidewalk with me appreciated my open rebuke to this wicked woman.

A kind Christian young man said "Coach Dave, you sure were harsh with those ladies. I am not sure that is the most effective way to get people to come to Christ. You catch a lot my flies with honey than you do with vinegar."

"That's probably true." I responded. "But I am not looking to catch any flies. I am looking to rescue souls from the halls of the doomed and the damned. Those women standing in that doorway are in a very precarious position. They are teetering towards eternal separation from Christ. You can tell them how much Jesus loves them if you want to. I'd rather warn them that HIS wrath is waiting for them just around the corner."

Then I opened up my Bible and shared with him Ezekial 3:16: And it came to pass at the end of seven days, that the word of the LORD came unto me, saying, Son of man, I have made thee a watchman unto the house of Israel: therefore hear the word at my mouth, and give them warning from me. When I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou givest him not warning, nor speakest to warn the wicked from his wicked way, to save his life; the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

Harsh? Hell is real and hell is harsh. God is the one who called the people wicked. God is the one who called their deeds wicked. God is the one who called the way they were heading wicked. Part of our job as Christians is to warn the wicked that God is angry with the wicked every day.

I have searched my Bible until the ink is about to come of the pages and I can not find one place where Jesus told us to tell people how much God loves them. But the Scriptures are replete with the exhortation to warn those who are lost. Here are 54 times we are exhorted to warn the non-believer.

Loving them in their wickedness may make the sinner feel better, but warning the wicked is the greater act of love.

Time is running short. The door to the ark is getting ready to close. Failure to warn the wicked about their wicked behavior is miss-applied love. Sometimes God's love hurts.

We are the salt of the earth...not the sugar. Speaking the sugary Gospel may fill a church but failing to speak the salt-laced Gospel is filling hell.

Rescue the perishing. That is the evidence of your love.

Pastors looking to the state for protection from homosexuals

I now think that I have just about heard of it all. In my wildest dreams I could not have imagined such diabolical legislation could enter into the heart of a minister of the Gospel.

Yes...diabolical...you read that right. Diabolical has as its root diabolos, which is Spanish for Devil. The legislation currently making its way around the legislatures of the various states is legislation that has originated in the land of the doomed and the damned.

The Pastor Protection Act is the name they have given to protect the "men of God" who hide behind America's pulpits. The promotion of this "law" flies in the face of everything that the Gospel represents.

To put it in everyday terms, the Pastor Protection Act is designed to protect "pastors" from the consequences of preaching the Truth of the Bible. The homosexual mafia has now officially scared the pussy-cat pastors into the protective arms of their local State governments.

"Please protect us Mr. Government!! Don't let those mean homosexuals bully us into compromising what we believe. Please put into place a law that allows us to be Christians without having to pay any price. If you don't pass a law there is a chance that those mean old homosexuals will come and make us marry them. In fact, they may sue us and try to take away our property. Please pass a law that protects God's property from the Devil's kids."

The weakness of America's pulpits makes me want to puke. The pussy-cat pastors have appealed to the pandering politicians for protection from the pansy perverts who never saw a religious principle that they didn't want to destroy.

Is it just me or do we have it backward? Isn't it the power of the pulpit that is supposed to protect the people from the advancement of the kingdom of darkness? Can you even conceive of the idea of the church turning to the government for protection from the hoards of hell?

Give me a freakin break. The Pastor Protection Act...Jesus must be weeping.

I'm sorry to say it but I think America might be a different country if some of the prissy pastors got their powdered posteriors thrown behind bars. If jail was good enough for the Apostle Paul then it might be just the cure for the cowards who are directly responsible for Christianity's capitulation to the forces of darkness.

That's right. I think locking up some pastors would be a good thing. Maybe it would wake folks up to how dire a situation we currently find ourselves in. Don't protect the pastors, persecute them. Persecution is good for the soul.

Try as I might I can't imagine any of the Apostles of Jesus turning to Rome for protection for preaching the Gospel.

I can't picture Jesus begging Pilate to protect Him from the Diabolous and his minions.

Daniel didn't pray for government protection he opened the window and defied them. The three Hebrew boys didn't appeal to the King to rescue them from the fiery furnace. They climbed head first into the fire and trusted God to deliver them.

John The Baptist manned up and went head-long after the King's adulterous wife. He didn't even take time to check the law books to see if his actions were a hate crime.

Can you imagine Martin Neimoller appealing to the Nazis for protection from Hitler?

Can you muster up in your mind's eye Patrick Henry begging for "legal immunity" for defying the King and placing his signature on the Declaration of Independence?

Can you think of any great deed ever done for the cause of Christ that didn't require some courage? Pastors want to fight a war without casualties.

The Pastor Protection Act...I wonder if they have one of those in Syria?

Good grief man!! Let them arrest bakers who won't cook homo cakes. Let them imprison printers who won't print wedding invitations for deviant weddings. Let them destroy business that dare to speak out against sodomy and their deadly behaviors.

But the pastors...why they need protection!! How about a Baker Protection Act...

Here is my message to the pastors. Man up ladies. It is time to quit hiding behind your skirts. There is a real war raging in this nation against anyone who would dare to speak out against the debauchery masquerading as "civil rights." Every day I turn on my computer and read boundless stories of individual American's being attack for nothing more than living out their faith.

...and the pastors need a protection act. Stand up and fight for your people and your Lord!!

I heard a new take on the story of David and Goliath the other day. One of my friends told me that he thought David was successful against Goliath because of the three stones that helped him drop the giant.

"Three Stones?" I said to him.

"Yep," he replied. "One stone in his sling and two stones in his underwear."

Our pastors don't need a protection act. They need some stones. No wonder America is in such a mess. Jesus is the only protection a real man of God ever needs.

Americans are voting for manhood

I couldn't put my finger on it until the other night. What is it about The Donald that is engendering so much support?

By all accounts he is, uncouth, petty, and a bastion of other un-biblical behaviors. Yet he is very popular. What is it about Donald Trump that has drawn so many to his side?

Donald Trump is a MAN in a nation where manhood is in very short supply.

His popularity is not about his "conservatism" or his "Christianity." But, as we saw again last night, in Mississippi of all places...the buckle of the Bible-belt...the Trumpster again won a majority of the evangelical vote.

The South was supposed to be Cruz country...the heart of Christianity where clinging to Bibles and guns is passed through the DNA from one generation to the next. A state where using the name of Jesus is a token of praise rather than an object of damnation... where Ted Cruz values were as common as gumbo and rattlesnakes. The official beverage of Mississippi is milk, for Pete's sake.

Yet supposed Ted Cruz voters pulled the lever for Donald Trump. Something BIG is going on in America and most people have yet to put their finger on it. Why are "Christians" voting for Donald Trump?

Sweeping the South was the plan that Ted Cruz had drawn up as the path to The White House. Certainly his unashamed Christianity would resonate in the Land of Dixie. The solid-South has been the stronghold of Conservative Christians and their favorite politicians for the past 50 years.

Yet this moderate, some say liberal, from the Northeast was swooping in and sucking up all of the energy...and votes...in this most-religious area of the nation. Rattle them off...Virginia, Kentucky, Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee, South Carolina, Louisiana, Georgia, were going solidly for the reality TV star resident of the home base of progressive politicians.

Trump, not Cruz has swept the south. Something HUGE is happening before our very eyes.

Now, before you get yourself into to tizzy, you have to understand that I am not supporting the crude, crass, calloused side of Trump. In fact, many of the things I hear him say make me cringe. But we cannot deny that the things that he does that make American's queasy are the same things that draw people to him. America is starving for manhood. America is looking for a MAN.

For at least two generations American Christianity has been creating soft men. We see it everywhere we turn. Men that are afraid to offend. Our pulpits are filled with soft weak men. Our "worship leaders" are dainty men with spiked hair and skinny jeans singing sissified songs about an effeminate Savior. Women, and men who act like women, run the average American church.

Americans know we are in trouble and realize our politicians are dainty "men of culture" who use words as weapons in a faux fight against an unrelenting foe. They realize that the last person you would ever call if you were in a street fight would be either a pastor or a politician. In a time when we need a John the Baptist we get Joel Osteen.

Trump is a bit rough on the edges and he may not be up-to-snuff on all of the social graces expected in our political leaders, but he oozes manhood...not Biblical manhood...but secular manhood. We like a little grit in our champions.

The Christians in the South have analyzed the situation that is confronting this nation and although they would like their President to be someone who shares their values, their belief in God, and their quiet faith, they realize that the times demand a warrior...someone to stand and fight against the thieves who are stealing this nation.

Trump makes women feel safe. Trump says what the average Christian man is thinking. They are sick of PC America and pastors and politicians too cowardly to speak the truth. They see The Donald as a man who doesn't bend to pressure and doesn't need their approval.

American's are looking for a fighter. Donald Trump, as crass and harsh as he is has proven that he will not roll over when attacked. They are sick of compromise. They look in the pulpits and they look at the politicians and they see nothing but capitulation. Let's all get along types.

America is not electing a king or a pastor and because they are so disgusted they are ready to roll the dice on a gambler from Atlantic City.

"Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition. Kill 'em all and let God sort it out." Americans are voting for a return to the days of straight shooters like Clint Eastwood and John Wayne.

Masculinity is making a comeback in America. It is no more complicated than that. Now, all we need is pastors with a spine and we may be able to save America.

The fish symbol is becoming rotten

The fish is one of the symbols of Christianity and the fish are rotting.

How could Evangelicals go for Trump? That is the question that is reverberating around the empty halls of America's churches. It's very simple. Our churches are full of dead fish. Evangelicallyfish...fish Pastors without a backbone.

I feel sorry for Ted Cruz. He cannot win the nomination. Most Christians don't even recognize, let alone vote, Biblical values. He was counting on 70 million of them voting for him. Fish rot from the head down. Our pastors have let us down. Consider the following.

1. If Donald Trump is able to win the vote of Evangelical Christians it is obvious that the problem is not Trump, but rather the fish. I am not taking sides nor endorsing a candidate here, but it is clear to me that Donald Trump does not "know" Jesus as his Savior. This is not a knock on him...I too used to be blind. But because of the Holy Spirit living inside me it is easy for me to spot the "real deal." Trump may be a Presbyterian, but he is not a "Christian" in the Evangelical-meaning of the word.

But neither are most Evangelicals. Anyone who walks an isle and "asks Jesus into his/her heart," is considered a Christian in today's Evangelically world. Very few understand sin and repentance. Donald Trump clearly doesn't because he admitted that he had never had a need to "ask God for forgiveness." His "theology" would align perfectly with many modern mega-church goers across this nation.

Donald Trump got nearly half of the gellyfish vote because most of those who call themselves "Christians" have never been truly "saved." They understand grace...but not repentance. "Jesus loves them," they are taught, but they are not taught that those who love Jesus will "keep His commandments." South Carolina's, and America's, churches are filled with Christians who have never come to true reconciliation through REPENTANCE. Just walk and isle, say a prayer, and invite Jesus into your heart. That qualifies you as a Christian in America today. Those "Evangelically" voted for Trump. He is just like them...only richer.

2. Those in the pew selectively listen to those in the pulpit. A majority of America's churches have become nothing more than feel-good entertainment centers where their favorite sin is “under the blood” while they ignore Jesus’ admonition to “go and sin no more.” The pastor refuses to talk about and confront sin therefore the “squids” get the impression that Jesus is “just all right” with sin. The pastor ignores their sin so the people ignore Trump’s sin. Jesus loves everyone, right? That’s what it means to be saved, right?

3. The pastors separate the “sacred from the secular,” refusing to talk about cultural issues for fear of being “political.” Because the pastor takes no responsibility for the degradation of the culture the “sheep” are taught to look to “political” leaders for the solution to the moral problems facing the nation. The “salt has lost his savor” and has yielded moral authority to the courts and the political parties. Homosexuality is no longer a sin but a lifestyle...just like an abortion is a “choice” and not the murder of a child. Jesus loves everybody, right?

The pulpits have permitted this usurpation of God’s authority by political hacks. If you are sick and tired of the moral condition of the nation don’t call your congressman, call your pastor. But that clearly doesn’t work because the role of the pastor has been relegated by the pastors themselves to nothing more than a guardian of the “sacred” while ignoring their responsibility to a secular society. As goes the pulpits...so goes the nation.

4. Our pulpits are totally failures. They teach the sheep how to be comfortable in the world and not how to change it. “All power is given unto me both in heaven and in earth,” Jesus told us in Matthew 28. The pastors hand-off the gavel to Obama...Hillary...Trump...and political parties.

Just this week I have seen a number of “pastors” come out and urge their clients to “vote Biblically” when they go into the booth. Most gellyfish don’t even know what that means. The live like Trump so they vote like Trump. Newsflash!! A nation that kills its offspring will never be great again.

5. I'll finish with this which is sure to tick some of you off. Where was the gathering of pastors who spoke out against the treacherous deeds of Obama? Where are the white pastors who failed to call out their black-shepherd-brothers for putting skin color above the blood of Christ while electing the anti-Christian, child-killing, sodomy supporting mulatto in the White House? Blacks in SC just voted 85% for Killary. I assume there are a few black-Christians in the Palmetto State.

Where are the pastors who kept their lips sealed while a member of The Church of Latter Day Saints ran for the President of the United States in 2012? Where are they today as Evangelical Christian Ted Cruz OPENLY prays with Mormon Glenn Beck?

Look, I like Glenn Beck. I used to enjoy his program until he recently ran off the rails. I might be wrong, but I don't think even Mormons consider themselves to be Christian. Beck claims to be a "born-again" Mormon...really? Is that even possible? If so, it flies in the face of the clear teaching of the Scriptures. I suppose they could be "Christians" but certainly not in a Biblical sense. But I am getting picky, I suppose.

This is not about Mormons. Mormons are fine people. This is not about Muslims. Most Muslims are fine people also. But, in my opinion, neither Mormons nor Muslims serve the God of the Bible.

So let me get this straight...Obama...Romney...Beck...are Christians...but Trump is not? Hillary and Bill are Christians, but Trump is not? Cruz publicly prays with a Mormon and not a whimper. Call me a bigot, but I won't pray with a Muslim. I won't pray with a Mormon, and I won't say a rosary with a Catholic. Unless they are "conservative", of course...and then I might reconsider.

Where have the pastors been? No wonder no one listens to them. They seem to be very selective in which “Christians” meet their standards. If Trump, Beck, Romney, and Obama have not repented of their sins, and put their trust in CHRIST ALONE for the remission of their sins they are not Christians no matter how “conservative” they might be.

Isn't it interesting that Christians have swapped their identity (Christians) for an ideology (Conservative)? That's why the argument is not over which candidate is the most “Christian” but rather which one is the most “conservative.”

One of America's leading “conservatives” George Will is an atheist. Maybe we should run him for President. I wonder how the pulpits would handle his atheism. Would his “conservatism” make him more palatable to Republicans than a self-identified, unsaved Presbyterian?

Maybe Trump will do for ‘conservatives” what Jonah did for Nineveh.

Bad trees produce bad fruit

“Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them.” –Jesus Christ in the Mathew 7.

Although the words of Jesus are not necessarily commandments they do carry the weight of infallibility. Jesus told us that the words he says unto us are "truth." Whenever Jesus says anything you can take it to the bank.

Two thousand years ago He warned us about our present situation but we failed to head His advice. Evil trees CANNOT bear good fruit.

Trees are weaved in and out of the imagery in the Holy Scriptures. Trees represent life-bearing roots upon which all living things grow. Some trees bring good fruit and some trees bring bad. Some trees are to be nourished and some trees are to be hewn done.

But one thing that is very clear from the words of Christ is that good trees produce only good fruit and bad trees are only capable of producing evil fruit. There is no wiggle room. Good or bad, you will be able to judge a tree by its fruit. Bad fruit equals a bad tree.

How could those of us who carry the Name of Christ have become so deceived? How have we been so easily tricked into grafting ourselves in to an evil tree? Here is the question of the day and if we answer it honestly we will understand why we find ourselves in such a precarious political position? Are you ready? Here is the question.

Is the Republican Party a good tree or a bad tree?

Stop right there. Don't try to rationalize your answer away. Simply answer the question. Don't tell me that the GOP does some good things...or that it is better than the other tree...the lesser of two-evils mantra. Simple question demands a simple answer. Is the Republican Party a good tree?

Of course the obvious answer is no. Just think of the metaphors that we use to describe political activity. "Politics is the art of compromise," or "politics is dirty business." If the fruit of the Republican Party is evil then it follows that the Republican Party is also evil. How have "evangelicals" become so deceived? St. Paul warned us...

"Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?"

We have permitted the political parties to renamed us and shove us into a box that is stuffed full of non-believers. The pundits no longer call us Christians...today we self identify as "conservatives." They have grafted us in as nothing more than one branch of the evil Republican tree...right along side the Log-Cabin Republicans...the homo-branch.

Let me stop right here for a second. There is no one more active in the cultural war than me. I fight everyday of my life for things that I feel are important to My Lord. But I learned a long time ago that the Republican Party was not going to save us. America's problems are moral...spiritual...and no political candidate can "make America great again!!"

But I watch in frustrated amusement as many of our religious leaders fight to have "one our guys" sitting in the top of the Republican tree. I vote, I fight for moral issues, but we have the words of Jesus to warn us that the Republican Party cannot bear good fruit no matter which "Christian-conservative" might sit in the Republican cat-bird seat.

How did this all happen? When did "the Body of Christ" permit itself to be nothing more than a branch on the evil GOP tree? Shouldn't it be the other way around? Shouldn't it be a Christian tree with all of the other "conservatives" asking if they could be grafted in to Christ? When did the Christian Church yield its power and authority to the counterfeit-salt known as the Republican Party?

The Republican Party demands compromise in order to be part of the team. As a result the Moral Majority is no longer either moral or the majority. We have simply become the “conservative” branch of the evil Republican tree. Christians have shirked our responsibility and have hired mercenaries...Republican politicians...to fight a battle for Truth that Jesus Himself mandated that His church would fight.

“The gates of hell,” Jesus proclaimed to His disciples, “shall not prevail against the church.” It was HIS church that He charged with storming the gates of hell. But HIS church wanted to be nicer than Jesus. The church wanted to be loved...and appreciated...and tolerant...and affirming. Jesus wanted us to fight for THE TRUTH. The gates of Hell will never be destroyed by the GOP.

Researchers tell us that there are over 240 million Christians in America. That is over 70% of the American electorate. Why isn't there a CHRISTIAN Party? Why are we content simply being a dead branch on a poison tree?

All of this growling I hear from “Christian” organizations and Christian leaders makes me want to scream. Groups like Focus on the Family, The American Family Association, Eagle Forum, Family Research Council, and a long list of “conservative” organizations have become nothing more than mouthpieces for the evil tree into which they have all become grafted. The Republican Party is evil and God's people have been relegated to little more than fund-raising branches of this rotting tree.

Let Donald Trump burn both of those evil trees down. There is nothing but rotten fruit falling off of both of them. Jesse Jackson warned us a decade ago.

Christians need to “stay out of the bushes.” It is time to plant our own tree.

Have we lost our stinkin' minds?

Common sense. That is probably the rarest commodity in all of America. We don't even know what that means anymore.

Common sense used to mean something that even the doltish of humans could understand. You don't eat dog poop. You don't touch dead animals that are decaying along the road. And men and women are not the same.

That is, as we used to say, elementary my friend. Elementary...as in elementary school. Elementary as in "easily dealt with; straightforward and uncomplicated." Elementary as in "you'd have to be stupid to not know that."

That is what common sense used to mean. But not anymore. There is no longer something as simple as common sense.

The perverts are at it again. The thought-perverts I am referring to. To "pervert" means:

- a. to lead astray morally.
- b. to turn away from the right course.
- c. to lead into mental error or false judgment.
- d. to turn to an improper use; misapply.
- e. to misconstrue or misinterpret, especially deliberately; distort:
- f. to bring to a less excellent state; vitiate; debase.

America is being controlled by perverted thoughts being promoted by perverted people. Perverted sense has replaced common sense.

I remember back in the early 2000's when we began to hear whispers that homosexuals wanted to get “married.” Most of us chuckled at the prospect of such a concept, so much so that we really never gave the demand any consideration. We still believed in “common sense” and never dreamed that such an outlandish demand would ever be considered, much less “legalized.”

Common sense would prevail, we believed, not realizing that common sense was going the way of Bible-based Churches. This Christian nation, many of us assumed, would never permit such perverted behavior to be accepted.

The inmates are running the asylum and they have twerked their way into positions of authority. The asylum is the government and the inmates are the perverts who strive for nothing less than the destruction of Western Civilization and the Christian standards upon which it was founded.

From Washington DC to Charlotte, North Carolina the perverts are calling the shots. If you think I am crazy take a few minutes and check out what is happening in Tobacco Road. Here is the story of gender neutral restrooms.

So let me get this straight. A city in the heart of the Bible belt is actually considering passing a law that would permit men and women to use the same public bathroom? Cultural perverts are doing their best to try and convince us that a man has a “constitutional” right to poop in a commode next to a stall in which a 12 year old girl goes to tinkle?

They are pulling out all of the stops to convince all of the knuckle-dragging Neanderthals that forcing a man with male plumbing to use a restroom designed for those with male plumbing is discriminatory and demeaning? They want us to believe that this “discriminatory” behavior somehow compares to black/white restroom standards in the old South?

Let me crystallize it for you. The elected City Council of Charlotte, NC is debating whether or not a grown man has the right to be in the restroom where an unsuspecting young girl might unknowingly wander.

The man, with male plumbing, wants to be recognized as a woman even though there is absolutely no physical or biological evidence to support such a claim. In fact, the only "evidence" is the "personal feeling" that a man's "gender" is determined by what is in his mind rather than what is between his legs.

When my wife and I got married it took me a couple of months to not feel embarrassed by "using the bathroom" when she was within earshot of the sounds I might emit while performing such a private bodily function.

Have we really reached the point in America where elected officials are willing to trade the protection of the modesty of young girls and boys for the perverted whims of those who think such cultural standards are discriminatory and sexist?

First they said they just wanted to come out of the closet. Then they wanted to be tolerated. Then they fought to be included. Then they demanded special laws. Now they want to pee next to your young daughter. Soon they will want to crap in your lap. The homosexual juggernaut knows no shame.

The churches have been neutered. The Pastors have become effeminized. They no longer defend the children. Some of them think that the establishment of gender-neutral restrooms is Christ-like. WWJT...Where Would Jesus Tinkle?

Where have all of the grown-ups gone? When will REAL MEN stand up to the perverts? How long before God-fearing daddies stand up and protect the innocence of their precious daughters from the alphabet deviants and their demonic agenda? Time is running out.

Have we lost our stinkin minds?

Equipping the Saints?

I have always wanted to know how cars worked. If you are anything like me you are at a loss when something goes wrong and the vehicle doesn't operate the way it was designed. Although I have had a great deal of experience DRIVING cars I have absolutely no training on how to FIX a car when it stops running.

That is why we have auto mechanics. They help us out when our ability to drive is useless because the car is not functioning the way it was designed. So, I decided to do something about it. I signed up for a class on how to repair cars.

It wasn't cheap. In fact the mechanic who was training me told me that in order to take the class I would be required to pay him 10% of my gross income. He told me that this giving was required because he had a lot of overhead and that it was necessary to keep his shop open.

Plus, he told me that he was worthy of his wages because he had invested a lot of time and energy in learning about cars. He could always earn a living repairing cars, he told me, but that he thought he could be more effective if he trained others how to do it.

This way, he assured me, more and more people would live better lives because of their ability to take care of the cars they owned. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, he told me. If we simply learned how to better maintain our cars we would find that most of our car-issues would go away.

So I signed up for the class, promised to show up every Sunday at 10:00 am, paid my 10%, and took my seat on the third row of the auditorium.

The class started out really well. I had no idea how little I knew about automobiles and the history behind the companies that made them. The first week we learned about Henry Ford and how he started the whole automobile thing. We learned about the assembly line and how this was one of the keys to the industrial revolution. I quickly realized that there was so much about cars that I had never learned.

The 2nd week I showed up at Sunday with my 10% in hand and took my usual seat on the third row. The mechanic had improved his presentation and unveiled a new power-point system that made it easier for us to follow along. He gave us a manual to use but told us that we needed to read that at home in our spare time, but if we really wanted to learn how to fix cars we needed to faithfully come to class and let him explain it to us.

The class was exciting. Each week I attended, with my 10% in hand, the senior mechanic used his power-points to give us more information on cars. We learned about Chevys, Volkswagens, Buicks, Chryslers, and many other makes and models of automobiles. He gave us the history on each company, and exactly what differentiated the models from one another. It was fascinating as I learned about all of the different types of automobiles.

I was really becoming an expert on cars and he was the best teachers ever at explaining cars.

But something happened on the way to my 12th Sunday session. The car I was driving, a 2005 PT Cruiser sputtered and died on the way to the class. I struggled to steer the car onto the shoulder on the passenger side of the highway. I was dressed in my Sunday best with my 10% check hanging out of my shirt pocket and wasn't exactly sure what to do next.

So I hopped out of the car, popped the hood and gazed into the pit where the engine was steaming. I don't know if I had ever felt so helpless in my life. After 11 weeks of instruction ABOUT cars from an expert mechanic I came to the startling revelation that I still knew nothing about what makes an engine run. I was still not equipped to fix the car when it began to malfunction.

I had no other choice but to use my 10% check on a tow truck. The driver towed my PT to a garage where some greasy-handed mechanic quickly identified and repaired my mechanical issue. Needless to say, the delay caused me to miss the 12th class on cars.

I never went back to the class. So much of what I had learned about cars was informative...but useless because it had no practical application when the engine stopped.

Although the class equipped me with a diverse knowledge about the history of automobiles I still did not have the ability to repair my own car, and even worse, had no ability to explain to my children the intricacies of auto mechanics.

Last week I changed the oil in my car for the first time. Never before in my 63 years had anyone ever shown me how to do it. But I grabbed the manual that the senior mechanic had given me that day and I turned to the part where the author explains how to change engine oil.

I took the book with me and I went out into my driveway and followed the directions in the Book. Yesterday I took my wife out in the garage and showed her how to do it. It is so easy. I can't wait to show all of my kids and grandkids.

I don't have a degree in auto mechanics but I found out that if you simply pick up the manual and follow the directions it is easy to do. The Book also shows how to change all of the other fluids...and so much more.

Learning all about Henry Ford was interesting and all...but all I ever really wanted to do was learn to change my oil.

As far as the senior mechanic is concerned, to be honest, I don't know if he really knows how to fix a car either. Every time I see him he is talking about cars but I don't recall ever having seen him with his head under the hood.

The chickens are coming home to roost

Rev. Jeremiah Wright uttered the phrase “The Chickens Are Coming Home to Roost” in reference to the effects of racism in America. In retrospect, we would have done well to heed his admonition.

The chickens always come home to roost.

“Eating crow” is another hackneyed cliché spewed by one of Pastor Wright's more infamous parishioners and is often used out here in the heartland where folks still cling to their “God and their guns.”

There is a lot of crow soon to be served up and the chickens will soon be lining up at the door of the coop.

The Bible puts it this way, “be sure your sin will find you out.” (Numbers 32:23)

The controversy regarding Ted Cruz and Marco Rubio and the natural born citizen requirement in the Constitution is about to bite them in the butt. The farther down the road to the White House we get, the more of an issue their citizenship is going to become.

I think it is pretty clear that neither of them fit the natural born citizen requirement specified in Article II Section I of the Constitution. Even though you will find legal "experts" making arguments on both sides of this issue, there is no doubt that at some point a court is going to be forced to hand down a decision.

The issue is not going to go away—at least not until the Supreme Court rules on precisely what the Founders meant when they inserted the requirement in the document.

This is the elephant in the room; the poison pill that is waiting to derail any Republican attempt to regain control of the White House. I don't know about you, but the last thing I would want is to put the future of the Republican nominee in the hands of the most corrupt Supreme Court in the history of this nation.

Lawsuits challenging the eligibility of Cruz and Rubio will continue to stack up until some leftist judge somewhere rules that the presumed Republican nominee does not meet the qualifications to hold the highest office in the land.

A series of appeals will ensue until the case, at the last minute, is rushed to the Supreme Court for a determination of eligibility. I'm neither a legal expert nor a bean counter, but I can count the votes: Kagen, Sotomayor, Ginsburg, Breyer on one side versus Roberts, Thomas, Scalia, Alito on the other, leaving good old Mr. Sodomy himself, Anthony Kennedy, holding the future of the election in his unsteady hands.

disqualification by virtue of shooting themselves in the foot.

Kicking the can down the road will be impossible with a hole in their metatarsals.

The Republican Party could have avoided this conundrum had they simply done their duty in the election of 2008 and challenged the citizenship of Barack Hussein Obama and forced a court to rule on the issue once and for all.

The Republican crowd is being cooked on the grill even as we speak.

Candidate Obama was not a natural born citizen either. Hillary Clinton was the first one to raise the issue in her primary run against Obama in 2007. She, and members of the Democratic Party, chose not to pursue the issue for fear of the damage it would do to their strangle-hold on the voting block known as the "African-Americans."

Early in the election of 2008 some Republicans began to raise the issue, but they were soon ridiculed into silence for fear of being labeled "racists" and losing the "black" vote which was never going to their candidate anyway. This willingness to compromise principle for pragmatism is the bullet in the chamber that could kill a "conservative" victory before the first ballot is cast. All laws matter.

Barack Obama does not meet the natural born citizen requirement. This fact was whispered in the backrooms of Republican circles for years. But fear of being labeled "birthers" or "truthers" caused their knees to buckle at a time when their spine needed to be stiffened. For either Cruz or Rubio to scream "Hispanic" does not carry the same power as the word "African."

Now we are hearing that certain Republicans are not "conservative" enough to be elected. It's funny that Glenn Beck, Mark Levin and their ilk, who the claim to be staunch conservative constitutionalists, have never demanded that the first African-American President prove his eligibility before handing him the keys to the most powerful office in the world.

Folks, rule of law matters! We are a nation of laws, and no one is above the law. What principle is more “conservative” than that?

Was Obama eligible to be President? Are Cruz and Rubio eligible to be President? I have a feeling that five black-robed terrorists sitting across the street from the Capitol building will eventually be weighing in on the issue. What do you suppose are the odds of them ruling in favor of the first Hispanic Republican candidate?

The leftists in America have been seething ever since the Supreme Court ruled for the Republicans in Bush v. Gore. This challenge to eligibility could give them the opportunity to even the score for losing the White House in 2000.

I don't know about you, but I am not too excited about once again putting the fate of the nation in the hands of a make-it-up-as-you-go Supreme Court.

Cockadoodledoo!!! The chickens are coming home to roost.

party stranglehold

I want to make it very clear right at the top that I am a Ted Cruz supporter. No one has been a more ardent supporter of “conservative values” than me. In fact, I have climbed a rung higher up the ladder than most. I do not identify as a “conservative.” I am a Christian. I rejected the “conservative” label years ago.

They are not the same, you know? If you have time take a moment to read my commentary from 2006 Counterfeit Salt. I take a backseat to no one in regards to my Christian-political bona fides. So don't play the “you are a sellout” or “you are not a real Christian” or “you are controlled opposition” card on me.

I live out and walk out my Christianity every day on the streets of America. I don't hide myself inside my prayer closet like so many others choose to do. Here is another commentary I wrote four years later in 2010 called Secular Conservatism. I have been publicly expressing my thoughts in near-weekly columns since 2004. What I have said in the past is available for the world to read. There is a record of where I have stood on the issues. They are all here. There are hundreds for you to read.

I pray I can get out everything I want to express in a few hundred words.

Let me say it again. I am a Ted Cruz supporter but I am not afraid of Donald Trump.

Our political system is broken. It is controlled by evil men...evil forces actually. The Republican Party has been a “pro-life” party since the days of Reagan. We had Reagan, Bush Sr, Bush Jr, and nominees McCain and Romney and the war on the unborn has not abated one iota. Nevertheless I, and millions like me, continued to pull the “conservative” lever in the hopes that at some point the right "Republican" would do the right thing.

Meanwhile, the babies die. Planned Parenthood sells more parts than Auto Zone and EVERY moral issue that matters to me has been trampled underfoot without as much as a whimper from our "conservative Republican" representatives in Washington.

For years we believed that the Republicans would do what our pastors refuse to do...stand up, speak up, and stop the killing of precious, defenseless, innocent little boys and girls created in the image of God. Why would we expect more conviction from politicians than pastors?

At the latest "March for Life" we heard from all of the "pro-life" Republicans who haven't done a damn thing to stop the killing. Being pro-life is nothing more than a political position...like being "pro-women"...meaningless platitudes.

(I saw a bumper sticker the other day that read Abortion stops a beating heart. How stupid, I thought to myself. Of course it does. You might as well have a bumper sticker stating brushing your teeth freshens your breath. Stating a fact is not a position. If you really believe "abortion stops a beating heart" what are you gonna do about it?)

Vote Republican. Yeah right. By the way, the March for Life was the 43rd March. How's that marching working out for you? About the same way as voting "pro-life," I guess. Have the "conservatives been faithful to do what they promised?

Remember, I am a Ted Cruz fan. But I am still waiting for him to issue this statement. "On my first day in office I will issue an executive order prohibiting all abortions in America. In 1973 we did not have the scientific advancements that we have to day and I am commissioning a panel to determine if the child inside the women is a living, human being. Until we have scientific proof we will err on the side of a baby's right to life."

Now THAT would be a pro-life President. The Republicans have played us for such fools. We got homosexual marriage on a Republican watch.

So, here is why I could vote for Trump

We are at a watershed point in the history of America. I actually believe that the battle for Western Civilization is before us. We have not seen an election like this in my lifetime.

Quick. Think what makes up the "Democrat" constituency. Blacks, union workers, low educated, poor, young college women, and Hispanics.

Republican voters consist of, Evangelicals, gun-owners, military hawks, small government, debt conscious, traditional values folks. I hate the term "values voters" because we all vote our values. The problem is we no longer have common values.

Thirty years from now, if something is not done, the flood of immigrants sweeping into this land will change the political landscape forever. The electorate will consist of not only immigrants, but of immigrants that no longer have "American" values. Let's be honest, the idea of "American" values is being undermined every day in this country. What do you think multi-cultural means? They can't even speak our language...or understand our system of government...or believe in our Constitution.

A Trump candidacy breaks up the two-party stranglehold that is designed to keep the power elite in power. He has something no other Republican has...the ability to draw together "Americans" from both parties. Ted Cruz can not do that, although, in a perfect world, he is the type of Godly leader we need. But this is not the America we all used to know. Explosive changes are coming to this nation and we have a very short period of time to fix it. Realignment is taking place and we dare not miss this shift.

Let me share this story. One of my high school buddies is a dyed-in-the-wool union Democrat. Over breakfast the other day politics made its way onto our plate.

“Are you voting for Hillary?” I asked him.

“Hell no,” he tersely responded. “I wouldn’t vote for that witch. I’m voting Trump, if I vote at all.”

“Trump?!” I blurted out my coffee. “You’re voting for Trump...a Republican?”

“He ain’t no Republican. Trump is an American. He says what I think. Trump or communism...that’s the way I see it.”

I try to look farther down the road than most. Ted Cruz would be the best President but he cannot break the stranglehold that the Democrats have on minorities. We are asking a segment of our society to break a multi-generational mindset of Democrat loyalty. They won’t vote for Cruz because he is a Republican. It goes against everything they have believed.

But they can vote for Trump because he is an American who happens to be running as a Republican. They can vote for an American without violating their conscience.

Look down the road with me. If the America we all believe in is to survive then we must build a coalition of citizens who hold American values.

That coalition must consist of “Americans”...blacks, union workers, God-fearing folk...who share common American values. Only Trump has the ability to bring that coalition together. Once members of both parties will break free from the “liberal/conservative” boxes that the media and power-elite have herded the voters into we will have the opportunity to reshape the electorate in such a way that a Ted Cruz Presidency might one day become a reality.

This two-card Monty political system needs to be blown up. Twenty years from now, if we are still here, this Democrat/Republican system will be a thing of the past. In its place will be a political alignment much different from the one we see today...

I am not afraid of a Trump Presidency. I am more afraid of what we will become if we remain in the sheep-pens into which the media has herded us.

Let's pray for Donald Trump. Pray the Lord opens his eyes. Pray the Lord does a miracle in his life. Even Jesus used an ass to accomplish His will.

I want Cruz...but I can live with Trump...and Trump is looking more and more like a reality. With each passing day.

Proverbs 21:1 The king's heart is in the hand of the LORD, as the rivers of water: he turneth it whithersoever he will."

"Holy Spirit please penetrate Donald Trump's heart. Do in his heart what You did in mine." May that be our prayer.

When law breakers become the law makers

I just returned from Tennessee where some of my friends have been working heroically trying to get the Tennessee Legislature to do their duty and uphold their Constitutional oath.

While the airwaves are abuzz with concern about how “conservative” Donald Trump is and whether or not he can be trusted to handle the office of the Presidency the American people were just under-cut by some of those same “conservatives” in Tennessee.

Yes, my friends, Donald Trump should be the least of our worries.

Brave Tennessee State Representative Mark Pody introduced legislation in the House this month that would have told the tyrannical Federal Government and their out-of-control Supreme Court to go pound sand in regards to homosexual “marriage.” Mark Pody’s bill was the first of its kind in the nation and would have nullified the un-constitutional Obergefell decision forcing sodomy-based marriage on the citizens of Tennessee.

We are living under a powerful unelected oligarchy the likes of which this once- free nation has never seen. The Constitutional Republic under which this nation was founded was designed to keep such tyranny from occurring.

But no nation can survive when the biggest law breakers are the law-makers. This government of, by, and for the people can only survive if we, the people, demand obedience to the law by those who have been elected to serve.

America is a captured nation and those who have sworn to protect and defend our rights are negligent in that duty.

I learned again this week that Donald Trump is the least of our worries.

You can read all about the goings on in Nashville by visiting Courts Cannot Make Law. Here is what happened in a nutshell.

Representative Pody introduced House Bill 1412 which was written to permit the State of Tennessee to declare that the Obergefell opinion was not binding in the State of Tennessee. It seems that there was already a law on the books that defined marriage as a union of one man and one woman. That law had passed with nearly 82% of the vote of the people. Nothing in the Supreme Court decision changed the law in Tennessee.

There is no Federal law on the books regarding marriage. There was one, however, until 2013, a Federal law known as The Defense of Marriage Act defined marriage as a union ONLY of one man and one woman. That law was passed in 1996 and signed by Bill Clinton. It was the "law of the land" until overturned by a Supreme Court opinion in 2013. Then, in 2015, the Supreme Court "legalized" homosexual marriage, an act that they have no legal authority to perform.

The bill in Tennessee was nothing more than an affirmation of existing law and the enforcing of both the 9th and 10th amendment rights of the citizens of Tennessee. Marriage is a State issue and out of the jurisdiction of the Federal Government.

Today, Mark Pody's bill was killed in a sub committee hearing thereby blocking the bill from making it to the floor where it was sure to pass. The committee, made up of 3 Republicans and 2 Democrats failed to deliver the three votes necessary to keep the bill alive.

One of the "conservative" members of the committee proudly announced that he was a Christian and that he did not need to get God's approval on how he would vote on the bill. This "Christian Conservative" voted to reject the bill and God's definition of marriage. The bill died by a vote of 4-1.

Donald Trump is the least of our worries.

The bill to protect traditional marriage in Tennessee was fought every step of the way by Focus on the Family associated Family Action Council of Tennessee. David Fowler the head of this "Christian" organization ran interference for his Republican buddies to make sure that the bill would not make it to the floor. Fowler, the head of FACT did everything he could to insure that this bill would never see the light of day.

Donald Trump is the least of our worries.

For eight weeks faithful volunteers worked diligently on the ground in Tennessee to raise up church/pastor support for the bill. Getting the pastors involved in the affairs of the nation is almost an impossible task. They choose to leave earthly matters to the control of Satan's imps. Donald Trump is the least of our worries.

There was a public hearing held today regarding the bill. The room was filled with Christians as they looked in the eyes of the officials who had sworn to uphold the Constitution. Testimony was heard from witnesses called before the committee. NOT ONE witness spoke in support of homosexual marriage. The bill died with no spoken opposition from the homosexual mafia.

America is dying because our pastors will not carry the torch for Christian values. America is dying because "conservative" politicians will not stand up for the people they have sworn to represent. The marriage bill died a silent death today for lack of a second. Why would we expect elected officials to carry a torch that our Christian leadership refuses to pick up?

Did I tell you that David Fowler is available to speak to one of your "conservative" groups? Jesus warned us that "our enemies will be those of our own household."

Full of excuses

I didn't write this but I have had many similar conversations. I would credit the author but I don't know who wrote it because I received it as a forwarded email. It is a quick read with a profound punch. I thought it deserved wider circulation. Enjoy.

"And what would Jesus have done if He were passing a pagan temple where they were sacrificing children?" I asked,

My friend responded, "Well, I suppose He'd stop."

..."And do what?"

"Probably say something"

"Like what?"

"Probably that they should stop."

"And then what?"

"I don't know."

"What would He have done?"

"Well, He wouldn't have held a sign."

"Why?"

"Because He spoke in love."

"When He called people 'brood of vipers' and 'whitewashed tombs,' was that in love?"

"Yes. But He wouldn't have held a graphic sign."

"Why?"

"Because He spoke in love."

"Why is a graphic sign not loving?"

"Because it turns people off to Christianity."

"Why?"

"Because it's offensive and people won't approach you."

"When He called people 'brood of vipers' and 'whitewashed tombs,' was that offensive?"

"Well, yes. But that was Jesus."

"So, we shouldn't be like Jesus then?"

"No, I'm not saying that."

"What are you saying then?"

"That we should be loving and not offensive. We need to show people we're just like them."

"John 15:19 tells us that we're not to be of the world and because of that, the world will hate us."

"That's true."

"So, then why should we be like the world?"

"Well, we shouldn't."

"How should we preach the Gospel?"

"Not with signs."

"Why?"

"Jesus didn't use signs."

"Jesus didn't use a printed Bible, either. Should we only use what He had available then?"

"Well, He could have made a sign if He wanted to."

"How?"

"With parchment."

"Where would they have gotten the ultrasound picture from?"

"Well, they didn't have any."

"So, tell me again how He would have made the sign in a way the culture would have understood what an ultrasound photo was."

"I'm just saying we shouldn't be offensive."

"When Jesus called Peter 'Satan,' was that offensive to Peter?"

"Yes, I'm sure it was."

"Was it in love?"

"Well, yes."

"Why? It was offensive?"

"Because Jesus was trying to make Peter understand he was wrong."

"So, He spoke truth in love, but offended someone?"

"Yes."

"And...?"

"OK, well, you have a point, but I still don't think it's the best way."

"How would you do it, then?"

"Well, there are organizations that do this kind of thing."

"So, if there is an organization willing to do what we are not, we should support them?"

"That's what they're there for. They're called to that."

"When Jesus said to preach the Gospel to the ends of the Earth, was that only to some people?"

"No."

"Who was it to?"

"Everyone. It's the Great Commission."

"When Jesus said that we should love our neighbor as ourselves, was that also to just some people?"

"No, that was to everyone, too."

"So, if we are to preach the Gospel to everyone everywhere and to love all our neighbors, why should we only have some people do it?"

"I'm waiting for your answer."

"I just think some people are called to certain things."

"Like what?"

"Certain areas."

"Like what?"

"Like missions."

"Like what?"

"Like going to a place where the Gospel needs preached."

"Like where?"

"I don't know, like wherever it's needed."

"And only some people are called to share the Gospel?"

"No, we all are."

"So, would it be correct to say we're all missionaries?"

"Yeah, I think so."

"Where are you a missionary to?"

"I don't know. I guess where I work"

Does the Great Commission specify where we each are called to share the Gospel?"

"No."

"Actually, it does."

"Where?"

"It says everywhere."

"Oh, well, yeah."

"So, why are you only called to your workplace?"

"I mean, I guess I'm not just called there."

"Where then?"

"Well, maybe my golf group and things like that, too. You know, places I go."

"Have you driven down Market Street in Akron?"

"Yeah."

"Did you know that 3 minutes from our church building, they murder babies on Market Street?"

"Well, yeah, but that's where you go, right?"

"Yes, that's where I go on Saturday mornings."

"OK, so what's your point?"

"You've driven past there, right?"

"Yeah, I just said so."

"And you just said that you are supposed to share the Gospel all the places you go, right?"

"Yeah."

"So, why are you not sharing the Gospel there?"

"Well, I mean, you're there, right?"

"Yes, but we started this conversation by you saying I shouldn't be."

"Well...yeah, I guess we did."

"So, tell me again why I shouldn't be there?"

"Well, I mean I see your point. But I don't like the signs."

"But you're OK with my preaching there then?"

"Well, I mean, yeah. That needs done. But it needs to be in love."

"Define love."

"The passage in Corinthians."

"You mean where it says, 'Love is patient, love is kind,' etc?"

"Yes. See? It says 'Love is kind.'"

"It also says, 'Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres.'"

"Yeah. I don't see your point."

"What does it look like for love to not delight in evil, but rejoice in truth? Would allowing children to be murdered be 'kind'?"

"I...well, I guess that means we shouldn't do bad things, but follow the truth in the Bible."

"Like modeling Christ and how He acted, right?"

"Right."

"How about telling people about Hell and judgment?"

"No, see, that's where we drive people away."

"So, when Jesus said if an eye causes you to sin, it'd be better to gouge it out rather than go to Hell, that was wrong?"

"Was He wrong?"

"No. He's Jesus."

"And we're supposed to model Him, right?"

"Yes."

"So, again, why is speaking about judgment and Hell wrong?"

"It's not, it just shouldn't be the first thing out of our mouths."

"If a blind person was walking off a cliff, what would be the first thing out of your mouth? 'I love you and want to help' or 'You're walking off a cliff!' "

"The last one."

"Why?"

"Because it's the most important at that moment."

"So, if someone is going to murder someone else right in front of you, should we shout 'God loves you and has a wonderful plan for your life' or should we shout 'Don't murder that person!' "

"The last one again."

"Why?"

"Because they're about to murder the person!"

"So, why is it wrong for me to stand outside an abortion clinic and tell people not to murder their children?"

"So...again, why is it wrong for me to stand outside an abortion clinic and tell people not to murder their children?"

"It's not. I just think there's a better way."

"What is it?"

"We should tell them God loves them."

"I'm going to murder someone in 10 seconds. Quick, share the entire Gospel and then prevent me from murdering. Go!"

"Um...uh, God loves you and He died on the cross. He rose again on the third day and He-"

"Stop! 10 seconds. Just murdered the person. And now you're to blame."

"Me? How am I to blame?!"

"You didn't tell me not to. I just know God loves me. He'll love me even though I murdered someone, right?"

"Well, no. I didn't say that! You can't murder someone and then ask for forgiveness."

"Why? You only told me God loves me."

"He does, but you can't murder someone!"

"You never told me that."

"You didn't give me a chance!"

"Yeah, I did. I gave you as much of a chance as anyone gives me outside an abortion mill."

"Well...I mean, that's not enough time."

"No, it's not. So, in that instance, what is most important? Explaining the entire Gospel? Or trying to convince them to stop before they murder another person?"

"Getting them to stop."

"OK, 10 seconds again. I can't hear a word you're saying because you're so far away. Convince me not to murder my child. Go!"

"What? I can't...what?"

" 7...6...5..."

"Uh, I uh...um, what? I can't talk?"

"2...1...the baby is dead. Congratulations, you did nothing."

"But how am I supposed to get you to understand if I can't even speak to you?! That's not fair!"

"Maybe...I don't know, a large sign might have helped?"

"Uh...(sigh). Yeah."

"So, tell me again why I shouldn't preach the Gospel wherever I go, tell people not to murder their children, use a large sign, and speak words of truth that people might be offended by?"

"OK, I guess I'm seeing your point a little."
