

Is the World About to Destroy Itself?

The masses become more corrupt, perverse, confused. They are ever more robotized, subject to insidious forces that lead them. They worship shrewd, cunning leaders who parade them straight into the calamity just around the bend.

Highway Of Faith

Armageddon is coming soon. The good people of all races, colors, and creeds are being called out to line up against the bad. The world is beginning to polarize along the dividing line between good and evil. As it has been in the past, the catalyst will be the now-reborn nation of Israel. I cannot tell you more.

Understanding Sexuality: Prince Charming

Occasionally, a woman comes along who seems to have been left out of Eve's secret, who is relatively guileless, and yet manages to attract a man by the sheer beauty of her body. Starry-eyed and romantic, she sees her own ego need as a large white canvas on which her man will paint a stunningly beautiful picture, warm and rich in exquisite detail.

Pride and Hero Worship

Men, in their pride, elect all kinds of saints, gods, champions and heroes, then identify with them and share in their glories and experiences. Such leaders are really vicious tempters, and encourage the weakness of the masses for the power they get from them.

Slave of The Illusion

As you pick up the surface behavior, you also take on the more secret evil and its purpose. In turn, the conflict you feel inside makes the psychopath seem more attractive and compels you to look up to him even more—to the end that he will glorify you again.

The Door To Your Emotions

“Every emotion that is turned on by the outside makes you into a beast, subject to the control and the mood of the outside, with less and less control within your own self. “

Forcing A Flower

“It is lust for power, greed, selfishness, and impatience that will destroy all of you. We must change our approach to one another. We must discover the true meaning of grace and love.”

Prisoners Of Past Traumas

A selfish man's weakness draws to him what sucks him to death, and that, he perceives in his deluded mind as loving and being loved. Man is born in sin, and sin is trauma, a failing of every father's, transmitted through every mother since Eve.

Your Mind is Stressing You to Death

Strong emotions stir up vivid thoughts that can hold your attention so captive that you fail to see where you are going, and when you can't see where you are going, you have accidents.

Romantic Lies

We die fondling romantic lies that re-arouse the sensuous nature, and we milk those old love-hate feelings and thoughts for all they are worth in order to forget what old and miserable failures we have become.

A Way Of Life That Leads To Death

But if you meet life with anger, jealousy, hate, hostility and hurt feelings, your guilt will grow through the years. Worsening, you become angry with yourself and your sickness.

The Mad Director

You cannot overcome your environmental subjectivity, from which your fears and inferiorities rise, until you let yourself realize the root cause: making THINGS too important in order to feed your ego a sense of security and importance.

The Dark Power of Doubt

If there was indeed a first being, Adam, who began to live backwards by responding, it must have been because he doubted God and believed Satan. Only doubt could have separated him from his maker. Our response to demands and pressures is all the evidence we need that the doubt principle is still alive and well in us today.

The Light Of Reality

A drink often has a clearing effect on the mind, but the person who is dependent on a drink for this effect is not able to handle what he sees, so he only becomes more upset than he was before.

The Learning Trap

Resentment traps us into a bleak and depressing existence that nothing can cure except this simple truth that will set you free—repent and no longer resent. Knowing what cruel impatience has done to you, and lest you pass it on to the next generation, you must drop your frustrations toward your own broken teachers and parents.

Artificial Pacifiers for Grownups

In order to hang onto the feeling of being “saved,” the user must give himself over to the drug increasingly. Soon he centers his whole existence around the drug, the source of his “salvation,” and he will do anything to maintain his relationship with it.

Prevention is the Cure

“Prevention is the cure; keep the pressure from getting under your skin by remaining calm at the point of stress.”

Emotionally Entangled

The real you reading this should be grasping the fact that you no longer need to function from the malevolent spirit implanted in language; the silent cognition of what you are reading here is sufficient to begin lifting the burden.

A Simple Gift

The problem was not with him, you see, it was that I was not mature enough to receive such kindness without becoming beholden to the giver. Such dependency is amplified by terrible insecurities, fears and a sense of worthlessness established in childhood.

Death Wish

The urge for liberation, or release, is so prevalent in our devolving society that psychologists had to give it a name. They call it the “death wish” or “death instinct.” Unfortunately, they have never come up with a satisfactory explanation for it. Why should people will their own death?

Emotional Time Bombs

When we blow off steam, we pass our emotional problems on to our children. And if we implode, instead of exploding, we make a mess of our own psyches. Soon we may find ourselves spending so much time and money on our efforts to repair the damage, that we cannot relate properly to the members of our family.

Sinking In Your Thinking

People without true identity think without reason and control. What they feel like doing seems right, and what they do not feel like doing seems wrong. All of us are driven by self-made fear, anxiety and excuses for their actions.

One Life Leads To Life, The Other To Death

If you love what is good, you will champion this cause—fearlessly, and regardless of consequences. Your love of Truth will create unpleasant, often dangerous conditions; but fortunately, you will find the growing strength with which to meet those problems successfully.

Affliction Of The Soul

Mankind has fallen victim to the mercy of nature, lured there by something subnatural and unreal. Man has been created differently from all other creatures. He needs a master, a source of meaning and direction in his life.

Danger And Courage

Cruel and unthinking people are giving you the opportunity to accomplish now what you failed to do before. The situations that once made you upset, guilty and afraid will become the very things to give you happiness and well-being from now on.

A Man In A Swamp

The less we modify our emotions and reactions, the less we can modify them. Struggling like a man in a swamp, we are left to our own insufficient devices.

Anger Is A Lack of Love

When a situation is not met with the delicate timing of Truth, then you are seen as unjust. When you lack the understanding to meet a situation, you will excite the animal nature of others to rise up and give you greater pain – that you are powerless to meet.

The Journey of Self Destruction

The more we deny God to be god (always right, never wrong), the more deeply we will involve ourselves with the people, places, pleasures, and intrigues that will surely kill us in the end.

Resisting Negative Suggestions

Inasmuch as we all enter the world as products of original sin, we tend to put our faith in the people we find around us, and as a result, we wind up misled, betrayed, and disillusioned.

Truth: The Ultimate Stress

The animal hardens itself against environment by growing stronger than the stress. The human being must reverse this process, and not harden himself against the stress of the Truth; instead he must allow himself to be absorbed by that Truth, progressively responding to it.

Using Anger To Control People

Therefore, the solution lies in the present moment. If you discover the way to stop reacting to the present as the extension of your past, a wonderful thing happens. It is the present reaction of resentment that builds upon the original implanted event and reinforces all aberrant behaviors.

The coming bloody revolution in America

This is an interview with Roy Masters by David Kupelian on November 11, 1987 for the New Dimensions Magazine.

America IS being intentionally destroyed, says Roy Masters, and he's not talking about Russians.

As an Englishman who loves America, the real America, Masters has for 27 years been warning Americans about the disintegration of their country on his syndicated radio program, "How Your Mind Can Keep You Well." Here for the first time, he is laying out what he sees in store for this country in the years ahead.

The American system was founded on an idea so radical and seemingly beyond human nature that, technically speaking, America shouldn't even exist. And the notion that human beings could govern their own lives responsibly, respecting the rights of others, without the need for a king or tyrant, but only for public servants, ran contrary to all other governments in the history of the human race. In just two short centuries, America has shamed the rest of the world with its mind-boggling success, freedom and wealth.

Today, eighty million people in America receive a government handout; almost half the people are dependent on the labors of the other half. What happened to individual responsibility? Has this country truly fallen into socialism, corruption, immorality, crime and violence, as has so often been said? Or has it been pushed? According to Roy Masters, Americans have not understood the nature of the people they have elected to lead them. Men who aspire to have power over others are a different breed, he says. And it is up to the good people of this country to recognize this difference if they wish to save their country.

MASTERS: There are people in this world who are plain wicked; they are the walking dead.

These people want you to be on welfare; they want you to mismanage your life. They promote promiscuity and human weakness. They promote the downfall of the human spirit and they pretend sympathy and love for it and then they rise to cure it with tax money.

NEW DIMENSIONS: Sounds like you're talking about liberals.

MASTERS: The liberals in this country, the labor party in Britain—it's the same mentality. The liberals mother the weakness of a certain segment of the population. They have no intent to make better human beings. Their intent is to breed more of them because then there's a broader base for their election. Does that make sense to you?

NEW DIMENSIONS: Are you saying that with these people in power, it's intentional, consciously or unconsciously, to do this, to create debilitated people?

MASTERS: Correct. You see, there are two types of people in the world. There are those who have a very strong moral sense of conscience of right and wrong and wish to adhere to it. When they are wrong, and when they make mistakes, they are able to correct them, or at least seek for answers in a rational way. But there are other people who don't love what is right and are not aware of the fact that they are wrong. They don't have a moral conscience like our types do. Their types typically argue against moral absolutes because when you can make everything shades of gray, then you can rationalize any way of life, especially the wrong way of life. There are two classes of human beings in the world, of every race, color and creed. It has nothing to do with race or color. I'm saying that those who come from the dark place seek to rule their brothers; and all the suffering, all the misery, all the tragedy, sickness, disease, war, horror, murder and insanity have come from these people who cannot see how mad they are.

NEW DIMENSIONS: But why is it that they are always the people in power?

MASTERS: Because ever since the fall of man, whenever people are traumatized, even good people, they become addicted to the power of the traumatizer. In other words, once you leave behind your innocence, there is a little piece of them in you that is subject to that which put it there.

NEW DIMENSIONS: So, just as an individual is subject to his traumatic conditioning, you're saying the whole world is subject to its source of trauma in terms of political power, but what is it that these leader-types are getting out of leading everybody to be so corrupt?

MASTERS: Power. It's the love of power. If you believe in good and evil, then obviously evil wants to dominate good, or destroy good, and be the god of those who are not good. You see, people have to understand something, and this is a very hard thing to grasp because we are talking about the evils of the world; the Nazis' extermination of the Jews, the massacres of the Armenians, the things that went on with the Viet Cong, the massacres in Africa. We talk about what human beings do; how they chop off children's heads and rip open pregnant mothers' bellies and pull out the embryos. You wonder, "What is this?" You see, there are two forces that are opposed to one another. The Bible says there are two forces that wait upon a man; good and evil, and whatever enters is what we incline our heart to, and some people are permanently subject to that evil because whatever they have become as a result of that sin is who they are, and they cling to that which created them.

NEW DIMENSIONS: Are you saying that a person who becomes corrupted like that and they don't change from that; that's what they wanted to become?

MASTERS: Well, you increasingly defend the wrong that's growing up in you, so it grows up more in you. If you're incorrigibly prideful, that's what happens. The trouble is, when your brother grows up to be not so prideful and has a different nature from you, coming from a different place.

NEW DIMENSIONS: It reminds you of the way you are.

MASTERS: Yes and the wicked don't want to be reminded because it is like dying for them. So that creates the impulse to kill or to destroy that which tends to stand as a contrast. That's why parents destroy their innocent children. They cannot stand the look of that child that reminds them of what they've lost and what they've become. This society has become increasingly intolerant of innocence.

Let me make a point: If you spoil a child and console him and don't let him feel the pain of his mistakes, he will become dependent upon the person who provides that kind of answer. Never will he put roots down inside of himself. He can always reach outside to someone who will give him sympathy and take his pain away. As a result of that, instead of him becoming a better person, he starts to take on the direction of the person who set him up for this. So he becomes less and less able to fend for himself, more and more dependent, not only on the answers and excuses provided by his benefactor, but he also becomes dependent on welfare, someone helping him to exist. So he becomes totally dependent. Eventually, if we don't cure the condition, the condition worsens because he produces more offspring who, as they grow up to become teenagers and adults, also produce offspring and are now stuck in a vicious cycle of welfare dependency. There are more and more of them and less and less of us.

NEW DIMENSIONS: And you're saying this is by design? I can see that one thing it accomplishes is to create a power base, a voting bloc.

MASTERS: Right. It creates an electorate. Therefore, the communist-socialist type of mentality (who are the ones who want power) can only have power by creating dependent people; more and more of them. Because once they are created, they're going to have their own representatives and that's where the idea for big government spending comes from. Because those people who are now receiving some sort of government handout, are now becoming the majority. Pretty soon the Americans who work and have to support that will have to go out and have two jobs; mother and father both working, the taxes becoming higher and higher

NEW DIMENSIONS: You have that situation now.

MASTERS: But it will get to the point that, by political decree, they can't even save for their own future, their own independence. Eventually, they will become wards of the state too. Pretty soon, everybody's on welfare. Because the money you could have saved for your own future, you have to pay to some whore with twelve kids in the ghetto. The point is this: eventually, people like us are going to say, "Just a minute!

That's enough. Our own survival is at stake. We're just not going to let that happen anymore." And when we do that, there's going to be a tax revolt. When the tax revolt comes, those people who have been on welfare? Their funds will be cut off.

NEW DIMENSIONS: They'll go nuts.

MASTERS: They are violent enough anyway because of the humiliation of being on welfare. They need it, but then they feel humiliated by taking it. You see, once a person has been humiliated and dehumanized by welfare, he becomes addicted because he can't fend for himself. But the average ego cannot stand the conflict of having an existence that is dependent on somebody else. It is humiliating to his ego. So what he does, because he can no longer take money that is handed down to him, he has to go out and steal and rob for it; that way he humiliates while he takes. These people are already becoming killers and the conflict of not being able to grow, and the conflict of being addicted to the violators who are pretending to love them and help them, and who pretend to have their welfare at heart, but are creating slaves, goes on and on. The conflict of growing up that way is so great, that many of them spend their welfare checks on dope, and when whose funds are cut off, those people are going to come streaming out of the inner cities into the countryside, pillaging and robbing and murdering. It'll be them against us.

NEW DIMENSIONS: You're saying that the productive people are going to stop paying taxes....

MASTERS: They're going to say, "No more." If I know Americans, they're a lot different from Europeans. There's a certain element in America that is different from their counterpart in Europe.

NEW DIMENSIONS: A little more gutsy do you think?

MASTERS: A little more gutsy.

NEW DIMENSIONS: This rebellion that you're talking about; the form that it takes right now is the huge underground economy. It represents people refusing to pay taxes, because taxes aren't fair and they're pocketing it, or they're not declaring it. Are you saying there's going to be an open revolt, like the Boston Tea Party? Because remember most people are afraid of the government. The IRS is cracking down; they're requiring that five-year-olds have a Social Security number now. People are very afraid of the IRS and they're very afraid to come out and openly defy the government.

MASTERS: Oh yes, you'd get destroyed.

NEW DIMENSIONS: You get a few people like that Gordon Karl, who was a kind of religious nut patriot tax-protester type who shot a couple of federal agents and was shot himself in a big shoot-out. There's a little of that. People openly rebelling against the government over taxes, but for the most part, it's very little.

MASTERS: But the problem is that it's going to come to a head because of the tremendous number of loathsome and low types of human beings we are creating. In other words, we are down-breeding this nation. We're becoming like a third world nation because of the welfare thing. Where a woman can have ten children and not know who their father is, and not be responsible, and not be moral. Then you and me; we have to take care of whose kids who don't have any hope for a future.

NEW DIMENSIONS: Let me give you an interesting comparison. In Sweden, they're further along than we are down the socialistic road. They have cradle-to-grave security and their taxation rate is way above 50 percent, maybe 70 percent. The way it is now, you have a big suppression; they've all given in.

MASTERS: Sweden is not America. Americans, the real Americans, are the kind of people who originated the Boston Tea Party. They are the type of people who came over on the Mayflower and got away from the European dark ages.

NEW DIMENSIONS: That was then. Do you think we still have it in us now?

MASTERS: I think it's in our genes. I think there are enough Americans over here that have that quality. There are still enough of us around who want to fight for this country.

NEW DIMENSIONS: So you're saying we're not going to just knuckle under and "join the system" like in Sweden?

MASTERS: It wouldn't be America anymore! Sweden is a nothing power. What made America great? It's that pioneering quality, the willingness to stand on your own two feet, to fend for yourself and be your own person.

NEW DIMENSIONS: Yes, but remember we're talking about a country now that has really fallen and has millions of homosexuals and drug addicts...

MASTERS: But I say there are enough of us left, enough of the real American types left to make a difference.

NEW DIMENSIONS: What form you visualize such a rebellion of taxpayers could take?

MASTERS: It could be just people saying, "No more," and sort of disappearing, like in the story, "Atlas Shrugged."

NEW DIMENSIONS: Are you predicting a happy ending to the story here in America?

MASTERS: No, I think it's going to be full of bloodshed and violence. The dehumanizing of people in this country because of the freedom here, because we are so radically different from the other countries of the world, we have fallen here so low and have produced such great masses of dehumanized beings, it's going to be bloodshed. You see, there are going to be more and more people on welfare; and these people in the inner cities, they are very much dehumanized and very violent too, very hateful and cruel.

NEW DIMENSIONS: I think people can remember the Watts riot and other riots around that time, like the ones in Washington D.C., there were whole blocks that were totally burned out.

MASTERS: That's right, that's just the tip of the iceberg.

NEW DIMENSIONS: When will it happen?

MASTERS: It will happen when the major [world] powers are balanced, meaning there are no more hostilities. As long as you can have a war, you can turn the hates and the frustrations of a people toward a common enemy. Everybody unifies together, so instead of fighting each other they turn their angers and rages toward an outside enemy. That's what wars are for, basically. Because in every country since time began, the exploiters eventually made people's lives miserable and just before the people would turn and rebel against their leaders, the leaders would have a convenient war and turn the energies against a common enemy and therefore survive exploiting a little longer.

We've had the longest period of peacetime we've ever had. We've had 40 years with no major, declared war. So I think it will happen when we've got a balance of power; when we've got peace agreements with Russia and China and everything looks rosy. And we have to do that, or we're going to have an atomic war on our hands; our leaders are forced to do that, we have no choice. So at that time when everybody is saying, "Peace, peace," that is when the whole country will collapse and the revolution in America and in other countries will happen.

NEW DIMENSIONS: How many years away do you see this coming about?

MASTERS: I don't know, but I could guess. What I am talking about could be prevented, it could be reversed. If people would stand up now and say "No" to higher taxes, before there's more of "them" than there are of "us." If we could have a system where we hold people accountable and discourage welfare mothers, where we aren't encouraging and condoning immorality... It's got to be a hue and cry, but I'm afraid there are too many people now who have some sort of government paycheck.

NEW DIMENSIONS: Just between you and me, it seems unlikely.

MASTERS: To me it seems unlikely; I don't think it will happen because there are already more of them than there are of us. So I don't know when it's going to happen, but my guess is before the year 2000.

NEW DIMENSIONS: That would you say people should do?

MASTERS: Listen; hole up in Southern Oregon (laughing). What do you think I'm up there for? It's relatively unspoiled, there's more of us gathered there, people who are running away from the big cities with the crime and corruption. People are willing to settle for lower salaries and have the simple life. There their children won't get contaminated by the mores and morals of the inner cities. So those kinds of people are thinking people and they're moving away regardless of the loss of economic income. They're moving toward places like Grants Pass (Oregon).

NEW DIMENSIONS: I think that within a year or two it's going to be like it was in the late 70's with Carter. Once Reagan is out, it's going to be "survival" days again.

MASTERS: Well, Reagan was a strong bulwark; he was a strong buffer between them and us. He knew how to deal with them. The trouble is the news media is on the side of them.

NEW DIMENSIONS: The Iran-Contra thing was as though a big dike of media hate burst through. The only reason the media held back all those years was because Reagan was so popular; the media can only go so far because they'll lose credibility if they defame a president that the people love.

MASTERS: Well, to me, that's hopeful because of the fact that people see our kind in him; no matter what the media tried to do to degrade him, there seemed to be enough people who love goodness....

NEW DIMENSIONS: ... that resonates to that decency. It was the same thing with Oliver North. They saw Ollie North and they loved him.

MASTERS: Yes, and they couldn't degrade him either. They couldn't say bad about him, it only made him look better. So to me that's very heartening, but all I am doing is saying what's in the hearts of millions of people, but you won't see it in the newspapers because the newspapers are controlled by them.

NEW DIMENSIONS: Thanks, Roy.
