

California's Democrat Run Nightmare Spreading Nationally

Lloyd Marcus

I recently returned home to West Virginia from filming my Trump Train 2020 song music video in California. It was exciting and fun; a sound stage, green screen, lights, cameras and the director yelling, "Action!"

With the mixed bag of enthusiastic locals we used as extras, the atmosphere in the studio felt like a Trump rally. They love Trump and eagerly want to do their part to help him "Keep America Great". The Trump Train 2020 song official music video will be released early February.

Folks, it is pretty crazy out there in California. We were not in San Francisco where they give tourists maps to avoid piles of human excrement. We rode past a private home with a rainbow sign stating that all gender identities were welcomed. The restrooms at the San Diego airport car rental center had signs assuring transgenders that they are welcome into women restrooms.

The average gasoline price was around $4.60 per gallon. We pay around $2.40 in West Virginia.

While in California, Robert Kirk, the director of the music video, gave me a sneak-peek of his comedy short film, “Nightmare in Paradise”. Robert’s hilarious movie is about a transgender who shows up for a job interview. The interviewer must handle the transgender with kid-gloves and extreme caution to avoid breaking laws. Robert is a former prosecutor. The scary thing about his brilliant script is that it is based on existing California laws. Here is a link to watch Robert Kirk’s, “Nightmare in Paradise.”

While turning down a pro-life Super Bowl ad featuring abortion survivors, Fox proudly announced its plan to feature the first drag queen Super Bowl ad. Drag queens are a minuscule percentage of the population. Pro-lifers are a huge segment of the population. Why are so many major corporations giving mainstream America their middle finger while bending over backwards to please an extreme tiny minority of counter-culturlists?

Even Democrat presidential candidates say, “Screw you mainstream America, we’re pandering to transgenders.”

Joe Biden tweeted, “transfobia is the paramount civil rights issue of the current era.” As a proud American who happens to be black, it offends the heck out of me that a behavior is absurdly deemed the same as the racial discrimination fought by my late dad and his fellow black civil rights pioneers.

If elected, Elizabeth Warren pledges to reverse Trump’s ban on transgenders in the military. Warren also vows that transgenders will be well-represented in her administration.

Bernie Sanders tweeted, “Transgender rights are human rights. We are going to fight to end all forms of discrimination and violence against our trans family.” Sanders hung a transgender pride flag outside his office. Leading in the Democrat presidential polls, Sanders promises protections for illegals and transgenders, insuring that they be addressed by their preferred pronouns.

Democrat presidential candidate Pete Buttigieg, who really gets-off by kissing his male sex partner on national TV, promises nearly two dozen new initiatives to further the LGBTQ agenda. Keep in mind that only 3% of the population identify as LGBTQ.

Transgenders are destroying women sports, winning every competition hands-down. Hillary had to back peddle from her statement that cisgender (real women) have a right to be concerned. Hillary's cowardly retraction of her commonsense statement tells us she will surrender to the transgender agenda if elected president.

Democrat presidential candidate Mike Bloomberg epitomizes my statement that Democrats crave power to control every aspect of our lives because they are our intellectual and moral superiors. In typical Democrat, we're-smarter-than-everyday-Americans fashion, NY mayor Bloomberg tried to ban large sugary beverages.

Bloomberg promises to federally fund transgender sex-change surgery. Democrats have forced us to sponsor the murder of 60 million babies against the moral convictions of a majority of Americans. Bloomberg will force us to fund transgender ideology which is documented to be a mental illness and child abuse.

Bloomberg raves about California, promising to spread its intellectually superior policies across America.

California is a state which seeks to remove all parental rights and ban homeschooling, forcing parents to surrender their children for LGBTQ, socialist/progressive and anti-American indoctrination. This is a state which coddles illegal aliens, showering them with freebies unavailable to legal residents, while legal residents struggle to survive. This is a state which has ushered in the resurgence of medieval diseases because vagrants are allowed to set up tent cities and defecate on the streets. Criminals who steal under a thousand dollars worth of product are not charged.

If Bloomberg or any of his fellow wacko Democrats are elected president, America will immediately fall backwards, resuming the economic, cultural and world-leadership decline of the Obama years. An endless list of new perversions will be forced upon us; all who oppose will be shamed, destroyed and thrown into jail.

Trump must be reelected in 2020.

Meanwhile, laugh a bit. Please enjoy Robert Kirk's YouTube Video "Nightmare in Paradise."
