

Keep Your Paddle in the Water

I often wondered if, in fact, America would survive. Although my hopes are a little bit higher than they were this time last year, the survival of the America we all grew up in still seems to be hanging in the balance. Perhaps it is just my stage in life, but I still long for the days of “baseball, hot dogs, apple pie, and Chevrolet.” I want those days for my 10 grandbabies.

Is Liberalism Dead? Part 1

Classical liberalism promoted free (though not necessarily unregulated!) markets and maximal personal autonomy, still bound by rules against doing harm. Bastiat’s classical liberalism was embedded in a Christian worldview. Law was of God, who created a universe of order – natural law. This encompassed both nature and humanity. Different rules emerged for us because we have free will.

Department of Government Efficiency: Exposing the Stink in Washington DC

Shoplifters in America steal over $100 billion annually. They walk out the doors of grocery stores, Home Depot, Walmart,

Kohl's, T.J. Max, Macy's and thousands of other mercantile stores—with a load of loot stuck under their dresses, into their coat pockets, between their legs and in their baby strollers. Others steal from ATM machines. Still others rob trains.

Nearly constant exposure to cellphones, even if only in purses and not in pockets located on the body proper, has been linked to increases in levels of disease. ## The Viral Lie of How Censorship Threatens the Soul of Liberty

If history serves as a guide, silence cannot be an option. A society that prioritizes comfort over freedom will swiftly lose both. The choice is clear: embrace free speech or surrender all rights to the advancing force of censorship. The future of democracy hinges on this struggle, and the time to act is now.

Wealthy countries' wish to rid the world of crude oil, coal, and natural gas, without replacements in mind, is immoral, since extreme shortages of the products manufactured from fossil fuels will result in the tragic loss of billions of lives from diseases, malnutrition and weather-related events, both in the developed world and in developing economies.

Government can do anything it wants, if you let them. Our government has been in the business of doing illegal, unconstitutional, fraudulent, corrupt, criminal and even treasonous things for many...many years now. They have only been able to do it because American citizens long ago forgot, that

Thank you, Donald Trump for putting God back into our lives by removing the Marxist mandates which had saturated our world this last decade. # What Makes a Search Reasonable

Not only has the Supreme Court once again placed the interests of law enforcement above those of the general public. While I believe the vast majority of law enforcement are honest and honorable people trying to do a difficult job, there are those who use the badge as a power trip. They believe they have the power to order people around, without reasonable cause, and this case reinforces that belief.

Maybe Just Maybe: America Returning to Reason and Common Sense

President Trump is far from a dictator. In 2020, when the election was stolen from him through mail-in voting shenanigans, he could have invoked limited martial law to allow the U.S. Military to oversee a new free and fair federal election. That was the option when legislators, courts and the Congress did not follow the Constitution and gave control over elections to unelected courts in the various states. Instead, he vacated the office.

A Time For Truth About

Freedom

One reason we are losing our freedom is debt. In the last fifty years we have gone from the early-American stress on hard work, savings, thrift and delayed gratification to turning Americans into a nation of perpetual debtors. The United States has shifted from producing to consuming, with American citizens and our government consuming more than they earn or take in and promising to spend still more.

Cautiously Optimistic

For now, there's much work to be done, and we can't just sit back and leave it up to Trump to "fix it all."
