

Conspiracy Theorists Rock

By Jeffery Dover

When trust is lost in human relationships, it's a difficult thing to regain. Our federal government in so many critically important ways has proved to be so untrustworthy, that often one's first inclination is to look for the lie or evidence of conspiracy in any news. A combination of concern for the nation's founding ideals, a solid education and the ability to think through and approach information critically without concern for what is discovered, is the hallmark of such a person. To be called a "conspiracy theorist" is today at once a badge of honor and proof positive that one has not been taken in by the global propaganda machine.

Are there some wackos out there? Certainly, but wackos and their wackiness run to all persuasions and walks of life. The old saying "Just because I'm paranoid doesn't mean I don't have enemies" could well be paraphrased about conspiracy theorists. But then, if not for purposes of blanket condemnation as a preemptive strike against exposure, why even the term?

What conspiracy? The short answer is that there are and have been a lot of relatively minor ones which appear to support one major one. First, a little history you'll most likely recall.

Conspiracies in places of great power have occurred and shaped the political landscape throughout history, to the point of being a cliché. Julius Caesar's assassination, the murders of the Knights Templar, Mary Queen of Scots' plots, Guy Fawkes' plot to blow up English Parliament, Richard III's murder of the little princes, Lincoln's assassination, Sergei Kirov's assassination by Stalin cohorts, Hitler's assassination of Roehm and the Brown Shirts, former Sec'y of Defense James Forrestal, MLK/JFK/RFK/JFK, Jr., Ronald Reagan's assassination attempt, the false flag Fast & Furious – conspiracies all. Vince Foster, 9/11, Seth Rich, Jeffrey Epstein? Very likely as well. However, they are merely a few which one may have read about. There have been so many more.

The point is that it is more reasonable to suspect a conspiracy, than it is to brush off such events as simply random acts with little extended meaning, especially when readily available evidence upsets the official explanations or media reports. That's where critical thinking comes into play. When the story doesn't add up with the evidence seeming to make no sense, one needs to examine such events in a larger context.

It's far easier today for powerful forces to hide conspiracies than it was in past centuries. Government personnel can simply "classify" information to protect it from exposure, a vehicle unavailable to the private sector. An allied press protects its owners and government benefactors with outright lies and half-truths or by simply failing to report or to investigate. Knowing of the CIA's involvement with the press, it's not difficult to believe that they may well be the source of so many false narratives which a monolithic press then run with in lockstep, "Russian Collusion" for example. With enormous wealth concentrated in the hands of relatively few elites in and out of government, control of information has been fairly easy for those powers.[1]

Today's developed western world is increasingly characterized by a classical fascist co-dependency of governments and huge multi-national businesses and industries. Players in this incestuous game move back and forth between government and the big industries. Where the rank-and-file citizen relations with their government is distant, relations between these huge businesses and government is cozy: the FDA and Big Pharma, CIA and media, or Military/Industrial complex and DOD for a few examples. Former members of congress often take positions as "consultants" with these private sector entities.

Recently, it has become obvious that control of the vote has also come within their grasp and that they have become so powerful that, in this, they don't seem to care how obvious the fraud. The money behind them is apparently their assurance that nothing will be done about it.

So many contradictions and sometimes outright impossibilities attend numerous "official explanations" and investigations that its difficult not to suspect a cover-up.

9/11 is an example. First, one has to believe that Jihadis from another part of the world, who know only how to take off in a jetliner, not land one, can penetrate Washington, DC airspace with no transponder and attack the Pentagon. Absurd... But then, one must also believe that kerosene (jet fuel) can melt steel and that, having done so, massive towers will collapse neatly into their own footprint, including one 47-story tower which wasn't hit.

Forgetting even the chemistry, physics and logistics of the attacks, eyewitness and first-responder testimonies refute the official story. In New York, firemen told of explosions as the squibs (planted explosives used in planned demolitions) detonated in the collapse sequences.

Eyewitnesses at the Pentagon told of what they took to be a drone, smaller than a 757 and not painted in United Airlines livery, hitting the building at a location away from the site of the most damage. People who were inside, told of the explosion creating the big hole we all saw, as coming from within, not without. Where the alleged jetliner was said to have struck, there were no seats or luggage found nor were there any furrows in the ground which would have been made by engines hanging below the wing, a fact evident in photos.

There are many entirely credible video documentaries on the subject. "9/11: Anatomy of a Great Deception" is one. Re. the Pentagon, these are of interest: web.archive.org

Then, there were the nanothermite traces found in the WTC rubble. This is a weapons grade incendiary which burns at temperatures far above the temperature needed to melt steel. It is made at only a few places on Earth and would have been unobtainable for the perps in the planes. Remember how the rubble burned for weeks after the incident?

But why? Perhaps the New World Order/Great Reset, or "NWO" (I use the terms interchangeably) provides some context.

A few of the direct results include the enormously unconstitutional "Patriot Act", a huge power grab by federal authorities. Let's not forget that, fairly unique among the world's nations, the US population is an armed population. Those who might be seeking absolute power would necessarily have to move slowly here. They might find a domestic armed force apart from the Dept. of Defense and not controlled by state governors useful at some point.

9/11 caused national intelligence agencies to be consolidated under a single figure, the Director of National Intelligence. Now only one figure was responsible for intelligence briefings whereas before, many were. Great power was thereby concentrated in fewer hands. The huge Department of Homeland Security (Homeland? Really...?) was formed, including the shakedowns at our airports, the TSA, and the various DHS prison camps around the country, one located near where I live in Arizona.

With the collapse of Bldg. 7, huge amounts of evidence in the Enron investigation was destroyed, including much more of both IRS corporate tax fraud cases and Secret Service cases.[2]

Last and definitely not least, it started more than 20 years of non-stop war in the Middle East, featuring no winning, no WMD's found – hugely profitable for many and dovetailing with a New World Order goal of global societal disruption. Millions departed what little was left of their lives, not that they had much to begin with, to go to the EU where they don't work and don' assimilate. Another of the NWO goals is "depopulation". There was plenty of death to go around in those twenty years.

An excellent video documentary of the JFK assassination, "Dark Legacy", does an excellent job of explaining his murder. They make a case difficult to refute which puts G.H.W. Bush as central to the plot, carried out by CIA figures. They also explain how the wound the president took from the "grassy knoll" shooter was handled and Oswald made the patsy. Numerous other high political figures, present at the time, were said to have had foreknowledge of the murder. Apparently, those behind it feared Kennedy would pursue disarmament with the USSR. No arms race, no more Cold War; no Vietnam, billions and billions of dollars not spent or profited?

When Bush family acquaintance John Hinckley shot President Ronald Reagan, a TV news correspondent on the scene, Judy Woodruff, said that at least one shot came from a hotel window. Indeed, footage at the time showed a figure at one of the windows. Previously the Director of Central Intelligence, now Vice President G.H.W. Bush had a few days prior been put in charge of crisis management. Roger Stone's book on the Bush's says that any subsequent depictions have cropped out the figure in the window.[3] explosion. However, residue from chemicals used in missile explosives was found on seats recovered from the disaster and many eyewitnesses saw a missile rise from the sea prior to the explosion. Later thinking is that a Navy vessel in the area shot it down, believing it to be a drone in a military exercise. Conspiracy or accident? Probably the latter. The conspiracy was in the FBI lying about the accident.

Given their performances in the episodes of the Branch Davidian slaughter and that of Ruby Ridge, followed later by their interference in the 2016 presidential election, what's new? Then, we were recently treated to them labelling concerned parents who were unhappy with their school board "domestic terrorists". It's also come out, nowhere more chillingly than in the "Twitter Files", that they linked with social media giants to direct them in censorship of news and commentary critical of Biden leading up to the 2016 election. Ditto the 2020 election and Covid episode. The CIA and DHS figured into these travesties as well.

Clearly those in power have no problem using the agencies badly and illegally, nor do those in the agencies seem to mind carrying out their instructions. "We were only following orders." Haven't we heard that before somewhere?

Then there was 1/6/21. Let's look at that event in the context of Great Reset goals as well. President Trump's election and term in office was about "Make America (not the world) Great Again" and "America First". The two political initiatives and the huge popularity of the thrust, flew smack into the face of the powerful, globalist Great Reset crowd and their aims.

Among other of their devices to weaken US sovereignty, Trump denied the globalists both US entanglement in the Paris Accord and Trans Pacific Partnership. Given another term, and wiser about choosing staff as well as newly apprised of the workings of the Deep State, he was set to tear down much more of the globalist construction in the USA, thirty years or more in the making.

One theory has it that Deep State plants were embedded in the crowd outside the Capitol Building that day. There appears to be some evidence to support that claim. At a point just prior to a House motion by two representatives to delay the certification was set to happen – a motion which, had it been made, would have provided a basis for a Supreme Court examination of the election – the alarm was sounded of the demonstrators entering the building. Pence and Pelosi et al were ushered out of the chamber. The delay was all they needed; the motion never happened. Pence had given us his gift, Biden/Harris.

Is there anything to this idea? Given everything else leading up to the certification and following, including what increasingly appear to be kangaroo court trials of demonstration participants, who's to say there isn't? Yet whatever the truth, another huge obstacle to the Great Reset and their forces, Trump, had been removed. NWO mission accomplished?

Lastly, we come to Covid-19. There is much here at all sorts of levels. Perhaps let's first examine "gain-of-function" work on otherwise innocuous viruses. Why would any organization seek to make a virus deadly to humanity? The explanation given by enthusiasts is that they can then be used to pre-emptively develop vaccines against the advent of some related contagion. But why any military, DOD involvement? Unlike chemical weapons which can be contained in a tactical area, contagion from viruses can't be contained. Loosed, it spreads over enormous, even global areas as we witnessed. Given that it can't be contained, then it's purpose could also be to attack everyone. We saw first-hand how the official justification worked out. What aims then are served by universal illness and depopulation?

It's plain to see who profits from such contagion: The big pharmaceutical companies. Who else? New World Order/Great Reset proponents and their goals of depopulation are certainly served, especially when the products falsely termed "vaccines" were mandated for all and then went on to cause fertility problems in women.

Others who write here have gone into far more detail on the subject so I won't belabor the many other issues involved from which the nasty smell of systemic corruption is emanating. It must be noted, however, that a principal beneficiary of the entire disease span was the federal government's power over the individual. John Tamny correctly notes that because viruses have been with us since the dawn of mankind, the origin of Covid was irrelevant. What was relevant for Tamny was how the government used it to destroy freedom. It continues that effort with the Biden administration seeking legal means by which to use a 1944 law concerning rubbish and sanitation to demand that all wear masks.

People were frightened and compelled to wear the hideous, uncomfortable masks which blocked no viruses. They were similarly compelled to be injected with unsafe and toxic materials which did not prevent their infection with the Covid virus. Most believed it to be a good idea. After all, while actively censoring and suppressing any contradictions to their narratives, the government, media and a well-hushed world medical establishment told the people that the stuff was both safe and effective. The Vax did, though, cause many thousands of deaths and permanent, disabling and incurable autoimmune diseases. Physicians are reporting a huge uptick since 2020 in the recurrence of cancers in those vaxxed who had been in remission.

With the government causing small businesses, those they selectively deemed "nonessential", to be closed because of the virus, millions of people lost their jobs, savings and businesses. Small business, not big businesses, are the largest employers in the USA.

NWO goals feature global, one-world government. President Biden has recently concluded an agreement with the UN's World Health Organization, putting it in charge of determining for Americans what is and what is not a "pandemic" as well as how the population will be directed to behave.

Why a UN organization to direct Americans? Are no American organizations fit to determine what Americans should do? The legal questions of such a cession of our sovereignty aside, are we ready to have the UN dictate our laws to us? Are the bio labs in Ukraine, owned by the US, preparing the next pandemic? Is that why Biden is so intent on spending billions on Ukraine to keep Russia out, while paying almost no attention to the poor folks in E. Palestine, Ohio? (The Ukraine involvement is another NWO front, which I've dealt with elsewhere so won't pursue again here.)

When one looks over the people occupying the seats of power in Washington, in the context of the past twenty-three years of US history, is there any reason not to look for or suspect conspiracies? And who, other than those defending the guilty, would coin the term and deride "conspiracy theorists"?

Why do we tolerate this accelerating perfidy in our government and the persons we place in positions of trust who permit it? Really, is there any reason now not to know that they are one big conspiracy and demand that the perps be rooted out and brought to justice? Certainly, to sit in the halls of congress is to know these things. Why aren't they talking to us? One thing is clear, however: they're making the people who see conspiracies look really good.
