Practical ways to find the right marriage partner without the emotional baggage of premarital sex –Peter Falkenberg Brown

Many young people today have given up on marriage and are even questioning if they want to have children. To many, marriage and family life seems to be broken. Is there a way to restore hope and viability to the concept of marriage?

Will it help marriages last longer and provide more happiness if we approach marriage with more clarity and with new ideas?

Here are my eight recommendations for a new “Courtship 2.0.”
