

Educating America To Death

There are few methods of literally wiping out a nation more effective, than indoctrinating the people to the point of being useful idiots. Unfortunately, many idiots grow up and are elected to political office. Or even worse, dingbat educators and professors con young Americans into undermining their own nation. One of the hallmarks of this exceptional nation is the heavy emphasis on the importance of "We the People" Our first president stated, "The power under the Constitution will always be in the people. It is entrusted for certain defined purposes, and for a certain limited period, to representatives of their own choosing; and whenever it is executed contrary to their interest, or not agreeable to their wishes, their servants can, and undoubtedly will be recalled."

Washington's words are astounding when you consider their historical significance. Before establishing the United States, no nation other than possibly antient Israel recognized the importance of the people being involved in the governing of the society. After the children of Israel were led by Moses out of Egypt, the responsibility of governing overwhelmed him. Thankfully his father in law Jethro came to the rescue. He told Moses to find men of good moral character and appoint them to various levels of responsibility, if they choose to accept. Many were asked to oversee disputes between individuals and to facilitate the solving of their issues. As a result, Moses was free to focus on the big picture vision for the nation in obedience to God almighty.

Our republic was founded on the precept that the people are the straw that stirs the drink. It meant that the government was to reflect the values of the people, not the other way around. The founders recognized that for the people to remain in a position of importance, they must maintain their authority from one generation to the next. That authority would be maintained, so long as the people passed down those principles of authority, from one generation to the next. The founders and for many generations, most Americans understood that for America to grow, be prosperous and great the people had to be of high moral character. They were undoubtedly correct.

People of a more sinister persuasion also realized that if the American people were to become lax in the pursuit of morality, then other important factors of the republic would be neglected. For decades most government school educators hardly ever properly teach the Bill of Rights, Constitution or Federalist papers. That ongoing triple omission of proper instruction was designed to produce generations of ignorant Americans. Unfortunately, the incurably ignorant masses are easily led down a primrose lane of being a part of destroying the republic voluntarily, with joy and vigor.

We all know that what is taught to one generation dictates the direction the nation takes in the next. The dangerous influence of leftist radicals today is a direct result of leftists being foolishly allowed to infiltrate the government school system. Have you noticed how leftist controllers of indoctrination do not allow critical thinking, American history or civics classes? The leftists indoctrinate students with social studies, Islamic culture courses, social studies, socialism and a gradual downgrading of literacy in the primary grades. In order to ultimately destroy a nation from within, there must first be a systematic decrease in the quality of literacy and morality. As illiteracy and the racism of low expectation was indoctrinated into the American black community, there arose an illiterate community of high criminality, Ebonics and low achievement.

What was perpetrated against the black American population is now being foisted upon the mostly white community. That is why 49% percent of white American students now prefer socialism over the free market economy of opportunity. It is immoral to oppress a people. But it is both immoral and downright scary to witness a dummed down generation voluntarily choose the death of America via socialism. When good is not taught and enforced, then evil and destruction will prevail. When the wicked rule the people mourn. When the righteous reign, the people rejoice. America, the time is here and the time is now to choose truth over socialist/immoral lies. I would that "We the People" choose wisely. If not, America will be educated to death via the wicked dens of indoctrination.
