

Fake news everywhere: who do you trust?

"An able, disinterested, public-spirited press, with trained intelligence to know the right and courage to do it, can preserve that public virtue without which popular government is a sham and a mockery." –Joseph Pulitzer

Americans have been doing the job of the disgraced media including cable 'news' networks for decades. In-depth, thorough investigations of corrupt politicians, legislation, scandals and events like OKC, TWA flight 800, 9/11 and too many more.

President-elect Donald Trump blew the lid off the fake media practically from day one of his run for president. He has continued to pound on them relentlessly and shows no signs of giving them a break. The so-called 'mainstream' media owned by six major corporations quit being mainstream decades ago. That would be ABC, NBC, CBS, CNN, MSNBC as well as every major newspaper in this country.

FOX News Network is one of the worst. Sure, they have their anchors who draw big numbers but those big names have refused to tell the American people the truth either by complete omission or by bashing the messenger. The biggest example is the continuing cover up regarding the Marxist in the White House and his fake presidency. Sheriff Arpaio and his investigator, Mike Zullo, held a final press conference three weeks ago regarding Barry Soetoro aka Obama and his fake birth certificate. Two different forensic document examiners with credentials a mile long on two different continents both came to the same conclusion: The birth certificate Barry presented to the American people is a forgery.

They nailed down a real birth certificate, who it belonged to and how the forgery was clumsily done using that birth certificate. Soetoro/Obama committed fraud along with his forged Selective Service Registration card. Both are crimes. FOX News, the 'fair and balanced', ignored the press conference. It was to be expected for the prostitute media, but FOX consistently brags they bring it all to you when in fact they simply ignored what should have been a major news story. Just like the other liars for hire: NY Times, LA Times, Washington Post, CNN and the list goes on. USA Today did a short sarcastic piece that cheated their readers out of the truth.

Of course, the unknown birth place for bouncing Barry so long ago has nothing to do with his eligibility to serve as president. Without rehashing years of columns, it all comes down to one fact: BOTH parents must be U.S. citizens at the time of the child's birth. That leaves out Soetoro/Obama, Ted Cruz, Marco Rubio and another loser, Bobby Jindal.

The fake news scandal has been dominating the Internet for the past month. What you and I know and millions of Americans have known for a long time has finally blown up in their faces. The phony story about how the Russians hacked and influenced the presidential election last November has been flogged to death by the lying agenda-driven media. They hoped by telling the same whopper over and over and over, gullible Americans would swallow it hook, line and sinker. That may be true for a segment of the population who voted for career criminal, Hildebeast Clinton, but for those of us who do the research and carefully consider sources, we know it's all a big, fat lie to brand Trump's presidency as illegitimate.

Those same useful fools screamed, yelled and jumped up and down over the war to expose Barry Soetoro as ineligible and that his 'presidency' for 8 years was illegitimate. You're all racists, blah, blah, blah. Well, the chickens have come home to roost as they say and the day of triumph for what's referred to as the 'alternative media' – NOT the stupid moniker 'alt-right' (or even 'alt left') – has arrived.

Of course, the disinformation industry is out there in full force, pretending to be truth tellers on web sites that appear to be conservative. I receive email all the time asking me, Is this true? I'm glad people are taking to heart how important it is to be wary of false information and outright lies. Verify is everything.

I've been in the trenches for 26 years. Twenty years ago WorldNetDaily came on the scene on the heels of The Drudge Report. A year later, July 4, 1998, my web site went up; I believe NewsWithViews went on line in 2002. Today there are thousands of web sites all competing for that hot story that can be uploaded in minutes. But, over the decades I have learned which web sites are consistently accurate, which are BS flame throwers (yellow journalism to sell products on web sites), which deliberately put out disinformation and which are party oriented and that goes for talk radio as well.

It's so frustrating to listen to some talk show host who doesn't know what he/she is talking about. They either have no clue regarding the U.S. Constitution, they do nothing but parrot the party line or in their arrogance brush off someone who does know what they're talking about and slap them with the some worn out label. Either deliberately deceptive or intellectual laziness, too many big name talk show hosts never talk about the cure, only more of the same party bickering. It's their cash cow.

So, who should the American people believe? The writers at NWVs and other big web sites who consistently bring verifiable facts in their columns over the decades. Journalists and columnists who consistently back up their allegations and research. I've seen too many web sites with lots of opinions and 'facts' where no source is provided just lots of hype. You know the old saying in media: If it bleeds it leads. I see too much of that on the Internet, much of which turns out to be either outright false or a foul distortion of facts.

As for talk show and cable network hosts, the same rule applies. Sadly, the majority in my opinion fail miserably. It wasn't until the 2016 election that Rush Limbaugh and Sean Hannity finally got fed up with the lying scum bag RINOs who keep getting reelected to Congress (94% again in 2016) and started going after the GOP. That's all well and fine, but some subjects that are critical to 'draining the swamp' they simply refuse to cover.

That's why it's up to yours truly to do my part in covering what 'conservative' talk radio isn't interested in bringing to the American people. I am back on the radio with my own show again and I promise you, it will not be the same old GOP-DNC tennis match of back and forth politics.

There's so much going on right now. We are living in a very historical moment that is also very dangerous. The shadow government isn't just going to roll over and go away. Their plans to destroy this republic is experiencing a set-back with the election of Donald Trump, but make no mistake: The evil doers think years ahead, not days or weeks.

I firmly believe if it wasn't for the Internet we would already be toast. If it wasn't for 'alternative' talk radio we would already be toast. Talk radio is like networking and it works. Just like networking on the Internet and through social media. When my eyes were first opened more than a quarter century ago, comparatively speaking, it would have been like the days of the settlers. All we had back then was fax machines, newsletters and very little radio exposure. Rush Limbaugh owned the market back then.

Today it's totally different. We need to keep hammering on getting the truth out. We need to keep networking to bring like minded Americans together on the same page to get critical legislation passed in Congress. We need to keep the information highway flowing with truth. We need radio shows like mine to keep Americans informed in real time so they can be a force to be reckoned with instead of chasing Band Aids.
