

Fake Racism And Real Racism

America – traditional, moral, Constitutional, Christian America – has always had, and still does have serious enemies. Because the foundation of American law and government rest on the acknowledgement of divine authority, the efforts of these enemies to destroy America has for decades focused on the separation of American culture from the principles on which it was founded.

For example, over the last sixty years, the Supreme Court's peddling of the phrase "separation of church and state" as phony First Amendment jurisprudence has been a major vehicle in this subversive agenda. Now, with the tearing down and removal of statues in the middle of the night, absent anything like a democratic process, we are witnessing a ratcheting up of this radical agenda to include the destruction, denial and the denigration of the connection of America to her own history and heritage. That is to say, the destruction of the American memory.

Now, these enemies of America are screaming about racism, but it rings quite hollow and, well...fake.

Supposedly these statues represent racism. But the ignorance of the protestors, journalists and politicians is stunning. Consider Robert E. Lee. Lee emancipated slaves that came into his family by inheritance while the General he surrendered to at Appomattox, Ulysses S. Grant, both purchased and inherited slaves that served his family during the war. Grant did not emancipate the slaves inherited. So, the Southern General freed slaves while the Northern General's family had slaves during the war. So, why aren't they tearing down all the statues of Ulysses S. Grant?

Again, this is fake racism. And to promote it is to detract from real racism in our midst. And what could be more racist than a national program designed to eliminate black people?

What could be more racist than a black genocide?

Such a program not only exists in America but is funded by millions of taxpayer dollars. It is known as Planned Parenthood and its founder, Margaret Sanger made her racist vision and purpose quite clear. Sanger desired to rid the nation of those she deemed 'defective' and 'feeble-minded' by stopping the growth of their populations, particularly blacks and other minorities."

Sanger supported black eugenics, a racist attitude toward black and other minority babies; an elitist attitude toward those she regarded as "the feeble minded;" Sanger spoke at rallies of Ku Klux Klan women and developed the notorious "Negro Project" which sought to limit, if not eliminate, black births.

Despite these well-documented facts of history, her bust sits proudly in the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery as a hero of justice. The obvious incongruity is staggering!

Meanwhile, Sanger's brainchild, Planned Parenthood, continues to market its murderous services to minority populations by locating its abortion mills in minority neighborhoods.

There is real racism among us. We shouldn't allow charlatans to obscure it with fake racism. This is a tactic of America's enemies.
