

Following Allah Or Worshiping Christ? Damnation or Salvation?

Is it possible for a good Muslim be a good American?

The rise of the NYC mayoral candidate, Zohran Momdani, has brought this question to the fore. BTW, the image above “shows him with a 1993 World Trade Center bombing co-conspirator and a terrorist apologist”, on “X” Nypost

Hoping that the backlash received from this meetup will help people to see...

Momdani tries to dodge the issue of his faith by claiming he is of the Shia sect of Islam, attempting to convey himself as a a 'milder' follower of the religion

Theoretically, the only difference between the two sects, Sunni and Shia, is the lineage of their ruler. One believes the leader of Islam, the Caliph, must come from the bloodline of Allah, and the other, from one elected by leaders of the caliphates. Neither supposedly justified 'non-provoked violence' against non-believers.

There are no formally defined caliphates since the abolition of the Ottoman Empire in 1924; therefore the debate over the true leader continues, often with violence between the two sects.

Hezbollah is Shia. They consider their violence against Israel and Syria as "lesser Jihad", or "defensive struggle" to protect Shia communities and resist perceived aggressors. So, I guess violence against New Yorkers could be considered “defensive” in the grand scheme of things. Getting rid of the police would go to that end, no?

So, lets get back to the original question: Can a Muslim be a good American?

Religiously? No. NO other religion is accepted by a Muslim's Allah, except Islam.(Quran, 2:256)

Socially? No. Alliance to Islam disallows real friendship with Christians or Jews.

Politically? No. A Muslim must submit to the mullahs who teach destruction of Israel AND AMERICA, THE GREAT SATAN. Besides, our Constitution is based on Biblical principle, which is believed to be corrupt by the followers of Islam. The political and religious freedom inherent in our Republic is an anathema to dictatorial/autocratic governments found in Muslim countries.

We in America are “One Nation Under God.” You can see where that does NOT work for the followers of Islam.

I've gone toe to toe with American Muslims (former CIA) who deny all of this, while they run secret missions to the middle east and run for REPUBLICAN office in their state. The Taqiyya (lying) is easy to see; those I spoke with do it very well. The deception and danger to all of us runs deep.

Time for New Yorkers – along with the rest of America in the other 49 states – to wake up. Just look at the Leftists trying to cuddle up to Momdani. They are either too ignorant or desperate to care.

It is not evil for Christians to recognize their enemy (political and religious) and be prepared. The more of us who truly understand this, the more prepared we will be for defending our future as a free Republic. Our government cannot do it for us, and I think we may well have a rough road ahead.

We must fight the good fight.

“Put on the full armor of God” (Ephesians 6:1-1-8) takes on a new and very current meaning.
