

GOP debate audience stacked with Bush supporters

Luke 12:2 For there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known. 3 Therefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops. KJV

A Class Act

People often mistake Donald Trump's self-confidence for arrogance or even narcissism. But there is not a narcissist on the planet who would have put themselves into a position like Trump did to assist a competing colleague at the latest debate.

Dr. Carson's name was called for introduction, but he didn't hear it, and other candidates names were called and they walked right by Carson, saying nothing. Not Trump. When his name was called, he then realized the embarrassing position of a fellow candidate hanging in the wind. Trump showed his leadership by standing right next to Dr. Carson, and not walking onto the stage.

The other names continued to be called, and proceeded as mentioned. But not Donald Trump, he remained with his friend thereby reducing the internal anxiety felt by Dr. Carson.

Then, like a boss, when Dr. Carson was called to the stage, Trump waited and allowed Ben to get the audience response and appreciation. It takes a lot of courage to make split second decisions like this, and it shows a remarkable insight into the man's character.

Make sure you check out The Classiest Debate Moment That No-One Noticed – Never Leave A Good Man Down... This shows the real

Mr. Trump, a class act, unlike the rest of the candidates who just walked on by Dr. Carson. Make sure you watch the videos too.

The Stacked Bush Audience

If you watched the February 6th debates, you noticed it was another stacked deck against Trump. This time however, it was far more subtle than it has ever been on Faux News. According to Gateway Pundit, only 20 tickets were sold to Trump supporters. The rest of the audience appeared to be Bush supporters.

Business Insider reported:

Frontrunner, Donald Trump confronted a Republican debate audience who repeatedly booed him during an exchange with former Florida Gov. Jeb Bush:

The audience loudly booed Trump, driving the back-and-forth off the rails. Trump said audience members were all members of the Republican establishment.

“That’s all of his donors and special interests out there,” Trump said of the people booing him. “That’s what it is. And by the way, let me just tell you: We needed tickets. You can’t get them. You know who has the tickets? ... Donors, special interests, the people that are putting up the money. That’s who it is.”

The booing continued. Trump said he was self-funding his campaign, so Republican donors weren’t a fan of his candidacy.

“The reason they’re not loving me is I don’t want their money.

Trump was right.

The audience was stacked against the GOP frontrunner.

Trump's close associate Roger Stone tweeted out that the Trump camp was only given 20 tickets by the GOP!

Jeb Bush Attack

The whole conversation started because Jeb stated that Trump took a woman's house via eminent domain for a development in Atlantic City. This is totally false, because she didn't want to sell even at an inflated price. The woman still had her house until 2011, when she moved to a retirement community. Do people really believe that a man like Trump who saved a Georgia family farm, is going to oust a homeowner who doesn't want to sell? The town tried to condemn her property and take it, but she won the court case and kept her home.

People don't want to lose their property, so they hear the GOPe tell these lies and they become fearful, not realizing it is purposeful manipulation to destroy the top candidate in the eyes of the electorate. The real folks who want your property are the globalists promoting UN Agenda 21 and a Constitutional Convention. Agenda 21 destroys private property ownership, and the Ford Foundation's New States Constitution, waiting in the wings to replace our 1787 Constitution, does the same thing.

ABC News anchor David Muir and ABC News chief global affairs correspondent Martha Raddatz were moderators. Additional questions were posed by WMUR political director, Josh McElveen, and conservative blogger, Mary Katharine Ham. The questions were not targeted to destroy a particular candidate as they were in the previous Fox News debates, but the audience was definitely stacked against Trump.

If you watched, you would have noticed that when Trump answered a question the applause was very slight, or he was even booed. When Bush answered a question the applause was loud and long. The same thing with loud applause for the other candidates, especially for Rubio and Cruz. That's what it sounded like!

Was it stacked? You bet it was! For Jeb Bush! Nevertheless, Trump came off looking Presidential and answering the questions with perfect aplomb and skill. He was calm, deliberate, and had brilliant answers ready for every subject matter questioned.

When Bush attacked him, rather than saying, "Quiet," he should have said, "Excuse me, Governor Bush, but would you please allow me to speak." And that very calm approach would have startled Bush and the commentators and stilled the audience. This is how you handle abuse. We know the GOPe, MSM, DNC all want Trump gone because he's fouled up their NWO plans.

The other GOP candidates and moderators will continue to target Mr. Trump and try to rile him. Trump has to use the psychological warfare of Ronald Reagan. Remember when Reagan and Carter were debating? When Carter said something negative about Reagan, his response would be to smile that very calm smile and say, "There you go again." He remained so calm that he turned the tables and totally neutralized the attack by his opponent. This is what Mr. Trump has to do. Not only does it turn the tables, but it defuses the attacker and makes him look foolish.

Despite the audience being very light on Trump supporters, purposefully only 20, I believe this was one of the better debates so far. If you missed it, you can read the transcript here.

Cruz and Rubio Should Bow Out

The GOPe wants us to elect one of these two men, both of whom should bow out of the race because neither are eligible. We do not need a Presidential candidate or President so badly, that we have to go outside the pool of two citizen parents at their birth for a President, regardless of the candidate's ethnicity. As lawyers, both these men know this, and certainly have been told about  Vattel's The Law of Nations, which defines "natural born citizen" from Article II, Section 1, Clause 5 of the Constitution. There were three copies of The Law of Nations at the 1787 Convention for the very purpose of defining "natural born citizen."

Yes, I'm going to say it again! Cruz is the son of a Cuban born father, and an American born mother. He was born in Canada, and we do not know if he really did have dual citizenship with America because of Canadian laws and his mother's citizenship, which also may have been Canadian. The Examiner's article, Proof That Ted Cruz did Not Become an American Citizen at Birth, brings up some valid points.

Marco Rubio is an anchor baby and is not eligible. Despite being born in America, his parents were both Cuban citizens at the time of his birth.

The truth of the Constitution is this. To be eligible to run for President or Vice President in America, you must be born to two American citizen parents. Here again are two great articles on this very subject.

Natural Born Citizen Status is Inherited – It's Not Bestowed By the Constitution or Acts of Congress.

More War With Cruz and Rubio

Cruz, with fist pumping and venom in his voice, pledges to carpet bomb ISIS when he is president. I wonder if he'd get Congressional approval first. Ted is running as The Big Fist, as the Militant Warrior, and God help us, he is running as the Capeless Crusader against Social Security and Medicare.

We have all paid into Social Security and Medicare for decades, it has become necessary for many of the elderly to survive. I am getting sick and tired of hearing that Social Security and Medicare are entitlements. Remember that this Congress did not stop Obama from making a deal to give Iran $150 billion  dollars, and that same Congress couldn't give social security recipients a lousy three percent raise.

Foreign Policy Advisors

Several of the Republicans are using the same foreign policy advisors as Hillary Clinton. What's the difference between Hillary Clinton and globalists like Cruz and Marco Rubio?

Consultants affiliated with a small Washington, D.C., firm called Beacon Global Strategies provide high-profile foreign policy guidance to Hillary Clinton, Marco Rubio, and Ted Cruz, among others. Isn't that special, both left and right together.

Beacon Global was founded in 2013 by former senior officials from the State Department, Department of Defense, and Central Intelligence Agency, and has more than a dozen clients, primarily defense contractors, according to Defense News.

The founders of the firm are both from Hillary Clinton's inner circle, Philippe Reines and Andrew Shapiro. Read about this firm here, and note the last paragraph:

Beacon Global Strategies' seed funding came from Claude Fontheim, a former Clinton adviser who now serves as a lobbyist to the U.S.-China Exchange Foundation, a nonprofit reportedly used by Chinese government officials and Hong Kong tycoons to shape American policy toward China.

Conclusion

Despite the manipulation of every single debate to destroy

Donald Trump, the support for his candidacy keeps growing. He is beholden to none of the groups the globalists are funded by. The people know, and the people want him. The only way this man will not win the nomination, and then presidency, is through fraud and corruption by the Republican party and the phony conservatives who so many people put their faith in falsely.

And guess what? All the polls still show that Trump won this debate too. [Link]
