

Hillary Clinton: “Trump supporters a basket full of deplorables”

Over the weekend, in a major speech, presidential candidate Hillary Clinton called Trump supporters a “Basket full of deplorables...racists, xenophobes, sexists and Islamaphobes.”

Since presidential candidate Donald Trump commands 50 to 51 percent of the national polls as the leading GOP front-runner, that makes half the American people a “basket full of deplorables.”

However, at this time, 50 percent of the American people voted black Barack Obama into the White House, twice. Americans elevated African-American Loretta Lynch to become the Attorney General of America. One of America’s most revered generals, Colin Powell became Chief of Staff under a Republican administration. Black woman Condoleezza Rice served as Secretary of State. Black mayors guide major cities in America. Black journalists like Lester Holt, Don Lemon, Allen West enjoy a commanding podium in the national news arena. Top African-American athletes like Michael Jordan, Russell Wilson and LeBron James as well as dozens of their black contemporaries constitute new millionaires in America.

At no time in history have African-Americans enjoyed more freedoms and the ability to become educated, as well as financial power—as in the 21st century. One look at Africa’s 1.1 billion people depicts a world where their black origins-continent suffers from overpopulation, disease, wars, religious mayhem, lack of women’s rights and outright savagery on a scale unknown in America.

In 1995, candidate Bill Clinton said, “I am going to make America great again.” Yet today, when Donald Trump coined the phrase, he's called a 'racist'.

More startling, if you look at the Hillary Rodham Clinton of the last 40 years, you see a woman who knew her man cheated on her for over a decade with the blond bombshell from Arkansas, Jennifer Flowers, who wrote a book about it: Passion & Betrayal.

Not only that, after the Monica Lewinski sex scandal traumatized the entire nation from Bill Clinton's Oval Office, Hillary condemned more than a dozen women who came forward—saying they were liars and frauds.

If you look at the scandals of Whitewater, Lewinski, Flowers, financial fraud of the Clinton Foundation, Clinton's daughter Chelsea being fathered by Webster Hubbell out of Arkansas, favors bought by Islamic leaders, national security compromised by classified information being sent by private email servers, and the list grows—what are we to conclude as to her ethical foundation? "Deplorable" cannot touch this pattern of criminality!

Perhaps the most egregious Hillary transgression: deaths of four men at Benghazi because Clinton refused to add more troops and security even at the last hours when they could have been saved.

Instead, after the slaughter at Benghazi, she said, "What difference does it make?"

As she observes Muslims bomb, rape, slice priests' throats and create mayhem across Europe, she promises to bring hundreds of thousands of Muslim refugees to America—thus creating the same conflict in our own country. Ask yourself: "How does this serve our country?"

As Secretary of State, Hillary hired Muslim Huma Abedin as her top aide. However, Abedin now finds herself exposed as a member of the Muslim Brotherhood, which works to overthrow the United States of America and destroy our U.S. Constitution. (As well as Europe, Canada and Australia.)

As to the 20 to 31 million illegal aliens invading our country, she promises to give them amnesty with her mandate via her election, if elected. Additionally, by her own admission, she will not enforce America's borders—one of the many consequences she assures us she will follow—to flood our country with third world immigrants.

When history catches up to Hillary Rodham Clinton, it must report on a woman so consumed by power and by her own self-importance that she would attack and denounce average Americans as "A basket full of deplorables."

Throughout it all, she maintains so much control within the establishment of the FBI, that Director Comey refused to indict her even when all the facts pointed to the reality that she lied and continues to lie on multiple fronts.

As to Americans being Islama-phones, wouldn't 9/11's 3,000 killed by Muslims equate to Islama-phobia? How about Paris, France; Brussels, Belgium; Charlie Hebdo massacre; throat slitting in the streets of London of innocent citizens; Orlando, Florida; Boston Marathon bombings; Fort Hood killings; San Bernardino, California Christmas party slaughter; Chattanooga, Tennessee killings; Moore, Oklahoma beheadings; honor killings in Phoenix, Arizona, Texas, South Carolina and New York City—create Islama-phobia in you for your family? How about Boko Haram? Subway bombings in the United Kingdom and Spain? All Muslims! How about the endless call for Sharia Law in America by a majority of Muslim-Americans? Anybody see a reason for concern?

You bet! I am Islama-phobic because I understand that Islam's followers' final equation means, "Convert or kill all non-believers". It explodes right out of the terrorist handbook known as the Quran. I know that any Muslim in America at any moment could and would cut my throat if I walked in the wrong place at the wrong time.

Of concern, as rumors become reality, Hillary suffers from Parkinson's disease. The news reports her tripping as she walks onto airplanes and into limousines. She coughs uncontrollably for minutes at a time. Is she healthy enough to serve as president of the United States?

For the record, I am an American citizen. I support Trump. I stand for all Americans of all colors. I stand for the U.S. Constitution, for which I would give my life. I stand for women's rights. I stand for all rights of African-Americans. I may not appreciate what football player Colin Kaepernick doesn't stand for, but I would defend to the death his choice to express his 1st Amendment rights. I feel that all Americans, black, white, brown, red and yellow, democrat, independent, libertarian, republican—as long as they stand for our U.S. Constitution—deserve to be held in the highest honor as Americans—because we all live in the same boat—The United States of America. Most of us care about our country, our kids and the future of our nation.

As to Hillary Clinton, she lives an exceptionally dishonest life as proven by her actions and choices over a lifetime. Historians will find her one of the most deplorable historical figures of all time—by her incompetence and her name calling against the American people.
