

Hillary's Sunday rally for Muslims proof that us needs Trump

In the Democrat's plan for victory in November's presidential election, they have all but admitted they need to assemble a coalition of a number of voting blocs by pandering to immigrants – illegal or legal – and other so called constituencies, a Washington, D.C. insider stated on Friday.

For example, a Muslim coalition rally for the Democratic Party's flawed front-runner Hillary Clinton is designed with the help of her news media supporters to remind Muslims and their leftist supporters about the GOP's Donald Trump and his commonsense proposal for a crackdown on the enormous influx of Islamist immigrants, police adviser and self-defense lobbyist John M. Snyder said on Friday.

According to press reports, the Coalition of American Muslims for Hillary is slated to hold a rally on Sunday, April 24 at 3 p.m. at The Universities of Shady Grove in Rockville, Maryland. Among the people slated to attend the rally are the keynote speakers Rep. Elijah Cummings (D-Maryland) and longtime Clinton minion John Podesta, who chairs Hillary for America. The organizers claim they'll attract upwards of 1,200 attendees.

"Rep. Cummings makes no apologies for being involved in a rally for Clinton, even though he is supposed to be investigating her as part of the Benghazi Select Committee. While Rep. Trey Gowdy and others are trying to get to the bottom of the Battle of Benghazi, Cummings has been blocking efforts, denigrating investigators and openly campaigning for the subject of his probe. He should be investigated for a number of questionable actions," said former police detective, Sid Franes, who is African American.

"When will Americans wake up and see that the entire system has been corrupted by the likes of the Clinton family, President Barack Obama and his crowd, and the majority of Democratic Party bigwigs?" asked Franes.

Sultan Chowdhury is an organizer and member of the Coalition of American Muslims for Hillary and says the event is an opportunity for the Muslim community to engage in the political process. He is noted for his setting up the Islamic Bank of Britain's Head Office Operations and Branch Network.

"We want to show that there's [a] significant population of Muslims in the Washington D.C. metro area," Chowdhury said. "Our political participation has [not been as] prominent, so we thought it's time for us [through this] general election process to invite the candidates and show our perspective on the political process as well as support the causes so they can take notice of us as well," he said.

But Trump maintains that "Islam hates us," that it is "at war with the West," that "we can't allow people coming into this country who have this hatred of the United States," and that there should be a "complete shutdown" of Muslims entering the country.

Snyder noted: "Scholarly research and analysis of Islam indicates that violent, even brutal murderous throat cutting attacks by Muslims on non-Muslims actually are considered acts of piety rather than acts of terrorism by Islamists. This comports with seminal Islamist texts and practice."

(For an in-depth treatment of this subject, see an article on Realism and Islam by Rev. James V. Schall, S.J.)

"Believers in violence and murder as pious acts are enemies of civilized society and must be treated as such. The presence in our midst of such characters underscores the advisability of constitutional gun carry for self-defense. It shows also that America needs anti-terrorist Second Amendment supporter Trump as president. It needs to defeat Islamist supporting gun prohibitionist Hillary Clinton,” said Snyder, who serves on the advisory boards of the National Association of Chiefs of Police and the American Federation of Police and Concerned Citizens. Snyder is the former editor for the National Rifle Association (NRA) magazines and a scholar in constitutional law.

DIA documents also confirm the suspicions that the U.S. government was aware of military-grade arms being transported from the terrorist hotbed of Benghazi to war-torn Syria for use by rebel forces against the Al-Assad regime. In addition, the report contains an August 2012 analysis of intelligence that predicted “the meteoric rise of al-Qaida in Iraq terrorists” who morphed into the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS), arguably the cruelest, violent and deadly terrorist group in the world.

“Besides the cover-up of the true motive for the attack, Hillary Clinton and her lackeys wanted to keep the Muslim Brotherhood’s role in planning the attack and selecting the target under wraps. She was on record telling Americans – as did President Barack Obama – that the Muslim Brotherhood is a moderate group,” said former police counterterrorism unit member, Joseph Larzenby. In fact, Clinton and Obama both openly supported Egyptian President Morsi, who was connected to the radical Islamist group, the Muslim Brotherhood. The group had been placed on the terrorist watch lists of a number of countries, but not the U.S. State Department’s terrorist designation list.

“So while we now have proof that Hillary Clinton knowingly lied about the reason for the attack in blaming a pathetic, obscure video for the murder of Ambassador Chris Stevens and three other brave Americans, we still haven’t gotten to the bottom of this cover-up,” stated former U.S. Navy SEAL Scott

Taylor, the current president of Special Operations Speaks.

The documents also contend that the terrorists intended to attack the sparsely protected U.S. diplomatic mission in order to kill as many American officials as possible. The motive for the attack was believed to have been revenge for the U.S. counterterrorism operation credited with killing of Abu Yahya al-Libi, a high-level al-Qaida terrorist killed by U.S. drone strikes in North Waziristan.
