

How “Undemocratic” of Democrats

By Lex Greene

July 22, 2024

After years spent painting themselves into this fatal corner, with the democrat party on the brink of extinction, party leaders work around the clock to terminate 14,465,519 2024 DNC primary voters and pick their own puppet candidates for President and Vice President at the upcoming convention.

First, they denied democrat primary voters a chance to vote for someone other than dementia Joe, and now, they are on the verge of not allowing those voters to cast a ballot for Joe in the general election, the same guy the party forced everyone to nominate just a few months ago.

Oh, what a tangled web... non-aviator Joe in his famous aviator sunglasses, feels jilted and backstabbed as he is forced to withdraw from a second term bid. But just wait until you see how 14,465,519 D voters feel in a few more days, as their primary votes are cast aside by the party elite. Turns out the useful fools are no longer useful to the elites who control the party.

As the Party Turns on Itself

One of the things I've told readers for decades is the power-hungry left always fails from within...sooner or later. Driven by an unquenchable thirst for tyrannical power over all others, they always overestimate themselves, underestimate their opponents, and eventually, overplay their hand. They paint themselves into corners like this, and then, they make even more mistakes in a state of panic.

This time, they may have painted themselves into a corner they won't be able to escape.

Very Limited and Dangerous Options

1. Clearly, efforts to keep a leftist lid on the reality that Joe Biden is in no way, shape, or form, capable of continuing his bid for a second term have failed. Most of us knew this long ago, even before the 2020 elections. But now, faced with the disastrous debate performance and a growing collection of major gaffs in appearance after appearance since, even Morning Joe and CNN can no longer carry water for the DNC nominee.
2. Because the party changed their rules in 2021, not allowing anyone to openly run against dementia Joe in a democratic style primary process, the only way to take Joe's DNC delegates is for Joe to voluntarily withdraw from the race or be declared unfit to serve by his own party in a 25th Amendment removal from office. His cabinet is actually Barack Obama's cabinet...but there isn't time for this move now.
3. Meanwhile, useful idiot #2 Kamala Harris, who ran dead last in the 2020 DNC primaries, can't even beat Johnny six-pack for local dogcatcher, and everyone knows it. She is no longer useful to the party elites either.
4. So, with less than a month to go until the DNC Convention, and the need to declare a nominee no later than August 1st in order to appear on some state ballots, the mad scramble for a solution is in overdrive. The party must nominate someone other than Biden or Harris and they are about out of time.

So, what happens next?

The highly undemocratic party elites must force an "open convention” where the elites can pick someone other than Joe or Kamala for the general elections in November. Meanwhile, Trump has gained international superstar status, in great part due to the endless DNC attacks that have gone sideways for almost nine years now. When all other plots to eliminate Trump failed, gun shots rang out in a last-ditch attempt to remove Trump from the race...only days ahead of the GOP Convention.

Obama was right... “never underestimate Joe’s ability to F things up!”

Oh, what a tangled web, indeed...

According to CNN and the Democrat Party, Joe won the 2024 DNC primaries by a landslide, with 3904 of 3949 delegates, essentially unchallenged. Changes in DNC rules in 2021 make it impossible to take his delegates away without Joe’s voluntary withdrawal.

14,465,519 D voters are about to be overruled by their party elites, in a totally undemocratic maneuver. Joe has already said “I’m the nominee” and basically, if he’s not, then he will not give his 3904 delegates to VP Harris, demonstrating a total lack of confidence in his VP!

Instead, he will be forced by party elites to release his delegates back to the party so that the elites can pick a different Presidential and Vice-Presidential ticket for November in an “open convention,” without a single vote from party loyalists. How undemocratic of the democrats!

An Open Convention

First, an open convention will take place after deadlines for their new candidates to appear on a number of state ballots. But that’s just the beginning of their problems...

Short-listers aren’t good choices either.

- Hillary Clinton is already a three-time loser and remains one of the most unpopular political figures in modern history.

- California Governor Gavin Newsom barely survived a recall effort in his own state, by the same voting methods used to fraudulently put Biden in the White House in 2020. He may not even be able to carry his home state.
- Likewise, second only to Hillary in unpopularity is Michigan Governor Gretchen Whitmer, Vice Chair of the DNC and co-chair of the reelect Biden Campaign.
- Then there are the unknowns, a couple democrat governors from election fraud swing states.
- There isn't anyone else!

In other words, aside from taking another shot at Trump, or going scorched-earth in an effort to make sure there isn't an election come November, the Democrat Party is out of airspeed and altitude, in a death spiral towards the turf...

The long knives are out, and Biden is in his own crosshairs now. He took the job of useful idiot to provide Obama a 3rd and 4th unconstitutional term. But his usefulness has passed.

It's absolutely Trump's race to lose now. If you think democrats are all finished trying to eliminate Trump, think again. Desperate people do desperate things and Democrat Party elites are now the most desperate people in the USA.
