

I Hope Trump Can Survive the Resistance?

By Cliff Kincaid

December 15, 2024

Now that President Trump has survived the campaign, he must learn to survive the transition period to his new administration. The anti-Trump resistance has reared its ugly head, with the brutal daylight assassination of a health care insurance CEO by an Ivy League lunatic programmed to kill by socialist propaganda about the evils of America's private health care system.

The political left has greeted Luigi Mangone as a hero, proving that the hatred of capitalism and the private sector is now on full display. This is communist ideology.

The People's Action Institute, one of many Soros-connected groups mobilizing the resistance to Trump, has linked Trump to the CEO's company UnitedHealthcare through the Heritage Foundation's Project 2025 .

That means that any corporation and its CEO backing Trump are potential targets. Project 2025 was such a big bogeyman that Trump himself disavowed it.

Meanwhile, the Jihadists have taken Syria, South Korea has been destabilized, the war in Ukraine is accelerating, Russian puppets are in control of the former Soviet republic of Georgia, and the governments of Germany and France have collapsed, as has the Conservative Party in Britain.

Speaking of global instability, there is the controversy about drones over Trump's New Jersey living quarters at Bedminster, as the Iranians still plot to kill him.

At the same time, the president is being ill-served by his own son Don Jr., the architect of the disastrous nomination of Tulsi Gabbard as Director of National Intelligence. His personal life is once again in turmoil and fodder for the tabloids as his latest girlfriend Kimberly Guilfoyle has been dropped like a hot potato and is being shipped off to Greece as U.S. Ambassador.

Gabbard not only had a cozy meeting with the Russian-backed Syrian dictator, now living in Moscow, but even has Chinese communist ties, as documented by analyst Trevor Loudon. The first Hindu member of Congress, she was allegedly associated with a branch of a New Age eastern religious organization that some describe as a cult.

According to the publication The Hill, Gabbard has been less than impressive during her appearances on Capitol Hill, as her devotion to Russian agent and American defector Edward Snowden is causing difficulties. One problem, the outlet says, is that she has been "a high-profile defender of leaker Edward Snowden..." and has even recommended a presidential pardon for him.

A "leaker" is a misleading way to describe him. He stole millions of NSA documents, fled to Russia through Hong Kong, and is now a Russian citizen.

Lt. Gen Ion Mihai Pacepa, the highest-ranking Soviet bloc intelligence official ever to defect to the West, called Snowden's theft and defection "a well-prepared Russian intelligence operation."

A lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army reserve, Gabbard was set to join Trump at the Army-Navy college football game on Saturday.

It will be a major embarrassment when she pulls out for lack of support. If she happens to get confirmed, it will eventually blow up in Trump's face, as she is clearly unqualified and a security risk, as documented on my Rumble channel in an interview with analyst Trevor Loudon.

Amidst the gloom and doom, one great Trump nomination stands out – Kash Patel as FBI director.

His book, Government Gangsters, is a must-read for those eager to learn more about the Deep State and how it operates. One needs to complement Patel's book with Big Intel by Michael J. Waller, who fills in the blanks with the communist connections of those who tried to subvert Trump during his first term.

On Capitol Hill, Speaker Mike Johnson must accompany the purge of Deep State operatives with a new congressional committee, like the old House Committee on Un-American Activities, which exposed the treason of Alger Hiss with the help of Rep. Richard Nixon and communist defector Whittaker Chambers. This is the approach that can uncover Chinese and Russian operatives in the Intelligence Community.

Regarding the FBI's deaf, dumb, and blind approach, I took pictures of more than one thousand communists, socialists and fellow travelers. on March 18, 2023, in Lafayette Square across from the White House. Most of them were young people. Similar demonstrations occurred in 12 other cities. They distributed communist literature by Karl Marx and carried communist and Russian flags and balloons saying "China is not our enemy."

Patel needs a briefing on the communist nature of the "resistance."

At the same time, so-called "Deep Green Resistance" has announced that "it is necessary to use any means necessary to bring down the industrial civilization," including sabotage of pipelines. Earth First radicals, eco-socialists, and anti-technology activists like the health care CEO killer Luigi Mangione, who admired the Unabomber, are ready and organized to strike.

Meanwhile, also on Capitol Hill, we saw the spectacle of the reappearance of Bradley Manning, the Army traitor pardoned by Barack Hussein Obama, dressed up as “Chelsea Manning” and demanding access to women’s bathrooms. Manning was an open homosexual in the Army before deciding to become a woman. He is now a member of the LGBTQ “resistance” to Trump.

Nevertheless, the former drinker and adulterer Pete Hegseth seems to be on the road to confirmation as Pentagon chief, after backing away from his previous stands against gays in the ranks and women in combat.

“Hegseth Flip Flops on Women in Combat, Gays in Military” was the headline over a Newsman article. He had previously declared gays and transgenders in the military to be part of a Marxist agenda

As MAGA people declare a “mandate” for Trump, the reality is something else entirely, as documented by conservative Christian activist and writer Chuck Mason at The American Thinker. Bringing the discussion back down to earth, he analyzes the data from the election results, concluding that Trump came within 240,000 votes of losing the White House to Kamala Harris and that his margin of victory was 1.6 percent or 2.5 million votes.

“Welcome to America’s Second Civil War,” he comments, correctly indicating that the conflict continues and should intensify.

Sounding a note of sanity, he writes, “Pundits paint 2024 as a historic win that saved America, and in many ways, it has. But they ignore how close this election was, and that’s where the problem lies. This historic win has an Achilles heel no one talks about.”

Nobody knows this better than Steve Phillips, the far-left architect of the “New American Majority” coalition of Democrat voters that fell short by only about two percentage points in 2024. It’s called the “New American Majority” because they thought they had a lock on at least 51 percent of the electorate, consisting of people of color (23 percent of all eligible voters) and white progressives (28 percent of all eligible voters). It also incorporates those with a secular, humanist, atheist, or New Age mentality.

In 2024, they fell short, barely.

Chuck Mason’s comment in the American Thinker is a wise one: “The majority of the country did not shift to the right; the Left still has a solid competitive base. If you disagree, ask the 48.5 percent of Americans who thought four more years of the Biden administration on steroids was good for the country.”

As for Steve Phillips, he wrote the book, How We Win the Civil War, on how a total Marxist victory can be achieved.

Trump has a fight on his hands. Bowing to the political left on such critical matters as military order and discipline, as Hegseth has done, is not the right approach.
