

If the Average American Only Knew

Ms. Smallback

With the recent news of a permanent cease-fire in Syria, many Americans are faced with a conundrum. Just on October 7, Senator Lindsey Graham was ripping President Trump for removing American troops from Syria, and then a mere fourteen days later was praising him. I mean, which is it? If we're looking to our talking heads and elected officials for how we should think about this, what are we to think?

I have a series of questions that might help...

If the Average American Knew

If the average American knew the CIA set up a dark funds trust for the express purpose of making money that did not run through the U.S. Congress nor need Congressional oversight or approval, so they could carry out covert and clandestine operations without clearance...

And that these operations would include setting up the largest drug, weapons and money laundering systems the world has seen...

And that the United States CIA is expressly responsible for the enormous influx of drugs to enter our nation for the past five decades...

Or that the CIA would both employ and compensate cartel members and drug lords by putting them on their payroll...

And that the CIA would set up its own airlines for the purpose of drug trafficking ...

Or that the CIA's airline would receive the contracts for ALL civilian carriers and ALL military cargoes in Southeast Asia and the Pacific Rim before they ever had even one aircraft...

And this was to implement a "master plan to enter the drug smuggling business"...

Would they believe it?

If the average American knew that in this operation Americans would be "eliminated" at the whim of their drug and trafficking projects...

Or that 2,500 Americans simply "vanished" at the hands of the CIA...

Would they demand an accounting?

If the average American knew the CIA was laundering their drug money [Operation Clean Room] through various Rothschild banks in various nations...

Or that foreign governments were bribed or coerced into cooperating with supplying drugs and methods of payments...

Or that people were killed (look in Japan) who were ordered to provide forged or altered CDs [Mitsui Bank, Ltd.] from the actual Gold Certificates from the Japanese Treasury ...

(but don't worry, their families were compensated to the tune of a million dollars each)...

Or that the people the CIA set up and used were again set up and jailed in obscure prisons never to be seen again...

Would there be an outcry for justice?

If the average American knew George H.W. Bush was the pilot and mastermind of operations for the drug smuggling...

Or that his buddy Richard Armitage was double and triple crossing both the CIA and the drug cartels and amassed sums in excess of a billion dollars which he invested in gold and hid in Island banks...

Or that William Colby started the "Phoenix Program" that had executed over 20,000 people (including 2500 Americans) before the CIA convinced him to "retire" from the program...

Would they still endorse them as American idols and worship them in American media?

If the average American knew the CIA dealt treacherously with Marion (J.R.) Horn by convincing him to purchase the stolen CD from Japan, and then set him up for arrest and conviction in order to secure their fall guy and reclaim their money...

Or that Adler Seal (American Made movie) was a paid partner of the CIA to smuggle drugs for them to the tune of $30M...

And that Seal was frequently released and exonerated on numerous true and actual charges of crimes because the CIA controlled the courts...

Would they still think America is righteous and just?

If the average American knew the CIA employed (through the magic funds from this drugs and weapons smuggling trust) the head of Panama's Defense Forces Intelligence Unit, Colonel Noriega at the "salary" of a $500,000,000 cash bribe PLUS one percent cut of all shipments running through Panama...

Or that the CIA deliberately interfered in a foreign government's (Panama) existing government to eliminate any opposition to prevent Noriega from becoming Panama's President...

Or that the CIA set up, trained and armed guerillas to topple the Nicaraguan regime...

Would they be so enthusiastic about the endless wars our government sends our military into?

If the average American knew the CIA created the 1949 Central Intelligence Act in order to prevent disclosure, accountability or law enforcement regarding the illegal acts of the CIA...

And that the CIA ordered the destruction of damning documents and evidence of their clandestine crimes...

Would they shrug and get back to their Little League games, their internet shopping, their TV shows and radio stations, etc.?

If the average American knew that a military General sent a report exposing the drug dealing out of Panama to the White House in 1977, but the report "disappeared"...

Would they consider our government a government of laws and order and integrity?

If the average American knew that General Ferrera was appalled to find out the drugs they were smuggling were being sold to US soldiers...

And that he refused to participate and in fact went rogue...

And that General Ferrera is the person who set up the $30M drug runner Seal murdered NOT the cartel (like the movie falsely depicted)...

And that the CIA then tried to eliminate/assassinate General Ferrera for defending American citizens to its own corrupt government...

And that Ferrera quit his position in the CIA to protest and revolt against the un-American treachery of its clandestine programs...

Would they demand justice? Would they condemn the CIA and demand an accounting?

If the average American knew the FBI did an investigation into all of these claims and discovered they were TRUE...

And that the FBI provided Senator Ted Kennedy with this report at his request and in secrecy...

Would they want to see the report? Would they want to know why Ted Kennedy required his own personal debriefing on General Ferrera? Or why Senator Kennedy was more interested in General Ferrera than the illegal activities of the CIA?

If the average American knew the wars in the Middle East have little to nothing to do with democracy, and everything to do with drug and arms trafficking, and controlling oil...

Or that pulling American troops out of Syria has more to do with meth and narcotics, and the millions put in black ops funds than with Kurds, Turks or ISIS...

Would they do a little more digging on what actual Syrians think of the endless wars in their nation and a little less parroting what the talking heads tell them?

If the average American knew the U.S. sent troops into Afghanistan under the guise of a "war on terror" but really to harvest the poppy fields of opium...

And that Afghanistan provides 90% of the world's supply of heroin...

And that the heroin crisis is directly linked to the Military Industrial Complex...

And that it is American sourced planes and ships that transport and traffic the drugs...

Would they still endorse the "war on terror"?

If the average American knew former President Obama ordered the CIA to train ISIS...

And used ISIS as assets for toppling the Syrian regime...

And that it has nothing to do with democracy but everything to do with weapons trafficking through the now infamous Benghazi

Would they echo Mrs. Clinton's term nonchalantly, "what difference does it make now?"

I can't help but wonder if the average American knew how many innocent people have been sacrificed at the altar of drug and human trafficking, weapons trafficking, and fabricated wars, at the hands of American agencies would they wake up? Would they forcibly remove the wicked rulers in high places? Would they dismantle the rogue and corrupt "intelligence" agencies used for nefarious agendas? Would they not rest until the lies were exposed, the wicked were apprehended, and justice was meted out?

Too much to ask?

Okay, maybe then the average Christian? The average Christian is surely interested in exposing the wicked deeds of darkness, right? The average Christian surely mourns over the injustice in our land? The average Christian surely sees the traps the enemy has laid for the innocent, the naïve, and the ignorant? They would not be okay with that, would they? Surely the average Christian would not rest until exposure was full, criminals were tried and sentenced, and justice prevailed?

Let's see, has God given us any direction for this dilemma?

I know your deeds, that you are neither cold nor hot; I wish that you were cold or hot. So because you are lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I will spit you out of My mouth. Because you say, " I am rich, and have become wealthy, and have need of nothing," and you do not know that you are wretched and miserable and poor and blind and naked, I advise you to buy from Me gold refined by fire so that you may become rich, and white garments so that you may clothe yourself, and that the shame of your nakedness will not be revealed; and eye salve to anoint your eyes so that you may see. Those whom I love, I reprove and discipline; therefore be zealous and repent. –Rev 3:15-20 NASU

You can read the FBI report on America's crimes against both Americans and the world, their role in the drug trade, and the lauded heroes, I mean CIA agents, who ran these programs HERE.

You can read about America sending its troops to harvest and traffic heroin from Afghanistan in their fake "war on terror" HERE.

You can read about the CIA training ISIS workers HERE.

You can read about the "wars" in Syria and other parts of the Middle East really being about drug trafficking and making billions in illegal activities HERE.
