

Islam Has Conquered Minnesota

By Rob Pue

January 26, 2026

When notable, major events take place and the mainstream media immediately jumps on those news stories, I typically don't respond immediately. I've learned to wait, to do research, gather information and then do my best to separate the hype from the deliberate lies.

But I've watched the situation in Minnesota unfold for many weeks now, and the time has come to speak. Because there certainly seems to be a lot being exposed there, all at once now. When situations like this develop, I have to wonder why we're being allowed to see this, and why now?

The current situation in Minnesota began with "Operation Metro Surge" starting in December, as the US Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) launched a concentrated deployment of agents there, mainly in the Twin Cities areas, focusing on an enormous population of illegal immigrants, mostly Somalians, estimated now at at least 100,000 people.

But then, at the end of December, allegations of massive fraud emerged, involving over 100 million federal dollars being sent to fund Somali-run "child care" centers. On December 31st, the Trump administration launched an investigation into the situation. Initial findings show more than $9 billion dollars of fraud in more than a dozen Medicaid-funded programs in Minnesota – again, centered around Somali-run childcare centers and other organizations.

Citizen reporters have tracked down some of these “daycare centers,” and found several buildings that appear to have been abandoned some time ago, some with blacked out windows in neighborhoods that were not “child friendly,” and one that was vacant on a previous weekday, now suddenly had about fifty children inside. At least one facility that is in operation has had a child die there, and other children injured in previous months.

But this isn’t Minnesota’s first “rodeo.” I should mention the “Feeding Our Future” scandal. “Feeding Our Future” was a Minnesota nonprofit, originally set up during COVID to help provide meals to children. But federal prosecutors determined that instead of feeding kids, the organization and a giant web of associates, fraudulently stole hundreds of millions of dollars.

Here’s how it worked: They signed up hundreds of supposed meal sites across Minnesota. Then, they submitted fake documentation including meal counts, attendance reports and invoices, claiming to serve meals that were never actually provided. They received reimbursements from the Federal Child Nutrition Program based on those false records, and used the stolen funds for personal enrichment, including luxury vehicles, real estate and travel. According to federal sources, Feeding Our Future and its co-conspirators fraudulently obtained more than $240 million in program funds between 2020 and 2022. Hundreds of fraudulent sites were identified and by last year, at least 78 people had been indicted or charged. Of those 78, 72 were Somali nationals and 57 of those have already been convicted.

So, the powers-that-be have known of the fraud and theft of public monies for years, but only now is the mainstream media letting the cat out of the bag. Interestingly, it comes as Trump has launched “Operation Metro Surge” in the Twin Cities, as ICE and other federal agents attempt to round up illegals there – which has brought us to where we are now, on the brink of civil war. Leftist Americans are siding with their Islamic neighbors, labeling ICE agents as “Gestapo” and fighting law enforcement in a highly-organized way.

More on that shortly. But we shouldn’t forget the recent reports from Homeland Security officials revealing TSA screenings at the Minneapolis airport have flagged huge amounts of cash being flown out of the country in the last two years. We’re talking a minimum of $342 million dollars – that we know of – in 2024 and $349 million in 2025. This cash was carried by Somali couriers and flown on routes to Amsterdam and then Dubai. Some individual pieces of luggage contained as much as $1 million in cash.

This money has been funding Al-Shabaab, known for suicide bombings, assassinations, improvised explosive devices and attacks on government forces. They’ve sworn allegiance to al-Qaeda since 2012. There’s also the Islamic State in Somalia, which is linked directly to ISIS. Your tax dollars at work, folks...stolen through fraud and likely orchestrated by government traitors “working for the people” of the state of Minnesota.

Somalis began arriving in Minnesota in 1991. The Minneapolis/St. Paul metro area now has the largest Somali population in the United States. And they have not come to America to become Americans. As the internet will tell you, in the “politically correct” manner that it does, they live in “ethnic enclaves.” That means “no-go zones” to you and me. Some will call their political involvement “assimilation,” but “infiltration” would be a more accurate description. Minnesota boasts the notorious Ilhan Omar, the first Somali woman placed in the US Congress.

But Muslims also hold other high political offices in Minnesota, including Keith Ellison, the state Attorney General; Nadia Mohamed, Mayor of St. Louis Park, also from Somalia; Omar Fateh, a Minnesota State Senator, also from Somalia; Zaynab Mohamed, another State Senator and also from Somalia. Then there's Mohamud Noor, a State Representative and another Somali. And Abdi Warsame, a former Minneapolis City Council member, also a Somali.

The internet will tell you that Minnesota has such a strong Islamic presence in local, state and federal politics because of their enormous Somali population, which has helped create voting blocs and community organization. But Muslims have been engaging in "migration jihad" for decades now. We've witnessed what's happened to western European countries where muslims overwhelm the infrastructure, then establish their own communities, then take over political power. We've warned of this for decades too, yet very few have taken this seriously. "Surely that could never happen in America. Surely never in a place like Minnesota!" I hate to say I told you so, but...

Yes, there are some Somalis and other Muslims that hold jobs and support themselves honestly. But most do not. Now, that's not rhetoric or "Islamophobia." The numbers tell the story. Instead of working, the Center for Immigration Studies reports that:

- 89% of Somali immigrant households with children use some welfare, with 86% on Medicaid (versus 28% for native-born Americans).
- 81% of Somali households are on welfare overall; 80% remain on welfare even after ten or more years living in the US.
- 54% rely on food stamps. Only 7% of native-born Americans do.

That's not assimilation. It's called "working the system" and they're very good at it. So that's a lot of information about Islam and Somalis in Minnesota. Now, I'll ask again: why are we getting so much news about all this now? Our political "leaders" have known about all this forever. But now they – and their cohorts in the mainstream media – have released this damning information to the public...at the same time ICE mounts a major operation in the Minnesota Somali community, sparking outrage among the Leftist rioters there.

I believe it's another attempt to divide Americans and bring chaos, perhaps even civil war, as Americans attack other Americans. Tensions in Minnesota have continued to rise. The opposition to ICE, as in other American cities, has been fierce, and well-coordinated. The finger prints of George Soros are all over this. In fact, we know that his Open Society Foundation has provided millions in grants to groups like the Sunrise Movement, now openly supporting resistance against ICE activities. Why is Soros still not in prison?

You may be surprised to know that other nonprofits, like the Ford Foundation and the MacArthur Foundation also support the Sunrise Movement. Local activist groups in Minnesota also receive funding through broader nonprofit channels. And just as they also helped facilitate the invasion of our borders by illegals, professing "Christian" organizations are also heavily involved. We know of Catholic Charities, the ELCA Lutheran churches, the Presbyterian Church (USA), the United Methodist Church, and many others – so-called "churches" that will not support or preach the commands of God Almighty, but are proud to hang a rainbow flag on their building, endorse sodomy, baby murder and "interfaith" dialogue with worshipers of a false god. These groups are also helping to organize and train people to assault and attack law enforcement, while protecting the enemy within.

These groups attract an inordinate number of "Purple Haired Warriors." That's a term coined by David T. Cloft in a brilliant article he wrote for the American Free News Network. I need to quote from this, because it's so "spot on." He writes: "There she is again...small, loud, highly visible, and absolutely convinced she's saving the planet by screaming at strangers in public while someone films it for Instagram.

"You've seen her. Big glasses. Septum ring. Hair the color of a microwaved grape Popsicle. A face that says 'I'm here to save humanity,' paired with the emotional regulation of a toddler who missed nap time and found the cookie jar anyway. And she is not simply 'protesting.' She is crusading. She's not arguing policy, she's delivering judgment...Modern activism isn't just politics anymore—it's religion, except the god is ideology, the scripture is whatever the trend says this week, and the holiness comes from being angry in public.

"Here's the part people miss: the Purple-Haired Warrior doesn't show up because she carefully studied immigration law, enforcement authority, economics, and the Constitution, then calmly concluded that blocking vans in traffic is the best way to improve life for everyone. No. She shows up because she has an ache. A low-grade emptiness. A craving for purpose. And in a society that has hollowed out family, faith, and local community, that ache gets answered in the cheapest, easiest, most intoxicating way imaginable: join a movement, declare yourself righteous, and pick an enemy."

I wish I had time to share the whole article with you, because it's excellent, and describes the far-Left, often homosexual and lesbian crusaders fighting back against "the man," – the perceived enemy, who in reality, is simply enforcing the laws that our once-civilized society agreed were reasonable and necessary to maintain order and a semblance of justice.

Recently, I read an article published locally, that describes how these ICE protestors operate. It was written to make them out to be "heroes of freedom and civil rights." This article describes how these anti-ICE people are organized, how they network using encrypted messaging apps and social media, how they "patrol" areas of Minneapolis looking for ICE agents to taunt, so they can impede their work, and then call on hundreds of other activists, just waiting for the alert on their phones, or the sound of whistles blowing, so they can assemble and mount the attack. The newspaper that published this article should be ashamed for framing such deluded, criminal conspirators as heroes.

Lawlessness abounds, and like other American cities and States, Islam has now conquered Minnesota. I never thought I'd see the day, but here we are. And the useful idiot protesting pawns on the Left are dutifully kissing their feet.

Deuteronomy 28 tells us what happens to a nation that refuses to obey Almighty God. Among the curses the nation will receive, we have this, in verse 43: "The foreign resident among you shall rise higher and higher above you, and you shall come down lower and lower." All the wisdom of God is right there in His Book, for our benefit. Are you going to dust off your copy yet? Wake up, people, because America has fallen.

© 2026 Rob Pue – All Rights Reserved

E-Mail Rob Pue: robatwcn@icloud.com