

Leftist Ideologues Call For The Abolition Of White Men

White people deserve to die, and they know, so they think it's us coming to do it. White people are white devils, potential humans who haven't evolved yet and are sinful by nature.
–Louis Farrakhan

There are still generations of people, older people, who were born and bred and marinated in it – in that prejudice and racism – and they just have to die. –Oprah Winfrey

Most black people hate white people. This hate, also promoted by mainstream media, academia and Hollywood, is really a hatred of men, of Christianity, of American freedom, law and order. Whites, especially straight, white, conservative, Christian men of power, tend to hold these values and stand in the way of socialism, globalism and moral decay. –Black American, Reverend Jesse Lee Peterson America has gone from inclusion to division after eight years of President Obama. Civil society has been hijacked! Today we are more divided than we were before Barack Hussein Obama became President in 2008. Obama's former National Security Advisor, Susan Rice told college graduates there are too many whites in key government posts. Maybe she's right, but black Americans make up only 12.3 percent of our population, yet minorities hold 35.3 of federal government jobs. Black employees represented 18.1 percent (343,663) of the permanent Federal Workforce as of September 30, 2014, four years ago.

The beginning of the Revolution may be upon us, France is lost, Great Britain is lost, Sweden is lost, Germany is lost...truly the Revolution is here, and ... what we're seeing is the same thing that happened in years prior to the 1917 Russian Revolution. But first comes the racial hatred of white Europeans which is becoming increasingly common in universities and main stream media. It has now taken center stage in America.

Targeting White Men

White men are targets and are hated and profaned by mass media and social outlets, and that same media claims white men are privileged. Yet, white men have been rejected in order to allow affirmative action to our black American brothers, some of whom were not as qualified as the whites applying for the same universities or positions. Affirmative action has been around since 1961. Misandry is the hatred of men, and today especially of white men. Why? Because it was white Europeans and their descendants who built this nation and the establishment socialists want it destroyed.

In September of 2017, the Washington Post reported on the murder of four middle-aged white men in Kansas City, Missouri. The suspected killer is a young black man who targeted white men.

Professor Christine Fair

Christine Fair, an associate professor at Georgetown in the School of Foreign Service, recently tweeted that “all white Republican men should die and an added bonus would be if women castrate their corpses and feed them to swine.”

That same professor said white

Republican senators, specifically Sen. Lindsey Graham (R-SC), who defended Kavanaugh in a fiery speech, “deserve miserable deaths.”

Georgetown University is sticking up for her vile hate-filled speech. In her Twitter bio, though her account is no longer accessible on the site, her cover photo fittingly read, “DON’T GRAB MY P*.” I might ask, “What man would want to?”

Misandry perfectly describes Prof. Fair as she runs a blog which doxes men she doesn’t agree with, called “S Men Say.” And there’s more...you can’t be a Trump supporting student in this environment.

She’s teaching students how to hate, and she should have been gone yesterday.

Ariel Dumas

CBS’s “The Late Show with Stephen Colbert” writer Ariel Dumas boasted about her part in trying to ruin Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh’s reputation.

“Whatever happens, I’m just glad we ruined Brett Kavanaugh’s life,” Dumas, posted on Twitter. Although public backlash forced her to delete the evil tweet with “regret,” Dumas has taken to social media to spew her vile and putrid hatred against Judge Kavanaugh.

She is still employed by CBS, and she too should have been gone yesterday.

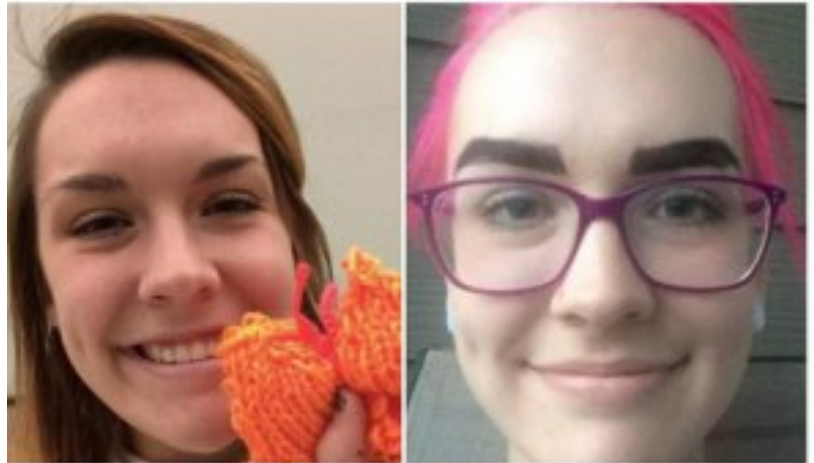

Calling for the Assassination of Justice Kavanaugh

A Minnesota teaching assistant has been placed on leave and is under investigation after tweeting a threat against newly confirmed Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh. Link

Just hours after the Senate voted to confirm Kavanaugh on Saturday, a special education teaching assistant in Rosemount asked in a now deleted tweet, “So whose [sic] gonna take one for the team and kill Kavanaugh?" Obviously, she's not too bright as she failed to use proper English.

The Dakota County Sheriff's Office indicated in a statement that the FBI is "aware" of the threat would "follow up as appropriate." Where is the secret service?

Why is she still employed? She should have been gone yesterday.

New York Times Hires Bigot

Then there's the New York Times' decision to hire Sarah Jeong, an Asian woman, for their editorial board that has a history of tweeting about her hate for white men. Tucker Carlson exposed her racism against white people, but it is likely the NYTs hired her for her obvious hatred of white men.

She still has her job...

UK's Katie Hopkins

Great Britain's Katie Hopkins tells us that in the latest recruitment for police, white British males are excluded in the coaching for how to pass the recruitment day. If you were white and male, you could not go. In the UK discrimination against whites is institutionalized and systemic.

Where did this hatred of whites all begin? A long time ago in South Africa by the lauded anti-apartheid communist, Nelson Mandela.

Nelson Mandela and Apartheid

South Africa and apartheid, the policy or system of segregation or discrimination on grounds of race, is forever linked with Nelson Mandela. Apartheid was immoral because it rejected the equal human dignity of every citizen, but the true aim of Nelson Mandela was far different than his idyllic image.

Nelson Mandela is held up as an icon of justice, equality, and the peaceful struggle for righteousness. Hollywood and the entire left have portrayed Mandela as a hero for blacks. The problem with this image, however, is that it is entirely false. His record demonstrates beyond a shadow of a doubt that Mandela was not a peace-loving Freedom fighter, but a communist revolutionary who reveled in violence, promoted white genocide, and facilitated the Marxist subversion of South Africa. The armed struggle Mandela led was not to give every South African an equal opportunity to enjoy the fruits of liberty. It was a will-to-power struggle to give the Communists dominion over the country. Link

Nelson Mandela is in the center, with his wife Winnie to the left and then head of the South African Communist Party (SACP), Marxist-Leninist KGB Colonel, Joe Slovo.

Mandela was the head of the Marxist African National Congress (ANC). Communism was, and remains, the animating ideology of the ANC. That makes it the enduring tragedy of South Africa. The ANC, however, were no freedom fighters.

Spear of the Nation is their military wing, and the members have pledged themselves to “kill the whites” in their often-sung anthem. Mandela had been out of prison for about two years in September 1992 when, fist clenched in the “black power” salute, he was filmed singing the anthem with a number of his comrades. Interestingly, but not ironically, as Mandela and others repeated the refrain about killing Boer farmers, there was a white Soviet trained terrorist at his side with the communist clenched fist.

Unremembered by the world is the reason why Nelson Mandela was arrested, tried, and served years in prison. He was in prison for terrorism and acts of violence and he did not even attempt to deny the charges. Mandela was proud of his extremely violent past and believed, as true communists do, that violent revolution is the only path to change.

Necklacing

South African history refuses to speak of necklacing, the weapon of the anti-apartheid movement used by the men and women who rose up in arms with Nelson Mandela to turn their country into a place where they would be treated as equals.

Necklacing is the practice of the execution and torture carried out by forcing a rubber tire, filled with gasoline, around a victim's chest and arms, and setting it on fire. Sometimes the hands of the victim were either cut off or tied behind their backs. The victim may take up to 20 minutes to die, suffering severe burns in the process with the tire melting and slowly burning the body. Nelson Mandela's wife, Winnie said, “With our boxes of matches and necklaces, we shall liberate this country.”

South African White Genocide

South Africa has been reshaped in Nelson Mandela's image. Today, the country is a de facto war zone. Unreported in American press, there is a brutal white genocide occurring. This massacre is being instigated by the ANC, SAPC, and like-minded organizations. The stories of white farmers being murdered, women and babies being raped, and property being destroyed or stolen are legion. Not only is the South African regime doing nothing to prevent it, they are deliberately adding fuel to the fire. Literally thousands of whites have lost their lives in this ongoing purge, just as thousands of blacks lost theirs in the ANC's brutal rise to power years previous. Link

Rhoda Kadalie, a former member of South Africa's Human Rights Commission under the late President Nelson Mandela, told Breitbart News: "The ANC has destroyed every state institution in South Africa, including mining and manufacturing, and now it goes for the sector that creates the most jobs for the poor as well as ensure food security. Land expropriation without compensation is creating wealth by stealth for the elite. Even the ANC's land restitution program has failed by its own admission."

Anti-white racism is a popular current in mainstream South African politics. The song "Kill the Farmer, Kill the Boer" is still publicly sung, despite this being declared a hate crime. The traditional means of protecting rural South Africans, the commando units, were disbanded in 2003, leaving many South African farmers with no protection.

Alex Newman, foreign correspondent for the New American Magazine wrote, "In stark contrast to the myth of Mandela as peaceful, his writings glorify violence and bloodshed with ghoulish glee, writing that one day soon, "the sweet air will smell of gunfire, elegant buildings will crash down and streets will be splashed with blood."

And just where will the nation's food sources come from once the South African farmers are destroyed?

Barack Hussein Obama

In a chapter contributed to Cliff Kincaid's excellent book Comrade Obama Unmasked, Alex Newman informed us that President Barack Obama's stated role model was Nelson Mandela. Obama himself said of Mandela that he "tried to answer his call."

President Obama spoke at the White House following the death of Mandela. He said, "The late president's example to the world was 'a free South Africa at peace with itself.' I am one of the countless millions who drew inspirations from Nelson Mandela's life. I cannot fully imagine my own life without the example that Nelson Mandela set. So long as I live, I will do what I can to learn from him." Link

Indeed, communist birds of a feather do flock together.

Dr. Harry Booyens is a South African defense engineer and author of perhaps the definitive history on South Africa, entitled AmaBhulu: The Birth and Death of the Second America.

Booyens has suggested that Americans were simply naive when they voted to trust Obama with the presidency despite his radical anti-American and anti-Western beliefs. "The country is still struggling with the aftermath," he explained. "For the USA there is hope; for South Africa there is none left. Yet Obama clearly wanted to turn the USA into the country of his hero, Mandela. His dream was to remake the USA into South Africa."

It appears as though Obama reached enough of his comrades in both higher education and the media, for many are now calling for the death of all white people. A revolution may well be coming.
