

Most offensive moment in GOP debate history

The simple fact is... these globalist media controlled circuses we shamelessly call "debates" are much more akin to a cat fight at the local tavern, after a couple liquored up street hookers get into a brawl over who gets the last $20 John of the night...

These commercial events we call "debates" are designed to make every person on the stage look like an idiot... and so it should surprise no one that every event ends with every candidate on the stage looking like a lying, back-stabbing, self-indulgent egomaniac that shouldn't be entrusted with the job of local dog catcher...

The phrasing of every "media controlled" question is designed to make each candidate turn their guns on each other, circular firing squad fashion, for which, the media moderators will then gleefully basque in the afterglow with the full knowledge that they had achieved their lofty goal of making everyone seeking the Oval Office, look like a sandbox full of preschoolers.

What a ridiculous way for any intelligent society to choose a President, Commander-in-Chief and leader of the free world...

Having established this as the foundation for this discussion, despite the embarrassing media behavior and the even worse behavior of the "stacked audience" in the room at last Saturday evenings so-called debate, these were not the most offensive moments in GOP debate history. Even the repeated use of the word "liar" was to be outdone.

The most offensive moments in GOP debate history came from none other than the two U.S. Freshman Senators in the race... neither of whom has the constitutional right to even stand on that stage!

In a failed effort to honor the just deceased Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia, who had just been found dead in his resort hotel room earlier that morning, Senators Cruz and Rubio sought to “make political hay” on the death of the Constitution’s best friend on the High Court, both acting as if they are themselves “constitutional originalists” like Scalia, as they stood on that GOP debate stage in direct violation of the Founders’ clear “original intent” of the “natural born Citizen” clause in Article II.

By “natural born Citizen,” the Founders certainly did NOT mean “anchor babies” via 14th Amendment naturalization, as is the case for Marco Rubio, native born on U.S. soil, but to two foreign Cuban citizens at the time, who eventually naturalized to the USA four years later... nor did they mean a person “born Canadian” who remained a legal citizen of Canada for 43 years, until he decided to seek the Oval Office with NO proof of legal U.S. citizenship of any kind, as is the case for Ted Cruz.

On the passing of one of the greatest Supreme Court Justices in U.S. history, two ineligible frauds seeking the Oval Office from the U.S. Senate tried desperately to ride the coat tails of Scalia’s death to the lofty status of “great constitutional originalist...” – a term certainly befitting Justice Scalia, but in no way suited for the two frauds illegally and unconstitutionally seeking the Oval Office today.

The mere fact that the Republican Party would even allow the two frauds to enter the race, much less stand on that stage and compare themselves to a true “constitutional originalist” like Scalia, on the day of his untimely passing, makes this event the most offensive moment in GOP debate history...

The Republican Party is now officially no better than the Democrat Party, which defrauded the American people in 2008 and 2012 with their support of “the first black president” who happens to be neither “black” nor “natural born American.”

Trump calling both Cruz and Rubio “liars” is the understatement of the century...

The truth is... Trump and Carson were very likely the only two in that room last Saturday night who were telling the truth... nearly everyone else in the room is a “liar...”

For the record, legal scholars are NOT “constitutional scholars.” Quite the contrary actually... they are experts at undermining and usurping constitutional law via their use of British Common Law tactics they learned in Law School.

History Scholars are Constitutional Scholars.... They are the people who have studied the historical foundations for everything our Founders created, everything that appears in our Founding documents, everything that is the foundation for American freedom and liberty.

99.9% of all modern day lawyers in the USA do not know and even more importantly, do not care about the foundations of freedom and liberty or anything in our Founding documents. They were taught in Law School that “they are the law of the land.” That they get to establish law by merely “setting a precedent.”

In the good old days, they did this via “case law,” court decisions. But now they think they can do it by mere opinion letter... Just like Obama thinks he makes law by Executive memo.

And, too many Americans are none the wiser today... finding themselves convinced that someone with no U.S. citizenship authentication at all (Cruz) would make a great president!

Caught in lie after lie after lie, Cruz supporters now demonstrate that their problem isn't that they don't know Cruz is a fraud, it's that they do not care.

The RNC is worried about Democrats lining up behind Hillary and Bernie, two communist criminal idiots when in fact, they should be far more worried about the fact that they cannot line voters up behind any one GOP candidate, due to their massive effort to mislead and divide their voters over the two RNC insider ineligible candidates...

Now, are Beck, Levin, Hannity, Limbaugh, Kelly and O'Reilly as ignorant of the Constitution as they appear? Or, are they really nothing they appeared to be, before exposing themselves as mere RNC stooges in the 2016 election cycle, standing up for obvious frauds like Cruz and Rubio?

As a society, we are scraping rock bottom here... "the people" are now as corrupt as their politicians...

Our Founders were not extraordinary men... they were 56 ordinary men who somehow came together, set their differences aside, and stayed in the room long enough to somehow complete an extraordinary act that could never be accomplished today, or maybe ever again.

The American people will be foolish to ignore these foundations, as without them, including Article II eligibility, they will have no sovereign nation, no security, no freedom and no liberty. May God help those too foolish to help themselves!
