

My Nightmare In NYC And Elizabeth Warren

Nightmares for many oldsters like me (bordering on 89) are not uncommon. Last night, I had one for the books. The majority of my nightmares involve me being in a strange city, mainly New York's Manhattan district near 52nd street and not able to remember where I parked my car and the name of my hotel; but this nightmare was much worse, it was politically incorrect.

BACKGROUND: In the 70s, the TV series "All in the Family" by the leftist producer Norman Lear, had a massive audience of TV viewers for about a decade. It was really a funny satirical comedy depicting a conservative character by the name of Archie Bunker, his benignly skeptical, mentally balanced, wife Edith and their flaky daughter. Added to the cast of characters is an ultra-liberal son-in-law who he named Meat Head and Archie labeled his wife and daughter "Ding Bats" when he disagreed with them.

Archie, somehow, seemed to be the bread winner since his son-in law, the perpetual student with no visible income; his daughter totally unemployable and his wife the devoted to be the moderator within a dysfunctional home and is the kitchen cook preventing total chaos. The fact is that Lear, the producer, depicts Archie as a right wing nut job conservative bigot, an ignoramus while the others are held as victims who need government handouts to survive yet Archie Bunker and Edith own the house and provide food for their table.

My nightmare is about Elizabeth Warren and not the Bunker family. She is known as Pocahontas who claimed to be part Native American because her mother said she looked like one as a baby. She was able to obtain her Ph.D. gratis by the government's Native American grant program, that continued the same fraud that paid and abetted her education so she could become a Harvard graduate and a tenured Professor with all the perks.

The dream involved a melding reality to this nightmare where Pocahontas becomes a U.S Senator and soon thereafter the Demonkrats' nominee for the 2020 Presidential race... mainly through the support of femanazi, "ding bats."

The nightmare really then goes into scatological orbit when she finally takes the oath of office in January 2021. Her first presidential order is to convert the nation's public bathrooms to bi-sexual, homophobic, transsexual, and all those eugenically altered males and females who don't give a little damn where they relieve themselves. She then gives out another edict to convert the bathrooms entirely to stalls to eliminate long waiting lines of women where men's room contained mostly empty urinals. My nightmare exploded into satirical drollery when President Warren decrees that all urinals are to be eliminated and replaced with cubicles for the few testosterone straight males and those millions of males affected psychologically who lost their manliness and shrunk gonads as a result of female freedom marches and TV's blonde spokes people representing female superiority. The queen of the left 'Pocahontas' concludes her directive bias by announcing that pee drops on horizontal toilet seats are criminal and castration is not optional.

At that point, I awoke drenched in sweat.

But my nightmare didn't end there... because the following night the lanky Pocahontas reappeared. My fantods stirred uncontrollably. She was ranting that the space in the cubicles was not wide enough to accommodate bidets and demands taxing to pay for remodeling and updating commodes. It is to be imposed on users and non-users of public accommodations because toilet paper has become a luxury. Needless to say that the reason for the shortage of toilet paper is because of excessive use to dry the hind quarters of bidet users. Her Warren Cabinet did excessive research, using taxpayer money, and found that those of the excessively wealthy now enjoy bidets that squirt warm instead of cold water and have no need for toilet paper or towel wipe-ups because warm air dryers are also installed to fan and dry their Fannies. Her socialist view of Utopian fairness is if a rich housewife can use a fancy bidet every woman in the land deserves one.

Is it possible that this nightmare reflect the reality of the Democrat Party under the leadership of the minority leader Nancy Pelosi role in the House and Chuck Schumer's in the Senate? They wholeheartedly adopted the eight year fiasco of Obamism whose sole goal was to convert the United States to the level and status of a third world country using communism and Islam in a weird marriage of opposites while concurrently supporting a cashless society and a world government controlled by international bankers. The possibility of Elizabeth Warren becoming President does not appear so nutty as my nightmare!

Sadly, their goal has not changed; George Soros and Obama are deeply involved in overturning the Trump Administration and usurping the United States Constitution for nihilism; murder of the unborn; deleting the word God in the classroom and turning students into ignorant tools of the state. The goal of making citizens into slaves has not changed since the Democrats invented the Klu Klux Klan where willing blacks sell their slave relationship in exchange for handouts and a place on the plantation or be strung up on trees.

But the Party of chaos is not alone. There are traitors within the Republican Party who pass themselves off as loyal to President Trump, but strive at every opportunity to bring him down because he surprised them in winning what was not their goal. Their goal was retaining control of the Party at all costs even to the extent of voting for Hillary Clinton. Obama, the Clinton Clan and the Bush Clan have one goal internationalism and the New World Order. They strive for a United States without borders subjected to the whims of unelected judges located at The Hague and wish to be a part of an aristocracy of money merchants dedicated to power and control of the human race.

Who are they? The most egregious is the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Paul Ryan, a waffling woose, who just five months ago, stated in an TV interview when he openly declared himself against Donald Trump as unworthy to be president, although when questioned about his stance March 14, 2017, he passed it off unconvincingly and said he was surprised that this interview is still being circulated as it is ancient history.

Ryan's plan to eliminate Obama care incorporates major portions of the Affordable Care Act and the conservative supporters of Trump and Senator Ran Paul believe it will never be approved by the Senate unless significant changes are amended. Ryan's arrogant position is either accept my version, the binary alternative where congress either accepts his position or cancels the bill. That leaves open the catastrophic continuation of Obama's and Nancy Pelosi's plan that was never to be read before it originally became law. Now the Republicans own Obama's whole plan body and soul.

Ryan is linked with the Bush Cartel and the Clinton Cartel who fully supports the One World Government, and open borders. It was George H. W. Bush who, after being elected, declared the beginning of the New World Order and when his son Jeb Bush pulled out of the primary race with his one note campaign for open borders he used reason that Trump insulted him as being a weak sister. Then in retaliation the family of Bushes cast their votes for Hillary Clinton.

Lindsey Graham, the senator from South Carolina and John McCain, both spend the majority of their time to undermine their President at every opportunity. Lindsey is the lawyer who botched the impeachment case against Bill Clinton who once said "I never had sex with that woman" but the semen stains on her dress said otherwise. Lindsey adamantly supports the arms industry as a War Hawk Air Force Reserve lawyer in the Senate who would rather attack Russia with real soldiers and their blood, but never his own against our nation's most formidable enemy, yet fails to recognize North Korea and China as even worse. He is now touted by the liberal press, ABC TV networks including FOX as some sort of spokesperson with authority where as in his state of South Carolina he is no more than a weepy eyed wart, a neocon who poses as a Republican, but kisses up to the politically obnoxious left.

John McCain poses as a Republican, but unremittingly acts against President Trump every other day since the election of the President. McCain's past is testimony of his character whose IQ and antics while a cadet are reflected by being ranked last in his Naval Academy graduation class. Yet, he became a naval fighter pilot who crashed twice on two carrier decks which killed and wounded many deck crew members. Still he was not grounded because the Chief of Naval Operations so happened to be Admiral McCain, his father.

John McCain was shot down during the Vietnam War and was wounded and imprisoned at the Hanoi Hilton. He soon was recognized as the son of Admiral McCain by his captors and transferred for treatment to be hospitalized and receive surgery. While a prisoner, McCain made propaganda broadcasts on Hanoi radio where he praised his treatment and excellent surgery skills of the Hanoi doctors and criticized the US for its political positions and past operation roles against North Vietnam. After becoming a US Senator, based on his wounded veteran experience, McCain revisited Hanoi to meet with the prison camp director who, for what reason, we'll never know.

There are others such as Republican Senators Susan Collins and Senator Lisa Murkowski holdouts that probably will tip the scales of the Republican Senate towards defeating any Bill that give President Trump support. They depend on the liberal left in their state by kowtowing to them for political sympathetic support.

There is an axiom regarding the Grand Old Republican Party which parenthetically states that the establishment can be depend on it: "For out of the glory of victory the party will inevitably succumb to the jaws of defeat."
