

New Soros funded industry out to destroy Trump's campaign

During a fundraiser in Philadelphia, President Barack Obama said he was going to counter his Republican opponents in the House, the Senate and in the States. "If they bring a knife to the fight, we bring a gun. Because from what I understand, folks in Philly like a good brawl. I've seen Eagles fans."

People like George Soros know how to plan ahead to manufacture mob violence masquerading as social movements. It worked like a charm in Ferguson, Missouri, and laying the groundwork for energizing the critical black turnout in 2016, courtesy of BlackLivesMatter and others. BLM is also serving as a useful vehicle for suppressing the Donald Trump for President phenomenon. And guess what group is helping Soros, the Democratic Party and their support groups? "None other than the mainstream news media including Fox News Channel. There's always a good guy and a bad guy in their simpleton coverage and so the good guys are Black Lives Matter and the bad guys are Trump supporters," said political strategist Michael Baker.

"While no one died as a result of Trump appearances and speeches, the news media openly launched an attack on him in order to portray him as a "Nazi," a "fascist," a "bully" and other pejoratives. Meanwhile, Hillary Clinton – who's being investigated for a number of "actions" she took including abandoning Americans in Libya who ended up dead – is being portrayed as the voice of reason," Baker also pointed out.

"George Soros' Moveon.org anarchists, along with Bernie Sanders, Black Lives Matter, Occupy Wall Street, Fk the Police, and typical Chicago-Style-Democrat-thug politics were responsible for the riot in Chicago where Trump was to speak. Many were carrying Mexican flags and wearing Muslims Hate

Trump T-shirts. This is the second stage of planning to derail Trump. Because Trump had to cancel the Chicago speech, these gangsters will try this again and again," said NewsWithViews columnist Kelleigh Nelson

Recently during an appearance on Univision, the Hispanic television network, presidential hopeful Hillary Clinton said, "I believe there are all kinds of underground movements and efforts in our country that try to use violence or assert beliefs that I find often lead to violence." Clinton said that before outright accusing some police officers of being terrorists. "I think that when you have police violence that terrorized communities, that doesn't show the respect that you're supposed to have from respecting people in your authority, that can feel, also, terrorizing," she said.

"It doesn't take a Sherlock Holmes to discover that thugs from Democratic Party-supporting unions, Black Lives Matter, Occupy Wall Street, Code Pink and other progressive and socialist organizations have planned to turn public opinion against the GOP's bad boy of politics, Donald Trump," said former police detective and military intelligence operative Sid Franes, who is African American. "He may be the Republicans' bad boy, but at least he's not the Democrats' pathological liar or crime lord," he added.

While the Black Lives Matter movement (BLM) casts itself as a spontaneous uprising born of inner city frustration, it is just the latest – perhaps more dangerous – well-funded communist/socialist organization to come down the pike. These radical groups have been agitating against America for decades and with few exceptions have been linked to the Democratic Party. One of these groups' biggest financiers is none other than multi-billionaire George Soros.

Not long ago, the Occupy Wall Street movement was on the march especially in New York City. Their actions – including violent episodes – weren't blamed on Trump, but on a terrible economy.

However, many of the same people involved then are involved now and their anger and actions are blamed on Donald Trump.

These groups have provoked police killings and other violence, lawlessness and unrest in minority communities throughout the U.S. BLM appears to be exercising considerable leverage over the Democratic Party, in part by pressuring and intimidating Democratic candidates such as Hillary Clinton and Bernie Sanders (VT) into embracing their cause.

The movement could also assist President Obama's exploitation of racial divisions in society beyond his final term in office.

Exploiting blacks to promote Marxist revolution is an old tactic. The late Larry Grathwohl, former FBI informant in the Weather Underground, understood from personal experience how white communists exploited blacks and other minority groups. He said that Weather Underground terrorists Bill Ayers and Bernardine Dohrn regarded Barack Obama, whose political career they sponsored, as a tool—a puppet—to use against white America. Obama's legacy at home will certainly include more racial division.

BLM launched in 2013 with a Twitter hashtag, BlackLivesMatter, after neighborhood watchman George Zimmerman was acquitted in the Trayvon Martin killing. Radical Left activists Alicia Garza, Patrisse Cullors and Opal Tometi claim credit for the slogan and hashtag. Following the Michael Brown shooting in August 2014, Dream Defenders, an organization led by Working Families Party(ACORN) activist and Occupy Wall Street anarchist Nelini Stamp, popularized the phrase "Hands Up—Don't Shoot!" which has since become BLM's widely recognized slogan.

Garza, Cullors and Tometi all work for front groups of the Freedom Road Socialist Organization (FRSO), one of the four largest radical Left organizations in the country. The others are the Communist Party USA (CPUSA), Democratic Socialists of America (DSA), and the Committees of Correspondence for Democracy and Socialism (CCDS). Nelini Stamp's ACORN—now rebranded under a variety of different names—works with all four organizations, and Dream Defenders is backed by the Service Employees International Union (SEIU), the ACLU, the Southern Poverty Law Center and others.

One of the few Trump defenders is Fox News Channel's Judge Jeanine Pirro (see video above) who stated on Saturday night: "Since when if you state an opinion are you responsible for someone's reaction?" she asked. "Since when do you have the right to interrupt my First Amendment right to listen to a candidate for the highest office in the land?"

"This is America. Not the Soviet Union," said Judge Jeanine.

"Your free speech, if it differs from mine, doesn't mean that you're right and I'm wrong, and therefore I must be silenced. But that is exactly what the left tried to do in Chicago last night, and again moments ago in Kansas City to more than 25,000 who came to hear Donald Trump."

Protesters, of course, have the right to dissent, said Judge Jeanine. "But you cannot defend assault by arguing verbal provocation," she warned.
