

Politically Correct Lies – the Big Bang Theory, Evolution, and There is NO God

By Greg Holt

The universe created itself – really? How? That would imply the universe is self-aware and this writer does not buy that one.

It's funny how many people will grasp at straws and see reason in completely illogical thought processes. People will believe outright lies and falsehood rather than believe the truth. Anything that lets a person hold on to the belief that there is no God – many will embrace and defend these beliefs even with undeniable proof that these so-called beliefs are incorrect. Atheism is a prime example of this.

Creation itself and the things that reside within said creation fairly scream; there is a God! I have even heard it said that “intelligent design” does not necessarily reflect that God is responsible for said design. Really now, then who is? No human could have designed Creation let alone the things in it – like humans.

Creation VS the Big Bang Theory

“Because there is a law such as gravity, the universe can and will create itself from nothing, spontaneous creation is the reason there is something rather than nothing, why the universe exists, why we exist."

Stephen Hawking – The Grand Design

The universe created itself – really? How? That would imply the universe is self-aware and this writer does not buy that one. Lets think about that for a moment. With all that man has made, has man truly created anything? That would be a resounding NO! Everything ever made by man has been made from something else. The materials to "make" anything and everything were here on this earth (or should I say in it), someone just figured out how to use those materials. In other words, we are to believe that the universe was and is a sentient being of some sort able to create itself at some point? I think not. Nothing of a complex nature can be made without thought involved, therefore it stands to reason that the universe did not create itself, someone created it – that "someone" is God. The universe is so complex that science does not even begin to understand it all, there is no chance it happened randomly or via the universe itself.

Science itself denies that the universe created itself (yes really), if the Big Bang Theory were true – there would be:

Monopoles – a particle that has a single magnetic pole instead of two opposite poles such as magnets have. These monopoles have never been found despite being diligently searched for.

Antimatter –in the Big Bang Theory, matter was created from energy – at the same time antimatter should have been created in equal amounts. Yet only trace amounts of antimatter have ever been found. (1)

So much for the vaunted "Big Bang" theory – one might as well claim the sun is an illusion.

A Matter of Conscience

Our conscience – that part of our mind that tells us some things are wrong, like murder and lying. How can anyone believe that almost all people have the same basic morals by chance? That just isn't logical. An entire species believes in the same basic values by chance? Not hardly. Billions of people, many, many different cultures, many different beliefs, and different religions, in a whole host of different locales – all believe in some basic morals and this just happened? All by itself, just the universe happened – yeah right.

One word: Impossible.

The Animal Kingdom

Many different animals display characteristics that defy explanation, unless of course the explanation is intelligent design, i.e., God.

How about birds? Some fly thousands of miles when they migrate – how do these birds know exactly where to go? How do these birds possess that knowledge? Some birds have been born in a certain locale and removed from there right away upon birth – and they still knew where to fly to get home – how is that even possible?

What about the giraffes? With its long neck (8 feet) the giraffe's heart must pump blood at a very high pressure in order to reach the brain. When the giraffe bends its neck down to take a drink of water, the high blood pressure would cause serious damage to the giraffe's brain – except that there are pressure-sensing signals and bypass valves built into the giraffe.

Geckos can walk and stick to any surface, wet or dry – even glass – upside down.

Human Traits

The human DNA is extremely complex, even science now admits intelligent design has to be responsible for this literal engineering miracle. Many professors will not publically admit this or they are fired for doing so; why fire them if they are wrong? DNA happened by chance? Impossible – that is about as likely as a computer forming itself out of random parts in a warehouse.

The human eye: extremely complex with all that it is capable of doing – there is NO man-made imaging system that even begins to compare to what the human eye can do. The human eye can visualize different colors and shades of color, depth perception, and see objects up close and then refocus and see objects far away.

“To suppose that the eye, with all its inimitable contrivances for adjusting the focus to different distances, for admitting different amounts of light, and for the correction of spherical and chromatic aberration, could have been formed by natural selection, seems, I freely confess, absurd in the highest possible degree.” –Charles Darwin

Evolution

Charles Darwin’s Theory of Evolution is rife with problems as even he admitted, and yet most still cling to this preposterous theory. In the above quote from Darwin, he admitted that there was no way the human eye could have been formed by natural selection! In order for the Theory of Evolution to be true, there must exist transitional forms, i.e., the in between forms that would have existed when one species transformed into another one, like apes evolving into humans. This fact alone disproves evolution, as these so-called forms have never been found in the fossil record.

Not. One. Not. Ever.

Then there are the supposed ape-men used as the defining proof, the shining example that evolution is true, Piltdown man, Nebraska man, etc. All of them, every single one ever “discovered,” all proven to be fakes.

The Need for Worship

How about this? Most people want to believe in something higher than themselves, this occurs throughout the world and all throughout time. People have and do worship trees, the sun, the moon, the stars, nature, the divine mother, guiding spirits (demons), animals, and the list goes on. How is it that this need to believe in someone or something higher than ourselves, and to worship this entity came to be in almost all people, in every location on the earth? It is simply preposterous to think this need happened by itself. God put that need within our very souls. We all have a “God sized hole” in us that will be satisfied by nothing less than God.

Ask many people if they feel (those who do not believe in God) if there is something missing in their lives, and if they are honest they will often answer yes; that something is God.
