

Ted Cruz extends middle finger to Colorado republican voters

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor" 9th Commandment

"Thou shalt not steal" 8th Commandment

"The Cruz people love the Bible- perhaps they should remember what it says, 'Thou Shalt Not Steal'" –Roger Stone

Cruz Actions Belie His Christianity

✘ Ted Cruz calls himself a Christian, but he has broken the above commandments over and over again, and the latest example of this is what has happened in Colorado. "Thou shalt not steal" obviously means nothing to Cruz. It is theft, and a slap in the face to the voters of Colorado.

What a travesty of justice. I can't understand why there aren't outcries against such draconian actions. This should be a warning to what a Cruz Presidency will accept.

Ted blew what could have been a great PR opportunity for his campaign. If he had made a public statement saying, "It is against my principles of justice to be the recipient of delegates that have not been awarded to me honestly through the process of caucus and elections," those words would have given him Christian standing.

✘ However, the egocentric bastard (yes, I spelled it that way on purpose) is blinded by his incompetence to assess opportunity. He didn't say a word. He just chalked up one more victory covertly awarded to him by his venomous campaign shenanigans, the GOP elitists, and his filthy manager, Jeff

Roe.

The only people who have the right to decide to whom their delegates are awarded, are the voters from the great State of Colorado.

Ted Cruz can't win enough delegates at the voting box to win the Republican nomination. So his campaign, led by Jeff Roe, is pushing supporters to steal delegates from states Donald Trump won.

✘ The Gateway Pundit reports that Colorado Trump Delegates were scratched from ballots at the GOP Convention – and the Cruzers Listed TWICE! There was actually a resolution passed around at the convention that instructed Colorado Republicans to not vote for Trump. The resolution was created by Colorado Republicans for Liberty – apparently a Cruz offshoot group.

Colorado Trump Delegate Reacts

Larry Wayne Lindsey from Douglas County had his name removed from the ballot in Colorado Springs. He was a Republican delegate for Donald Trump. He was removed from his position because he voted for Donald Trump. Not having a primary, no caucus, no public vote, and Ted Cruz gets all the delegates. That is disenfranchising the voters . . . and you don't think there will be a price to pay?

Lindsey said, "I've been a Republican all of my life. And this corrupt bunch of thieves is not even worth fighting for. I'll find another party that believes more like I do. I've had it with them. But Jan Morgan you're not going to get away with this. I'll find somebody to listen to me. I'll find some way to hold you accountable for this."

Never Trump Twitter Backlash

And from ClashDaily.com Greenwood Village, CO. – The Colorado

GOP is getting some backlash after someone with access to the party's Twitter account posted, and quickly deleted, the following message: "We did it. #NeverTrump."

✘ The tweet came minutes after Ted Cruz swept through all 34 delegates during the GOP assembly in Colorado Springs on Saturday. The party deleted the tweet within minutes, saying the message was posted by someone "with unauthorized access to our account."

Trump's Reaction

Donald Trump spoke on "Fox & Friends" Monday morning after a weekend that saw Sen. Ted Cruz of Texas, sweep all of Colorado's 34 delegates without any votes being cast by citizens in a traditional primary process.

"I've gotten millions ... of more votes than [Sen. Ted] Cruz, and I've gotten hundreds of delegates more, and we keep fighting, fighting, fighting, and then you have a Colorado where they just get all of these delegates, and it's not [even] a system," Trump said, during the Fox News broadcast. "There was no voting. I didn't go out there to make a speech or anything. There's no voting."

His comments came after Cruz 'won' the remaining 13 delegates at the weekend's convention, bringing his total for the state to 34, an outcome Trump described as unfair and just shy of illegal.

"They offer them trips – they offer them all sorts of things, and you're allowed to do that," Trump said of the method by which some woo delegates. "I mean, you're allowed to offer trips, and you can buy all these votes. What kind of a system is this? Now, I'm an outsider, and I came into the system and I'm winning the votes by millions of votes. But the system is rigged. It's crooked."

Here's the reality, the Nazi Bushites/Soros Rigging caucuses give the win to Cruz.

GOPe Corruption

The corruption of the DNC and MSM are quite obvious, but now it should also be obvious to all Republicans that their party is a false friend, and false friends are more dangerous than open enemies. The voters of Colorado have been denied, and they know it. The GOPe is destroying itself because they'd rather have another globalist in our White House than a Constitutional Conservative who wants to Make America Great Again. Their goal isn't Ted Cruz, he's just being used; their goal is to keep Trump from gaining the 1237 delegates he needs for the nomination. They want a brokered convention. They'll run someone like Paul Ryan, John Kasich, or Jeb Bush against Hillary Clinton, knowing that Clinton's corruption, murder, and lies mean nothing to the American left. Hillary Rodham Clinton is the desired next POTUS by both the left and the right. Only the American electorate can stop it.

Conclusion

Donald Trump is a brilliant experienced businessman, but he is a novice when it comes to understanding the corruption and deception of the GOPe. As a pragmatist, he spoke to the people, saw them rally to his stated positions, and in a Constitutional Republic, this would easily result in his winning the nomination. Unfortunately, he did not realize the hypocrisy of the Republican party, or the criminal element willing to destroy the party to keep Trump from the nomination.

In 1964, Barry Goldwater battled the underhanded tactics of his own party, including George Romney, and his Democratic opponent was Lyndon Johnson. We have a parallel situation today. Trump is battling his own party and the underhanded tactics of establishment insider, Ted Cruz.

Fortunately, Trump has now hired Paul Manafort, the finest veteran Republican political strategist and consultant, to lead his delegate gathering efforts. Manafort has experience with these conventions and nomination fights. Manafort said this about Ted Cruz, "He's threatening; you go to these county conventions, and you see the tactics, Gestapo tactics, the scorched-earth tactics ... We are going to be filing several protests because the reality is they have not been playing by the rules. But frankly, that's the side game. Because the only game I'm focusing on right now is getting delegates. And the games that have happened, even this past weekend, you know, are not important to the long-term game of how do we get to 1,237."

For the first time in 53 years we actually have a candidate who loves our country and is not part of the globalist cabal, neither is he beholden to any interest, corporate or otherwise.

We are at war people, and it is time to fight your state GOP establishment and legislators who want to deprive the American voters of the candidate we've chosen. Get out of your easy chair and get to work. It's up to us to save our country.
