

The Alinsky accomplishments of the queen of corruption

Truly evil people don't just hurt others. They take pride in the pain they cause and then try to blame their victims.

"If you want to remain on this detail, get your fking ass over here and grab those bags!" Hillary to a Secret Service Agent who was reluctant to carry her luggage because he wanted to keep his hands free in case of an incident." – From the book The First Partner, p. 25

Why We Must Vote for Trump

There are some in our electorate who are still unhappy that Cruz didn't win. They have vowed to not vote for Trump, and in effect, are casting a vote for Hillary. In voting for anyone other than Mr. Trump, we could easily end up with the vile and deceitful Hillary Clinton as president. Truly, this election is our last chance to turn America around. Our children and grandchildren will pay the price if we allow Hillary back in our White House. We simply must put aside any discontent, and cast a ballot for America and for our children's future. Slavery under the caliphate and Sharia, is not what I want for my descendants.

The Two Main Spoilers

Gary Johnson is running on the Libertarian ticket. He is the former governor of New Mexico. He is strongly pro-abortion and pro-Constitutional Convention.

Then there's "Never Trump" Evan McMullin, the former chief policy director for Republicans in the U.S. House of Representatives, and former CIA operations officer. He is a CFR member, has also worked at Goldman Sachs, as well as a volunteer refugee resettlement officer for the United Nations.

Fellow Mormons, like Beck and Romney, are backing McMullin, along with the Never Trumpsters like Erick Erickson.

Apparently these people believe in thwarting the will of the people to save America from Mr. Trump, thus giving us the most corrupt women in American politics, not to mention the influx of millions more illegals and Islamic refugees.

The Unlikeable Sister Frigidaire

Edward Klein, in his latest book, Unlikeable, states that Bill had Hillary take lessons from the Clintons' friend, Stephen Spielberg, in how to be more likeable. So Spielberg supplied Hillary with acting coaches to help her when she had to give a speech. Unfortunately, she didn't like it, and she has remained her cold, abusive self.

Truly this pompous woman has not changed much since high school; she has just become more vicious and vitriolic than she was as a teen. Some students respected her, but many did not like her. She never picked up awards for Miss Congeniality. They described her as "chilly," and even called her Sister Frigidaire.

At a high school soccer game during cold weather, Hillary commented to a competitor on how cold it was. "I wish people like you would freeze to death," said the girl.

When Hillary asked how the girl could feel that way when the girl didn't even know her, the young soccer player responded, "I don't have to know you to hate you."

Hillary just couldn't understand that maybe there was something about her that the other girl just didn't like. (Page 33, Hell to Pay).

Hillary's Past "Accomplishments"

This ill-tempered, violent, loud-mouthed, hateful and abusive woman wants to be your next President, and have total control as Commander-in-Chief of our Military, the very Military for which she has shown incredible disdain throughout her public life.

Remember her most vile comment about Benghazi: "What difference at this point does it make?"

It made a lot of difference to the families of those who died. Their pleas for help went unanswered, and security was told to stand down. Tig Tiegen and Mark Geist refused the order, and went to help, nearly losing their own lives. Meanwhile, Hillary Clinton went to bed.

The Lessons of Watergate

Another little insight into Hillary comes from the book, Without Honor: Crimes of Camelot and the Impeachment of Richard Nixon, where Jerry Zeifman, who was Chief Counsel for the Judiciary Committee, states that he fired her for repeatedly lying and stealing records that were essential to a fair trial of Nixon, because the documents implicated Democrats in illegal actions during the Camelot years. Is this true? I'm not certain of that.

There's another very interesting tidbit to this beginning of Hillary's career. In Barbara Olsen's book, Hell to Pay, she tells about what Hillary learned in working Watergate, and how it came into play 20 years later.

John Doar, a liberal Republican, was special counsel in charge of the House Judiciary investigation of the president, and took a liking to Hillary Rodham who worked long hours in a cramped office. She had Doar's confidence. Zeifman, on the other hand, stated, "It seems to me that Haldeman and Ehrlichman are crude amateurs at arrogance in comparison to the more polished and sophisticated arrogance and deceit of some of Doar's assistants."

Nixon ended up being his own worst enemy. John Connally, the most trusted member of Nixon's cabinet had told him to gather the tapes in the Rose Garden and proudly burn them. Barbara Olsen stated that from the standpoint of Machiavellian tactics, of course, Connally was right. Had Nixon burned the tapes, he would have been seen by his supporters as standing up for the rights of the presidency, and daring his tormentors to impeach on the remaining evidence. Nixon thought he could survive by admitting half of the truth. Goldwater later actually convinced him to resign for the good of the country.

Nevertheless, Hillary witnessed the path that led to Nixon's ruin. She and her husband later demonstrated what she'd learned as the final lesson of Watergate and that was that any compromise with a criminal investigation is fatal. So, what did they do? They obfuscated, stonewalled, denied the undeniable, destroyed evidence, and attacked the accusers.

Alinsky Taught Hillary Well

This is exactly the same thing that Hillary is doing today with the email debacle and the Clinton Foundation. It is the same thing that she did with Benghazi, and Libya, Whitewater, Travelgate, Troopergate, Paula Jones, Monica Lewinsky, Vince Foster's suicide, Juanita Broaddrick, looting the White House, Filegate (FBI files on enemies, Chinagate (the sale of high-tech secrets), landing under sniper fire, missing law firm billing records, Pardongate (Remember the Rich's), and countless other scandals she's wormed out of by using the tactics she learned from her good friend, Saul Alinsky, and from a front row seat in Watergate and watching Nixon's mistakes.

Hillary has the innate ability to slither out of any situation. She's very skilled at it. Recently she said, "To every survivor of sexual assault...You have the right to be heard. You have the right to be believed. We're with you."

When someone in the audience at a town hall asked, "If all alleged rape victims should be believed, what about your husband's accusers?" She named three of them.

Hillary's very slick answer was, "Well, I would say that everyone should be believed at first, until they are disbelieved based on evidence."

See what I mean?

Conclusion

The fifth rule in Saul Alinsky's dozen Rules for Radicals, has been successfully used by Hillary Rodham Clinton, many times throughout her life.

* RULE 5: "Ridicule is man's most potent weapon." There is no defense. It's irrational. It's infuriating. It also works as a key pressure point to force the enemy into concessions.

She's used it against her enemies, against her competitors, against her husband's paramours, and she's using it every day of the campaign, just as she's used every other Alinsky Rule all her life. She learned them early under the tutelage of her Park Ridge Methodist youth minister, Don Jones, who introduced her to Alinsky, and Marxism. Up until Jones' death in 2007, he would occasionally travel with Hillary as her "spiritual advisor."

The seeds of this woman's actions, attitudes, and beliefs were planted early on, in 1961. She has become even more skilled than Alinsky ever imagined. It is another reason that she must be defeated. Our nation simply cannot endure and survive four years of her corruption, much less eight.
