

The Government Handbook

When we first learn how to drive an automobile, there are both written and hands on instruction. There are irrefutable principles that must be applied in order to make it to your destination. For instance, keeping your hands on the steering wheel and making sure to drive in your lane is not negotiable. Only idiots or those completely misinformed would drive in such a manner as to foolishly bring about harm to themselves or others. For the most part people are properly taught how to motor about. But even with proper teaching, mistakes are sometimes made. Sometimes the results are tragic.

When it comes to our republic, the Founding Fathers left us a beautiful instruction manual. It is called the United States Constitution and Bill of Rights. It was inspired by the sound irrefutable principles enumerated in the Holy Bible as well some other influences including Blacks Law and Aristotle's Law of Identity. The Founders did not want the government to be the center of their lives as a dictatorship or overtaxing burden. Not since during the time of Moses and the children of Israel did leaders encourage individuals to be self governed, as opposed to being lorded over by a bully government. Of course, they understood that for such an arrangement to be successful, the people had to be of high moral character.

No liberty oriented government can be sustained if they refuse to properly instruct their offspring about that form of government they hope to sustain it. Our Constitutionally limited form of government has been in danger of sliding into oblivion since 1913. That is when world leaders convened a meeting on Jekyll Island off the coast of Georgia. At that gathering, the decision was made to methodically chip away at the "We the People" aspects of American life and replace it with centralized government, mob rule and over taxation. But most important on their list to wipe from our republic was the Judeo/Christian ethics that were the bedrock and inspiring foundations of this land of liberty.

They knew that quickly stripping away our constitutional restraints upon government would not be tolerated. Americans for the most part believed in the one and true living GOD of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Their families were intact with parents in firm control of the scholastic instruction of their children and there were no impediments to the free utilization of the Second Amendment. The globalists of Jeckyll Island cringed at the thought of you and I being free from government tyranny in a land of Liberty and Justice for all.

If you are a true believer in Jesus Christ and want to maintain and strengthen our Christian heritage learn and support the First and Second Amendments of the United States Constitution. They are as follows in the government handbook known as the Amendments to the Constitution.

Amendment 1.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or the press: or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Amendment 11.

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

My friend, if you don't know your rights, you don't have any. For too long, far too many of my fellow Christians have been as proud as peacocks in their sustained no caring attitude for our Republic. Many Christians do not care about America beyond abortion, pornography and maybe bad movies. Those topics are extremely important, especially the murder of innocent babies. But if we allow our freedoms and liberties to be whittled away, the ability to stop abortion and curtail other evils will be greatly inhibited. Remember, with freedom comes responsibility. In fact, together both freedom and responsibility equal Liberty. Let us together properly use our Liberty to build a better America that fulfills her manifest destiny of greatness. God bless you. God bless America and may America bless God. Be blessed via The Ron Edwards Experience talk show every Friday at 1:00 PM EDT, 4:00 PM EDT on americamatters.us.
