

The Grinding Predicament of Canada, Australia, Europe and America in the 21st Century: Endless Immigration

By Frosty Wooldridge

As Biden welcomes an invasion of our southern border with Mexico, few people understand the long-term consequences. Here they are in a nutshell:

The four largest Western countries, America, Canada, Australia and Europe maintain the most responsible birth rates in the world. The citizens of those countries practice birth control, which brought their birth rates down to 2.0 or less in the past 51 years since 1970.

While Western thinking and intelligent action created stable societies, the rest of the world roared ahead by adding 3.5 billion in those 45 years to reach 7.8 billion, and continues with 83 million, net gain, annually, or 1 billion added every 12 years. And, no end in sight as humans see a projected 2.2 billion more within 29 years by 2050.

“Most Western elites continue urging the wealthy West not to stem the migrant tide [that adds 83 million net gain annually to the planet], but to absorb our global brothers and sisters until their horrid ordeal has been endured and shared by all-ten billion humans packed onto an ecologically devastated planet.” Dr. Otis Graham, Unguarded Gates Annually, 12 million starve to death (4 million children and 8 million adults; United Nations Population Statistics) and at least 2 billion live within the “human misery index” of daily water and food scarcity. Notwithstanding, they keep reproducing without means, end or understanding.

Those folks continue adding 83 million annually, so, in order to save themselves, they export endless millions of their numbers into stable Western countries who chose 2.0 birth rates. Within the next two decades, demographers project 50 to 100 million refugees searching for a new place to land.

In the meantime, not one world leader addresses it. Not one Western leader touches the subject. Immigration remains the “last taboo” right up there with the “Earth is flat”; “The sun and universe rotates around the Earth” as spoken by the Pope; and finally, let’s not deal with “global climate change” or the fact that we face complete “Peak Oil energy exhaustion” within 29 years. If we ignore it, the whole mess will go away.

Answer: not on your life!

Some of us deal with immigration because it not only adds to Canada, America, Europe and Australia’s final horrific population expansions—the added numbers from the Third World, when they reach the First World, they quintuple their use of resources—thus magnifying the carbon footprint, water footprint, resource footprint and energy footprint. Not by a little, but by an “exponential growth” factor second to none. Therefore, immigration into the West creates a nightmare. What might that nightmare mean? It means the Third World keeps using the First World for a human exhaust vent. If the West allows immigration, the Third World will continue exploding those 83 million annually.

In the end, the West ultimately faces duplicating the Third World in overpopulation and environmental damage. It won’t be pretty folks.

My friend, Canadian writer Tim Murray, watching Canada being flooded, wrote, "Once again, someone claims that any focus on immigration to the United States is a meaningless distraction. In effect, I am saying that the annual addition of more than 30 million consumers to the third most populous and industrialized nation on earth is irrelevant. Moreover, since all nations and all global citizens will be subject to an energy contraction, building walls will not insulate us from that impact.

"This stance is not credible. If energy deliveries will contract, it is ever more imperative to contract the number of consumers in America, or at the very least, prevent the US population from growing. Each additional American citizen will reduce the per capita share of non-renewable resources. We may not be able to solve the energy crisis, but surely we can't stand by and allow that crisis to be accelerated by an indifference to immigration growth.

"We hope to reduce population levels by a grassroots approach, by building a "belief consensus" for population reduction among target groups, like "grandmothers" who are not in the breeding phase of life. But how do you sell birth control to people who look around and see their own communities bulge with immigrants, legal and illegal? How do you tell the Smith's and the Jones' that they should not have children when the Sanchez family down the block is having five?

"As one of my critics told me, governments are determined to grow the population by one means or another. If citizens choose not to birth children at a replacement level, then governments will import them. "I prefer to have my own children than to outsource that job to immigrants", a reader said. This is a natural reaction. If you don't reduce immigration, you can't convince people to remain childless in the interest of population control.

“Let’s get real. Controlling migration is the most efficient method of controlling or reducing population growth. “But how does that affect global population levels?” a reader asked. The answer is that open borders are a proven fertility stimulant to those countries, which rely on massive emigration to relieve their population pressures and gain remittance money. The Philippines and Haiti are a case in point. Migration promotes global population growth.”

Canadian Tim Murray puts it into logical perspective. We cannot and will not survive our current path. I guarantee it; I witnessed it in my world travels. Canada, America, Australia and Europe must move this issue to the top of the national conversation—or they eventually face collapse. That’s a fact! We must strive to write, speak and multiply our numbers and message.

This is your watch, so move out and change history toward a viable planet for your children.

As to what these videos report, do you want your children to face this kind of a future? If you don’t, it’s time to speak up across this great country of ours.

This video graphically and dramatically illustrates America’s immigration-population crisis as well as the world’s. I wrote it and narrated it. Tim Walters of Cleveland, Ohio directed and produced. Please forward it to all your friends, networks and beyond. Place it on FB, Twitter, LinkedIn, Parler, Tick-Tok, Curiosity, and more. Just click the link below to see the video.
