

The impossible still happens in America

The very idea of creating America was first a hope born out of oppression, stress and desperation. That hope soon translated to a vision, a courageous plan, then faith in action. Our framers trusted in the living God to make it so. From Columbus, to the battles and breakthroughs along the way, it was obvious to all that God's miraculous hand was on our nation, its blueprint and freedom loving character.

America was living and growing 'the impossible dream.' It broke all the rules and found that dreams really can and do come true. God really does guide and protect while building up His own.

America has been hit by the school bully one too many times

Our country has been beat down to the ground and forced by Obama and his sellouts to eat his legacy of shame and destruction. We are constantly to be ashamed of being American – Bad flag – Bad patriotism. That is arrogant and leaves illegal aliens and others from foreign regimes out – Bad us.

We are forced to watch Obama crush then remake America and its treasured traditions and pillars. So far in his grab bag we see:

1. Shrink and turn the military into an Obama and gay social experiment
2. Destroy the best health care system on earth
3. Seize and rewrite all education – Reinvent our history, crush our Judeo-Christian values and violate parental rights
4. Crush the best health care system on earth
5. Promote and fund the flood of illegal aliens through our gates while transporting them to America's cities

Obama has clasped hands with the New world and International order while reaching out his other hand to radical Islam, its intentions of conquest and Satan himself. Sometimes, it seems as though America is over. Is our recovery and future really impossible and will we come back a zombie or Frankenstein creature?

Remember, we are the impossible country and impossible dream. Now, in response to millions of prayers, belief and guts...the impossible God is about to part the seas again for America. I believe that has everything to do with the absurd notion that a loud mouthed billionaire who loves America, freedom and God emerges to rattle the cages of the establishment GOP and clock them upside their sell out heads.

No one is perfect, and neither is Trump, but he is brilliant, actually loves our country and plans to make us first again instead of last and ashamed. He understands all kinds of deals; personality styles and gets how to close the deal and open the doors again.

Now, watch America as Trump takes on the 'call girl' of evil and sell out herself Hillary Clinton in the general election. The water will part and only one of them will get across to actually do the work of God and the people. My vote and belief is Trump will have dry shoes and Hillary will be dripping wet, lying on the ground with smeared Mascara dripping down her face. Naturally, Bill will try and speak on Hillary's behalf probably to a coffee house of 3 people.

America voted right through the primaries. We must vote right, pray and believe through the General election. Focus and get excited!
