

The New America First Generation

They say necessity is the mother of invention, and in that light, desperation might be called the father of shifting political winds. While the extreme left democrat party spent the past 80-years trying to turn our constitutional republic into a pure socialist democracy, destroying everything in its path, a new generation of pro-America young people was emerging.

FACT: Socialist democrats have used "democracy" to destroy freedom, liberty and prosperity in America, for decades. A pure democracy is "mob rule" wherein 50.1% of the people can rule over the other 49.9% at will. The Constitutional Republic established by our Constitution prevents that from being possible, which is why socialist democrats hate the Constitution too! When democrats say they are "saving democracy," they mean, saving their ability to govern by "mob rule."

GEN Z – The New America First Generation

While the elections of 2008 and 2012 were an experiment into a very promising sounding version of Marxism under America's "first black President," putting an end to the racist theory that Americans would never vote for a black leader, the elections of 2016, 2020 and 2024 became a turning point in the USA when voters would return to voting for America, instead of gaslit heated rhetoric.

No longer did the population accept false propaganda from the so-called "legacy" media. Younger audiences were shifting to new mediums in search of unfettered truths they needed to make decisions that would impact their own futures.

Raised by late boomers and GEN X, GEN Z had the benefit of wisdom from parents who had "been there, done that" as well as watching disaster after disaster created by America's "lost generation" GEN Y (millennials). It was GEN Y who couldn't tell male from female, faith from man-made religions, freedom from free stuff, or true leadership from "Weekend at Bernie's" leaders who had seized control of the DNC long ago.

GEN Z saw it all... and as they were reaching adulthood, they found themselves increasingly worried about what kind of future they had, coming behind the lost generation, raised to hate everything American, including their parents and friends.

After watching the theft of the 2020 elections, surviving the COVID19 "Great Global Commie Reset," and enduring the worst fake administration in American history under Biden and Harris, GEN Z decided enough was enough, and became the new America First Generation supporting the MAGA movement and Trump, for a brighter future.

As a result, Trump received more than 11-million more votes in 2020 than his election in 2016, the first election GEN Z could vote in...and another 3.5-million more votes in 2024 than in 2020, winning all swing states and 83% of the counties across the country. This massive shift largely came from the GEN Z voters determined to Make America Great Again and secure their futures, marking the largest shift of any generation in the USA.

In a CBS poll following the recent State of the Union Address to Congress, there was no mistaking what was happening in the American electorate, and to the failing democratic socialist party, and it wasn't just evident in the CBS poll, but every network poll taken following the address.

- 51% of those polled were republicans, 49% were not
- 76% approved of Trump's speech, 23% didn't
- 63% said Trump addressed the issues they care most about
- 54% said Trump made them proud, 68% said hopeful
- 74% said Trump was very "presidential" in his speech
- 68% indicated confidence in Trump's ability to improve economic conditions
- 77% approve of DOGE, and complete border security
- 73% agree with Trump's plan for Ukraine
- 65% agree with Trump's tariff plans
- 68% said Trump described our crime problem accurately
- 76% approved of disruptive democrats being removed from the chamber
- Overall, 76% support Trump and the MAGA movement today, according to the CBS poll

Unlike the generation before them, GEN Y, the new America First generation has chosen a different path. My kids are GEN Z, so I was able to watch what was happening in their generation up close, in person, in real-time.

That bright light you usually see in kids as they enter grade school excited to meet the future, was clearly being dimmed by the time they reached middle school, and even worse by high school. With each passing year, they were becoming less and less positive about their own futures.

Later, talking with my son about it, he once said, "Dad, don't you realize that the whole time we were growing up, Obama was the President? We don't remember a president before, and all we heard in school was how great it was to have the first black president. We didn't know anything else!"

To be honest, I really didn't realize that, until he said it. They knew nothing about America pre-Obama. But they knew something wasn't right, that things were getting dramatically worse, not better, literally to a point of utter insanity.

And then, they watched GEN Y as they slipped further and further down the global Marxist trap, often turning against their parents, families and friends, as the "higher-education" campuses indoctrinated them with a flood of anti-American views and sentiments. GEN Z saw it happening, and couldn't make any sense of it, or see how any of what GEN Y was promoting would ever provide them with a bright future.

Meanwhile, they watched the extreme left use a weaponized government in an effort to destroy all political opposition, silence all voices of dissent, and label everyone who would not buy into their global Marxist vision for America, a "domestic terrorist.

This was not an America they wanted to live in... and so, they became the New America First Generation, determined to burn the pink pussy hats of GEN Y, and put America, national sovereignty and security, freedom, liberty and prosperity for all, first. They decided to "Make America Great Again" so that they could have confidence in their own futures and even feel safe to have children again.

The boomers and GEN X are the past, and GEN Y has become as irrelevant as the anti-American democrat party itself.

GEN Z will drive the future of the USA, and may God Bless them with the abundant fruits of their efforts. It was bound to happen sooner or later, and extreme left democrats made it happen right now!
