

Three Eagles Refuse To Fly To The White House

At least three members of the NFL Philadelphia Eagles including safety Malcolm Jenkins, have stated they will not visit the White House to celebrate their Super Bowl victory. Wide receiver Torrey Smith, defensive end Chris Long and safety, Malcolm Jenkins, have already told NJ.com that they did not want to participate in the team championship visit to the White House. Jenkin's, who is a well known leftist oriented activist told CNN that he did not "anticipate" joining the team if they visit Trump's White House.

What a dunce, first the White House is the "Peoples House" and presidents are temporary occupants. Second Jenkins stated, "I'm about, you know, creating positive change in the communities that I come from, whether it be Philadelphia, New Jersey, Ohio, Louisiana, or this entire country." "I want to see changes in our criminal justice system," Jenkins added. "I want to see us push for... [economic] and educational advancements in communities of color and lower income communities. "I also want to see our relationships between our communities and our law enforcement be advanced."

Some people quickly anticipated that Eagles running back LeGarrette Blount may also decide refused to join his team of last year, the New England Patriots when they made the trip to the White House. "I just don't feel welcome at that house" Blount said last year. "I'm gonna leave it at that." Whether the president invites the Super Bowl Champions or not is not really a big deal. After many of the NBA Golden State Warriors showed their bigoted leftist backsides, including MVP Stephen Curry's refusal of Trump's invite that never even happened.

I have a big problem with the refusal of those "oppressed millionaires" refusing in advance to accept an invite to the White House. The problem is, those spoiled refusers are rejecting the very president who agrees with their recognition of a need for economic advancement. The only difference is that president Trump wants to see all Americans with equal opportunities, both economically and educationally. I believe what is also behind all the hate is the president's America first agenda. To people like those "oppressed millionaires" our republic is the only nation on earth that should have open borders for anyone who wants to stroll in. Any opposition to illegal border crossing is in the indoctrinated minds of those "oppressed millionaires" a sure sign of racism. To quote talk show host Larry Elder "NFL players are taking a knee to protest a "racist" president who wants border security to prevent another illegal alien from murdering another NFL player."

If brother Jenkins is serious about securing economic help for depressed black communities, it would behoove him to let go of his miserable bigoted attitude and use his public persona to garner real help for the four communities he came from. Without evidence, who is he to judge President Trump in such a negative way. How many times have we heard leftists declare that judging someone without knowing what is true or not is wrong. One must wonder, if brother Jenkins is just too stupid to recognize that because of the policies enacted by Trump, more black Americans are finding jobs than ever in American history. Also, because of fewer regulations, it is becoming easier to open and run a small and growing business in our republic. The president has been following through on his campaign promise to get the economy growing again.

The bottom line reality is, brother Jenkins and many others reflect the dour expressions the democrats exhibited during President Trump's state of the union address. They do not genuinely support what is good for the republic. There is nothing that can be done to satisfy those people. The reason being is because, they are programed to never stop agitating for more progressive or leftist oriented ideas and government policies. That is why they stand for illegal border crossers at the expense of the very black people “they pretend” to be fighting for. Somebody please tell those “oppressed millionaires” that the gig is up and that they are now irrelevant. Despite their negativity, the United States will soon be amazingly prosperous, powerful and positive. God bless America and May America bless God.
