

Urgent: clock running in your state capitol

While the country is honed in on the last and final presidential election the American people will have to stop the corrupt, vile Clinton machine, the clock is running for your state legislatures and bills for January.

It is imperative the American people in all 50 states pound on their state reps and senators NOW in order to get badly needed new laws on the books. Right now your state reps and senators are working on legislation that will get passed to committees so that all is ready to go once state capitols open their doors for business in January.

Our legislature here in Texas, Montana, Nevada and North Dakota are the four states of the Union that only meet for a few months every other odd year. The other 46 are annual and all begin new sessions each new January. This January all 50 states will open for session. If you want a new law for whatever issue and contact your state rep or senator in November, December or February, it's already too late. It's very difficult to get a new bill worked into the 'hopper' after October.

We know America is in a fight for our very existence up against a tyrannical government that makes King George look downright benevolent. All 50 states of the Union are sovereign unto themselves. We know the fraudulent ratification of the Seventeenth Amendment destroyed the right of the states to be represented in Congress called the Senate. We know the U.S. Constitution gives LIMITED authority to pass legislation for external issues:

- "Another not unimportant consideration is that the powers of the general government will be, and indeed must be,

principally employed upon external objects, such as war, peace,

- negotiations with foreign powers and foreign commerce. In its internal operations it can touch but few objects, except to introduce regulations beneficial to the commerce, intercourse and

- other relations, between the states, and to lay taxes for the common good. The powers of the states, on the other hand, extend to all objects, which, in the ordinary course of affairs,

- concern the lives, and liberties, and property of the people, and the internal order, improvement and prosperity of the state.” –Joseph Story, associate justice, U.S. Supreme Court,

- Commentaries on the Constitution, 1833

We know how far down the road lying, corrupt politicians from both parties in the Outlaw Congress as well as too many state houses have taken us. I know time is an issue, but this column is by far and away the best article on that:

EVERYTHING IS RIGGED: Medicine, science, elections, the media, money, education, search engines, social media... you are living in a fabricated fairy tale, August 2, 2016

“After witnessing how Reuters just blatantly cooked the presidential election polls this week to favor Clinton and how the mainstream media is so terrifyingly biased in favor of Clinton that the very foundation of democracy is now in crisis, it’s time to tell you something that perhaps a lot more people are finally ready to hear: EVERYTHING IS RIGGED.

“Every institution in America is sold out, corrupted and politically rigged to favor Big Government and Big Business. “America is a lost country,” explains Paul Craig Roberts. “The total corruption of every public and the private institution is complete. Nothing remains but tyranny. And lies. Endless lies.”

At the federal level we know corruption has been eating away at this republic for decades. We know the big issues like destructive 'free' trade treaties and an open border that has allowed a human invasion bankrupting the people as well as demanding we flush our history, our traditions and culture along with terrorists crossing must be fixed for good.

The states can only do so much but what they can do can cripple the agenda driven two party machines in Washington, DC hell bent on destroying our constitutional republic. In 2012, I wrote 'four' working papers for our state legislature and mass mailed it to all of them: Seventeenth Amendment fraud, a constitutional sound money bill, booting Agenda 21 out of the state altogether and reconstituting the constitutional militia.

Our legislature passed a stupid non-binding resolution that Texas didn't like Agenda 21 and sent it to Congress and the criminal impostor in the White House. Oh, good. A waste of paper that accomplished nothing. I provided those state reps and senators all the information they needed to duplicate what the State of Alabama did in Jun 2012: Alabama Adopts First Official State Ban on UN Agenda 21. A MAJOR victory in kicking the UN, Agenda 21 and all its tentacles out of the State of Alabama. Why the hell our state legislature couldn't do the same thing instead of some worthless resolution is beyond me. What Alabama did must be duplicated in as many states as possible.

Our state did nothing on the fraudulent ratification of the Seventeenth Amendment. As regular readers know I filed a lawsuit which went to the Appeals Court here in Texas. Despite ironclad proof that amendment fell two states short of ratification, the appeals court said they didn't care, the fraud stands.

Politicians in our state houses are either so ignorant on the subject of the Second Amendment or too damn cowardly to uphold its true meaning: "A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed." The real meaning of those words is completely lost on Second Amendment advocates who have been brainwashed into believing the Second Amendment was created so they could go deer hunting. The real meaning of those words is ignored by cash cow machines like the NRA who otherwise do great work in areas like firearm safety and training.

Dr. Edwin Vieira has written on the constitutional militia and the Second Amendment for NWVs for the past 11 years. His little quick read, Thirteen Words, is a must read not only for anyone who owns a firearm as well as every state rep and senator.

Yet, despite his dedication in an effort to educate Americans about why we MUST reconstitute the constitutional militia, to date only one state passed a law which is sorely lacking to say the least. That would be Arizona, one of the gateway states for the human invasion pouring across the border everyday. So, just where is Arizona's so called constitutional militia as illegals, terrorists and drug dealers continue to pour over their state border? Missing in Action is an understatement. A true constitutional militia law would long ago have put the militia on the border to assist the U.S. Border Patrol in a positive role. Just go read this column over lunch and you'll know what I mean: Mexican pirates vs. constitutional militia

Thankfully, last year our legislature finally got their act together and Gov. Greg Abbott signed a bill into law to protect Texas when, not if, the Fed and the economy collapses. It is by no means perfect, but it is a huge step for our state:

Texas Governor Signs Bill Creating Nation's First State-Level Gold Depository, June 17, 2015 – Even though our legislature was out of session, they got it done.

“In 2013, Capriglione told The Texas Tribune that a gold depository would protect the state in the event of a future financial crisis. “For us to have our own gold, a lot of the runs on the bank and those types of things, they happen because people are worried that there’s nothing there to back it up. So I think this cures a problem before it can happen.”

“Rick Cunningham, executive director of the Texas Center for Economics, Law and Policy, who drafted the first version of the law, testified in favor of a gold depository before the Texas House Appropriations Subcommittee on Budget Transparency and Reform on April 23, 2013. Cunningham called the depository “a wholly unique solution” to “what nearly happened to the financial industry as a result of the 2008 collapse of the debt instruments and debt derivatives that lay at its heart.”

The bill that is now law also contains this critically important section: “The Texas law also contains a provision that seeks to protect depositors from any future confiscation of gold by the federal government similar to the executive order signed by President Franklin Roosevelt on April 3, 1933 that prohibited “the hoarding of gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates within the continental United States.”

Sadly, your state, unless you live in Texas, will go into mass chaos WHEN the stuff hits the fan and it’s underway. I believe the ‘Fed’ and the forces behind it are doing everything they can to prop things up until after the November 8th election. A very dedicated group of Texans worked hard to get that legislation introduced and signed into law and I thank them. It’s boots on the ground that makes things happen.

- Greg Abbott says $1 billion in gold bullion headed to Texas from Federal Reserve
- Texas Gold Bill Has Potential to Uproot Monetary System:

“We are not talking Fort Knox. But when I first announced this, I got so many emails and phone calls from people literally all over the world who said they want to store their gold ... in a Texas depository. People have this image of Texas as big and powerful ... so for a lot of people, this is exactly where they would want to go with their gold. But isn't New York, where most of the world's gold is stored, also big and powerful? Why does the state of Texas want to go through the trouble of building its own storage facility? There are precisely two important reasons. One involves distrust in the current storage system. The second threatens the paper money system as a whole."

"Paper is poverty, ... it is only the ghost of money, and not money itself." – Thomas Jefferson, 1788

Very important read. The stupid, ignorant Democrats on their banking committee killed the bill in committee. Edwin Vieira's Testimony on Montana House Bill 513, March 14, 2011

I must insert this because it is a blatant example of one of the most corrupt cash cows in this country, the cash rich Southern 'Poverty' Law Center cretins who hate the Constitution and anyone fighting to turn back federal tyranny with Soviet-style propaganda:

Around the U.S., state legislators are proposing laws influenced by radical-right ideas. Most are flatly unconstitutional

"Virginia lawmakers have proposed the creation of an independent state currency, premised on "the destruction of the Federal Reserve System." In Georgia, another currency bill would require banks to accept gold or silver as legal tender, thus overriding federal monetary regulations."

Just the opposite is true. The "Federal" Reserve Banking Act of 1913 IS grossly unconstitutional and the states are well within their right to create sound money bills.

"A group of Kentucky Republicans introduced a law exempting the state from the jurisdiction of the Environmental Protection Agency. Montana's "Sheriffs First Act," would give local sheriff's veto power over any federal law enforcement activity in their counties; those who failed to comply would face jail."

The EPA IS unconstitutional and a cabinet we don't need because all 50 states have their own environmental protection agencies. One size fits all when it comes to the environment is a mess. The EPA is critical in destroying capitalism and businesses with thousands of unconstitutional regulations. See here.

The rest of that article is nothing but crap. It is worded carefully to appeal to Americans who know nothing about the origin of cabinets, their constitutionality or why they must be abolished which I cover in my book. The Southern 'Poverty' Law Center is supposed to be about civil rights. Bull. It is nothing but buckets of cash for the despicable Morris Dees and his useful idiots. What does the EPA, the 'Fed' or other issues covered in the article have to do with hate groups? Not a damn thing. The SPLC uses their organization to promote the destruction of our Constitution and Bill of Rights.

Those four issues are critical but there's more that must be addressed and action taken by state legislatures instead of business as usual; think Monsanto. In my new book, Taking Politics Out of Solutions, I go through the litany of high priority issues, how the problem got started and more importantly the solutions and how to get it done. I know that sounds a bit self-serving because I wrote the book, but I spent almost a year writing it with all the research to back it up. Unlike many of the great single issue books, there's no other book like mine because of how I put it together.

In 1993 I wrote a 45 pg booklet titled Why A Bankrupt America and sold 1,653,000 copies of my booklet at cost; I didn't make one penny from it. In 1996 I wrote my second 45 page booklet, Blind Loyalty, dealing with vote fraud stealing our elections. I sold 700,000 copies of that booklet at cost; I didn't make one penny from it. Because we are in such deep doo-do, this time I wrote a comprehensive book that not only educates our fellow Americans but also state reps and senators that the solutions are there if only they will get off the dime. That won't happen unless tens of thousands of citizens in each state demand bills get introduced and passed. BOOTS ON THE GROUND and a copy of my book to your state rep. Don't just assume someone else will do it. Then follow up. You can use my 'working papers' cited above with links. While I wrote them in 2012, the problems still remain and only get worse with time.

This is a true story. I had a rally in Washington, DC on September 29, 1996. The purpose was to deliver more than a million and a half petition signatures to abolish the 'Fed' and income tax. Boy, how green I was back then! While going to congress critters offices delivering signatures with my momma in tow, a funny thing happened at worthless Sen. Orrin Hatch's office. I handed the receptionist lady a copy of my Why A Bankrupt America booklet. She kinda laughed and said the senator was sick of getting them and to stop putting them in his in box. Oh, my. Touch a nerve with my booklet, did I? Poor Orrin would have fainted if he knew that while the rally was underway on the steps of the nation's capitol, we collected almost 26,000 more signatures and a large number came from employees inside the capitol; they all had ID badges hanging around their necks.

If you don't know how a problem got started you cannot fix it. While there are millions of Americans trying to stop the rampage by corrupt politicians in the Outlaw Congress and our state capitols, if those folks don't understand why we will never have financial prosperity until the 'Fed' is abolished, they can't fight back effectively and with the facts.

As I said at the top of this column, right now your state reps and senators are writing legislation to get their bills into committees. Kicking the UN out of our states, passing a constitutional sound money bill, dealing with a law that doesn't exist, the Seventeenth Amendment fraud and the reconstituting the constitutional militia as well as the issues in my book that CAN be done at the state level. But, I can tell you from being in the trenches full time the past 26 years, too many state reps and senators are woefully ignorant about solutions because they don't understand how specific problems started.

There's power in numbers and that means hooking up with existing tea party groups at the local level (forget national level tea party organizations), 9-12 chapters and all organizations, like ALIPAC on the illegals issue, working to stop the destruction of our country.

- List of tea party chapters nationwide
- Tea Party Local Groups by State just in case you can't locate one in the link above
- ALIPAC
- 9-12 groups by state
- While I am against legalizing pot for recreational use, the Tenth Amendment Center has done fabulous work with state legislatures and educating Americans on exactly what the Tenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution means, the great tool called nullification and why they're so important in our fight to turn back federal tyranny. Their site also keeps a running list of bills under consideration so you can, in your state, make your voice heard.

There are many more with different names, but you would be surprised at how effective they are at networking – especially with social media today. There are thousands of groups across the country and getting involved with one generally leads to finding out about ten more.

Very important Americans understand jurisdiction. See here, scroll down to section Federal Jurisdiction. Believe me, I learned a lot from reading those items over the years. It's important because the states have to stand up to the feds when it does come down to jurisdiction.

The clock is ticking. NOW is the time to go after your state reps and senators even if your legislature is out of session. Their district offices are open and that's where you can get access to them.
