

You Don't Need 'AI' Artificial Intelligence to Figure Out Why America is Dying

America has deteriorated significantly since the days when General George Washington court-martialed a soldier for homosexual conduct. You do not need artificial intelligence to figure out what's happening in America.

As we anticipate a "Trans Day of Vengeance," apparently coordinated by a "Trans Radical Activist Network," today's military pays for soldiers to go from male to female, or vice versa. It also wants to provide hormone therapy and puberty blockers to the children of U.S. military personnel.

The job of implementing Joe Biden's order to impose transgenderism on the U.S. Armed Forces was assigned to Secretary of Defense Lloyd Austin, who was in the news on Wednesday when he denied, in the face of the evidence, that military bases were hosting drag queen story hours.

It was an illuminating exchange, between Austin and Rep. Matt Gaetz, but it shows how far things have deteriorated. Opposing drag queens is now the Republicans' last stand.

The trans assassin at the Christian school in Nashville, who operated in military-fashion as he/she stalked the 6 victims, could have been the face of tomorrow's United States Army.

This is a logical consequence of what happened under Obama/Biden when a West Point Cadet, Spenser Rapone, was photographed with the phrase "Communism will win" in his cap.

The trans movement is a communist project, started by Leslie Feinberg, a member of the Workers World Party whose 1992 book, Transgender Liberation, is still available. The modern gay movement was started by another communist, Harry Hay.

But Republicans and conservatives also deserve some of the blame. They embraced ex-masculine man Caitlyn Jenner as candidate for Governor of California. Caitlyn, once known as Bruce, immediately went on Sean Hannity's Fox News show in high heels to be crowned as the new conservative white trans hope. She failed to win but then became a paid Fox contributor.

When he/she ran for office, he/she was quick to proclaim, "No boys in girls sports," appealing to conservatives who believe in biological differences between the sexes. But since this is a woman who was once a man, a famous Olympic athlete, one had to wonder what was going on here. It was either a publicity stunt or Democratic Party plot to make Republicans look silly.

I wrote at the time: How could a Jenner candidacy, with a man appearing as a woman, do anything but support "the normalization of radical gender ideology?"

The point is that, having surrendered to gay "marriage" and other perversions, the Republican Party and their conservative house organs were eager to hop on the trans train. It leads to destruction as we saw in Nashville. Fox News is a long-time contributor to a gay journalism organization, now known as The Association of LGBTQ+ Journalists.

Much of the GOP push for gay rights can be traced back to Republican Ken Mehlman, a former lieutenant to Karl Rove, who came out of the closet and announced that he was a homosexual in August of 2010. He then launched a "Project Right Side" to make the "conservative" case for gay marriage and push for trans rights.

As he began to implement Biden's order to impose transgenderism on the U.S. Armed Forces, Austin vowed to purge people with "extremist or dissident ideologies." This means expelling conservative or Trump-supporting service members. It is also intended to drive Christians out of the military.

But it goes beyond the U.S. military. Biden wants United Nations soldiers to go trans as well and the U.S. Mission to the U.N. sponsored a Security Council meeting on this topic.

The official name for the session was "Integrating the Human Rights of LGBTI persons into the Council's Mandate for Maintaining International Peace and Security."

Americans with traditional values may decide they have no other alternative except to leave the Armed Forces. That seems to be the case, as "recruiting shortfalls" plague the Armed Forces.

This process began under the Clinton Administration, when U.S. forces were deployed around the world in various conflicts that did not involve threats to U.S. national security. In the former Yugoslavia, where NATO was deployed for the first time in an offensive military capacity without the approval of Congress, the policy led to the famous case of Army Specialist Michael New refusing orders to serve a foreign U.N. commander in Macedonia. After saying he had signed up for the green team, not the blue team, he was court-martialed and discharged for "bad conduct."

While banning transgenders from the Armed Forces, the Trump Administration had continued Barack Hussein Obama's policies of hiring and promoting them in the Intelligence Community.

George W. Draper's important book, Diversity and Inclusion: What You Don't Know and Why You Don't Know It, notes that Obama's Executive Order 13583, "Establishing a Coordinated Government-wide Initiative to Promote Diversity and Inclusion in the Federal Workforce," and a follow-up presidential memorandum "Promoting Diversity and Inclusion in the National Security Workforce," specifically targeted the Intelligence Community.

These executive orders were never revoked by Trump.

What's more, Trump allowed openly homosexual U.S. Ambassador to Germany Richard Grenell to lead a campaign to "legalize homosexuality" around the world.

One of the worst traitors in American history was the transgender known as Bradley/Chelsea Manning, the former U.S. Army analyst whose sentence for Russian-style espionage was commuted by Obama, after Manning served only 7 years of a 35-year sentence. Manning was a homosexual before deciding he was a woman and changing his name to Chelsea.

In remarks at the Center for Strategic and International Studies, then-CIA Director under Trump Mike Pompeo described Manning essentially as an agent of Russia through his association with WikiLeaks, which functions on behalf of Russian and other anti-American interests. Pompeo said, "WikiLeaks walks like a hostile intelligence service and talks like a hostile intelligence service. It has encouraged its followers to find jobs at CIA in order to obtain intelligence. It directed Chelsea Manning in her theft of specific secret information. And it overwhelmingly focuses on the United States, while seeking support from anti-democratic countries and organizations."

Incredibly, however, the popular "conservative" commentator, Tucker Carlson of Fox News, has become a cheerleader for Julian Assange, the Australian-born creator of WikiLeaks.

Assange was raised by Melbourne, Australia-based leftists and the Melbourne left, particularly the pro- Chinese Communist Party of Australia – Marxist Leninist, has championed his cause. He was later hired by state-owned Russia Today (RT) television.

Even conservatives are taking the bait.

General Washington wouldn't recognize what America has become.
