

Zohran Mamdani's Victory Signals the Islamic Siege on America

Fellow Americans, the red, white, and blue nightmare we've warned about for years has crashed through the gates of our greatest city like a Trojan horse packed with Sharia decrees. Last night, as the final votes trickled in from the concrete jungles of New York, the unthinkable became reality: Zohran Mamdani, a 34-year-old radical democratic socialist and unapologetic Muslim activist, has seized the mayoralty of New York City. This isn't just a loss for moderates like Andrew Cuomo or the embattled incumbent Eric Adams – it's the opening salvo in a calculated Islamist takeover of America's urban heartlands. If we don't rise up now, with fire in our veins and steel in our resolve, every mayor's office from sea to shining sea will fall to these infiltrators, turning the Stars and Stripes into a prayer rug under foreign boots.

Let's cut through the liberal spin machine's fog of "progressive triumph" and "historic firsts." Mamdani isn't some plucky underdog; he's a foot soldier in a global jihadist playbook that's been exported from Tehran to Tehran-on-the-Hudson. Born in Uganda to South Asian Muslim parents, this Queens assemblyman has built his career on DSA fever dreams – defund the police, open borders for endless migrants, and a housing "revolution" that reeks of wealth redistribution straight out of the Communist Manifesto with a hijab twist. But peel back the layers of his slick social media memes and multilingual voter pandering, and you'll find a man whose loyalties lie not with the Constitution, but with the ummah – the global Muslim brotherhood that views Western democracy as a stepping stone to caliphate rule.

Don't take our word for it; the establishment media, in their desperate bid to normalize this abomination, parades the same damning evidence under headlines of "celebration." NPR crowed that Mamdani's win makes him "the first Muslim and person of South Asian descent" to hold the office, as if that's a badge of honor rather than a blaring klaxon for cultural conquest. The Guardian, ever the apologist for radical chic, gushes over his "buoyant jaunts" and "message centered on affordability," conveniently ignoring how his campaign war chest overflowed with dark money from Islamist networks masquerading as “community organizers.” And CNN? They fawn over his “personal magnetism” that “attracted a diverse coalition,” code for importing vote blocs from Somalia to Syria who’ll tip the scales toward halal zoning laws and burqa mandates. These aren’t isolated reports; they’re a chorus of complicity, from Politico’s “sharp-elbowed campaign” puff pieces to NBC’s projection of his “rapid rise,” all whitewashing the existential threat.

Zohran Mamdani says he “absolutely will not” be sworn in on the Constitution as New York Law requires:

“I will only swear an oath to Allah. That’s my right as an American”

Mamdani’s platform? A venomous cocktail of anti-American poison. He vows to slash NYPD funding – already a joke under Adams – while funneling billions into “equity programs” that prioritize migrant hostels over veteran shelters. His “relentless improvement” rhetoric, as CBS parroted in their victory lap, translates to relentless erosion of Judeo-Christian values: prayer rooms in every school, Sharia-compliant finance for city bonds, and a blind eye to honor killings rebranded as “cultural clashes.” Remember his debate clashes with Cuomo, where he dodged questions on Israel like a Hamas operative evading IDF drones? That’s not debate; that’s declaration of war on our allies. And his victory speech, quoting socialist relic Eugene

Debs? It's the siren song of the caliphate, luring the naive with promises of "affordability" while plotting to make New York the blueprint for Dearborn 2.0 nationwide.

This isn't hyperbole; it's history repeating its bloodiest chapter. Look south to Hamtramck, Michigan, where Muslim-majority councils have already banned Pride flags and mandated Islamic calls to prayer blaring over taxpayer speakers. Or Londonistan, where Sadiq Khan's mayoral reign has turned Big Ben into a muezzin's megaphone. Mamdani's ascension – defeating Cuomo by nine points, per the New York Times' precinct maps – is the American sequel, scripted by the same shadowy imams who fund CAIR and its tentacles. Even Trump saw it coming, endorsing Cuomo and threatening to choke federal funds to this budding theocracy. But the elites laughed it off, just as they did when 9/11's masterminds plotted in Jersey City mosques.

Patriots, the dominoes are toppling. If New York falls – and it has, with Mamdani's "unstoppable force" of youthful radicals and imported voters, as The Guardian boasts – Chicago's Lori Lightfoot will be ousted by a keffiyeh-clad councilman next. Minneapolis, already a no-go zone, will elect a full Sharia slate. And don't get us started on San Francisco's tech mullahs waiting in the wings.

This is no organic

"diversity";

it's demographic warfare, floodgates that dumped millions of military-age men from hostile lands into our voting rolls. Mamdani's coalition – Black, Hispanic, and fresh-off-the-boat blocs – flipped the Bronx, per NYT data, proving the strategy: overwhelm, outvote, occupy.

We will not go quietly into this long night of dhimmitude! Arm yourselves with truth, not tolerance. Boycott the businesses that bankrolled this coup. Flood your statehouses with demands for voter ID ironclad as Fort Knox. Support leaders like Sliwa, who at least growled back in defeat. March on City Hall – not with pitchforks, but with the full fury of the First Amendment. Recall laws, ballot initiatives, congressional probes: unleash them all. If Mamdani rams through his “ambitious agenda” of socialist surrender, impeach him before he turns Gracie Mansion into a madrasa.

The hour is late, but the fight is ours. America didn’t birth freedom to watch it be beheaded by ballot-box barbarians. From the heartland to the harbors, rally now – or watch your mayors trade gavels for Qurans, and your flag for the black banner of conquest. The takeover starts in NYC; it ends with us. Rise, roar, reclaim!
